Samuel Taylor, chairman of the Norwich Jewish National Fund, mentioned that the success of the school system in Palestine depended upon the support the people gave it, and M. I. Silverman, principal of the Norwich Hebrew Institute, speaking in Hebrew, stressed the importance of teaching the Hebrew language to the youth of the land as this would bring Hebrew back into use after the older generation had passed on, as they never had learned it. This affords the opportunity for the increasing of knowledge of Hebrew, never before offered Jewish people.

Max Hanover, chairman of the publicity committee, briefly spoke regarding the meaning of the eventful day, mentioning the great part America had played in assisting the Jewish people to regain their beloved country. He was followed by Abner Schwartz, president of the I. O. B. B. and first president of the Zionists of Norwich, who told of the first work here years ago by a handful of men, that today has met a successful ending. He likened the story to that of a book, the past, present and future being explained.

Mrs. Alex Pasnik, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary, B'nai B'rith, spoke for the organization, expressing the desire that the Hebrew university might be a beacon light for learning in the world. Alexander Manes speaking for the United Brother Synagogue and the N. H. B. A. told the story of Zionism in Norwich and outlined a history of the Jewish race. He was followed by Attorney Josiah Greenstein, president of the Y. M. H. A., and Miss Mollie Seigel, president of the Y. W. H. A., Mrs. J. N. Rosenberg for the Norwich Hadassah, and Aaron M. Gordon for the Brothers of Joseph Synagogue, who pledged support and told how he was affected by his trip through Palestine four years ago.

The hall was tastefully decorated with American and Jewish national colors and in front of the stand was the six-pointed star of David trimmed in Jewish colors of blue and white. During the evening a splendid concert programme was furnished by the Royal Italian band, this part of the programme being greatly enjoyed.

Donations Announced.

Announcement was made during the meeting that the Independent Order Brith Abraham has contributed $100 for the fund, M. I. Silverman the sum of $25 and Solomon Wener had made a special donation of $17 for the evening.

Following the celebration the guests and local Zionists were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Taylor, No. 219 Broadway, where light refreshments were served.

Meeting For Children.

In the afternoon a celebration was held for the children up to the age of 16 years, this being held in the rooms of the Y. M. H. A., under the supervision of George Schillwe, director of the Junior Y. M. H. A. The children put on an entertainment programme of unusual merit after which Dr. Tennenbaum explained the significance of the day and told them to take interest in the Boy and Girl Scout movements and grow to be better citizens of the United States and better men and women for the Hebrew people.

Refreshments were provided for the children at the eclose of th eprogramme by the Norwich Hebrew Institute, M. I. Silverman in charge.

NORWICH TOWN

Having returned from Conference at Fall River, Rev. James B. Aldrich, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, will conduct the usual midweek prayer service, this (Thursday) evening.

The Thursday evening prayer service of the First Congregational church, is to be omitted this week. Members of the parish will attend the union meeting this (Thursday evening, at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich, to hear Professor M. A. Holme.

Rev. Allen Shaw Bush, of Gales Ferry, is to have charge of the Sunday afternoon service at the Shelterling Arms. The singing is to be provided by Philathea class, of the United Church school.

Tuesday, April 7th, at the home of Mrs. Wellington Miner of Vergason avenue, Miss Gladys Stratton of the Home and Farm Bureau, is to demonstrate three ways of bottoming chairs.

Elmer Browning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Browning of New London turnpike, is expected to arrive Sunday evening from Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., to spend the vacation of a week at his home. Mr. Browning, who took a two years' business course at Brown University, Providence, also spent about six months at Connecticut Agricultural College, Storrs, was transferred the early part of February to Cornell, where he is specializing in dairying, forestry, and the things that pertain to out-of-door life. He expects to be graduated in June, 1926.

From the proceeds of the stereoptican lecture given a few weeks ago by Don Houghton, in the First Congregational chapel, under the auspices of the Norwich Town Men's League, two electric lights, have been aded to the chapel by the league. These lights are suspended over the door on the outside of each wing, on either side of the chapel, a great advantage when the chapel is used in the evening.

MISS MARSHALL DESCRIBES A VOYAGE AFTER WHALES

Under the auspices of the Norwich Town Men's League, the First Congregational chapel was filled Tuesday evening, when an enthusiastic audience listened to an intensely interesting address on Whaling Days, by Miss Helen Marshall, of Williams street. Miss Marshalls hame was at Nantucket, Mass., where her father and grandfather at one time owned their respective homes. One has been sold, but Miss Marshall still retains the other.

It was from this place that her parents set out on a whaling voyage, on a sailing vessel built expressly for this voyage and to her father's liking. When the ship reached the Azores, her mother left the ship and went ashore; and it was here in the Azores that Miss Marshall was born. When the child was six weeks' old, Mrs. Marshall took her baby and went to Boston, remaining there until the infant daughter was six months old. From Boston, Mrs. Marshall with her baby went to Panama, there travelled on mule back all along the South American cosst to Callao, Peru, a distance of many hundred miles. When the family returned from this voyage, Miss Marshall was three and one-half years old.

After about a year, the Marshall family left on another whaling voyage not returning to their native land until the little daughter was about ten or eleven.

While whales in those days were numerous, mostly found in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans toward the last they were procured more from the Arctic ocean

Miss Marshall displayed a thorough knowledge of a sailing vessel and all its equipment, also understands the sailors' language and is well posted as to the construction of boats and a sailor's duties.

No one is in a position to exercise more authority than a captain of a vessel. The crew is required to understand the furling and unfurling of the sails, coil ropes and many other incidentals.

Photographic Speed

When Brig. Gen. William A. Mitchell boarded a train at Dayton, Ohio, for Washington he was photographed from the air. Continuing in the air, the photographer printed the picture and dropped it off at Xenia in a message bag. The station agent presented the picture to Gen. Mitchell when his train passed through. Xenia is about 17 miles from Dayton. The photographer was about half way back to Dayton when he passed the train.

BOUT BETWEEN GIBBONS AND TUNNEY HAS BEEN SIGNED FOR POLO GROUNDS

New York, April 1—Tom Gibbons, veteran St. Paul boxer, and Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, were signed today for a 15-round decision bout at the Polo Grounds on the night of June 12. They will fight at catchweights and hence Tunney's title will not be at stake.

Matchmaker Jimmy De Forest of the Polo Grounds A. C., which will promote the battle, said the match would be for the world's heavyweight championship." Gibbons, he said, has made this stipulation in view of the New York State Athletic Commission's action in returning his $2,500 forfeit for a meeting with Dempsey.

"Tom is the logical champion of the world because Jack Dempsey refused to meet him after he had challenged," said Eddie Kane, Gibbons' manager, who with Billy Gibson, Tunney's representative, signed the articles for the bout. "Tom will defend his title against all comers. Dempsey, we believe, has retired or will retire."

Gibson asserted that Tunney had "just as much right to claim the heavyweight title as Gibsons' and that he contested Tom's claim.

"If there is going to be a scramble for the heavyweight title we will fight Gibbons for it, and will defend it against anybody else, or fight Jack Demusey to prove our claim," he said.

The match is subject to the approval of the New York State Athletic Commission, which recently placed Dempsey on the ineligible list in this state for his failure to answer satisfactorily the commission's demand that he fight Harry Wills. Negotiations for a Wills-Gibbons bout at the Milk Fund show in the Yankee stadium on the night of May 29 collapsed yesterday when Kane decided that because he had not received Wills' signed agreement for the match he would negotiate for a bout with Tunney.

De Forrest, who said that Gibbons would receive 30 per cent. of the gate receipts and Tunney 20 per cent. asserted that the seating capacity of the Polo Grounds, the home of the New York Giants, would be increased to 100,000 for the fight. The date, June 12, he added, was subject to the approval of the athletic commission.

The articles of agreement provide that each boxer must post a forfeit of $10,000 for his appearance in the ring and that each must refuse offers for bouts from now until June 24. Tunney and Gibbons must go through the last three weeks of their training campaigns in New York or vicinity.

Gibbons, who is now in St. Paul, is expected to do his early training in his own gymnasium. Tunney may prepare for the bout at Red Bank, N. J., Gene is now in Hot Springs, Ark., but a telegram was sent him today requesting him to come to New York immediately.

INSIGNIA AWARDED TO CO-ED BASKETBALL PLAYERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

Storrs, April 1.—Members of the co-ed basketball team at the Connecticut Agricultural college were awarded letters at President's Hour today. President Charles L. Beach of the college presented the insigna on behalf of the athletic council to the following: Captain Irene Ellis '26; Helen Grant '26; Elizabeth Bartle '26; Olive Nase '26; Mary Murphy '28; Margaret Healey '28; and Catherine Manchester '26, manager.

Following the presentation of the women's letters, Professor A. W. Manchester, chairman of the athletic council, outlined the plans under way for the completion of the new athletic field, the construction of which was started last fall. As a project that was done almost entirely by student and faculty labor, the results obtained were very satisfactory, and Mr. Manchester said that with the cooperation of the student body for three weeks more, the field would then be well along to completion. Present plans call for work to begin once more on April 20, and Mrs. Manchester had blanks passed among the students, upon which they sign up for the days and hours they could work. Each student was requested to sign up for a minimum of two hours a week for the three weeks.

CHAPMAN TECH PLANNING ACTIVE TENNIS CAMPAIGN

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 1.—Tennis has again stepped into the limelight as an active sport as durnig the spring and summer. With the election of the tennis captain and manager yesterday at the class of school it has started in all probability a splendid tennis season.

John F. Andrews, who for several seasons a tennis star, was elected to guide the Chapman Tech racquet men through the coming season, and from all previous years, he is just the man that will do it. Besides receiving his letter in this sport, Andrews has received three basketball letters since his sophomore year; he acted captain during a month period of the 1924-25 season. Andrews has also been rewarded a varsity letter in football.

Charles A. White also of the senior class received managership by qualifying in all requirements necessary to obtain that position. White is a three letter man, receiving his letter in football, track and basketball. Upon these two husky lads falls the responsibility of making the tennis season of 1925 the best.

The two courts are now being reconditioned, as they are in a somewhat poor condition, it will be a few days before they will be above par. The foundation for two more courts has been laid out, but the athletic director is not sure whether there will be anything done to them this season.

For the first time since tennis has been introduced into the active line of sports at Tech, a tennis organization or club is to be formed. The members will be required to pay a fee and also be eligible to help keep the courts up in condition. By having this plan of operation the school will be able to have the courts to themselves and only the members of the club will be able to play. It is likely that outsiders will be compelled to pay a small playing fee if they so desire to play.

There will also be scheduled league games between Norwich Free Academy, Westerly and Stonington; with the possibility of meeting some college freshmen teams later in the season.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Baseball Practice Resumed

Chapman Tech resumed its baseball activities at Morgan Park yesterday at the close of school, after a short intermission. The coming game on Saturday at Morgan park with the Old Lyme nine, will be merely an exhibition game, still Tech is practicing faithfully to make it a victory. Much of the positions on the team will depend a great deal upon the performance of the men assigned to take these positions, and for those who who will be on the early season lineup. There has been a great deal of good timber drawn in from the city grammar schools and the country roundabout. Dean, the southpaw from Old Lyme has been showing up pretty well and will probably be selected to do mound duty on Saturday.

BOROTRA WINS 3 MATCHES IN YESTERDAY'S RELAY

New York, April 1—Jean Borotra shortened the route to the national indoor tennis championships here today by winning three matches in his busiest afternoon of the competition.

The French star's slashing set attack overcame the steady backcourt driving game of Percy Kynaston in the fourth round of the singles, 6-3, 6-4, earning the victor a place in the lower half of the semi-finals. He will oppose in this bracket on Friday the winner of a fourth round match between Jerome Lang and Horace Orser.

After his singles triumph, Borotra, teamed with A. W. Asthalter, advanced to the third round of the doubles by eliminating William Fischer and Paul Martin, 6-3, 6-2, and then putting out Horace Orser and J. M. Henriques by the same set scores. They will next be pitted against the veteran team of Charles Anderson and Allen Behr.

The summaries:

Singles:

Third round—Jerome Lang defeated A. L. Brunneau, 6-4, 6-0.

Fourth round—H. L. Bowman eliminated L. B. Bailey, Jr., 4-6, 8-6, 6-1; Fred Anderson won over A. W. Asthalter, 6-3, 6-4; Jean Borotra defeated Percy Kynaston, 6-3, 6-4.

Doubles:

First round—Jean Borotra and A. W. Asthalter eliminated Horace Oser and J. M. Henriques, 6-3, 6-2.

Third round—Watson M. Washburn and E. T. Herndon eliminated J. P. Nikonow and William Einsmann, 7-5, 6-1; Reginald Talamadge and Armand L. Brunneau won from Jerome Land and L. B. Dailey, Jr., 3-6, 6-2, 6-4.

LEADERS IN BOWLING CONGRESS HOLD PLACES

Buffalo, N. Y., April 1.—American Bowling Congress doubles and singles ten leaders held fast to their positions today after four squads of pin knights attacked.

Paul Fiebelkorn, a local bowler, did the best work of the day, scoring 625 for his end of the doubles and followed with a 624 count in the singles. He failed to class among the all-events leaders, however, as his five-man performance was far below the standard of his bowling today.

Fiebelkorn and W. Krieger were the only pair to reach the 1200 mark, Krieger taking a 587 set to Fiebelkorn's 625 for a 1212 total. Their ten singles were 427, 400 and 386.

A. Zwilling, a Syracuse bowler, was high for the day in the singles with 669 pins, a 255 game featuring. His other scores were 209 and 195.

DAYVILLE TEAM WINNERS IN MILL LEAGUE BOWLING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 1.—The mill bowling league has wound up its schedule and prizes have been awarded as follows:

To the Assawaga mill team of Dayville, first place in the league, $35; to the Putnam Woolen team, second place, $20; to Rivers of Assawaga, high season average, $10; to Beaulieu of Assawaga, high single string, $5; to St. Onge of Putnam Woolen, high three strings, $5.

This year's schedule has brought out some high class bowling, both individual and team. Putnam Woolen topped the previous high mill league match by bowling 1818, while Rivers had an average of nearly 102. The eight men following him in the averages, all had better than the leader of the year before. Each team had a match a week for 19 weeks at Vandale's alleys.

Two matches were rolled this last week, and in the third string of the last match Beaulieu of Assawaga rolled his high single of 175, surpassing the high single of 170 rolled by Pelis'e or Beauchmont early in the season.

The last matches were postponed ones, National Rhea taking part in both, and losing four points to Assawaga and the splitting even with the Pin Shot.

The final standing is as follows:

	W.	L.
Assawaga	69	11
Putnam Woolen	53	27
H. K. H.	41	39
Beachmont	36	44
Pin Shop	21	59
National Rhea	20	60

High average, Rivers 131
High three strings, St. Onge. 419
High single string, Beaulieu. 175

HE IS A GOOD BOWLER BUT NOT SO MUCH OF A FISHERMAN

April Fool's day played many a queer prank on some of the ardent anglers in Norwich when they whipped the streams of their choice yesterday. One young man who likes fishing next to bowling and whose name is mentioned on the page was all set for a killing but the fates decreed otherwise. He had an automobile and everything that should make it a perfect day. He said he was going to a choice brook where the fish were as thick as fleas on a dog and only a few knew of it. He and a friend left bright and early, spent a chill morning, tramped several miles and all they got was a nice automobile ride. This young man's brother "Red" walked a couple of miles from home, fished a couple of hours and returned with four of the prettiest trout caught in many a day.

BALLERINO IS CROWNED JR. LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMP

Philadelphia, April 1—Mike Ballerino, Bayonne, N. J., was crowned junior lightweight champion of the world tonight, receiving the judges decision over Steve (Kid) Sullivan, Brooklyn, the title-holder, at the end of their ten round bout.

Ballerino carried the fight to Sullivan all through the ten rounds, winning nine of them by good margins and having a shade of the champion in the other. The battle was fiercely fought. Ballerino failed to shake the champion, but what he lacked in punching power was more than made up by his aggressiveness.

Beginning in the first round an assault on Sullivan's stomach, the Bayonne fighter concentrated on that section and pummelled it to a livid redness.

The champion fought flat-footed. He was slow in retreating from Ballerino's punches and consequently took much punishment that he might have escaped.

Both fighters weighed in at 129 1-2 pounds at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

DEFOREST'S PLANS WILL BE INVESTIGATED BY COMMISSION

New York, April 1—Announced plans of Matchmaker Jimmy De Forest to stage the forthcoming light-heavyweight bout between Gene Tunney and Tom Gibbons at the Polo Grounds on June 12 as for the "world's heavyweight championship" will be investigated before official approval is given the fight, Chairman James A. Farley announced at his home tonight.

"I am unwilling to state our position until this question is officially presented to the board," he said, "but the commission certainly will have something to say about the matter. Although Jack Dempsey has been placed on the ineligible list, I hardly think the boxing public would be willing to look upon this bout as being for the world's heavyweight championship.

"I am glad the match has been signed, for I think it will be a corking contest, as to its being for the heavyweight championship, that is another story on which we may have more to say later."

TUNNEY THOUGHT IT MIGHT BE APRIL FOOL JOKE

Hot Springs, Ark., April 1—Gene Tunney, lightheavyweight champion of the world, was playing golf at the Hot Springs Country club early this afternoon when a message came from Billy Gibson, his manager, stating that the match with Tommy Gibbons had been signed for June 12. Turning to Grover Walsh, Long Island sportsman, his golf partner, he said:

"You know it's April first. Do you suppose this is on the level, or is somebody kidding me?"

He read the confirmation in the Associated Press dispatches, and said he was keenly gratified that the preliminaries had occupied so little time. "My forfeit will be posted and I will begin getting ready for the match," he said.

Goldstein Kayoes Felder

New York, April 1—Abe Goldstein, former bantamweight champion, tonight knocked out Al Felder, of New York in the ninth round of a 10-round match. Goldstein weighed 118 and Felder 114 1-2. In the semi-final K. O. Phil Kaplan, of New York received a decision over Frankie Venchell, of Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Great Britain has spent more than $3,000,000 on war pensions since 1917.

FILLMORE AND FOSTER CLINCH TITLE IN EASTERN CONN. BOWLING LEAGUE

The Aetna Bowling duo by beating the Aldi-Dugas combination at the Taftville alleys on Wednesday evening clinched the title in the Eastern Connecticut Two-Man Bowling league. The match was one of the most exciting of the series for much depended on the outcome, for if the Aetna lost, Taftville had a chance of winning out but if the Aetna won it was all over but the shouting.

To Mike Foster goes the credit for winning the match that gave the Aetna the title. Fillmore who has been one of the leading bowlers of the tournament fell down and Dugas beat him 960 to 904 but Foster came through with 956 while Freddy Aldi had an off night and was only able to topple the pins for a total of 864.

The fight now narrows down to a battle for second place between Taftville, New London and Moosup. The Peerless team has won eight games and lost seven with one game to roll with the Palace team. Taftville has won 7 and lost a like number with two matches to roll with the Palace. The beat Moosup can hope for is a tie for second money, as they have won 7 and lost eight with two matches to roll against the champions. The Palace team is hopelessly out of anything except fourth place and a possible tie for third. The standing:

Aetna	10	4	.714
Peerless	8	7	.533
Taftville	7	7	.500
Moosup	6	8	.429
Palace	4	9	.308

ACADEMY HAS STIFF WORKOUT YESTERDAY

Coach Brigham's baseball charges at the Academy were given a stiff workout Wednesday afternoon in the nature of a regular nine inning game against the second team the varsity winning by a scant margin. Johnny Green, recruit pitcher this year, was in the box for the varsity while Ray Woods worked for the seconds.

Green shows up well with plenty of speed and a sharp breaking curve and fair control for so early in the season. Woods lacks the experience of Green, who played in the playground league last year, but is expected to develop as the season wears on. His speed is as good as Green but his curves break nicely and his control is fair.

In the game yesterday the Seconds showed up exceptionally well as a team, the majority of them being out for the first time for baseball. Mace Goldblatt in back of the bat looks exceptionally good handles himself well but is a trifle weak on his pegs a fault which he is overcoming. Another second team player that looks well is Sadinsky on second. This boy covers considerable ground, fields well and hits hard and above all has a natural baseball sense.

Pheno Tombari was back on the squad for the first time this year. Tombari has been suffering with an injury to his elbow which he sustained last fall in football. Tombari has picked up weight during the winter and his playing shows marked improvement over last season.

Joe Welch in the outfield contributed the sensation of the afternoon with his driving catch of a hard hit ball. Joe is developing into a player that will bear watching.

One player on the squad that attracts no little attention is Shorty Hammel. Shorty is no bigger than a half pint but for all that he is a natural born ball player. Shorty is out for the outfield and is making good despite his size. He fields in exceptionally good style and his hitting is good although not hard. He is going to be an asset to the team because he is the hardest man on the squad to pitch to and besides that he can hit the ball when it is over.

These practice games will be continued throughout the season and it is expected that two strong teams will be developed.

RACE HORSE POISONED JUST BEFORE COFFROTH HANDICAP

San Diego, Cal., April 1.—Chilhowee, famous Kentucky race horse, was poisoned shortly before running the Coffroth handicap at the Tia Juana track last Sunday, it is indicated here today in the statements of track veterinarians, owners and trainers who have been conducting an investigation. Chilhowee was at no time a contender during the race, although he was a top-heavy favorite.

Following the race the horse was returned to its stable and fell in a heap with a fever of 104 degrees, Ernie and Harry Hart, owners, declared.

Trainer Dick Watts and Jockey Fred Sharpe attended to the preparing of the star for the race. Veterinarians who have been attending the horse state that all indications point to poison having been administered.

After the running of the race, it was with great difficulty that the horse was returned to his stall, according to the Hart Brothers.

Chilhowee was said to be an extremely sick horse today and in a state of utter exhaustion.

Detectives have been employed to guard the horse and are aiding in the investigation, Hart Brothers stated. Jockey club officials are lending every cooperation.

DEMPSEY GIVES COMMISSION THE MERRY LAUGH

Los Angeles, April 1—The coming bout between Tommy Gibbons and Gene Tunney for the heavyweight championship of the world, was described here late today by Jack Dempsey, as a laughing proposition.

As he prepared to enter the ring to do a few rounds of exhibition boxing and wrestling at a naval field meet, the champion scoffed at Gibbons' claim to the title, terming it advertising.

The New York Commission also came in for a verbal jab.

"The New York State Athletic Commission can do whatever it wishes in New York, but there are other states in which to fight," the titleholder commented.

Dempsey reiterated his previous denial of any intention of retiring, saying that he is ready to fight any day now and that he believes it will be soon, in California. He added that California promoters have made him two offers that are more attractive than those of the east.

ELKS AND MASONS TO PUT ON BOXING EXHIBITION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1—An elaborate program of boxers, including both the renown Jack Delaney and Louis Bogash will appear on the Elks and Masonic club's installation smoker which will be held on Friday night. While the above fighters have not been definitely secured, yet there is no doubt that they will take an active part in the festivities which will make the opening installation exercises.

Other boxers on the programme include Sheik Leonard, the pugilistic Beau Brummel who divides his time between Norwich and Wallingford. Johnny Saxon of Bridgeport will be the blond boy's opponent in the ring. Three Atlantic title holders from the Submarine Base are also scheduled to appear on the same card. Matt Baldwin, Atlantic navy welterweight, Tauff bantamweight, and Kid Lopez, featherweight. The other fighters of known ability will oppose the navy battlers.

James E. Farley, chairman of the New York boxing commission and personal friend of the local boxing head in this state will be one of the interested spectators. All is set for a lively scrap, and as usual George K. Howe the gentleman from the far east corner of this city and who is regarded as one of the best versed spectators on the fighting game will act as the third man in these bouts. Further details regarding the other boxers who are to take part in the show will be published in The Bulletin Friday morning.

BASEBALL PRACTICE RESUMED AT BULKELEY AFTER LAYOFF

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 1—Baseball activities were resumed at Bulkeley after a lay off since Friday, inclement conditions being the cause of the postponement of the drills. However the first formation of the nine was made this afternoon, and although a late start was made by the squad, a three inning game with the first and second teams were played. The first indication as to who would be the first baseman and the left fielder on the nine were decided temporarily, at least, if not for all time, with the practice game played today.

The first team lineup was as follows: Sheflott, c; Daniels, p; McCue, 1b; Barry, 2b; Hutchison, 3b; Gaetano, ss, Lonergan, lf; Booth, cf; and Mansfield, rf. It was the first time this year that the entire squad of veteran performers was on hand. Hutchison and Booth who held out until now to report, were on deck for the first practice between what is the first and second teams. An illness to Geno Montali, who is expected to be given the left field berth saw Lonergan being assigned to that position. Tillie Daniels and Joe Parisi opposed each other on the mound, for the first and second teams respectively.

LEOPARDESS WINS OPENING FEATURE AT BOWIE TRACK

Bower Race Track, Md., April 1—Leopardess won the $5,000 inaugural handicap for 3 year olds and up, feature event of the opening of the Eastern Spring racing season here this afternoon. Donaghee was second, a length behind the winner, and Tester was third.

Time for the seven furlongs 1:27 1-5. A $2 mutual ticket on the winner paid $6. First; $3.40 place, and $62.60 show.

Ratner Is Fined $300

Philadelphia, April 1—Augie Ratner, middleweight boxer of New York, was fined $300 by the Pennsylvania State Athletic commission today and ordered to return expense money advanced to him by the Armory Athletic club in Scranton, Pa.

Ratner signed a contract to box Frankie Schoell, of Buffalo, on Friday night, March 27, for 25 per cent. of the gross receipts. The size of the crowd did not come up to Ratner's expectations and he refused to box.

McManus Signs Contract.

St. Louis, Mo. April 1.—The signing of Second Baseman Marty McManus announced today, left only one St. Louis American on the holdout list. This was Bill Jacobson, centerfielder. Jacobson and the club have been unable to agree on terms. He has stated he would sign a one-year contract for $5,000 or a two-year contract for $7,500.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

The program offered by the Broadway theatre management for the last half of this week reads like who's who in the vaudeville field. There are seven acts o nthe program and you'll make no mistake by seeing it, for they represent the world's best in vaudeville.

The Westerners are a company of five people in "A Round Up of Mirth and Melody. The scene is a section of a ranch. It is the end of the day on the range. The cowboys have unsaddled their ponies and engage in a pastime of song and patter. Vocally they make an exceptional quartette and their comedy patter is of the same high order.

Ted Leslie is just a bit different. She is a blackface singing comedienne who stands out in bold relief.

The Vincent Bros., those classy sailors offer a comedy bar novelty.

Otto G. Johnson used to write the skits for McIntyre and Heath. He has also written a skit being used by Joe Morris and Winn Show. This is a comedy talk skit called "The Mosquito Trust" and their fun bites are as many as one would expect from the real mosquitos in a Jersey Swamp.

Artie Nolan in a Wee Bit of Irish is proud of the fact that he is an Irishman and his stock in trade is twelve minutes of songs and patter of his homeland.

Where hilarity reigns laughter rains. Geo. Denby and Ruth Dawn present a comedy called "She Said No" which brings about this storm of merriment.

The Haney Sisters and Fine meet at the Cross-Roads. This is the title of the singing, dancing and musical revue, presented by this accomplished trio.

A dramatic, thrilling and action photoplay "Traffic in Hearts" is also being shown. It boasts such a fine cast as Robert Frazer, Mildred Harris, Arthur Rankin and others.

Mischa Elman to Play Here.

Through the zealous efforts of the Norwich Hebrew Institute, Mischa Elman, the celebrated violinist, has been engaged for an appearance here on Sunday afternoon, April 19, at the Palace theater. It is certain that the music-lovers of this city will extend a most cordial reception to this world famous artist, who has matured from a child prodigy to one of the greatest master violinists of all time.

Mr. Elman, at this recital, will present one of his inimitable programs, which have won the highest regard from both professional musicians and laymen. Lovers of the classics will derive their pleasure from one of the sonatas by Nardini, Vivaldi, Beethoven or Haendel; admirers of technical fluency will be entranced by Mr. Elman's treatment of the stupendous works of Wieniawski or Sarasate, while the less sophisticated will enjoy the delightful lyrics of a score of compositions which Mr. Elman includes in his repertoire.

Palace Theatre

There is a wonderful bill of vaudeville and pictures to be presented at the Palace theatre today Friday and Saturday, the headline attraction will be Elsa Ezri, the Hungarian prima-donna. This little lady has been engaged to sing the leading role in Charles K. Gordons new play "The Brown Derby" which will soon be seen on Broadway, New York. It is through a combination of good luck—a personal acquaintance with her manager that Mr. McEvoy, manager of the Palace theatre is able to offer this wonderful little artist to the people of Norwich, and at popular prices. Others to be seen on the bill are Huskins, Fredrick and Bernice, a comedy musical trio. Aerial LaPorta, thrilling tricks in the air. The Land of Romance, a marvelous singing and dancing revue with a mixed quartette in sweet harmony. Inaido Bros. a study in Roman art. Andy and Louise Barton one of the best comedy acts in vaudeville. The features picture will be The Spitfire.

In "The Spitfire," Murray K. Garsson's big production, which is to open its first local engagement at the Palace there is action and romance that involves a beautiful society girl. BISHOP BREWSTER WILL ASK BISHOP COADJUTOR

The Rt. Rev. Chauncey B. Brewster, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Connecticut since 1899 and consecrated bishop coadjutor for the two preceding years, will ask the diocesan convention at Trinity church, New Haven, May 19, to elect a bishop coadjutor, virtually his successor as the head of the Connecticut diocese.

Bishop Brewster is 77 years old. His intention is announced in a letter to "My brethren of the clergy and laity," which follows:

"It is my intention to ask the diocesan convention which will meet at Trinity church, New Haven, on May 19, to elect a bishop coadjutor. This request I shall make on the ground of my age. The request will be not primarily for my own relief, but for the sake of the work and welfare of the diocese. On general principles a man of my years should make way for younger men. The progress of the diocese demands a younger man who will be able to take the initiative as the years go on.

"To the convention, in accordance with the church, I expect to state the duties to be assigned to the bishop coadjutor. Such assignments will include the care of all the parishes and missions as to filling vacancies and other matters that may arise, the presiding at the executive council and oversight of the work of its several departments and the supervision of the postulants and candidates for holy orders. It will mean for him the opportunity for good administration and for leadership. In order that I may be kept in touch with the diocese it may be well for me to retain the ecclesiastical authority, which is largely a formality; and I expect to take my share of the visitations to be determined from year to year. I should like to be allowed to retain the use of the bishop's house and a yearly stipend of $1,000.

"Let me take this opportunity to express my grateful appreciation of the services and help of the suffragan bishop and of his courtesy and loyalty to me during our ten years together.

"Once more I desire to express my thanks for the gracious hospitality and kindness I have during these more than seven and twenty years received in many rectories and homes.

"May God by His holy spirit guide the convention in its action and pour out upon this old diocese His abundant blessing.

"Chauncey B. Brewster."

Sure to Become Bishop.

The bishop coadjutor of Connecticut, to be elected at the joint convention of the Episcopal clergy and the laity at the convention in New Haven will be assured of succession to office.

The suffragan bishop, E. Campion Acheson is assured of life tenure, but cannot succeed to the office of bishop. Any Episcopal clergyman in any diocese except the bishops of the various dioceses is eligible for the office of bishop coadjutor of Connecticut.

Under the rules for election the convention will be presided over by Bishop Brewster as president. The two orders, clergy and laity, will then separate, each to elect a chairman and a secretary.

How the Election Will Proceed.

The clergy will then nominate candidates and will ballot for the election of one of the men nominated. The two orders, laity and clergy will then reassemble and the laymen will be acquainted of the choice of the clergy. In the event of the affirmation of the laymen, also by a ballot, the chosen man will be declared duly elected.

In the convention that will elect the coadjutor every clergyman registered in the Diocese of Connecticut has one vote. Each parish will send one clergyman and two lay delegates, and each mission will send a lay delegate and a clergyman, if there be one in charge of the mission.

Brewster Native of Windham.

Bishop Chauncey Bunce Brewster, born at Windham, Sept. 5, 1848, traces his ancestry to historic Scrooby, England.

Elder William Brewster was one of those who ranked under the religious restrictions and became one of the Mayflower Pilgrims. It is generally believed that the Mayflower party was organized in his home at Scrooby. It is certain, at least, that the handful of men and women assembled there often before their departure to Holland. He was the Brewster of whom Governor Bradford wrote. And from descendants of others of this company came the mother of Bishop Brewster. Bishop Brewster's mother was Sarah Jane Bunce, who traced her ancestry to the founders of Hartford.

As a boy he attended the public schools and prepared for Yale at the Hopkins grammar school in New Haven. His mother, a woman of education had taught him the rudiments of Latin.

In 1868 he was graduated from Yale with a record for scholarship that won him distinction. He excelled particularly in English and was prominent in debating. He was class orator. Bishop Brewster took a year's post graduate course at Yale and then became an instructor of Greek and Latin.

Bishop Brewster studied theology at the Berkeley Divinity school, Middletown, and was ordained a deacon in 1872. The following year he was ordained to the priesthood.

From 1873 to 1873 he was assistant rector at St. Andrew's church in Meriden, and after ordination took his first rectorship, going to Christ church in Rye, N. Y. His pastorate continued until 1881, when he took the rectorship of Christ church at Detroit, Mich. After four years there he took charge of Grace church at Baltimore, Md., remaining for three years. For 11 years he was rector of Grace church at Brooklyn Heights, which he resigned to become bishop coadjutor.

His consecration took place October 28, 1897, and upon the death of Bishop Williams on Feb. 7, 1899, he became bishop.

Bishop Brewster is the author of The Key of Life, Aspects and Revelations, and The Catholic Ideal of the Church. He is a frequent contributor to the Andover Review and to church publications.

HISTORIC PLANTS IN WASH. CATHEDRAL GARDEN

Historic plants from all parts of the world are among the recent gifts to Washington Cathedral. The trees and shrubbery are being incorporated this spring into the landscape gardening plan for the Cathedral Close. In view of the sixty seven acres of ground surrounding the cathedral this garden program is one of the most interesting in the country. An increasing interest in the cathedral gardening has been shown recently because of the announcement that all the flora and fauna of the grounds will be represented in the carved stone and stained glass in the great cathedral that is rising above the capital of the nation.

Mrs. Louise Cochrane of Norwich visited the National Cathedral just after the transplanting in the Bishop's garden of some of the finest pieces of dwarf box from George Washington's pre-revolutionary manor at Hayfield, Va. The box was planted by Washington from slips taken from Mt. Vernon in 1761. Other historic planting are the Jefferson box presented by Thomas Jefferson; the Dolly Madison box, grown for a slip from Dolly Madison's inaugural bouquet; the tree planted by the Prince of Wales on the Cathedral grounds; the Glastonbury Thorn, grown from a shoot from the famous thorn at Glastonbury Abbey in England and which blooms at Christmas as well as in the spring; and the Canterbury Ivy.

The landscape gardening at Washington Cathedral is in the care of all Hallows Guild, composed of men and women especially interested in gardening, and they are working on a five year plan of gardening that will provide a proper setting for what is expected to be one of the finest cathedrals in the world. The cathedral will be 534 feet long and its central tower will rise higher above Washington than the Washington monument. It will have no parishioners and no special privileges but will be a house of prayer for all people under a charter granted by congress in 1891 to the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation of the District of Columbia. One ninth of the structure has been built.

FORECLOSURE DECREE IS PASSED BY JUDGE

In the suit Alice Comstock vs. Samuel J. Johnson and others of New London, Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court has handed down a decision that a decree may be drawn that the amount of the debt is $925.60, with interest, ordering foreclosure by sale at public auction on May 9, 1925 with James R. May as the committee on sale. He finds that a certain release was not obtained by fraud by the defendant Raymond, but it constitutes a valid and effective release from this mortgage of the tract therein described. The foreclosure decree therefore applies to all of the premises with the exception of a certain part described in one of the exhibits in the case. The property, when sold, may be either in whole or in parcels as the committee may determine to be most advantageous and the appraisers are hereafter to be designated by the court.

Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee declared in a statement that the move for a new arms limitation conference should go forward notwithstanding discouraging" press reports from France.

RIVER THIEVES GET PLUNDER FROM CRAFT MOORED AT NEW LONDON

New London, April 1.—Thieves operated among craft moored along the waterfront last night, for this morning it was discovered that two craft had been boarded by the boat crooks and that a considerable amount of plunder had been obtained. One of the thefts occurred aboard the government transport, General Nathanael Greene, plying between this port and the island forts of the New London Artillery district. The craft docked shortly before 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon and while the boat was enroute to Fort Wright, Capt. William Coughlin discovered that his room had been entered and that a pair of trousers containing $240 had been stolen.

Shortly after 4 o'clock this morning Capt. Edward G. Ellis, master of the steamer Charles H. Cramp, moored at the state pier, communicated with the police station and informed Desk Sergeant Timothy Sullivan that a thief had operated aboard the boat during the night and that he and two members of crew had lost valuables. Sergt. Patrick Murphy and Patrolman John Foley were assigned to the case and ascertained that Captain Ellis suffered the loss of his wallet containing $112, a watch and chain, the former bearing the initials, "G. S. E. A." and the chain carrying a charm, a Chinese crown; fountain pen with initials, "E. G. S." combination gold pencil and a worsted suit. It developed later that the suit and fountain pen had been recovered.

H. J. Brewer, a member of the crew, lost a gold watch, which had an eagle engraved on the case and the initials, "H. B." inside; a gold chain, plain shirt links with bronze medal on them for pistol marksmanship; pair gold cuff links, oval shape; shirts, tan sweater, trousers, belt, the last named having the initials "H. B." inscribed on it.

D. O White, chief engineer, lost a gold watch bearing the inscription "Mac Mc" on the case. He also lost a silver pencil knife and $3.

William Hand, of U. S. S. Cassin; Master Albert Cuppella, 91 Truman street; Mrs. Ada Jayne, 315 Jefferson avenue; Mrs. Jack Lovitch and infant daughter, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Samuel Cohen, U. S. S. Cassin, and Mrs. Lester Wheeler, Mystic, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Michael L. O'Connell has sold a parcel of land on Montauk avenue to John MacArthur. Mr. MacArthur will have a bungalow erected on the site.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Adlee Saindon, 395 Bank street, to be suspended. Saindon was arrested recently by State Police Officers Kenerson and Grant and for violation of the automobile law and was fined in the police court.

The city's motorcycle officers were assigned to duty for the summer today. Officer Augustus Ray was assigned to day duty and Officer William Babcock was assigned to night duty.

Private Joseph Fitzgerald, medical department, Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, communicated with the New London police today, requesting that he be given assistance in recovering his watch, which he had good reason to believe had been placed in pawn here. As a result of the information provided the police, Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels located the timepiece at a Bank street pawnshop where it had been pawned for $5 by Private Howard A. Maley, several weeks ago.

Maley and Private Lynch, the latter also stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, came to New London in January. Upon leaving the Vermont barracks Fitzgerald loaned Maley the former's watch. After Maley and Lynch had been in New London a few days they were taken into custody at the government wharf, Water street, supposedly under the influence of liquor, but it was afterwards decided that the soldiers had been using a narcotic. They were delivered to the military authorities at Fort Wright and sent back to Fort Ethan Allen. After arriving at their port, Maley declared that he had pawned the watch in New London, after other stories relative to the disposition of the timepiece had proven untrue.

One of the pest spots of the city was raided this morning, about 2:30 and the gang of men and women, blacks and whites was later haled into the police court and there penalized. The place the police cleaned out is 360 Main street, kept by Alice Fortune Scott, alias Mary Marks. The officers found three colored women of various hues of darkness, and half a dozen of Uncle Sam's sailors. They lined up in court this morning. Mary was garbed in a black fur coat that almost swept the floor as she strode up to the bar to take her penalty and get some advice from Judge Crandall. He told her she must pay a fine of $100. That was satisfactory to her. But the judge added that as she had twice before been arraigned on a similar charge he on this occasion would attach a jail term of six months. He then decided that he would suspend the execution of the jail sentence for a year, informing Mary that she would have to quit the business she was engaged in. This she agreed to do. Florence Wesley, Mary Smith and Viola Maye, girls of the house, were fined $15 each. All managed to secure the funds necessary to pay the fines and costs and were released. Then the half dozen sailors received their penalty in fines and each secured the cash to settle, though that was a difficult task for some of them.

Other sailors were found drunk in the streets last night. They were all fined. One young fellow from the coast guard academy was discovered drunk and down across the railroad tracks, in the rear of the Chappell coal yard. He had started for the academy, but did not get there, so heavy was the load he was carrying.

Robert Odgers, who has been running a sort of ferry between the court and the county jail, was ordered imprisoned for thirty days. He was released from jail yesterday where he had been imprisoned for a month. To secure his liberty he paid the costs attaching to his trial on the first day of March. Now he is back for a stay till the first of May, when he will have costs of $10 to pay in addition. The accused has a bad police record.

Edward Frankenwiecz, a watchman in the employ of the Central Vermont railroad, became possessed of an idea that he could carry a pistol at his employment without getting permission to do so. He is wiser now, for he was arrested for having in his possession a concealed weapon. His breach was through ignorance so that the court suspended judgment in his case.

Mandel Zimmer, who is declared to be the counterpart of Leon Trotzky in appearance, was charged with parking his automobile in Main street, in such a position that trolley cars could not pass the machine. Mendel explained with a smile that he left the car only long enough to mail a letter. It was disclosed that if he mailed the letter where he said he mailed it he went a couple of blocks out of his way. He was not fined; instead he was given instructions as to where to park his car in the future.

Radio has helped immensely to introduce Miss Brennan to the music lovers of this nation.

Miss Ruth McGarry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McGarry of South Ledyard street, secretary to President Benjamin T. Marshall of Connecticut college, was tendered a farewell reception in the college faculty room last evening by members of the faculty and their wives and friends in honor of Miss McGarry's approaching marriage with David E. Barry of Camden, N. J. President and Prof. David D. Leib expressed the affection of the faculty for the bride-elect and regret over her coming departure. Vocal solos were given by Frederick Weld, associate professor of music and violin selections by G. Victor Grinnell, instructor of violin at the college, and by his daughter, Isabel, a member of the sophorome class. In behalf of the faculty and as an expression of their esteem, President Marshall presented Miss McGarry a beautiful silver tea and coffee set. The names of faculty members and their wives and friends were signed to a document in the form of a diploma which was given Miss McGarry as a further token of regard.

A bookkeeper who has been employed sometime by a local establishment is out of employment, because it was discovered this week when auditors examined the bookkeeper's accounts that they were short and that the employe had been using funds of the company for his own purpose. Auditors made the discovery and the embezzlement being made known, the employe was discharged. The company employing the bookkeeper is not the loser, for the employe was bonded and the bonding company has already made payment of the shortage. The bookkeeper was not arrested, although such a course was threatened, but with the bookkeeper agreeing to reimburse the bonding company within a certain time, he was allowed his freedom. He kept his promise for a relative in New Haven is said to have made good the shortage.

An automobile owned and driven by Edgar T. Thomas, State street and a machine, owned and operated by J. S. Cuff, Huntington street, collided this afternoon at the corner of Broad and Williams streets. Both machines were damaged, particularly the Thomas car, which came to a stop when it crashed against a telephone pole. The car got a demolished fender and running board and general disfiguration.

Mrs. Mary Vendetto, wife of Joseph Vendetto, 36 Grand street, and Michael Colandini, 327 Jefferson avenue, were presented before Judge Lewis Crandall in the police court this forenoon. Counsel for the accused were not prepared to proceed with a hearing and a continuance was granted until the 15th inst. Mrs. Vendetto furnished a surety on her bond of $10,000 for appearance at that time and Colandini provided sureties on his bond of $2,000.

This afternoon Dr. Charles Satti, who prescribed for Mrs. Colandini at the Home hospital and who failed to report the death of the woman to the authorities, was summoned to the police station and was grilled for an hour or more by Sergeants Cavanaugh and Smith. It is understood that the nature of Dr. Satti's statements revealed damaging evidence.

Mrs. Vendetto has admitted performing the abortion at the Colandini home, Mrs. Vendetto receiving $10 when the operation was performed and being promised the remainder of the fee $20, within a few days. A few days later a well known physician was summoned to the Colandini home by a relative of the woman and when Mrs. Colandini's condition appeared to be assuming one of gravity, the physician made an examination of the patient, but did not treat her, as he ascertained that her condition was critical from general peritonitis as the apparent result of a criminal operation. After the physician had left the house, it is understood, that Dr. Satti was summoned and because of the seriousness of the case, he caused the woman to be transferred to the hospital, where he treated her, but the patient failed to respond to treatment, dying Monday morning.

Colandini has also made a signed confession and it is understood that the statement is of a nature whereby damaging admissions are made involving Mrs. Vendetto and Dr. Satti.

The Freshmen class at Chapman Tech held a meeting at the close of school Tuesday for the election of officials, but as the necessary work was not ready it was postponed until today (Thursday).

MAY DEBELLA, STATE FARM, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

New London, April 1—May Debella, about 20, was taken into custody tonight by Patrolmen William Riordan and George McCaskey, following the police being informed that the woman had attempted suicide at the residence of Frederick Ackerman, 58 Morgan street. There was nothing about the condition of the woman when brought to the police station to indicate that she had attempted self-destruction and as she is on parole from the State Farm for Women at Niantic she was returned to that institution by Sergeant Bushey, of the state police Groton barracks. The woman did not want to return to the institution, but she had no alternative.

The Debella woman formerly was employed at the Ackerman home, at the time she was paroled. This evening she returned to the house and, according to Mrs. Ackerman, she acted most queerly and had, to all appearances, taken poison. A telephone call was sent to the police station and Mrs. Ackerman stated that the Debella woman had started through Broad street, but that a watch of her would be maintained. Patrolmen Riordan and McCaskey were sent to the Morgan street house in the police speed car, and maintained a lookout along Broad street for the Debella woman, but she was not seen. Going to the Ackerman house she was found there and taken in charge. The woman was then taken to the police station where she apparently had something concealed in her waist and upon her arrival at the State farm she will be searched to determine whether she has a poison secreted about her person.

DECIDES NIANTIC MEN OWN GARAGE LOCATION

Decision for the plaintiffs has been given by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court in a judgment handed down Wednesday in the Niantic land case of Errol C. Lillibridge of this city and others against Philip J. and James H. Beers of East Lyme, who have a garage on land adjoining the property of the plaintiffs at Niantic. The plaintiffs, who are Mr. Lillibridge and Dr. N. B. Lewis of this city claimed ownership to the land upon which the garage is located but Judge Brown decides against them.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Brown says:

The vital question in this case is as to whether the plaintiffs own the land in Niantic occupied by the defendants' commercial garage and used in connection therewith. The burden rests upon the plaintiffs to prove their title to the premises as alleged, since they must rely upon the strength of their own title and not upon the weakness of that of the defendants. There is no claim here by the plaintiffs of any title acquired by adverse possession, so that upon the evidence the issue is reduced to the sole question of whether or not the plaintiffs have established their title to the premises in question by valid conveyance of record.

Upon all of the evidence in the case, including a view of the locus by the court, had at the request of all the parties, I find that the plaintiffs have failed to so establish their title and that the defendants are therefore entitled to judgment.

Much of the evidence in the case was offered for the purpose of showing what was referred to by the expression "the highway leading from the Rope Ferry to Old Lyme," as used in exhibit J, the deed from the common predecessor in title of the parties to the plaintiff's original immediate predecessor in title in 1873, and the expression "the highway leading from Niantic to Rope Ferry," as used in exhibit D, the deed from the latter to the plaintiffs and Hill in 1914, these being two and the deeds in the plaintiff's chain of title upon which their ownership essentially depends, and as to the effects of which the parties are primarily in controversy. All of the deeds in the plaintiff's chain of title from 1873, to date either directly or by reference describe the plaintiff's property as bounded on the south by the above mentioned highway. The plaintiffs claim that the location of this highway was and is to the south of the defendants' garage and that therefore by virtue of their chain of title by deed the disputed premises belong to them, while the defendants claim that its location is to the north of the garage and that so the disputed premises do not belong to the plaintiffs.

The present contour of the land, the present location of ancient physical objects on the land including the southerly end of the wall along the east side of the plaintiffs' house, the merestones and stone fence posts still on the land, the testimony of old residenters ah to the use and location of the highway in question during the past fifty years or more, the description of neighboring tracts in deeds from the plaintiffs' predecessors in title, the statement of quantity in deed Exhibit J in particular, together with other evidence which it is not necessary to mention, convince me that the defendants' contention as to the location of this highway, and not the plaintiffs', is correct.

While under the conclusion above expressed which I have reached upon the evidence, it becomes immaterial, I may further add that even though the plaintiffs' contention as to the location of the highway were held correct, they could not prevail in this action because in my opinion under the deed their easterly line from the shore to the highway passes to the west of the defendants' garage.

For the reasons above stated therefore, while herein has been made in all good faith by the plaintiffs who were not familiar with the earlier history of the locus in question, I find in favor of the defendants, and judgment may be entered accordingly.

MANY BILLS PASSED BY SENATE AND HOUSE AT YESTERDAY'S SESSION

Hartford, April 1—Several matters of interest of the eastern part of the state were disposed of at the house today.

An act was passed that incorporates the Lawrence and Memorial hospital at New London. An act that directs the highway commissioner to prepare and submit to the next general assembly, a classification of the trunk line and state aid highways according to the volume of traffic and freight carried upon such highways.

Another bill passed also provides that the highway commissioner is directed to prepare for submission to the next session of the general assembly a plan for a system of state aid roads similar to that provided for trunk line highways.

An act amending the charter of the city of Willimantic provided that in the event of the death of the mayor, the president of the board of aldermen shall become mayor, with all of his powers and duties and that the aldermen board shall elect another president.

The time for the organization of the Bozrah Electric company was extended to January 1927. A bill that [illegible] some of the questions concerning the use of busses by street [illegible] was passed.

Concurrence was voted with the senate in rejection of a batch of bills validating the certificate to practice of a number of deposed doctors.

Several bills came in from the committee on engrossed bills, carrying necessary amendments clarifying the subject matter. The amendments were adopted and the bills sent along to the senate.

Senate bills passed from the calendar: No. 141, providing that street railway companies may acquire, own and operate motor vehicles for the purpose of carrying passengers for hire at fixed fares, and providing that motor vehicles may be substituted for street railway cars on authorized routes; No. 55, extending the time for the organization of the Bozrah Electric company; No. 527, providing for the taking of land for improvements of state-aid highways; No. 220, creating a World war memorial commission.

Bills passed from the calendar: No. 601, incorporating the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals of New London; No. 522, repealing act of 1895 concerning town meetings in Windham; No. 902, defining impure milk and prohibiting its sale; No. 905, defining condensed milk and cream and prohibiting sale of adulterated product; No. 893, requiring clean surroundings for the bottling of water and the manufacture and bottling of non-alcoholic beverages; No. 45, amending the charter of the city of Willimantic concerning the duties and powers of the mayor and the board of common council.

SENATE.

Lieutenant Governor Brainard called the senate to order at 11.25.

Calendar.

Passed—Authorizing the secretary or any agent of the state board of agriculture to examine apples in cold storage and empowers the official to open the box containing the apples and take samples after offering money equal to the retail price for the apples taken; incorporating the Bankers' Trust company of Essex at a capital of $25,000; establishing a custodians and engineers' retirement fund in the city of New Haven; providing a fine of $100 for the removal of the word "rental" from electric storage rental batteries; incorporating the Patent Insurance company of Hartford with Charles A. Goodwin, W. Arthur Countryman and George H. Day as incorporators and having a capital of $200,000 with power to increase it to $2,000,000 and a surplus of $200,000; authorizing the city of Bridgeport to issue city hall and library bonds to the amount of $565,000; authorizing the East Hartford fire district to issue bonds to the amount of $50,000; fixing the salaries of the officials of the town court of Westport as follows: Associate judge and assistant prosecuting attorney $100 each, prosecuting attorney $500 and allowing the latter or his assistant $2 a day for acting as clerk of the house; appropriating $5,000 for the establishment of a heating system in the Henry Whitefield house and caretaker's residence in Guilford; authorizing the city of Waterbury to issue water bonds to the amount of $100,000; providing for the assessment of benefits and damages from drainage of state and trunk line highways.

The bill authorizing the city of New Haven to apply the unused part of bonds issued for other purposes to permanent improvements was referred to the committee on finance.

The committee on cities and boroughs reported favorably on a substitute bill establishing a police benefit fund in Norwich. It was tabled for calendar.

RAYMOND HILL ROAD IN STATE HIGHWAY WORK

Bids for the construction of about thirty miles of new highway in Connecticut are called for in plans submitted to contractors this week by the state highway department. Sealed proposals for the improvements will be received at the department's headquarters, No. 12 Washington street, Hartford, up to April 6th, at 2 p. m.

The work contemplated is located in all parts of the state and involves eleven separate contracts. Notices to contractors advise them that the successful contractor must start work within ten days after the date of orders to do so. This series of contracts will inaugurate the 1925 road-building for the state.

Following is a list of the proposed improvements:

Town of Newton: About 13,150 linear feet of waterbound macadam on the Diddington road.

Towns of Colchester and Hebron: About 19,980 linear feet of waterbound macadam on the Colchester-Amston road.

Towns of Windsor Locks, East Granby and Suffield: About 45,390 linear feet of 8 inch bituminous macadam over 7 inch stone base on the Northampton turnpike and Spring street.

Town of East Lyme: About 10,070 linear feet of 8 inch waterbound macadam on the Shore road (Indian Wood road).

Town of Westport: About 6,960 linear feet of 8 inch uniform depth reinforced concrete pavement on the Shore road.

Town of Westport: About 3,385 feet of 9 inch uniform depth reinforced concrete pavement on the Boston Post road; also about 3,550 linear feet of 9 inch uniform depth reinforced concrete pavement on the Boston Post road. These two sections will be awarded to the same contractor.

Town of Milford: About 11,310 linear feet of 3 inch bituminous macadam over 7 inch stone base on the Shore road.

Town of Westport: About 3,385 linear feet of 9 inch uniform depth reinforced concrete pavement on the Boston Post road; also about 3,550 linear feet of 9 inch uniform depth reinforcer concrete pavement on the Boston Post road. These two sections will be awarded to the same contractor.

Town of Milford: About 11,310 linear feet of 3 inch bituminous macadam over 7 inch stone base on the Shore road.

Towns of Branford and North Branford: About 13,900 linear feet of 7 inch waterbound macadam on the Branford-North Branford road.

Town of Kent: About 6,000 linear feet of 8 inch waterbound macadam on the Macedonia road.

Surprise For Scout Executive.

Frederick A. Benton, local scout executive, was given a pleasant surprise party Tuesday evening at his home, on McKinley avenue, in honor of his birthday. A delightful social evening was enjoyed by those present. There was music and songs and refreshments were served.

AFTER LEAVING THE HOSPITAL

Was Weak and Miserable. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Mrs. Auger's Strength

Lowell, Massachusetts. — "I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the little books that you send around and I felt very good after I had taken a couple of bottles of it. I had been in the hospital and felt pretty well at first but I went down to nothing. I was weak and had to lie in bed almost all day. I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt." — Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and because the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKET WAS STRONG.

New York, April 1. — Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which displayed a strong undertone with the volume of trading the smallest of any full day session since election day. Fresh buying power was attracted by the recovery in wheat prices, the easing of call money rates and the growing speculative belief that the bottom of the present reaction was reached in Monday's drastic decline.

Motors gave an impressive demonstration of group strength with buying influenced by reports that bankers had acquired control of Dodge Brothers by payment of an enormous cash sum, which was construed as an indication of the financial community's faith in the motor industry. Nash Motors was the individual feature, soaring fifteen points to a record high price of 300. Mack Trucks closed 7 points higher at 135 1-8 after selling two points above that figure. Jordan, White Motors, Stewart-Warner, Speedometer, Stromburg Carbueretor, and Briggs Manufacturing showed net gains of 1 1-2 to nearly 3 points.

Steel shares were well supported despite the contraction in output reported by the weekly steel trade reviews. United States Steel closed nearly a point higher at 116 1-4 and Ludlum moved up 1 1-2 points to 38 3-4. Most of the other independents improved fractionally.

Strong buying support was reported for most of the other standard industrials, although there was no concerted effort to bid them up at the expense of short interest. Baldwin closed more than two points higher at 114 and American Can showed a gain of nearly one point at 166 3-8. Allis Chalmers was bid up over two points to 79 3-4 on reports of an early increase in the dividend.

Other outstanding strong spots in the industrial group included American Car and Foundry, American Express, American Sugar Refining, Great Western Sugar, International Harvester, Loose-Wiles Biscuit, Magma Copper, Manhattan Electrical Supply, Mathieson Alkali, National Lead, Pullman, Savage Arms, Schulte Stores, Tidewater Oil, United States Cast Iron Pipe, and United States Industrial Alcohol, all of which closed 2 to 4 points higher.

Fresh weakness cropped out in Woolen, which dropped more than 2 points to 37 1-2.

Pan-American Petroleum issues also were supplied freely in anticipation of the announcement of the reorganization plan after the close of the market, the B stock slipping from 79 1-4 to 76 5-8, where it was off 1 1-4 on the day.

Railroad shares made moderate improvement on reports that heavy car loadings were being maintained. "Katy", Missouri Pacific, preferred, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Gulf Mobile and Northern, Delaware and Hudson and a few others showed net gains of about one to two and one-half points.

Call money renewed at 4 3-4 per cent. and then dropped to 4 1-2. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

The feature of the foreign exchange market was a break of 3 points in French government to around 5.20 cents in reflection of reports that the French government was considering an increase in its note circulation. Demand sterling eased slightly to $4.77 3-8. Other European rates were mixed.

TAFTVILLE

Fire company No. 2, was called out at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning for a fire in the garage of Adolphus Benoit on Hunters avenue. There were no cars in the garage at the time, a Ford owned by Mr. Benoit and a Buick touring car, owned by Arthur Newton of North A street. Both were badly damaged, the tops being destroyed and the upholstery ruined. Considerable damage was done on the building itself before the fire was brought under control. There is no knowledge as to how the fire started.

A Rhode Island automobile ran over the fox terrier owned by Napoleon Parent of South Second avenue Wednesday afternoon at the corner of Norwich avenue and Providence street, breaking the animal's leg. It was found necessary to chloroform the dog, which Mr. Parent had had or three years, importing it from Canada.

St. Veronica's T. A. & B. society met Wednesday evening in their rooms on Providence street. At the business session, the president, Miss Louise White presided.

Emilien Chicoine has left town to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Philibert Chicoine, who recently left this village to reside in Woonsocket, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Arsene Bourgeois have taken a house on North A street.

EMBEZZLEMENT AND FORGERY CHARGES AGAINST CHARMATZ

Julius Charmatz, proprietor of the Lima farm in Preston, was arrested there Wednesday afternoon by Constable Michael Nolan of the state hospital, and Detective Kane from the New York city police department who had a warrant for Charmatz alleging forgery and embezzlement in the amount of $200,000, according to information given by the New York officer.

It was stated by the New York detective that three indictments had been found against Charmatz in New York, based upon his alleged acts in connection with the conduct of a private bank there during 1922 and 1923. The forgery was said to have been of the name of his housekeeper whom he subsequently married.

The officers found Charmatz at the farm when they arrived there and immediately placed him under arrest, bringing him to police headquarters here without allowing him to go into his house at the farm. After the man's name had been entered on the police blotter by Chief George Linton, Detective Kane left with Charmatz for New York.

GIRL INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTOMOBILE

A girl, about seven years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lombardi of 47 Washington street, was knocked down on Broadway Wednesday noon just after she had left St. Patrick's school by an automobile owned and driven by Mrs. Robert Sterry of Norwich Town. Mrs. Sterry was driving by the school and said she blew her horn when she saw the children. Several of them stopped but the small girl ran against her fender. Mrs. Sterry picked the child up and took her to Dr. Louis T. Cassidy who attended her. She was suffering from a lacerated scalp and bruises about the body. Mrs. Sterry then took her to her home at No. 47 Washington street. It is said the child's injuries are not serious.

$10,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES TO GIRL IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

The new suits for the superior court, returnable in April, were filed Wednesday at the office of Clerk George Parsons as follows:

Damages of $10,000 are sought by Natalie Demers, 10, of New London, who sues through A. H. Demers, her foster father, against W. L. Jencks of New London, for injuries received by the little girl in an automobile accident. She was a passenger in the automobile driven by Natalie C. Demers on Nov. 8, 1924, on the Hartford-New London road in Chesterfield. When the Demers machine was passing the Jencks machine from the rear, it is alleged Jencks turned his machine to the left and into the Demers machine, throwing out the girl who had her right hand broken and received a scar and disfigurement to her face, beside other injuries.

Three Divorce Cases

James Ennis of New London is the petitioner for divorce from Emma M. Ennis of that city on the ground of desertion since Jan. 30, 1922. The couple was married two days before that date, the maiden name of the wife being Emma M. Fox, formerly Emma M. Wright.

Charles Esposito of New London seeks divorce from Lucy DiCapia Esposito on the ground of adultery since May 12, 1924. The couple was married Nov. 8, 1923.

Blanire Sevigney Bullard of New York City sues for divorce from Ernest E. Bullard of this city and asks alimony on the ground that her husband owns property worth $15,000. She alleges intolerable cruelty since Nov. 7, 1919. They were married Dec. 14, 1917 and she asks the custody of their five year old daughter.

Against Man Who Stabbed Him

Joseph Caroley of New London sues Joseph Pezello of the same place for $5,000 damages for personal injuries received when he alleges Pezello stabbed him in the left breast and chest with a knife on March 4, 1925.

Right of Way Case

The Austin-Nichols Co., Inc., of New Haven is the plaintiff against Philip and Jacob Feldman of Norwich for $1,000 damages and an injunction to restrain the defendants from building and maintaining a wooden platform that prevents the Austin-Nichols Co., from having access over a footway and a way for vehicles to the building on Commerce street, this city, which is used by the plaintiff's business.

Judgment Lien Foreclosure

Suit to foreclose a judgment lien of $5,360 damages and $65.09 costs obtained in January, 1925, against The Turpo Chemical Manufacturing Co., of New London and William A. O'Connor of Short Hills, N. J., has been brought by James C. O'Connor of New London in whose favor the judgment was given. The judgment lien is on land in Groton.

Ben J. Robinson & Co., of Providence sues The Reliance Yarn Co., of this city on a claim for $3,000, alleged to be due since Feb. 1, 1925.

CHARLES F. NOYES CO. NEGOTIATES BIG DEAL

Wednesday's New York Times said:

The Aeolian company, which deserted Fifth avenue 12 years ago for its present home in Forty-second street, opposite Bryant Park, is to return to the avenue and will occupy quarters in a building to be erected on the northeast corner of Fifty-fourth street and Fifth avenue.

This property formerly owned by William Rockefeller, with its old brownstone mansion, was recently acquired by Commodore Charles A. Gould, one of the largest owners of Fifth avenue realty, in anticipation of the transaction closed yesterday with the officials of the Aeolian company. As a result of this deal, which was negotiated by the Charles F. Noyes company, the Aeolian company gets the property on a straight lease of 63 years. The exact terms were not revealed, but an official of the company said that more than $12,000,000 was involved.

A 12-story building, with the necessary set-backs, will be erected by Commodore Gould for the leasing company.

WALTER T. CAMP ELECTED CHELSEA BANK DIRECTOR

The directors of the Chelsea Savings Bank at a meeting this week elected Walter T. Camp a director of the bank to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Frederic W. Cary. Mr. Camp is a grandson of the first president of the bank, the late Lorenzo Blackstone, who was president of the bank for 30 years previous to the year of his death, 1888. Mr. Camp's father became an incorporator of the bank, Sept. 15, 1875, and was connected with the bank until his death in 1907, as auditor, director and vice president. Mr. Camp's uncle, William N. Blackstone was elected an incorporator of the bank September 17, 1884 and served as director and vice president until his death in 1907. Mr. Camp was elected a member of the corporation, September 10, 1923.

ELECT NELSON WEYMOUTH ROTARY CLUB PRESIDENT

J. Nelson Weymouth, for the past four years secretary of the Norwich Rotary club, was elected president at the annual meeting of the club held Wednesday noon at the Wauregan hotel. The other officers elected were: Vice president, Edwin A. Harris; secretary, Edward Jewett; treasurer, Clarence A. Spear, re-elected; sergeant at arms, Herbert Ferguson.

Preceding the election of officers the club elected eight directors, four of whom will serve two years and the others one year. The directors elected for a two-year term were: Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, the retiring president; J. Nelson Weymouth,, the president; Edwin A. Harris and Clarence A. Spear; those elected for a single year were E. LaRue Bliven John J. O'Rourke, Judge Nelson J. Ayling and Herbert B. Carey. The directors retired and elected the officers of the club.

Upon the return of the directors Hugh B. Campbell announced that Mr. Weymouth has been elected president and turned over the office to him saying that in Joe the club would be piloted by one who took a deep interest in Rotary and had served the club faithfully and efficiently as its secretary and who now would serve it just as well as its president. The announcement of Mr. Weymouth's election was hailed with enthusiasm as Joe is one of the most popular and best fitted members for this honor. Mr. Weymouth accepted the office with fine feeling saying that it was his most earnest wish that he might be able to live up to the high standards set by his predecessors in the chair.

The current topics speaker for the luncheon at which Dr. Hugh Campbell presided and Ed Jewett acted as song leader, was Grosvenor Ely who spoke on the Aviation investigation at Washington. Mr. Ely told of the need of better aviation as means of defense. Mr. Ely also urged that the citizens support the tax committee at the coming city meeting or election regarding the tax revaluation problem.

The meeting was then turned over to the consideration of the revaluation of taxable property in Norwich. James L. Case was the principal speaker of the meeting and was ably supported by short explanatory talks by Herbert M. Leron, Shepard B. Palmer and Assessor Arad E. Manning. Mr. Case said:

Everyone present has undoubtedly read the report, and is familiar with the survey and recommendations made therein. At the meeting at which action was taken, the report was adopted by a vote of 7 to 5. The three members of the committee who were absent have since signified their approval of the report, and I simply mention this fact in order that you may know that there is a difference of opinion as to the same, in the minds of the general committee as a whole, in the proportion of 10 to 5. May I express the very sincere hope that the Chairman of the Program Committee will give representative members of the General Committee who are opposed to the report, an opportunity of appearing before this club at another meeting, and explain their views regarding the situation. I am very sure that no member of the committee desires to have the report accepted if it is not for the best interests of the Town of Norwich, and we certainly grant to every man, a right to his own opinion.

In order that we may refresh our memories as to what has been done, may I call your attention to the fact that at a special town meeting held Friday evening, May 23, 1924, a committee of five citizens, consisting of Grosvenor Ely, John F. Rogers, Daniel T. Shea, A. R. Manning, and James L. Case were appointed to "analyze the prevailing tax assessment method, and to make recommendations to the Town of Norwich for the establishment of an equitable tax assessment plan or system," and the committee was empowered to increase its membership by its own selection, to 15 fifteen members.

Such action was taken at a later meeting, and Casper K. Bailey, Albert Boardman, Charles R. Butts, Michael J. Curran, Samuel Goldberg, Herbert M. Leron, Robert McNeely, Charles D. Noyes, Shepard B. Palmer, and Frank Ricketson were added to the membership of the General Committee.

Briefly stated, this committee organized at an early date, and appointed a chairman and a secretary, and three standing committees; namely, (a) Committee on Survey, (b) Committee on Ways and Means. (c) A committee on "Follow-up."

The Survey Committee in its report to the General Committee, showed in no uncertain manner that the present tax values of the Town of Norwich are far from equitable, and that a revision of the same is absolutely necessary and desirable. The report of the General Committee goes into detail on the subjects and shows we believe, that some very definite corrective remedy is needed.

The Committee on Ways and Means in its report to the General Committee submitted that under the laws of the State of Connecticut, the work must be done by, and under the direction of the Board of Assessors. The committee also recognizes the necessity of adopting a modern and efficient system under which the work would be properly conducted, and recommended that the assessors be given the privilege of securing such assistance as might be necessary to secure the best results possible. If these recommendations are adopted and approved by the Town of Norwich, the General Committee would be very glad to assist the assessors in any way possible, and the "Follow-up" Committee would submit plans and suggestions whereby such approval system may not only be efficiently carried out, but followed up in years to come.

In its report which will be submitted to the town meeting to be held at an early date, the General Committee states:

a That at the present time there is a very great need of a revaluation of the taxable property of the Town of Norwich for the purpose of equalization and makes the following recommendations:

1 That the work be done by the assessors of the town of Norwich and that they be given the power to secure the most efficient advice and assistance possible.

2 That a sum not to exceed $20,000 be appropriated for the purpose, and that the selectmen of the Town be authorized to expend the same in such manner and form as in the opinion of the assessors will secure satisfactory and equitable results.

There seems to be a feeling on the part of some, that the majority of the members of the general committee recommend that the work be done by outside experts, but that no such recommendation is made, even though some may feel that "expert advice and assistance" cannot be secured at present, in the Town of Norwich.

If it can be so secured, I am confident that not one member of the committee would be in favor of securing outside assistance in any way, manner or form, if satisfactory results can be secured by, and through local assistance. The committee does not recommend the sum of $20,000 be expended unless such a sum is absolutely necessary; it places that amount as a maximum to be spent for securing a proper installation of a system that will make possible an equitable tax revaluation.

There is probably no more important a subject which the citizens of the Town of Norwich must decide in the near future than this one. Taxation has always been an unpopular subject, and probably always will be, but I believe that this is largely due to the fact that the systems which have been employed in the past in almost every city and town, have been so unfair, unequal, and unjust, as to create discord and lack of harmony.

The vast majority of the citizens of any town are honorable, high grade men and women, and they desire to pay their just proportion of the expense of the Town in which they live, but they do object to paying larger taxes on their particular properties than do others who own property of equal or similar value.

While there may be an honest difference in opinion as to the best method and manner by which a fair and just revaluation of our tax values in Norwich shall be accomplished, may I express the very sincere hope that every citizen of the town will give this important matter real thought and study, in the hope that some satisfactory method may be adopted.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. Treasurer Clarence A. Spear distributed his annual report in printed form. The report shows the club to be in sound financial standing and that the Dr. John S. Blackmar Fund for Boys' Work is now approximately $3,500.

MERCIER ASSEMBLY HELD SPECIAL INITIATION MEETING

Mercier Assembly, No. 12, C. L. of C., met in regular session Tuesday evening, with the president, Mrs. Thomas J. McVeigh, presiding. The meeting was held in Steiner's hall to accommodate the large number in attendance to witness the initiation exercises.

Miss Mary H. Maloney, chairman of the committee in charge of the moving pictures to be given at the Breed theatre distributed the tickets among her committee for sale and urged the co-operation of the members in making the same a success. Mrs. James J. Dutton, state secretary, spoke on the good showing which the assembly has made in increase of membership. Miss Nonie Nagle, the chairman of the Washington whist and dance committee, made her final report, showing that this was a grand success, a report which was very pleasing to the assembly. The business part of the meeting being then concluded, the meeting was turned over to the newly elected initiation committee in charge of Miss Bessie McVeigh, who conferred the rights of admission and membership on 12 candidates.

FAITH TRUMBULL CHAPTER HEARS STATE REPORTS

The April meeting of Faith Trumbull Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held Wednesday afternoon at the Community House. The meeting opened with the singing of America, repetition of the Lord's prayer and the salute to the flag. At the business meeting reports of the officers were heard and accepted. Miss Barbara Allen, chairman of the ways and means committee, reported that about $25 was realized at the recital given by the pupils of Mrs. Andrews under the auspices of the chapter. The treasurer, Mrs. A. L. Comstock, reported $189.73 in the treasury. The registrar, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins, reported a present membership of 165.

The chairman of the museum committee, Mrs. William Tyler Browne, reported that printed slips have been sent out to members and friends for the museum fund. Many pledges are being made. Mrs. George A. Ashbey, the regent, reported that the application of Mrs. Adams P. Carroll for membership in the chapter had been accepted at the board meeting Tuesday. On recommendation of the board it was voted that $5 be sent to the Caroline Scott Harrison Memorial, a girl's college at Oxford, Ohio. The college, known as Oxford college, was erected in memory of the first president general of the D. A. R., Caroline Scott Harrison, wife of President Benjamin Harrison of the United States. The chapter also voted to purchase an acre of land in the People's Forest. This is the second acre purchased by the chapter.

Mrs. A. N. H. Vaughn and Mrs. Herbert W. Gallup gave fine reports of the annual state meeting held in Ansonia, last week. During the programme hour Mrs. Harriet Blackmar gave a reading. The Auction, by David Grayson. A group of songs was given by Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, accompanied by Miss Annie E. Vaughn. Mrs. Bard's selections were:

Spring Hath Come, Maude Valerie White
Violets, R. Huntington Woodman
The second time Mrs. Bard sang:
Greetings, C. B. Hawley
The Rose in the Garden, W. H. Neidlinger

At the conclusion of the programme there was a social hour, ice cream and cake being served. The hostesses for the meeting were: Mrs. Frank I. Royce, Mrs. Harry E. Higgins, Miss May L. Bushnell, Miss Bernice E. Willey, Mrs. James E. C. Leach, Miss Julia M. Pease, Mrs. Frank G. Rice, Miss Amy Burlingame, Mrs. M. E. Maguire, Mrs. Hezekiah Perkins, Mrs. Edward Briggs, Mrs. Daniel L. ADVISES AVIATION SECTION IN MOTOR VEHICLE DEPT.

The establishment of a special section of aviation in the state department of motor vehicles, to be operated as a separate unit, is recommended in the biennial report of Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel to the governor issued for general distribution this week.

"The misuse of an airship can cause a serious catastrophe," says the report, "and the time to stop recklessness is now, while flying in Connecticut is still in its infancy." Considerable was accomplished during the past year, it is stated, by State Policeman George Pranaitis, a specially qualified aviation officer, who is under the jurisdiction of the state police department but on the motor vehicle department payroll, under a special arrangement agreed upon by the two departments.

Twenty-one air pilots' licenses were issued by the motor vehicle department during the past year, eighteen being for first grade or commercial work, allowing the licensees full privileges as to passenger-carrying and advertising; two being limited licenses for students, allowing them to fly alone for pleasure and practice until a specified number of hours had been flown, and one being issued for parachute jumping from a hot air balloon and plane.

First grade licenses are issued to only such men as have had 100 hours or more experience in the air as pilots. Pilots' oral tests comprise examination in the state aviation law, rules and regulations, and methods of flying. Previous flying experience of the applicant is also taken into consideration. The practical test consists of the following evolutions: Two figure eights over given points approximately 700 to 1,000 feet apart to the right and two to the left; throttling motor at altitude of 500 feet and landing in a given area without further use of the motor, such landing to be made after making a half turn when the motor has been throttled; ascending 1,000 feet, throttling the motor to the minimum, making a complete circle and landing on the field without further use of the motor.

Four airplane accidents were investigated and reported on by Inspector Pranaitis during the year, Two of them involved personal injuries, and in one case out of the four the pilot's license was suspended.

The examination of planes prior to registration consists of a thorough inspection, including all controls, cables, fittings, woodwork, metal fittings and locking arrangements, motor installation, fuel system, safety belts and condition of fabric. Recommendations are made for any changes or repairs thought necessary before the registration certificate is issued.

Lenten Service Preacher

The sermon at the united Lenten service at Christ church this (Thursday) evening will be by Rev. Richard H. Gesner, D. D., rector of Trinity church at Newtown, this state.

TO-DAY'S OFFER TO ALL WHO HAVE STOMACH DISTRESS

Try One Bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin for Indigestion or Any Stomach Trouble and If Not Delighted With the Good Results — Norwich Druggists Will Gladly Return the Purchase Price.

Why not get a bottle of this grand stomach medicine today with the distinct understanding that your money will be promptly returned if it does not stop the most acute stomach distress quicker than anything you ever used.

Your stomach may be so distended with gas that you think every minute your heart will stop beating, yet with one dessertspoonful of Dare's Mentha-Pepsin that dreadful feeling of suffocation will vanish in a few minutes.

With the same speed it stops gas, acidity, belching and heartburn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of Pepsin with Menthol and other good stomach invigorators—so wonderful that in one small town in New Jersey last year over 6,000 bottles were sold.

Never mind what causes your indigestion or gastritis or dyspepsia or how long you have had it, or how many other remedies you have tried, this is the one medicine that will make your old disabled stomach so strong and healthy that you can digest anything you eat without the slightest distress.

And you know that when your stomach is in fine shape, nervousness, headaches and dizziness won't bother you. Every regular druggist guarantees one bottle of Dare's Mentha Pepsin. Lee & Osgood Co. sells dozens of it.

SERMON ON "DEATH" AT ST. MARY'S CHURCH

Rev. Alfred J. Driscoll of Bridgeport preached the Lenten sermon at St. Mary's church before a large congregation whose interest was the greater because Father Driscoll was a former boy of the parish. He spoke from the text, In whatsoever way thou shalt eat of it thou shalt die, portraying the slaying of Cain by Abel, and reminded his hearers that the summons of death is sure to come to all. Will it be suddenly or after a lingering illness or in a moment after offending Almighty God? One question for us should be, in what state shall my soul be in on that day—that of a sinner or of a just man? As a man lives so shall he die so that the preparation for death which we have in regards with ourselves and should not be neglected.

The sermon was listened to with close attention. Rev. F. M. Gobeau led in the recitation of the holy rosary, and the litany and also gave benediction of the blessed sacrament.

CHAPMAN CASE LIKELY TO GO TO JURY AT NOON TODAY

A Flat Denial of Testimony Given by Shean Was Made by Chapman, Who Remained Unruffled on the Witness Stand—Two Firearms Experts Testified That the Bullet Which Killed Skelly Was Not Fired From the Gun Found on Chapman—In Summing up Counsel Groehl, For the Defense, Denounced Shean as a "Scoundrel"—Stressed the Fact That Acquittal Would Send Chapman Back to Atlanta For More Than 22 Years Solitary Confinement.

Hartford, April 3—(By the A. P.)—Gerald Chapman, extraordinary criminal brought his defense against the charge of having murdered a New Britain policeman last October 13 to a startling climax today.

Not only did two surprise witnesses take the stand in his behalf, and give seventh hour testimony considered of the most vital importance to the defense, but the spectacular mail looter himself was a vivid witness, the principal actor in whatp robably is Connecticut's most sensational criminal trial.

Chapman followed to the stand two firearms experts, one of whom testified that the bullet which killed Patrolman Skelly was not discharged from the .38 calibre gun found on the bandit at his capture in Muncie. With this testimony flatly contradicting that of the prosecution experts that had ringed the murder gun in Chapman's own hands still in the ears of the jury, the slender, boyish figure of the dress-ed police baffler swung before the eyes of the gaping crowd and seated himself in the quaintly walled-in witness chair.

Chapman on Stand for an Hour.

For more than an hour Chapman, at all times seemingly very much at his ease and complete master of the difficult situation, matched his wits with the state prosecutor, Hugh M. Alcorn. Ensconced into the chair, one arm at the railing surrounding it, Chapman spoke in low, even, unhurried tones. He had much the air of an indolent young man in the midst of an interesting discussion.

His eyes—prominent and coldly blue —didn't waver. They remained on his questioner, most of the time, but on occasions, particularly when he launched forth into some description or explanation of circumstances surrounding him or the charge against him, he would look directly at the jury. On one such occasion he leaned forward slightly, and spoke directly to the jurors.

Walter E. Shean, he declared was a criminal and an associate of criminals from all parts of the country. He conducted in the store room of his Springfield, Mass., advertising concern a depot for stolen goods shipped to him from all parts of the country by underworld characters who trusted him to dispose of the articles, which, Chapman said, Shean sold on a commission basis.

Shean is the son of a wealthy Springfield hotel owner, and the man who first accused Chapman of having been his companion on the night two safes were looted in the New Britain department store of Davidson and Leventhal—a robbery which ended in the fatal shooting of Patrolman James Skelly. It was Shean who told the police that Chapman was the policeman's slayer, having shot his way to freedom when cornered by the police.

Frederick J. Groehl, chief defense counsel, asked Chapman very few questions on calling him to the stand. He denied ever having been in New Britain; admitted he had four times been convicted of crime; said he had left the federal prison at Atlanta about March 26, 1923;" that he had known George "Dutch" Anderson, his mail looting "buddy" about eight years and that he had met many of Shean's associates—men dubbed by him as "Shean's mob."

Cross-Examination.

Then Alcorn began cross examination. He brought out that the prisoner had served prison terms in Auburn and Elmira, N. Y., and that he was in the Atlanta penitentiary because of the $2,400,000 New York mail robbery. He was not armed in the mail robbery, he asserted, and Alcorn asked him if he had not denied at his trial participation in the looting.

"I do not want to get into an argument with you about whether or not I was guilty of the hold-up," Chapman answered. "It has nothing to do with this case. I was tried and I was convicted. Let that stand in the record."

Asked if he had shot at a police officer at the time he was arrested in Chicago, he replied: "I shot at some men, not knowing he was a policeman. He came up and jabbed a gun under my heart. I had something like $4,700 in my pocket, and he wasn't a very prepossessing character."

He hadn't intended to kill the man, he explained, merely seeking to frighten him. Asked if he had said to his captors that he was "just waiting to get another shot at them," he replied with a faint smile: "I don't think I was such a fool."

Alcorn's questioning, he said had centered around counterfeiting, a machine found in his automobile when he was brought in by him and Anderson from Indiana at Shean's "repeated requests for 'soup' as it is called," a known automatic pistol and asked if it was his, he replied: "Now I don't know that that is the gun. There is no way of telling one .45 army automatic from another, as there are millions in existence."

Planned to Smuggle Whiskey.

The South Hadley, Mass., house, he said, had been bought by Shean at the request of Anderson and himself, for use as "a bootleggers headquarters." At that time, he explained, he and his associates were planning to smuggle whiskey through the port of Boston, or possibly Newburyport, but that the scheme was not carried out. Various articles, including safe crackers' tools, ammunition, he said were owned by Anderson or others of his associates. Asked as to his wanderings during last summer, he named Troy, Albany, Saratoga and other New York points, Parkersburg, W. Va., and points in Pennsylvania, Indiana, Ohio and various New England states.

"You must not think," he explained, "that I am able to locate myself positively at any certain time because I have been mostly in a transient state for the last two years."

He denied hearing [illegible]

several "jobs" ascribed to him by Alcorn, declaring that he had been accused of countless crimes of which he knew nothing. He said the newspapers "seemed to like to dig up a new crime for me," and it became "quite a joke between me and my friends."

At one point, with Alcorn worrying him with questions, Chapman declared: "I don't know whether you are looking for the justice of the thing. But I will tell you the truth—not the apparent truth; the real truth—if you'll just ask me." Another time, accused of having lied to get his Massachusetts motor license, he declared: "Why, of course, I lied. I knew the car was stolen and I had no bill of sale. I had to lie to protect myself."

Chapman Talked to Jurors.

When Alcorn finished Chapman left the stand, consulted with Groehl, and returned, explaining to the jurors he wanted to tell them about the sawed-off shot guns found in his possession. He and his associates, he said, had had a twelfth interest in a Bermuda rum runner, landing liquor at Savannah and Baltimore and the guns had been used in conveying the illicit cargoes.

John D. Pedersen, consulting engineer for the ordinance department at the Springfield arsenal, was the first firearms experts who declared that the three test bullets produced by the police were not from the same gun that had discharged the bullet which killed Skelly. He was not shaken under cross examination.

Another witness, Hugh D. McLean, Holyoke, Mass., furniture dealer said Chapman, had been in his store discussing a furniture purchase between 2 and 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, October. 11. Shean had said Chapman was with him in Springfield at that hour. McLean was a volunteer witness, as was Harry A. Stevens, of the Colt company, Hartford, who is the superior officer of J. Henry Fitzgerald, who testified for the prosecution yesterday. Stevens contradicted his subordinate's testimony.

Summations were started and will be completed tomorrow, when it is expected the case will be submitted to the jury before the middle of the day. Groehl, summing up for the defense, centered his attack on Shean, calling him "this scoundrel, Shean," "Shean, the angel," and "this object, Shean." He reminded the jurors that an acquittal would but serve to send Chapman back to Atlanta, "to be solitarily confined for more than twenty-two years."

FOR JEWISH NATIONAL HOME IN PALESTINE

Jerusalem, April 2 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Representatives of nine governments, including the United States, France and Italy, again endorsed the establishment of Jewish National Home in Palestine, at a dinner given here last night by the board of directors of the new Hebrew university, following the dedication exercises.

Oscar S. Heizer, United States consul-general in Jerusalem, in his speech pointed to the material support which the reestablishment of Palestine is receiving from American citizens.

Field Marshal Lord Allenby, whose army took Jerusalem from the Turks, declared that the enthusiasm and idealism of Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist organization, had exercised an encouraging influence on the British army when it entered Palestine.

EMERY IN MAIN BEARINGS DISABLED OIL CARRIER

San Pedro, Calif., April 2.—Emery dust placed in the main bearings of the U. S. S. Cuyama, an oil carrier of the battle fleet, disabled the vessel and damaged her engines to the extent of $70,000, it was revealed late today when police finger-print experts were called upon to help solve the case.

Suspicion was first directed at civilian visitors to the ship, but naval authorities announced that later information indicated that the damage had been caused by a disgruntled member of the crew.

Shore leaves for members of the vessel's crew were cancelled and all available engineers were put to work in an effort to complete repairs in time for the ship to leave with the rest of the fleet when it sails for San Francisco tomorrow.

The damage was discovered today.

RE-ELECTION OF JUDGE LINDSEY IS DOUBTFUL

Denver, Colo., April 2.—Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Denver's nationally known juvenile court tonight sits unsurely upon the bench seat he has occupied for more than twenty years as a result of a partial recount of the vote cast in the elections last November.

When court adjourned tonight, Judge Lindsey's original majority of one hundred and seventeen votes by which he was returned to office over Royal B. Graham, republican and acknowledged klansman, had been reduced to ten votes.

A recount in certain precincts was ordered after witnesses testified to fraud, which is alleged in Graham's contesting suit.

EXHIBITION AT WEMBLEY OPEN TO PUBLIC MAY 6

London, April 2.—Announcement was made today that the empire exhibition at Wembley will be reopened to the public on May 6. The exhibition opened on April 27 last year and was closed on Nov. 1.

The receipts for the season were not up to expectations; hence it was decided to reopen the exhibition this year.

Brussels, April 2—The Belgian cabinet will resign on Sunday, whatever their results of the present election, it is stated. Premier Theunis and several of his colleagues are said to be determined to abandon office.

Norway to Raise Loan of $28,000,000.

Oslo, Norway, April 2.—The shorthing has authorized the government to raisit a loan of 100,000,000 kroner (normally $25,000,000) for serengthening the exchequer balance. Authorization also was given today for the raising of loans, the process of which will be used for conversion of old loans.

SIX BOY SCOUTS HELPED PREVENT PANIC IN SCHOOL

Stamford, April 2.—Scaring 350 pupils of the Springdale grammar school into a near-panic, prevented only by the cool-headedness of six Boy Scouts and the teachers, an explosion at the Diamond Fireworks company in Springdale at 11 o'clock this morning shook the thickly populated suburb, and may result in the death of one man.

Michael Luturre, 35, one of the proprietors of the factory, died in Stamford hospital as a result of being severely burned on various parts of the body.

Luturre and Joseph Colandrelli, of Finney lane, have been partners for a month, but the Diamond company was conducted alone by Luturre for some time. Their works consists of four little wooden shacks each about 40 feet apart. They are situated in a meadow of swampy land about 700 feet in rear of the Springdale school.

Both men at 8:30 o'clock this morning went to their work, and immediately began to build bodies for aerial bombs. According to Colandrelli they had spent about two and a half hours on this work when Luturre announced that he would go to another shack and mix the powder for the bombs. Four kinds of powder are used.

INCREASE OF CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING BY FARMERS

Washington, April 2.—Two and one-million farmers are members of co-operative marketing organizations throughout the country, and 46 per cent. of the total reside in the twelve north central states. The total set forth in a survey just completed by the bureau of agricultural economics, compared with 651,000 members of such organizations in 1915.

Southern states reported the greatest increase in the membership of co-operatives, 913,000 being registered, compared with 104,000 ten years ago.

By state groups the memberships were Nest north central, 717,000, compared with 254,000 in 1915; East north central, 444,000, compared with 107,000; South Atlantic, 329,000 against 37,000; east south central, 320,000 against 36,000; west south central 264,000 against 31,000; Pacific 164,000 against 66,000; Middle Atlantic 140,000 against 64,000; mountain, 66,000 against 35,000; and North Atlantic, 55,000 against 21,000.

'DISREGARD OF SIGNALS CAUSE OF ACCIDENT

New Haven, April 2.—A disregard of signals and failure to slacken speed as well as to apply the brakes was declared to be the cause of the rear-end collision between freight trains in the New Haven yard on March 19, in an official finding handed down by Coroner Eli Mix today. Engineer Thomas P. Moore, of New York and Fireman William H. Fish, of Springfield, Mass., were killed in the accident.

The coroner finds that the freight standing on the track in the yard here was protected by automatic block signals in working order and by a rear flagman. It is his conclusion, however, that Engineer Moore of the extra freight and Fireman Fish were not aware that these signals were set against them.

SOUTH AFRICA SETS NEW RECORD FOR GOLD OUTPUT

Washington, April 2.—South Africa which for many years has been responsible for half the world's gold production, set a new output record during 1924.

Commerce department figures today put the total production for the year at 9,597,534 ounces, which compares with a previous high record, made in 1916, of 8,372,726 ounces. The value of the 1924 production was in excess of $190,000,000, and represented three-fifths of the world's total for the year.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT HAS TWO "ELEPHANT GUNS"

New Haven, April 2.—Two rifles commonly known as "elephant guns," and said to be the highest powered known, have been delivered to Colonel Theodore Roosevelt in New York, it was announced here tonight. They will be used by Colonel Roosevelt on the James-Simpson-Marshall Field expedition to Chinese Turkistan.

The barrels were selected and the rifles assembled and sighted by the same workmen at the Winchester plant who did the same work on the rifles used by Colonel Roosevelt's father on his explorations of Africa and Brazil.

EFFORTS FOR SHEPHERD'S RELEASE PROVE FUTILE

Chicago, April 2.—William D. Shepherd, foster father of William Nelson McClintock, millionaire orphan, and under indictment for murder in connection with McClintock's death, today lost two more efforts to gain his release on bond.

Decisively defeated in an effort to get their client out of jail on an order by Chief Justice Jacob Hopkins of the criminal court, Shepherd's attorneys made another attempt to gain his release later in the day by shifting the fight to another court.

TO ESTABLISH MENTAL CLINIC IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, April 2.—A mental clinic will be established in Bridgeport this year. It will be established by the Bridgeport Society for Mental Hygiene, which was organized after a three months' survey conducted by the council of social agencies.

Tall trees are now successfully transplanted by means of a newly invented machine.

Canada Flooded With Spurious Bank Notes

Counterfeit Executed so Cleverly That Highly Competent Tellers Are Deceived.

Montreal, April 2—Police today redoubled their search for counterfeiters who have flooded the country with spurious notes of the Banque Canadienne Nationale and the Imperial Bank of Canada.

The arrest of seven men in a farm house at L'Assomption last night, with $150,000 in counterfeit $10 Banque Canadienne Nationale notes and apparatus for producing the bogus money, will not solve the problem, Beaudry Leman, general manager of the bank said today.

Leman pointed out that the notes produced by the l'Assumption plant had not been circulated and were such a crude imitation that "not even a child" would be deceived. Six of the L'Assomption prisoners are held by authorities and the seventh was allowed to remain with his sick wife.

Counterfeit Banque Canadienne Nationale notes, executed so cleverly that all but highly competent tellers are deceived, have been in circulation for the last two weeks.

Counterfeit $100 notes of the Imperial Bank of Canada to the value of $300,000 appeared in London yesterday and of these $20,000 were re-shipped to Canada as genuine before their spuriousness was discovered.

MONTGOMERY AND SCHWARTZ SENTENCED TO ATLANTA

New York, April 2.—Austin H. Montgomery, Jr., was sentenced to five years in Atlanta and Harry L. Schwartz, his brother-in-law, to 18 months by Federal Judge Hand today after a jury had found them guilty of using the mails to defraud customers of their bankrupt firm the Community Finance company.

The jury brought in the verdict after deliberating for an hour and a half. It recommended clemency for Schwartz whom Judge Hand characterized as a tool in Montgomery's hands.

Attorney for the convicted men said that an appeal may be taken to the United States circuit court of appeals within the ten days allowed for such action.

Mrs. Montgomery, who is an attorney, and helped defend her husband, was arrested shortly before the verdict was brought in on a bench warrant, charging her with contempt of court. She was held under $1,000 bail.

The Community Finance company, an alleged blind pool, failed in August, 1922, for $1,800,000. Montgomery fled to Europe and back to this country after he was indicted and was finally arrested in Los Angeles. His trial was set for October, 1923, but he had again disappeared and was not rearrested until early this year. Several others indicted with him have not been tried yet.

MORMON JOE MUST FACE TWO CHARGES OF URDER

Cortez, Colo., April 2.—An aged and taciturn medicine man, Mormon Joe, who has led his tribe of southern Colorado Ute Indians through many tribal ceremonies and rites, tonight faces two charges of murder. One is by the federal government for being an accessory in the burying alive of an 18 day old papoose and the other by the state authorities for the salying of a prison ordinary here late yesterday.

A coroner's jury today held that he had "killed" his celimate, Joseph Chavez yesterday in the Cortez jail.

The Indian medicine man, according to the testimony of other prisoners and jail officials at the inquest was taunted by Chavez because of his connection with the burial of the living baby girl, his granddaughter, besides the body of her dead mother while following out an ancient tribal custom. Last Nay, his son-in-law, father of the infant, says the medicine man told him to bury the baby alive, with its mother.

Nay will be arraigned by the government. Mormon Joe will be tried by the federal authorities as being an accessory.

MARINE CORPS AVIATOR WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

Pensacola, Fla., April 2.—Lieutenant Guy B. Hall, United States marine corps was instantly killed here today, when a DeHavilland plane which he was piloting fell from an altitude of one hundred feet on Corry field, three miles north of the city.

Aviation Machinist Mangum was injured, but will recover. The cause is undetermined.

GERMAN LINE STEAMER GROUNDED IN RIVER

London, March 2.—A Lloyds despatch from Bremen says the North German Lloyd steamer steamer Columbus, which grounded today in the River Weser, was refloated this evening and proceeded on the voyage from Bremen to New York.

The vessel apparently sustained no damage.

GUILTY OF MURDER OF A NEW JERSEY TROOPER

Summerville, N. J., April 2.—Daniel Genese on trial here for the murder of State Trooper Robert Coyle, was found guilty of murder in the first degree late today, and sentenced to die in the electric chair during the week of May 24. The jury returned the verdict after one hour and forty-five minutes deliberation.

Montreal Water Front Submerged By Floods

Pier Where Huge Ocean Going Vessels Dock is 15 Feet Under Water.

Montreal, April 2—Flood waters of the St. Lawrence and its tributaries, burdened by ice floes and wreckage, wrought havoc on Montreal Island today.

The entire harbor front from the Lachine Canal eastward to Tarte Pier, a distance of five miles, was under water.

Laurier Pier, where hugh ocean going vessels dock, was 15 feet submerged. The Dominion Coal Company's Hochelaga yard was almost completely flooded and gangs of workers labored frantically to salvage tons of coal that were in danger of being swept away.

The company's discharging towers loomed out of the water and ice like lighthouses. The Dezerry street tunnel to the Longueuil ferry wharf was nearly filled and the ferry dock was under 15 to 20 feet of water.

Along the Hochelaca and Maisonneuve sections of the river, hugh ice floes, cluttered masses of timber, coal and miscellaneous debris gave the landscape the appearance of a cyclone-swept zone.

Crowds swarmed downtown sections watching the extraordinary transformation of streets into rivers and lakes.

FLOODS IN MANITOBA BECOME ALARMING

Winnipeg, April 2—Floods in Manitoba along the Assiniboine River became more alarming today.

At Brandon the stream had overflowed its banks, transforming the low-lying country into a lake. Dwellers of the lowlands had to abandon their homes.

The situation at Portage La Prairie was described as increasingly critical. Much property damage has already been caused.

In many parts of the surrounding country farmers have taken to boats and rafts as means of conveyance.

"HUSH MONEY" REFUSAL CAUSE OF INDICTMENTS

New York, April 2.—A man who refused to pay "hush money" to tax collectors, but instead reported the offed to federal authorities, was the cause of the investigation which led up to the indictment of seven deputy collectors of internal revenue here today, United States District Attorney Buckner said tonight.

The seven men are charged with soliciting and accepting bribes from citizens under threat of obtaining against their victims' income tax assessments, fines and criminal prosecution. The alleged victims were all Bronx and Westchester county busines men.

The federal indictment returned today names Charles H. Gren, Albert O. Ellson, William Snowden, Saul C. Steinthal, Henry Mayer, David Benjamin and Charles Tremont.

These men, District Attorney Buckner said, were paid $1,500 a year salary by the government but their actual incomes amounted to more than $10,000 a year. From small merchants, he said they took as little as $50 but from the wealthier men they got as high as $2,000. Mr. Buckner estimated the average bribe at $300.

TROUBLE OF BUILDING TRADES IN BOSTON

Boston, April 2—The Building Trades Employers' association, which demanded that the unions engaged in building operations sign a three-year wage renewal contract led to a strike being declared yesterday by more than 600 plumbers and laborers and a scattering of electrical workers, today filed a complaint with the state commission on the necessaries of life against the United Building Trades Council of the American Federation of Labor, it was learned at the state house. The nature of the complaint was not divulged.

Despite the strike no delay in building operations was reported today. The electrical workers continued in their efforts to persuade contractors to sign an agreement for the adjustment of differences. The wage committee of the employers' association met today to discuss ways and means of reaching a settlement.

The increase being demanded is $1.25 an hour for trades paid $1.10 under the old scale, which expired yesterday and $1.50 for those formerly receiving $1.25.

SUPPORTS OF GRANITE AS BUILDING MATERIAL

Washington, April 2.—Stressing the superiority of granite as a building material, Senator Dale of Vermont, in an address today at the opening session of the American Granite association, declared the central building of the capitol has to be literally soaked with paint every year "because it was built of rotten stone."

Senator Dale and Representative Gibson, also of Vermont, pledged their support to the granite men in their efforts to obtain a 100 per cent increase in the duty on imported granite.

Two score of the convention delegates were received at the White House by President Coolidge.

SHOT HIS BABY DEAD IN MOTHER'S ARMS AND THEN FATALLY WOUNDED HIMSELF

Danbury, April 2.—Millard R. Berry, 21 years old, an electrician, shot and killed his 18 months old son Harold in the arms of its mother here tonight and then fired a bullet into his own head, dying two hours later in the hospital.

The shooting occurred at the home of Mrs. Berry's mother, Mrs. Julia Niland, here. Mr. and Mrs. Berry had separated yesterday, Mrs. Berry returning to her mother's residence. Berry, according to the police, went to the Niland home tonight and demanded his child, which the mother had taken with her. Mrs. Berry refused his demands, the police report, and running up stairs, locked herself and her son in a bath room.

Berry followed and fired twice at the lock on the door, breaking it. He found his wife with her son in her arms and before Mrs. Berry could move, fired a bullet into the baby's head, the police say. He then took his own life, not attempting to harm his wife.

Berry was the son of Henry H. Berry, former United States revenue collector here.

FRANCE REALIZES FUNDING OF WAR DEBTS NECESSARY M. CLEMENTEL RESIGNS

Financial Minister Clementel Disappointed Senate in Vague Explanation of Policy of the Government—Contends That an Increase in Circulation of Paper Money Would Not Entail Inflation—Assures Senators That Americans Have Been Assured That France Means to Pay.

Paris, April 2—The upper house of the French parliament was officially informed this afternoon of the impending increase in the circulation of paper money, an increase which the government insistently declares is not inflation.

Finance Minister Clementel explaining the government programme for the solution of French financial difficulties, touched only vaguely upon the different projects in view and the senate was visibly disappointed at his lack of precision.

But the finance minister made it clear during his remarks that the government realizes the necessity of an early funding of war debts. Once again he declared that France will pay.

"Americans know we mean to pay," he said. "We have so assured Mr. Hughes and Secretary of State Kellogg. We have found in considering the matter with them that the old fraternity of arms has not been forgotten, and we are on the road to a satisfactory arrangement."

The explanation by the finance minister's lack of precision regarding the financial programme was found during the afternoon, however, when it became known that the socialist wing of Premier Herriot's majority had sent a delegation to the premier this morning to express the dissatisfaction of the group with the projects as announced in yesterday evening's official communique.

The socialists demanded that the government substitute a capital levy for the increased taxation project outlined.

The group did not veto increased circulation, but declared it could not vote for it, or vote for an amended budget when it comes back from the senate, unless the socialist reforms incorporated in it by the chamber were left practically intact, and unless the new proposed taxation was replaced by a capital levy.

Consequently, Finance Minister Clementel was obliged to tack around these dangerous points involved in the government programme. Ex-Premier Francois Marshal, who followed him on the speaker's stand, criticized the official programme.

Premier Herriot, informed of the bad effect created by M. Clementel's announcement, hurried to the senate and conferred earnestly with the finance minister, M. Renoult, minister of justice, M. Chautempts, minister of interior, and other cabinet members who were present during the debate. Later he held conferences with senate leaders. The premier appeared worn and harassed, and it was said around the lobbies that during the morning he had threatened the socialist delegation with his resignation.

Finance Minister Clementel during the course of his speech announced that the Bank of France had made paper in circulation. By this it was hoped, he said, that people who have been hoarding bank bills would be obliged to bring them from their hiding places. He also said that at the time an estimate was made of bank notes lost since 1914. This could be done by the calling in of all old paper money, he declared.

M. Francois-Marshal followed. The hoarding of bank bills had been much exaggerated, in his opinion, and it was not of first importance. About the middle of June last, he said, the situation of the treasury was excellent; national defense bonds had been freed from the income tax, encouraging the purchase of one year bonds.

Great sympathy toward the present government had been shown by foreign governments throughout August, September and October. But, lies went on, "this sympathy has since weakened; the internal confidence has become exhausted." He ascribed this to the financial bill as drafted by the chamber.

Some time later, M. Clementel returned to the senate. He remarked that the lobby talk had proved to him that he had not been properly understood, but his renewed explanation brought no French light to the senate. He merely repeated that the government would not resort to inflation but make provision for the needs of commerce.

Premier Herriot said that he would within a few days introduce a bill "sane, honest and loyal," expounding the government's principles and its general directing policy relating to the treasury.

The lobbies of parliament were seething tonight. The proceedings in the senate today had made a bad impression, and the feling was general in political circles that the ministry had got itself into a position from which it would have considerable difficulty in extricating itself.

Reconstruction of the cabinet and even the resignation of the ministry, was freely talked of. All sorts of reports were current, notably of alleged differences between Premier Herriot and Finance Minister Clementel, who is said occasionally to have taken the initiative without previously consulting the premier.

The principal difficulty of the cabinet is how to get increased resources, which are admittedly indispensable. Premier Herriot seemingly is between two fires. The Socialists are insistent for a capital levy, without which it is understood they will withdraw their support from the government, but should the premier give in to them, he undoubtedly would alienate a large part of the radical section of the majority.

To further aggravate the situation, there is the growing menace of unrest, with the senate, where the opposition is in ascendancy. By this it was hoped, he said, that people who have been hoarding bank bills would be obliged to bring them from their hiding places. He also said that at the time an estimate was made of bank notes lost since 1914. This could be done by the calling in of all old paper money, he declared.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS IN ITALIAN PARLIAMENT

Rome, April 2.—(By the A. P.)—Important events developed almost simultaneously in both houses of the Italian parliament today—a pugilistic incident in the chamber, culminating in a challenge to a duel, and postponement by the senate, upon the request of Premier Mussolini, of the vote of War Minister General Di Giorgio's army reform bill.

The uproar in the chamber was caused by the charge made by Deputy Viola that the government had concentrated black shorts on the occasion of the recent election in the Caserta commune for the purpose of intimidating voters opposed to the Fascist candidates.

This charge led to an exchange of blows between Viola and the Fascist Deputy Bottai, and Bottai thereupon challenged Viola to a duel.

Numerous other deputies, incuding Farinacci, secretary general of the Fascist party, and some of the communists, and the sergeant-at-arms had trouble in separating the combatants.

While this scene was being enacted in the chamber, Mussolini appeared before the senate and requested postponement of the vote on the war minister's bill. He explained that the government intended to continue its study of the whole question of the defense of the nation, with a view to coordinating the army, navy and air forces. A revised measure he promised, would be presented later.

The premier had already decided not to make the vote a question of confidence.

FIRE IN ICE HOUSE OF NEW HAVEN ALMSHOUSE

New Haven, April 2.—Fire which gained considerable before it was discovered swept through the ice house of the Springside home today. Authorities at the home stated that the ice house would be a total loss. The damage was unofficially estimated at $10,000. The blaze was discovered by workmen nearby and when the firemen arrived the building was a mass of flames.

The roof of the structure soon caved in and the fire mush-roomed around the entire building, breaking out on all sides.

The building is owned by the city and is insured, it was stated tonight. The building is about a mile from the main structure of the institution and there was no fear of the blaze spreading.

The cause of the fire was undetermined and Fire Marshal Martin J. Fleming will conduct an investigation tomorrow. The building contained enough ice to supply the home for two seasons.

FRENCH MINISTER OF FINANCE HAS RESIGNED

Paris, April 3.—(By the A. P.)—M. Clementel, minister of finance, has resigned. The official announcement says that his resignation has been accepted.

Stung by remarks, tantamount to a disavowal of him, made in the senate, by Premier Herriot, M. Clementel sent in his resignation. His letter of resignation was submitted to, in all-night cabinet meeting, and the ministers decided to accept it.

No decision as to, who, M. Clementel's successor will be, has yet been announced. It is understood, however, that it will be Rene Renoult, minister of justice.

COOLIDGE ANXIOUS TO EXPEDITE SETTLEMENTS

Washington, April 2—Mention of the French war debt to the United States in the French chamber of Deputies today by Finance Minister Clementel, synchronized with the disclosure here, of increasing dissatisfaction in influential congressional circles with the continued delay on the part of the debtor nations in instituting definite understanding regarding refunding negotiations with the Washington government.

The feeling of impatience is understood to have manifested itself recently through increasing pressure on the administration to take active steps to bring matters to a head. In view of some leaders who have been in contact with administration officials it would cause no surprise if the debt situation, and the desirability of beginning conversations for refunding agreements were made the subject of notes dispatched to all governments which have not as yet taken up this question, including France.

The possibility of expediting settlements in his way has been discussed by the American debt funding commission but no conclusion was reached.

JOE SAMM TO APPEAL FROM MANSLAUGHTER CONVICTION

Schenectady, N. Y., April 2.—Notice of appeal from the conviction of Joe Samm, of Hartford, Conn., for first degree manslaughter in connection with the murder last October of Lai Chow Wong, was filed in the county clerk's offices today. The chief contention is that the death of Wong apparently was premeditated murder and that Samm therefore could not legally be found guilty of manslaughter.

Fung Chung, also of Hartford, is being held here awaiting a second trial, the jury having disagreed, Lee Gow, of this city, remains to be tried. Samm is serving a 20-year sentence in Dannemora.

Wong was shot in his laundry Oct. 9. Witnesses testified they had seen three men enter the laundry, heard shots and saw the men come out. They identified them as Samm, Chung and Gow.

WILLIMANTIC

Thursday afternoon at 2:05 o'clock, Esteemed Loyal Knight, P. D. Donahue, chairman of the Elks' building committee broke ground at Elks' Park on Pleasant street and officially started the work of excavating for the new home of Willimantic Lodge No. 1311. The application of the shovel by Chairman Donahue was regarded as momentous by the fifty Elks who had congregated for the ceremony. The chairman displayed considerable skill with the spade and within ten minutes flat, had extricated from the ground a good sized rock about a foot and a half in diameter. The digging was done at a point which will mark one corner of the structure. Several of the Elks present took a hand at the digging and within a few minutes diligent effort had opened a hole several feet in circumference. The spade will be preserved to be inscribed and retained by the Lodge as a souvenir when the long cherished dream of the Lodge becomes a reality. The building, exclusive of verandas and bay-windows will be 44 feet deep with an 82 foot frontage. From its veranda visitors will obtain a beautiful bird's eye-view of Willimantic. DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Numbers of local investors took what is called a winging, when they invested in bankers' shares of the Ford Motor company of Canada, and did so under conditions that warranted local bankers warning against the investment, not because the Ford Motor company of Canada is not a reputable concern, but on account of the price at which the shares were offered here and the conditions under which they were made available to nivestors.

Now comes the issuing of a temporary injunction in a Brooklyn, N. Y., court, restraining a concern with headquarters in New York from continuing to do business in the bankers' shares of the Ford Motor company of Canada, Ltd. The justice who heard the matter held that the concerns involved as dealers of the bankers' shares were operating under a scheme calculated to deceive the public and to believe customers to believe, says a New York paper, that they were actually acquiring the stock of the Ford Motor company of Canada, instead of an interest in such stock. It was represented, for sooth, that an investment of $ would bring a return of $15,000.

The injunction just issued holds until trial of the case. The defendants are restrained from selling bankers' shares of the issue referred to, pending the hearing on the injunction application.

The means of determining how many bankers' shares of the stock were sold in Danielson and vicinity is at hand. It is believed that the sales were numerous. A local man familiar with bond deals said Thursday there who had made inquiries as to the advisability of purchasing been warned against the Some heeded and others did drive for business here was active, and as always, people seeking big returns were found to go in. More new cottages are to be erected on Alexander's lake this season. Among those who are about to build is Dr. William A. Mills of Danielson. He will erect a cottage on the north shore of the lake. There are at the present time more than a score of cottages on the lake.

The number of out of the state fishermen who are to be seen along trout streams in this territory would tend to indicate that not all of them have gone to the trouble and expense necessary to procure a Connecticut fishing license, a matter that is commanding the attention of the officers charged with the enforcement of the fish and game laws.

Rev. Leonard Richards of St. Al- bans church will preache at the service to be held at Christ church, Pomfret, Good Friday evening.

Motorists will do well to remember that a state-wide campaign to enforce the motor vehicle headlight law will open Sunday. State officers throughout Connecticut will check up the cars.

Hebrews from this town will be at Putnam Sunday for an observance, under the auspices of the Judean club, of the opening of the first Hebrew university at Palestine. The observance is to be held at the synagogue.

The Well Child conference is expected to attract many to the town hall this (Friday) afternoon. The conference is of interest to all mothers and their children.

Work, with the coming of spring, is again being speeded up at the big reservoir project near South Scituate. The reservoir will supply water for the city of Providence.

Lieut. Wellington Bitgood led the participants in the recent rifle match shot on the armory indoor range with a total of 143 points out of a possible 150. Sergeant Armington was second with 136 and Corporal Jerome Keech third with 135. There were ten men on the rifle team and their total was 1303. The match was held under the supervision of Lieut. L. B. McEwen of Battery B., Norwich.

Captain F. O. Armington of the Service battery said Thursday afternoon that drills during April, May and June will be conducted as usual and that the men will be paid for the drills, arrangements having been made to do this, though it was thought a few days ago that the men might not be paid for some drills, because the appropriation to pay them had been exhausted. A deficiency appropriation has been arranged.

Not all those who are liable to pay personal taxes managed to get around to make payment by Tuesday night, so those who have not paid are not rated as delinquents.

There will be special music and other special features at church services here in observance of Palm Sunday.

Edward Bullard, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Bullard, of Boston, has been spending a few days in town.

On many farms in this territory the spring work is from two to three weeks ahead of any season in recent years.

A pony riding in a two-wheel trailer that was being hauled by a little roadster attracted attention here Thursday. The outfit was "an act" with some show.

The breath of spring appears a bit tainted these days, and the rare-ripe onions now so plentiful hereabouts are held responsible.

Palms blessed during the service will be distributed to the congregation at the high mass at St. James' church on Sunday.

There is interest here in whether a bill now before the legislature will be passed and make bathing allowable in Alexander's lake. The bill has both strong support and opposition.

A car bearing a North Caroina registration plate, the first machine from so far south seen here this season, attracted attention in the business section Thursday.

There is interest through this territory in the fact that the Rhode Island and Eastern Connecticut conference of the Advent Christian church is being held ni Providence this week.

PUTNAM

Four cases of scarlet fever have de- veloped at the Children's home in the Sawyer district during the past week. The patients are all doing well, only one having the fever in a severe form. In the past three weeks there has been a great deal of sickness among the children at the home, mostly very hard colds, which have been prevalent everywhere this spring.

A large number of players attended the meeting of the Putnam Checker club at Putnam Auto station. A ladder tourney was started, all players being entered in Class E and those who scored victories over two or more of their opponents advancing to Class D. A. L. Baldwin of Fall River played five men and defeated them. Dr. E. F. Perry with three decisions, Wilfred Dupre and Henry J. Dubois with two each were the others to advance a class. Officers of the Putnam Checker club have negotiations under way for a match game with the Woonsocket club at an early date.

Judge Frank D. Haines adjourned court without day after disposing of all classes of motions on the docket at the short calendar session.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gifford, Jr., who have made their home for several years with Mrs. W. H. Longdon on Grove street, are to move into the house being vacated by Mr. and Mrs. Eldon S. Johnson on Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Maryotte, Mrs. Warren Ames and Miss Hattie Fox were in Providence attending the Rhode Island and Eastern Connecticut Conference of the Advent Christian church.

There is interest here in the announcement that F. Raymond Gilpatric has been nominated for vice-chairman of the Rotary club of New Britain. This club has a large membership and is one of the most active civic forces of that busy city. Mr. Gilpatric is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Gilpatric of Fremont street.

The Odd Fellows at their regular meeting instructed a class of candidates in the second degree. Next Thursday evening, April 9, the lodge will be the guest of Protection lodge of Central Village, taking with them their candidates where they will receive the third degree from the Central Village team.

George F. Payne, superintendent of the Powdrell and Alexander company, was the guest of the directors of the chamber of commerce at their weekly meeting at the Putnam Inn. He gave a short talk regarding industrial conditions. The secretary was directed to write to the state park commission to ask if Priest Island, which has been taken over for park purposes by the state, could not be improved. In reply to his letter, Secretary A. S. Macdonald was advised that the commission would give the matter consideration as soon as funds were available.

John F. Rearden, president of the Putnam Rotary club was the guest of the Willimantic club at its regular meeting Tuesday and gave a talk which was well received.

The Hebrew community of Putnam will celebrate, under the auspices of the Judean club, the opening of the first Hebrew university in Palestine, at the synagogue on Maine street, Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock. There will be speakers from out of town, also local speakers and there will be a musical program.

Several flocks of wild geese have been seen flying northward. In one instance they were not in the usual V shape formation, but were flying in single file and the line was straight and the distance between each bird seemed to be the same.

Members of the local Methodist church who were in Fall River attending conference included D. B. Gilbert, Clarence Shaw, Thomas Bell, Stanley Shaw, Herbert Marsh, Marion Wilcox and Dorothy Nichols.

George Allen Hawkins, who was badly injured when he fell through a hatchway at the pumping station two weeks ago, was reported better at the Day Kimball hospital. His injury is a serious one, rendered doubly so by reason of his age and he has been on the dangerous list.

The fire department was called out at six o'clock Wednesday morning for a chimney fire in the house occupied by E. Nichols on Chassey street. It was soon extinguished.

The trout fishermen have been out trying their luck. Some brought back good strings and others brought back good stories of the large ones they lost.

Rev. N. B. Burton has been returned to Putnam by the New England Southern Conference of the M. E. church. He is to remain as pastor of the church which he has so acceptably served for the past three years. The only changes made in this vicinity are at North Grosvenordale and Danielson. At the former place Rev. J. G. Bisbee will be succeded by Rev. M. C. Baker. Mr. Bisbee will return to Boston to complete his theological studies. Rev. Roger C. Sturgeon is to be the minister at Danielson.

O. R. Harmanson of Grove street, plans to hold his tenth annual public floral exhibition Palm Sunday, April 5th. For the past ten years Mr. Harmanson has held these exhibitions.

Murdock Johnson was back in Put- nam a few days ago after treatment at a hospital much improved in health. He was met by his brother, Austin Johnson and accompanied him back to the latter's home at Pittsfield, Mass., where he will probably remain. They are brothers of the late John G. Johnson.

E. C. Rogers ceased to be the man- ager of the Putnam Inn Wednesday morning after holding that position since April 8, 1905, lacking but a week of a round score of years. The new lessee, The Knott Hotel corporation, has assumed charge, with Alonzo T. Folger, Jr., as resident manager.

When asked for a statement, Mr. Rogers wrote the following, which is characteristic in brevity and directness:

"This morning the Knott Hotels company which has leased the Putnam Inn, took over its management with Mr. Folger as its directing head.

"I take this opportunity to thank the patrons of the Inn and those who have given it their moral support. I sincerely hope that the same patronage may be extended to the new management.

"The citizens of Putnam need a good hotel.

"They have

"The hotel needs you.

"(Signed) E. C. ROGERS"

Mr. Rogers has made no plans for the future. He still owns the hotel property, and the Byrne company store, the Vandale bowling alley, the garage in the rear are not included in the lease to the Knott people. For the present, maybe permanently, he will continue to live in Putnam, making the Inn his home. He may engage in some other business in this city or he may re-enter the hotel business in some other city. Of his fitness for that calling the best testimonial is the Putnam Inn of today. During every year, that Mr. Rogers had charge of it there was a steady improvement in all that counts for comfort and convenience and service in a modern hotel.

Its payroll and the other current expenditures make it one of the prominent industries of Putnam. And during the past year the money paid to carpenters and other laborers, and for material and equipment and furniture amounts to a very large sum.

"And I wish to make one addition to my statement," said Mr. Rogers, "that is that I believe in Putnam—I have shown it by the investment that I have made in the past year, and by buying everything that I could, both labor and material, here at home."

BOY MAY LOSE SIGHT OF EYE— WAS STRUCK BY A STONE

Danielson, April 2—It was stated Thursday afternon that there is hope of saving the sight of the right eye of Russell N. Chapin, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Chapin. The boy was injured when he was accidentally struck by a stone thrown by another small boy while he was coming through High street on his way from school. The stone broke the right lens of the glasses he was wearing and numbers of pieces of glass entered the eyeball. These were later removed, but the condition of the eye is not such yet as to allow of knowing definitely how serious the injury eventually will

PLAINFIELD

At the rooms of St. John's Council, of Knights of Columbus, Wednesday night four candidates were given the first degree. Dona Jodwin, Lionel Plant, Eugene Lacourse and Howard Nolan were the four young men admitted to the order. Rev. R. P. Morrissey addressed the council.

Work is being rushed on the new Catholic cemetery in the Gallup Heights for completion by Memorial Day. The cemetery will be named St. John's. The tract comprises about eighty acres and has a thousand-foot frontage on the main highway. This cemetery will be one of the most beautiful spots in this section when completed.

Many of the fourth degree Knights of Columbus will attend a meeting of the Assembly in Norwich Sunday afternoon.

All local Elks are awaiting the big celebration to be held in Norwich April 15th.

The local council of the K. of C.'s and the Holy Name Society of St. John's parish will receive Holy Communion at a special mass at St. John's church on Easter Sunday morning.

The following scores were shot by the Baltic Rifle club—50 shots offhand on the one-inch ring target, 50 yards: W. Margill 464, G. Greishamer 479, C. Watson 460, H. Sargent 487; 200 yards on German ring target, three shots, possible 75; H. Sargent 72, C. Watson 60, W. Magill 54.

The Sprague Fish and Game association held its meeting in the town hall Tuesday evening and the following officers were re-elected: President, Peter Robitaille; vice president, Earl Papineau; secretary, Robert Hines; treasurer, Gustave Macht. The association has sent for and will plant wild rice in nearby waters for ducks. The club has offered four prizes for the largest trout and bass caught this year. It is believed that this contest will create a little more interest in trout and bass fishing and have a tendency to keep up the spirit of the game. Application blanks are being filled out for fish and pheasants and it is hoped that work of this kind may improve the hunting and fishing in this locality. JAILING DRUNKEN DRIVERS.

The registrar of motor vehicles in Massachusetts has been fighting hard for greater safety in the highways of that state. He has not been half-hearted in his demands for improvements and he has not refrained from putting the responsibility on the courts for their part in the present unsatisfactory condition when in his belief, and backed by the record of cases and their disposition, he has considered they failed to give the public proper protection.

Conditions have been manifestly worse. There has been need for just that advocacy of more serious consideration for public safety that the registrar has given. That it has had its influence upon the action of the Massachusetts legislature in the passage of the law dealing with drunken drivers seems apparent.

The situation has been that only a very few of those who have been found guilty of driving while drunk ever went to jail or even received a jail sentence. By the law just passed it is required that the judge impose a jail sentence upon a second conviction. Fines have had no terror. They were interpreted simply as a license to drive while drunk and were quickly paid when imposed. Judges who have been in the habit of displaying leniency to such persons, regardless of the public menace which they are known to be, are not given the leeway they have had in the past. Second conviction calls for jail.

What will the effect of this new law be? It can be expected that immediate efforts will be made to get around it somehow, but it can be anticipated that with anywhere near a proper enforcement there will be the desired effect upon the class which has been heretofore been disposed to drive while drunk.

That such a law is needed is established by the manner in which accidents are increasing and the increasing number of drunken drivers. If there is one great need in obtaining more safety in the highways it is in keeping them from the driver who has been drinking. The lives and limbs of other users of the highways are entitled to such protection.

RESTS WITH FRANCE.

When another disarmament conference is held depends to a large degree upon France. The fact that the other nations that would participate are favorable to it would seem to have its good influence upon France, but there can be no thought of holding such a conference and coming to any agreement that does not include France. There can be no expectation that other European countries would enter such an agreement.

France has made it uncertain as to when there would be another conference called or whether any such effort would be undertaken. It was skeptical at the Washington conference and carried the idea that it was entering something that would leave it unprotected, and yet from the results which were obtained there it has had millions for the many other uses which it has for money, which would otherwise have gone into building capital ships.

France stood in the way of greater accomplishments in the Washington conference than would otherwise have been attained. It hasn't as yet been convinced that it is ready to have disarmament extended. It stands in fear of others, and perhaps that is not surprising in view of what it has experienced ,and yet others are not ready to agree to curtail further, even on naval armament, unless France will participate.

It is useless to expect that if France should be ignored in calling a conference that the British or the Italians would promise to reduce auxiliary vessels with no such obligation being shouldered by France. It is too much to expect from neighbors who have been watching every move the other one makes for centuries.

For that reason, while others might come to an agreement without the participation of France, there's no prospect than any such attempt will be made. France must be a party to any conference and thus it rests with the attitude of that government as to when a conference will be called and most certainly as to what such a conference can accomplish. If there is no chance of getting together there may as well be no conference.

THE ST. LAWRENCE WATERWAY

Even as large bodies move slowly so do large projects. There has, in fact, been little evidence of any progress of late in connection with the St. Lawrence deeper waterway proposition, but it must be realized that it is neither forgotten nor entirely dormant. It has its supporters and it has its opponents. The former do not get much attention from the latter when inactive. It is when they are pressing for endorsement and increased and definite progress that they encounter the real force of the opposition.

In explaining the situation as it stands today the executive director of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater association says: "The present status is that the two governments (the United States and Canada) have finally come to complete agreement on the reference to the engineers. The money—$375,000—has been appropriated by congress and $150,000 was appropriated by parliament for their engineers and advisory commission. That means the work of the engineers is going ahead. The advisory commission in Canada is functioning and it is likely that our commission will hold four hearings, one either in Buffalo or Albany, one in New York city, one in Philadelphia and one in Boston, before July 1."

Here is a project on which two governments must agree but which interests a particular section of the middle west because of transportation and of the eastern states before of the power possibilities. Transportationwise, it would be available only for part of the year, but in that time it would upset existing transportation lines which have been long established. Naturally there is a reluctance to give approval to any such move and especially when it means development through another country. But it doesn't appear that the time that is being used preliminary to reaching a decision is causing discouragement, and neither does it appear that the delay is being taken advantage of to so improve present transportation facilities as to make such an expensive development unnecessary.

RHODE ISLAND'S WISE MOVE.

In view of the success that has been attained in other states with state police forces, and considering the crime that develops outside of cities where police forces are maintained, the surprise in connection with the passage of the law in Rhode Island establishing such an organization is not that it was done but that it required so long and apparently so much effort in order to bring it about.

Rhode Island may be a small state, but so is Connecticut, and yet the work of the state police is such that there would be no thought of doing away with such a constabulary. In fact it has made such a favorable impression during its existence that extensions are frequently made. Connecticut is well aware of the advantages which the criminal of today has in getting to and away from outlying districts. It appreciates that if such a class is going to be reached and law and order maintained there must be an effective means of dealing with them. This is found in the state police force.

Rhode Island, by its action, has decided to extend increased police protection to its outlying districts. That may be no guarantee that crime will experience a slump in that state but it will insure an arm of the law ready for action and equipped with authority when occasion requires. The state has acted upon the need for increased and better protection and there is no reason to believe but what the 24 men making up the department will be called upon for plenty of active service as soon as it is ready for it. Rhode Island is to be congratulated for its action and the people of that state for getting this added protection.

THE GAS TAX.

Three-quarters of the states, previous to this year, have been so much impressed with the merits of gasoline taxation that they have adopted it and levy a tax varying from one to four cents a gallon. In all instances but three some portion of the taxes thus raised is devoted to road work.

What seems to be an unfortunate fact in some instances is that the gasoline tax proceeds are devoted to other purposes than highway construction or maintenance. Of the nearly $30,000,000 raised by gasoline tax only about $49,000,000 is devoted to building or keeping up the roads, and yet there appears to be no good ground for placing a tax on that part of those who use the highways in motor vehicles except that the tax they pay in that manner is devoted to road work.

The merits of the gasoline tax for highway construction means paying for the advantages received. It hits all alike who enjoy the benefits of better roads and the burden is not heavy or unreasonable. That it will not be long before there is such a tax in all states is indicated by the fact that five more states have adopted it thus far this year, and with the increase in motor vehicles each year this will mean a yearly advance in this form of revenue. When levied for a specific purpose the tax meets a present day requirement and considering the fact that the average yearly amount paid by motorists for each vehicle was but $10.30 it cannot be looked upon as unreasonable.

LOST DISCOURAGEMENT

"I heard that young man talking to you last evening, Guinevere," began the conscientious father in a greatly worried tone, "and I gathered that he was assuring you, should you marry him, life would thereupon become a fairy paradise where you would be wafted along on rose leaves.

"You seemed greatly intrigued by his monologue, and altogether I should not feel that I had done my duty by you if you failed to realize how thoroughly he was warbling through his hat.

"Every young man or young woman with a hankering for matrimony should be made to move from one abode to another first, and that would make him or her think seriously. There are many a young bride and groom who have never been the same after the ordeal. They discover all sorts of remarkable traits in one another they never dreamed were in existence. It is amazing how the rose leaves vanish on occasions like these.

"Take the Wherefore family in the house next door, who have always been held up as a model couple. When they moved out and the last van had gone and Mr. Wherefore had told her that everything was done they remembered that they must have the water turned off. Presently the street in front was congested with small autos and a steady stream of horny-handed men bearing wrenches, hammers and tongs ran up the walk and into the house where they turned off water, turned off gas, shut off electricity, throttled the automatic hot water heater, patted he burglar alarm on the back, dumped the ashes and fixed the leak in the roof.

"Most of them came without the necessary tools and had to run back and forth several times. And what with them whooping to each other and telling one another to get out of the way and yelling 'Hey, Bill, gotta match?' and quarreling over who belonged to which tools, poor Mrs. Wherefore was reduced to a nervous breakdown. I guess they haven't spoken since.

"Then when the Whiches moved in a few days later, all pleasant and happy, they ran up against the same rocks of trouble. For some hours again there was the procession of husky men running around and turning on stop cocks and twisting valves and shouting 'Hey, Bill, gotta match?' Anywhere the Whiches turned they found a man in a gray sweater talking to a piece of lead pipe in tones of concentrated fury, wrenching the life of it or having it explode water or gas all over him.

"When a young man has had a bad day at the office and has been set down hard in his proper place it does something to his best intentions to come home and find the house full of smoke from burned chops and dearie hurling herself on his shoulder in a sob that she broke the best cut-glass pickle dish that day, burned a hole in his trousers she was ironing and that something has gone wrong with the gas oven and will he fix it? At times like these there isn't a single rose leaf in the atmosphere.

"Even in an apartment where supposedly all you have to do is turn the key in your front door disillusion awaits you. There will be a radio next door, twins over you, a player piano and a violinist quite adjacent, a janitor who vanishes into thin air whenever you search for him, neighbors who borrow your sugar, soap, note paper, party gowns and face powder, and a total lack of a place to put anything, no matter how large the apartment may be and how many storerooms you have in the basement. You would be simply amazed to know the reactions caused by there being nowhere to put anything except to drop it on the floor. In the face of all this misguided young man straight and I suppose I shall be obliged—

"Oh, don't worry!" Guinevere told her conscientious parent as soon as she could break in. "I would no more marry Chauncey than I would try to fly in a row boat. I let him talk on because he does so enjoy doing it!"

"You don't say!" gasped the conscientious parent, who seemed quite disagreeably surprised. "I certainly thought it was all settled at last!"—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

J. Butler Wright, who is mentioned to succeed Albert H. Washburn as United States Minister to Austria, is now Assistant Secretary of State at Washington. Mr. Wright has had wide experience in the diplomatic service. After graduating from Princeton in 1899 he engaged in banking in New York City for six years before going to Wyoming, where for two years he was a stock raiser. He entered diplomatic service after competitive examination in 1909. His first assignment was secretary of legation at Tegucigalpa. In 1912 he was appointed secretary of legation to Roumania, but was held in the State department for special duty. In the fall of 1913 he became secretary of legation at Brussels and in the following year served as secretary to the American delegation at the opium conference at The Hague. In recent years he has served as secretary at Rio de Janeiro, as counselor of embassy at Petrograd and London and as chief of the Latin American division of the state

Are You Discouraged ?

Beach Found Hardship Instead of Gold

When Rex Beach returned from his fruitless quest for gold he found that his friends who had stayed at home had made greater progress than he.

Life had been a series of adventures and hardships for him. Born on a farm near little Atwood, Mich., he was taken at nine by water to Florida, where he helped his father get a new start in a then pioneer country. At 14 he entered Rollins college at Winter Park; at 15 he began earning his way and at 18 was graduated.

Following his brothers to Chicago, he determined to be a lawyer and entered the Chicago College of Law and later the Kent College of Law. He obtained a position on the football team of the Chicago Athletic Club and had to learn his first lessons in the game from books.

Then came the Alaska gold excitement and with $1,000 capital he started for the Klondike which he never was able to reach. The trip was rough, the hardships many and Beach had to do various kinds of hated manual labor to keep alive in that frigid country after his money was gone.

Returning to Chicago he again studied law, but gave it up; then tried mining in Missouri and again in Alaska with disastrous results. Back in Chicago, he saw that his old friends had progressed, but felt that he had not. Next he sold life insurance, but gave it up to become a salesman of fire brick.

A companion told of the selling stories of Alaska. Dubiously, he wrote a story and sent it to a magazine, and received $50 for it. He sent others and they were accepted. He then devoted his entire time to writing and produced The Spoilers, and had to convince the editor of a magazine that it was not too startling for his clientele. Then came The Barrier, The No'er-do-Well and many other books that proved popular. He also wrote plays and some of his stories appeared on the moving picture screen. He was successful in business, later made lucky strike in mining and today, at 47, is both rich and popular.

Tomorrow—Ethel Barrymore Had to Earn Her Living.

Stories That Recall Others

Learning by Experience

Junior is an observing lad of three summers. He saw his grandfather start a fire with kindling and coal oil, so got some kindling and thought his mother's cream would do as well and poured two bottles thereon. Then his mamma appeared, scolded between smiles, and returned to the house. Junior's hands naturally were rather murky by this time and, of course, they had to be washed. But, man that he was, he decided to do the washing himself. No water was available, but there was a liquid in a pitcher in the ice box. He washed his hands therein, only to learn later between paddies that it was buttermilk. Now temptation is removed from the lad by a locked refrigerator door.

Her Menagerie

Virginia came rushing breathlessly into the house the other day with three squirmy fat worms in her hands. "Oh, mother, look, pretty worms that I found," she cried as her face fairly beamed with delight.

"Horrors, Jinny, throw the nasty things away," exclaimed her mother.

"Aw, please mother," and Jinny's face clouded, "let me play with them. You know I've had my dog and cat and bird and rabbit, but I've never had a worm."

NO WONDER THAT UOR SONS AND DAUGHTERS GO WRANG

Bridgeport, April 3.—"With the present mad pace, of life, the automobiles, with their speed and intoxication; the movies with their suggestiveness and sex triangles, the jazz foolishness and dance hall recklessness, it is a wonder that so few of our sons and daughters go wrong," Mrs. A. H. Reeve, national president of the congress of parents and teachers, declared in an address tonight before 200 members of the Connecticut congress of mothers and parents teachers meeting at the Stratfield hotel for their annual convention.

In her entire address, Mrs. Reeve defended the modern youth and declared they were no different from those of the other days, but the conditions in which they live were far more difficult and different.

Arangements were by Cummings and Ring.

LIONS MAKE DONATION FOR BISHOP SCHOOL LIBRARY

In the absence of President Edward Carpenter and Vice President Louis Fontaine, John T. Barry presided at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Lion Louis Hawkins was the song leader for the meeting and there were the usual group and club song numbers. The attendance contest prize donated by Lion Abner Schwartz, was awarded to Rudolph Henschel. The prize was a pair of handsome mahogany candlesticks. The club voted a donation towards the library for the new Bishop school being erected on East Main street.

J. B. Caron, chairman of the entertainment committee, introduced as the current topic speaker, Lion Rudolph Henschel. Mr. Henschel spoke on Purchasing at Home, saying in part:

Who are the real tax payers of the City of Norwich? None other than the store or shop keepers of our city. Some may say how is that and why?

Well, just for the concrete reason, that the shop keepers have many, many hundreds of employes who add to the making of our city. The shop keepers pay city tax, school tax, stock tax, and water tax, and buy their gas and electricity from the city, and pay many other assessments. And through their being here, many others are employed in other capacities in our city.

Then why should they not be supported by the people of our city? Why is it that not only a certain element, but a large minority of so-called staunch Norwich-ites will persist in making their purchases from mail order houses, or any other out-of-town concerns from whom they may receive advertising. Some even go so far as to make trips to Hartford, Springfield and New Haven and other cities to make their purchases. Is this fair to the business men of our city? Is it right? Are they justly entitled and deserving of the support of all?

And after all, isn't it a fact that they in turn spent their money right here where they receive it? Do those purchasing from mail order houses ever stop to think that they are sending thousands of dollars monthly out of Norwich, never to come back?

Has any one of them ever communicated with the mail order houses, who get those thousands of Norwich dollars to contribute to any of our drives, or causes? No! But they go to the business man, doing business here, and say 'You must help this cause; it is a worthy one.'

Now gentlemen, the time for awakening has come. We must make up our minds here and now that we, the people of Norwich, must stand by the merchants. Patronize them, for you can always do just as well here at home and better, for if nothing else, you at least can call on the merchant and talk with him, should any particular purchase be unsatisfactory.

Leave your dollars in Norwich, forget the mail order houses, and I, for one, will tell you that you will help make your city prosper.

Lion Rev. Robert B. Day who has recently returned from a visit in England, spoke in his usual interesting manner on the topic, Travel. Travel, to the young, he said, is an education and to the old is experience. In his talk Rev. Mr. Day spoke of the impression the traveler gets today in Europe regarding the rigid immigration laws of today. He spoek of the general atmosphere in Europe where there is a feeling of distrust among the larger nations neighboring each other, in comparison with the general good feeling in a country like our own. He brought out the fact that the United States is going through a great age of testing, especially in relation to its foreign policies, the result of which cannot be seen for some years to come. The meeting closed with the singing

COUNTY FIRE WARDENS ARE GIVEN INSTRUCTIONS AT CONFERENCE

Instructions for the fire wardens of the county were given at a conference here Thursday at the Buckingham Memorial during the morning and afternoon when State Forester A. F. Hawes was the presiding officer and a particularly interesting portion of the programme was an illustrated lecture in the afternoon by H. N. Wheeler, chief lecturer of the United States forest service.

Fire Chief Howard L. Stanton gave the welcome to the city, when the meeting opened at 9.30 and invited the 30 men present to visit the fire stations during the day, an invitation that was accepted after the conference adjourned in the afternoon.

State Forester Hawes gave an instructive talk about American Forest Week and W. J. Barber of the New York & Hartford railroad told what the railroads are doing in fire prevention lines by inspection and care of the condition of the rights of way along the railroads.

C. H. Lathrop of Franklin, forest fire patrol man for Eastern Connecticut, spoke of fire fighting with pumps and gave a demonstration of their use, and Scout Executive F. A. Benton gave a short talk to the forest guides, explaining their duties and distributing signs to be posted.

At noon an excellent dinner was served by the Daughters of Veterans.

Mr. Wheeler's illustrated lecture at the afternoon session was full of information about the immense damage that is wrought by forest fires, not only to the trees themselves but to the fertility of the soil as the leaf mold is burned and it is estimated that one inch of leaf mold is worth $120 an acre. He spoke of the responsibility for forest fires and advocated more stringent application of the rule that the man who is responsible must pay. This applies to the guilty one, whether it is a railroad, a careless camper, or the woodland stroller who drops matches and cigarettes. Ten million acres were burned over in the United States last year, 28,000 acres in Connecticut.

He advocated more land in state parks and forests because of its great economic value in 20 or 30 years more.

The meeting voted an endorsement of the purchase by the state of the Fort Shantok acreage on the Thames as a part of the state park system, and this vote will be forwarded to the appropriations committee of the legislature.

Mr. Lathrop illustrated from sketches the work that had been done at two large forest fires in this county in the past year, one of them at Mill Hill, Colchester, which burned over 200 acres, lasted three days, and was about the poorest handled big fire in the county, he said. The other was on Ayers Mountain in the town of Franklin, where a double forestry pump was used and the fire was well handled.

As these fire wardens' conferences are held from year to year more interest in the subject of fire prevention is developed and greater care is continually being exercised by the wardens, themselves in warning people to observe the fire permit law, and on the other hand people are becoming more careful in applying for fire permits and in burning brush.

At 4 o'clock Mr. Wheeler repeated his lecture before an audience of Boy Scouts. F. L. Buttrick, secretary of the Connecticut Forestry association, handled the lantern for the lecture

OLD STODDARD HOMESTEAD BURNED AT GALES FERRY

The house known for three generations as the Stoddard homestead and farm, on the old New London road, an old landmark about one mile east of Gales Ferry, was burned to the ground Wednesday afternoon about 2 o'clock. It is stated that the fire when discovered, was on the second floor of the large two-story house with ell, and was then bursting into flames. It is supposed it had taken fire from the cross pieces, or frame work, that used to be placed in old time chimneys for supports and had been smouldering for a long time before breaking out into the rooms, with such force. There was no possibility of saving the house. It was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Crouch and family, who have lived there some years.

The house was built by Capt. Ralph Stoddard at the time of the Revolutionary war and descended to his son, Lieutenant Vine Stoddard of the revolution, and then to Lieutenant Stoddard's son, Guy Carleton Stoddard, who served in the War of 1812. It was sold by Guy Stoddard to the late Alonzo W. Turner, who occupied the homestead and farm for more than fifty years with his family. On the death of Mrs. Turner, some years ago, it was purchased by Mr. Crouch.

It was not known Thursday whether there was any insurance on the property.

POLICE ARREST MAN FOR ANNOYING WOMAN

John E. Kearney, 18, of Jail Hill, was arrested at his home about 12.30 this (Friday) morning by Sergt. John H. Casey on a breach of the peace charge. It is alleged that Kearney accosted a Dunham street woman at Franklin square and followed her to Dunham street on the West Side car leaving Franklin square at 10 o'clock. She got off the car at the Dunham street stop and Kearney, it is alleged, followed her.

The woman started to run with the man chasing her. She screamed, and it is said, fainted. Several residents on Dunham street notified police headquarters, the telephone calls coming in quick succession. Captain Thomas Murphy rushed the patrol wagon to Dunham street but the man had disappeared.

The trail of the fugitive was quickly taken up and within a short time police learned the identity of the man they were after. When Kearney showed up at his home officers were watching for him and he was arrested and booked at headquarters. His bond was set at $100. He will be in the city court this morning to answer to the charge.

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB HEARS PRACTICAL TALKS

Thursday afternoon the Catholic Women's club held its April meeting at the rooms of the Ladies of Columbus, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. Daniel J. McGillicuddy presided. Arrangements were made for a rummage sale, later in the month, Mrs. Thomas O'Rourke being made chairman of the committee in charge.

As Mrs. William Muir, the vice president, is to move from Norwich, Mrs. Nelson C. Disco consented to take that office.

The club had several visitors, including Miss Dellia Maroney, secretary of the county branch of the diocesan bureau of social service, and Miss Burke, of the state farm for women, at East Lyme. Each spoke in an interesting manner of her work.

A report was made of the sewing being done for the poor of St. Patrick's parish by the members of the club.

During lent, the customary 5 o'clock tea is omitted.

TWO AUTOMOBILES DAMAGED ON NORTH MAIN STREET

Thursday evening a Studebaker special six, owned and driven by Albert Gundermuth, 23, of Lisbon, and an Oldsmobile owned by L. J. Gladue of No. 118 Central avenue and driven by Edgar J. Ross of the same address, collided at the junction of North Main street and Central avenue. Both machines were damaged. The Studebaker received a damaged right front mudguard, broken spring and damage to a tire and axle.

FACTORY AT COLCHESTER OBLIGED TO SHUT DOWN

The State Cloak company, which has been doing business at the Elgart's factory in Norwich avenue, Colchester, for the past year, discontinued business last Friday. About 40 hands were employed with a payroll of $1,200 per week. Dull times and no orders was the reason given for closing the factory. Most of the help will leave for New York city, where they can find employment in the needle line. The Cohen brothers' factory in Norwich avenue, which specialized in ladies' skirts, is also on short time of four days a week.

FRANKLIN CHAPTER ELECTS OFFICERS FOR THE YEAR

The annual convocation of Franklin Chapter, No. 4, R. A. M., was held at the Masonic temple on Thursday evening, at which the reports of the treasurer and trustees showed the chapter to be in fine financial condition.

The report of the secretary showed 28 new members were added during the year and the deaths numbering 11 were as follows: William S. OBITUARY.

Joseph W. Gilbert.

Following a shock suffered Tuesday, from which he failed to rally, the life of Joseph W. Gilbert, a retired merchant of this city, came to a close Thursday morning at 8.45 o'clock at his home, No. 23 Williams street.

Mr. Gilbert was born in Tolland, Sept. 7, 1845, the son of Joseph and Harriet Alden Gilbert, his mother being a direct descendant of the Alden family. His early education was received in schools in Rockville and his high school education at Ellington.

In Bridgeport, L. I., in 1872, Mr. Gilbert was united in marriage with Miss Isabelle Hedges, who passed away in this city a few years ago.

Mr. Gilbert came to Norwich in 1866 and in 1875 entered into partnership with Captain A. D. Smith under the firm name of Smith & Gilbert. Their stalloring establishment was located at 140 Main street and the firm was the leader in its line for over 30 years in this city. The firm occupied two floors of the building and at one time employed 13 workmen, and it has been said that the clothes made by this firm were among the best to be had in those years. The firm continued to do business until April, 1907, when the partnership was dissolved, both partners retiring from active business. Captain Smith Mr. Gilbert's partner, is now residing with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Perkins of McKinley avenue, and is enjoying good health at the age of 88 years.

Mr. Gilbert was raised in Somerset lodge No. 34, F. & A. M. on Nov. 30, 1870, was a member of Franklin Chapter No. 4, R. A. M., Franklin Council, No. 3, R. & S. M., and Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T. In 1875 he was elected treasurer of Somerset lodge and served in that capacity for over 40 years, retiring Dec. 15, 1915.

Politically Mr. Gilbert was a republican and in 1907 was elected a councilman of the city on his party ticket. He took an active interest in the welfare of the community, although he never sought after more political offices. His advice was sought after by his party in his younger years.

He was a member of Park Congregational church and was one of the most regular attendants at church services up to the time of his failing health. A man quiet in his tastes, kind and considerate of others, fair minded in all his dealings, Mr. Gilbert was a highly esteemed neighbor and friend and a worthy citizen of his city. He is the last of his generation and his death will be deeply regretted by a wide circle of friends in Norwich and elsewhere.

Mrs. Nelson Lavallee.

The death of Emily Helene McNulty, beloved wife of Nelson Lavallee, came to a close at her home, 105 Central avenue, Thursday morning at 9.50 o'clock, following a lingering illness during which she was most tenderly cared for by loved ones.

Mrs. Lavallee was born in Canada, the daughter of James E. and Mary Boucher McNulty, and came to this country with her parents when a young girl. On November 19, 1888, she was united in marriage with Nelson Lavallee by Rev. Peter Shahan, and since that time has made her home in Norwich.

Mrs. Lavallee was a devoted member of St. Mary's church and had many friends in this city who will learn of her death with sorrow and extend their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Dr. Charles H. Ellsworth.

Dr. Charles H. Ellsworth died at Venice Center, N. Y., on Thursday, March 12. He was a brother of the late Mrs. Jacob McCall, who died in this city last winter, and he was born at East Windsor, Conn., July 26, 1835. He was a veteran of the Civil war and a member of the 16th Connecticut Volunteers. On Aug. 20, 1862, he married Miss Eliza R. Rowley of Huntington, Conn., and two days after the wedding started for the front with his regiment. He saw service at Fort McHenry and in the Shenandoah valley and participated in the battles of New Market and Piedmont. After the latter engagement he was captured by the confederates and was confined for a number of months in Andersonville prison.

In 1865 he settled in Rochester, N. Y., and engaged in the practice of dentistry until 1916, when he and Mrs. Ellsworth removed to Belmont, N. Y., to live with their daughter, Mrs. R. W. Lowe. After her death they continued to make their home with Mr. Lowe, going to Venice Center with his family in 1920.

Dr. Ellsworth was very successful in his profession and was a man of remarkably strong and forceful disposition and a born politician. He was one of the founders and charter members of East Side Presbyterian church of Rochester, and continued to be an elder in that church until the time of his death. He is survived by his wife and one grandson, R. Ellsworth Lowe of New York city.

The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon, March 15, with Rev. B. A. Wagner of Scipio, N. Y. officiating. The burial was at Springville, N. Y.

Sidney Smith.

Sidney Smith, 66, formerly of Groton, died Wednesday at the Norwich state hospital where he had been a patient for about 20 years. He leaves no survivors in his immediate family.

ELKS' OFFICERS SEATED FOR WORK OF YEAR

At a largely attended meeting of Norwich lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E. at the Elks' home Thursday evening, the officers for the ensuing year were installed by P. E. R. James E. McGormick with P. E. R. James J. Casey as esquire who performed the ceremony with dignity and impressiveness which was commended by the big gathering of Elks.

The following were the elective and appointive officers who were seated:

E. R.—Charles W. Cassidy; E. L. K.—Felix P. Callahan; E. Loyal K.—James M. Osten; E. Lect. K.—Nicholas Doyle; Secretary—William E. Bacon; Treasurer—L. E. Mellen; Tyler—Fred W. Hutchinson. Trustee for three years—James P. Hayes; Representative to Grand Lodge—John E. FitzGerald; Alternate—James J. Harmanson; esquire, William W. Carrigan. Inner guard—William E. Corey; chaplain, Frank Stager; organist, Hugh Kinder.

House committee—John P. Flynn, George G. Engler, Charles E. Huntley, advisory committee—J. H. Carney, James Purdon, James J. Casey, W. R. Stevens, J. F. McCormick, James J. Harrington and trustees, treasurer and secretary; investigation committee—James J. Harrington, Fred W. Hutchinson, John M. Kennedy, Herman A. Brucknor, William E. Balcom; auditing committee—William A. Pitcher, John J. Young, Henry F. Gee; sick committee—Felix P. Callahan, James M. Osten, Nicholas Doyle, Walter Richardson; county welfare committee—chair officers and trustees with others to be appointed later.

Seven candidates were initiated in excellent form and the evening closed with a toothsome oyster chowder served under the direction of Thomas R. Cranev and his committee.

PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT MEETING IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, April 2.—State's Attorney William H. Comley, of Bridgeport, and Fred B. Smith, of New York, were speakers here tonight at a meeting in the interest of the state's attorney's prohibition enforcement bill. Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale Divinity school presided. The meeting was held under the direction of the New Haven committee of one hundred for law enforcement.

"I am one of those," said Dean Brown, "who was not in favor of adopting the 18th amendment to the constitution when it did, it was too hasty; we were in the war excitement. But the thing was done, it is the law. There is nothing to do but to obey it and support its enforcement."

Mr. Comley made a report on the state's attorneys' enforcement bill. The present opposition to the eighteenth amendment, he said, is a reappearance in a new guise of the old doctrine of nullification.

BOROTRA MUST BEAT TWO AMERICAN PLAYERS TO WIN NATIONAL TITLE

New York, April 2—Two young Americans tonight stand between Jean Borotra and the national indoor tennis championship. They are Fred Anderson, tall, hard-hitting New York player, and Jerome Lang, a stripling from Yonkers.

Lang will be the first of the pair to make the final stand against the French star. By defeating Horace E. Oser, junior champion, in the lower half of the draw today he qualified for the semi-final round. He meets Borotra tomorrow afternoon. Handicapped by an injured foot, Oser weakened after the first set and went down to defeat, 6-4, 6-0.

Anderson progressed to the final round after the most hotly contested match of the tournament when he came from behind and bested H. L. Bowman in three scorching sets, 8-10, 6-4, 8-6. Fighting pluck overcame a tendency to wildness in Anderson's game, and was the margin by which he gained the right to make America's last effort to keep the indoor trophy on this side of the Atlantic.

In all three sets Anderson started from the rear with sensational rushes. Bowman spurted into a commanding lead of 5-1 in the first set, only to have his tall foe pull up and deuce the games at 7-all. Bowman finally broke through, however, and captured the set in the eighteenth game. After Anderson had tied the set scores by taking the second, Bowman again broke through his opponent's service in the third set and obtained a lead at 2-0. Although admittedly strong in a long-distance game, Bowman could not cope with the cheery Anderson, who once more bore up under the handicap, rallied his game and came through [illegible] at 8-6.

Three matches were played in the [illegible] and A. W. Aschaffer eliminated Charles Anderson and Allen Behr, 6-2, 6-4. Dr. George King and Fred Anderson gained [illegible] through a default from Irving Weinstein and [illegible] Hilton.

MILLENNIUM WILL COME BY WORKING NOT WAITING

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

An old publicity agent once explained the psychology of advertising to me,—of successful advertising, that is to say.

"It's about like this," he said; "I have some handy or time-saving article of domestic use to sell and I put an ad in the paper. The paper you read, you know. The first ten times it appears, you don't even see it; you flip right by it without so much as a glance. The eleventh to the fifteenth times you get a vague idea that there's something of the sort on the page. The sixteenth to the eighteenth times you are distinctly irritated by it. 'Good heavens,' you grunt. 'Can't I open a paper to see how the Giants stand without that durn advertisement sticking itself at me!' The nineteenth time you actually read it, in a sort of desperation. The twentieth time you wonder if it is really half as useful as the ad. says. And then, the twenty-first time, you dash out and buy it,—and live happy ever afterwards."

What's true about selling salt shakers or kitchen cabinets is also true concerning the distribution of social, political or moral ideas. People sneer at various modern John the Baptists, because they're "always harping on the same old string." Bless you that's what they have to do in order to get you to listen. They've got to keep dinging away at you till they arouse your curiosity or excite your animosity. Otherwise you won't condescend even to notice them.

That's what the original John did; it's what all the second-fiddle Johns have to do, today. It cost the first John his head; it often causes other Johns to be ostracized or tabooed. If they can't be beheaded, they can at least be given the cold shoulder and the cut direct.

But, whether their heads are brought in a basket or they are simply "sent to Coventry" as undesirable "cranks," it still happens that they sometimes make smooth the coming of greater and more successful prophets.

"That,—if you will pardon me for jumping a great thought to a little performance,—that is why I very often bore you by my constant harping on some one theme. I'm no precursor, heaven knows; and I'd smash my typewriter into hopeless junk if I thought it was sneaking me into the "reformer" class. So many followers of that role are stuffed shams, compounded about equally of self-conceit, bigotry, ignorance and hypocrisy, that it is getting to be an insult to call a fellow a "reformer."

But when a watchman, hired and paid to keep a lookout for approaching enemies, sees a bunch of them creeping up through the underbrush, what ought he to do? Ignore them and go on promenading the moonlit battlements, or fire his musket, ring the alarm-bell, and yell at the top of his voice, "The foe, they come, they come?"

Which is exactly why I have hitherto, do now, and shall continue hereafter to keep harping on the same old string and pounding the same old gong and crying the same old warning.

The trouble is that so many of what ought to be the garrison are sound asleep, and so many others are engrossed with the dickerings of the market-place that the citadel is likely to be taken by default if somebody doesn't sound the hewgag.

Over and over again I have pointed out the danger which is threatening our civilization from the tendency to make luxury and ease our aims. It seems, at times, as if almost everyone was more or less infected with a sort of moral sleeping-sickness. Our world appears to be full of men and women who care more for "modern conveniences" than they do for their own souls; who want to draw big wages for little work and short hours; who prefer to loaf on their jobs rather than get out in front and yank 'em through; who want something for nothing—and to be patted on the back for taking it, too.

Only last week I received a letter from a reader in a neighboring county concerning observations of a recent "road gang" at work on the public highway. He found that it took four men to handle one wheelbarrow,—three to load it and one to wheel it away. They all "had plenty of time to fill their pipes and didn't sweat." Another man, feebly wielding a sickle, told the sixth man, the boss, that he was played out and could do no more. "Oh, make a show of working," returned the boss, and walked away. "No wonder it takes $50,000 more or less to build a pig-pen," comments my correspondent.

I don't know that this method of doing work for the public is anything new. I can remember the days, half-a-century ago, when all the roads were worked as "path-districts" under the directions of a local pathmaster. The road taxes were worked out, not collected in money. The man whose road-tax aggregated three dollars was allowed a dollar for every day he worked out with shovel or pickaxe or crow-bar. He was allowed another if he came on with a yoke of oxen or a span of horses, and still another dollar if he used his own plow, wagon or stone-boat. It would have seemed that each and every one of these taxes, working on the very roads he had to use most constantly, would have been eager to put in the most and the best work possible in keeping them up. As a matter of fact, the pathmaster seldom had a gang on hand competent for any job before 9 a. m. —those were the days when farmers got up at 2.30 a. m. to do their own work,—they all knocked off at half-past eleven so as to give the teams time to feed, they began again about half past one and had to quit to attend to their "chores" about half-past four. The five or six hours which they actually gave to the job were mostly spent in long-winded discussions of farm news or stubborn arguments with the pathmaster as to the foolishness of this, that or the other task he set.

No, there's nothing new in the spectacle of road gangs loafing on the job. But those same men, whether hirers or hired, whether working for themselves or for wages, used in the old days fairly to hump themselves over their farm tasks from sun-rise or before to sunset or after.

—I wish somebody would explain to me why the same man who is industrious and zealous and faithful in his private work should, nine times out of ten, prove a veritable shirker and dodger when called on to do work for the community. But so it was, and, as my correspondent's note tells, so it still is. There seems to be something "pison" about public service, which saps the energy of workers and atrophies their sense of duty. It is seen not only in gangs of laborers on the roads, but in public officials of, supposedly, higher rank, certainly those drawing much bigger pay. Some public servants.—President Coolidge for one outstanding example,—seems to see in public service a call to unremitting work for the public's behoof. But the vast majority, congressmen, legislators, and so on down to gravel shovellers on the highway, act as if "public office was a private snap."

"Politics," you say. No, it isn't politics; it's the general apathy and don't care-a-damn-ativeness of the electorate which is too lazy to keep the scum from rising to the top and too engrossed in its own private greeds to send the cream up, instead.

And right here comes in one notable difference between the days of dawdling on the roads, to which I have referred, and the present time. In those former days it was only when engaged in public service that they shirked. At their own jobs, whether farmer, carpenter, blacksmith, mason, ditch-digger or harvest hand, they work, like the Old Scratch. Worked hard, worked long hours, and worked the best they knew how.

But at present their sons and grandsons are just as willing to lie down on a private job as on one for the public,—if they think they can "get away with it." What is the greatest hindrance to successful farming today? Simply the absolute impossibility of finding "hired men" who are competent, industrious and faithful. I have "interviewed" dozens of good farmers in the last few years, trying to find out why they were letting fields grow up to bushes and their barns tumble down. And, in every single case, the answers have reported their inability to get help to carry on the work.

Some had tried the experiment of bringing out jobless laborers from the over-crowded city to find them invariably incompetent and unreliable and vastly more concerned about their wages than their work. Others had taken on applicants who appeared at their doors with hard-luck stories only to find, very quickly, that these self-styled lookers for work were merely hunting "hand-outs" and chances to "crib" some "swag."

In other words, farmers who attempt really to work their farms find themselves unable to get the necessary assistance at any wage rate their markets will enable them to pay. Even the foreigner, just landed, who has never before got over fifty cents for a long day's hard work, and who can't tell the difference between "Gee" and "Haw," wants four dollars a day in money and a couple of dollars more in board. For it is always noticeable that the man who can't handle a pitchfork an hour without tiring out, can handle his table knife and fork with zeal, not to say ferocity. He can always eat like a hog, even when he can't work as well as a cat.

What's the remedy? Well, there isn't any specific. We might as well accept that as a fact. Our only hope lies in the long, slow, patience-wearing process of education. And by that I don't mean educating boys to be presidents or bankers or white-collar men, but educating them to the knowledge that work and service are the two greatest blessings and opportunities ever offered the human race. Educating them into the conviction that what they DO is about ten millions times more important than what they GET. Educating them, not into any cheap acceptance of the theory that "honesty is the best policy," but into a sincere conviction that honesty, whether of speech or of deed is, in itself, its own reward.

Nor is this so utterly hopeless as it may seem. The good housewife needs but a very small proportion of yeast to leaven a big lump of dough.

The human race isn't wholly com-posed of dolts and shirks and greedy-guts,—though, at times, it sartinly does look as if a majority would fall into one or the other of those classifications! There is a saving amount of leaven in the dough of humanity; there are still enough real men, virile, upstanding, full-brained men to ferment the mass into worth-while bread. But that potentially powerful leaven has got to take hold of its task and set to work sending aerifying bubbles out and up.

If you, esteemer reader, are just a chunk of dead dough, I have no message for you. But if, more likely, you are a fragment off the original good yeast-cake, your part in the bread-making is assigned to you.

It isn't easy to lighten the mass; it isn't the matter of a minute; it can't be done in one single mighty heave. But, if you're really yeast, that won't trouble you. You'll just keep at your job, in darkness or in light, through failure as steadily as through success, no more uplifted by popular approval than depressed by mob vilification.

The way to bring the millenium is not to wait for it but to work for it.

THE FARMER.

GERMAN COALITION PARTIES TO MEET TODAY

Wiemar, April 2.—(By the A. P.)—The German coalition parties have agreed to meet tomorrow to decide definitely upon Dr. Wilhelm Marx, ex-chancellor, as their joint candidate for the presidency, to succeed the late President Ebert. The national conservative bloc will await the arrival of Dr. Karl Jarres from Duisburg Friday, for an ultimate decision on him as their presidential candidate.

In the Prussian diet, the social democrats and the centrists have come to an agreement to support the socialist, Otto Braun, as their joint candidate for the Prussian premiership. The democrats are withholding their decision until tomorrow morning. BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Great News From the Old Pasture

When once the truth you clearly see,
How quick suspicions are to flee.
—Old Mother Nature.

There was great news from the Old Pasture. Yes, sir, there was great news from the Old Pasture. Sammy Jay had discovered Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown driving up there with what at first Sammy thought was a wagon load of pine branches. But when Farmer Brown saw him carefully spread out the roots, and then pack in the earth all around them. When he was through there stood a tiny pine tree where before there had been one of those holes. Farmer Brown did the same thing with another little tree.

Then Sammy Jay understood why the brush and the brambles had been cut and burned and why all those little holes had been dug. He was too excited to wait to see more. Away he flew as fast as his wings could take him. Peter Rabbit was the first one he saw. Peter was sitting on the edge of the dear Old Briar Patch.

"Farmer Brown's Boy hasn't spoiled the Old Pasture!" cried Sammy excitedly. "It's going to be a better place than it ever was before. There's going to be another Green Forest there."

"How do you know?" demanded Peter.

"Because Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown are up there this very minute, putting little pine trees in all those holes. Those trees will grow and grow, and some day they'll be big trees, and there'll be a wonderful Green Forest there. Isn't that great news?" cried Sammy.

Peter wabbled his wabbly little nose thoughtfully. He scratched a long ear with a long hind foot. He scratched the other long ear with the other long hind foot. But he said nothing.

"Well," demanded Sammy Jay, "don't you think that is great news?"

"I like the bushes and the brambles best, myself," grunted Peter.

Sammy Jay tossed his head. "Everybody to his own taste," said he. "Give me the Green Forest every time. Anyway, there are plenty of brambles still left in parts of the Old Pasture. I know a lot of other people who will be glad, even if you are not."

Sammy flew straight over to the Green Forest, and there he found Mrs. Grouse. As soon as she heard the news Mrs. Grouse did a funny little dance. "Splendid!" she cried. "I just knew that Farmer Brown's Boy wouldn't do anything so dreadful as to spoil the Old Pasture. When those trees get a little bigger it will be a wonderful place."

Buster Bear and Lightfoot the Deer were equally delighted. Chatterer the Red Squirrel had to go up there right away, to find out if it were true. My, how fast the news did spread! It was the best news for a long time, for all the little people knew what more Green Forest meant greater protection for them. Yes, sir, it certainly was great news.

WESTMINSTER

The texts used at morning worship Sunday were "Without Me ye can do nothing," and "In Me is thy strength." Theme—Our Dependence Upon God.

In accord with Governor Trumbull's proclamation, on Friday, April 10, there will be held a gathering of all who wish thus "to solemnly re-dedicate themselves to those high spiritual principles of service and sacrifice without the inspiration of which no nation can long endure," to be held at the temporary parsonage—the Coulter house—at 10.30 a. m.

The Wednesday prayer topic, The Passion of Our Savior, St. Luke 22: 39-46 and 23:33-49, especially considering the Principle of the Innocent Suffering for the Guilty, and the Power of Self-sacrifice.

A large number from this section attended the Babcock auction, unprecedentedly large in numbers, Tuesday of last week.

After ten days of his three months' leave had expired, Earle MacLeod had a telegram calling him to a different position in Tarrytown, N. Y., and accepted, making his home with an aunt and uncle.

A farewell surprise party, originated by Mrs. Byron Bingham and Miss Dorothy Miller, was given Harold Olsen at his home on the eve of his leaving for Milford, Pa., where he joins his brother, Ralph, is working on the development in charge of William Johnston of this place. About 35 relatives, neighbors and near friends were present, including Mrs. Walter Marcotte of Bridgeport, a sister, and his sister, Miss Anna Olsen of East Hartford and Westminster. A delightful time with choice refreshments was reported.

Miss Ruth Davis' sister was substitute at North Society school last week Thursday.

Special One Dollar X-Ray Examination

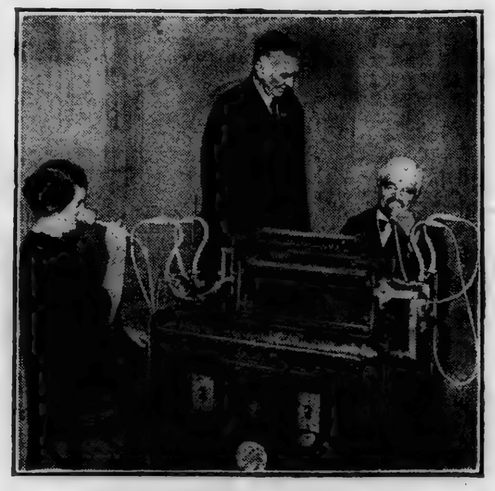
Entire Building, Just Behind the State Capitol and Known as the Old Brainard Mansion, 85 Washington Street, Hartford, Conn., Devoted to This Coming Form of Treatment.

The reason a great many people continue to suffer year after year, trying first one treatment, then another, and never getting any better, is that nobody ever found the real cause of their diseases. They are struggling in the dark against the hidden forces of disease.

All authorities agree that X-Ray is one of the greatest blessings ever given to mankind. It is a marvelous instrument in the alleviation of human pains and ills, because finding the cause of disease is half the battle. Without the X-Ray it is virtually impossible to locate the exact cause of many chronic ills and ailments.

During the next seven days we offer consultation, advice and examination, including a fluroscopic X-Ray examination and blood pressure test for only $5.00 and if treatment is started at once the charge for the complete examination is but $1.00. During this offer we are arranging our terms for treatment so low that any discouraged woman or man in the city or vicinity should be able to have the benefit of these wonderful inventions of medical science.



TREATMENT FOR ASTHMA

Neurasthenia NERVE EXHAUSTION

(The Great American Disease)

There are numberless people who do not call themselves sick, and yet they feel nervous, weak, languid and tired most of the time. They have no ambition or endurance in work—everything they attempt is an effort. Life to them appears as a long, gloomy future. Their appetite is poor and variable; they become irritable, cross and discouraged. They have pains and aches in various parts of the body, and there is often indigestion, belching of gas, pains in the stomach present. Sleepless, wakeful and restless nights follow. They become drowsy after meals and the brain tires easily.

The Victor Health Office is brought in daily contact with so many of these sufferers that they are firmly convinced that they are most eminently qualified to advise, direct and treat such cases. Wonderful results are being given every day to those unfortunates suffering from this disease.

Diseases of the Stomach and Digestive Organs

Natural methods as advocated by The Victor Health Office act directly and are the new—the natural—the scientific way for the alleviation of many stomach and liver complaints.

As administered by the Victor Health Office this new method of treatment helps banish in a remarkably short time many stomach troubles such as nausea, vomiting, belching up of gas, light-headedness, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, pain in the stomach and bowels, sick headache, biliousness, fickle appetite, rushing of blood to the head, dizziness, fainting, gnawing sensation in the stomach and many other symptoms that the stomach sufferer alone knows.

Bronchial, Asthmatic and Catarrhal Troubles

In the Treatment of the Above Complaints the Method of the Victor Health Office Has Met With Remarkable Success.

Asthma, Bronchial troubles and catarrhal complaints are ailments over which drugs have but little effect and should not be expected to accomplish much. The modern treatment of today, and one that has proven highly successful in the treatment of scores of cases is that as administered by the Victor Health Office.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

In correcting High Blood Pressure the Victor Office methods have met with unfailing success. With that wonderful instrument, the sphygmomanometer, they are enabled to detect the exact pressure of each patient and where an abnormal condition is found the auto-condensation treatment is applied—pleasant and soothing—and reducing the blood pressure at least five to twenty points in a single treatment.

Sciatica, Neuritis and Rheumatism

If you are a sufferer from sciatica, neuritis or rheumatism, you will be surprised at the instant relief afforded through Natural Methods. The Victor Health Office has accepted for treatment such sufferers who previously had tried every form of treatment and medication at their command and have given them welcomed relief and eventually restored them to vigorous health.

Diseases Successfully Treated by Victor Health Office

Among the ailments treated by our natural methods are anemia, asthma, biliousness, bladder and blood troubles, bronchitis, bowel trouble, catarrh, cystitis, constipation, ear troubles, dyspepsia, eczema, female troubles, gastritis, hysteria, headaches, heartburn, intestinal troubles, insomnia, kidney trouble, liver complaints, nervous debility, hemorrhoids or piles, psoriasis, rectal trouble, rheumatism, stomach trouble and other affections of men and women.

The office hours announced are Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.; Wednesday and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8 p. m.; and Sunday 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

WESTERLY

When a Ford touring car, No. 444,-921 Mass., was reported to Westerly Patrolman George H. Champlin as having stood on Canal street nearly under the railroad bridge all night, he started to investigate. Searching the auto he found that the engine number had been filed off and the dashboard plate obliterated. Further investigation showed a dance ticket of last November on a Boston dance hall. Officer Champlin telephoned Boston police on this clue. The report was first received that no automobile of the description had been reported missing, but later word was received that a car which answered the description had been stolen from Cambridge, Mass., Wednesday afternoon and a later telephone call would give more information.

Late Wednesday afternoon two young men were reported as being seen leaving the automobile which Thursday morning showed the gas tank to have been low. All the rest of the equipment of the automobile was in better than average condition. Under the direction of the Westerly police department the car was towed to the Rhode Island garage to await developments.

Built by the firm of Peck & McWilliams of Norwich, the Atlantic Beach casino, owned and run by Harry Trefes and C. R. Johnson for the past five years, was sold Thursday to Holden P. Ballou and Raymond Holcombe of Hartford. The new owners plan to make a number of improvements for the coming season.

As editor-in-chief of The Senior, the monthly publication of the senior class of the Westerly High schools, for the 1924-25, Miss Frances Perry was named by Principal Laura E. McIntire Thursday. The other members of the senior board for next year have been chosen as follows: Assistant editor, Harold Nicholas; athletics, Walter Dabrowski; alumni, Annette Kenyon; alumni assistant, Susan Brucker; literary, Myrtle Evans; literary assistants, Julia Stahle, Honor Randall and Virginia Davis; art, competitive; Tattles, Sylvia Rinne and Ruth Briggs; exchanges, Mildred Bray; school notes, Sophia Williamson and Marjorie Chapman; business manager, Libero Prestini; assistant business managers, Lloyd Briggs, Donald Whitford and Harry Lawton; subscription manager, Harold Ribner; assistant subscription managers, Louis Giuliano, Irving Silverstein and Charles Campbell.

The Taming of the Shrew, in three acts and four scenes was ably presented before an audience that taxed the capacity of Westerly High school auditorium, Thursday evening. The cast was made up of some 25 members of the class of 1925, who have been under the direction and supervision of Mrs. John Champlin, Jr. Following was the cast:

Attendants: Mary Wylie, Carrie Pandolfo, Mary Smith, Westerlina De Blois, Gordon Fiddes, James Brindle, Robert Sawyer and Louis Kaplan.

Act I. Baptista's Garden.
Act III. Hall in Petruchio's Home.

Scenery, stage and lighting effects were by art art and stage directors, Herman Itchkawitch and Frederick Panciera.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Everson and daughter Evelyn, having stopped off in Westerly for several days' visit with friends while returning north by automobile from a winter's visit at Tangerine, Fla., return today (Friday) to their summer home at South Hanson, Mass.

Miss Gladys Case, of Fair Haven, Mass., is having two weeks' vacation from school duties at a business college and is the guest of the family of Oliver F. Lincoln, in Westerly.

Large piles of lumber, in preparation for putting in the foundation of the new theater on Canal street by Samuel Nardone, have been unloaded on the High street side of the lot at the corner of Canal and High streets.

Mrs. C. Mallory Williams of Stonington was a Westerly visitor Thursday.

Frank L. Furness of Pawcatuck returned Wednesday evening from a business visit in Boston.

Mrs. Clayton A. Burdick of Westerly was a Providence visitor Thursday.

Word received from Henry Hughes in Tampa, Fla., March 30th, was to the effect that the "general" had passed a most enjoyable winter in the south, having gone there early in the season from his Westerly home.

Peter M. Rose was able to be out Thursday, following a short illness.

William Ahern of Pawcatuck was a business caller in Narragansett, on Thursday.

Dr. Thomas E. Robinson was a North Stonington visitor Wednesday night.

MYSTIC

The April meeting of the D. A. R. was held Wednesday in Masonic temple. Mrs. Marie Dickinson and Mrs. Addie Batty reported for the state meeting which they attended in Ansonia last week. Mrs. Dickinson gave a most interesting talk on the business transacted, saying: "We have 53 chapters, with 6125 members, $27,-247.46 was raised during the year. It is proposed to raise the fee to join from $5 to $10 and Connecticut is not in favor. When a person joins she is obliged to pay the dues for a year in advance, so that it will make it so expensive that fewer will join. It is also proposed to raise the dues $1 more for every member and then each will receive the monthly magazine. This will be voted on in Washington. The things reported on was Americanization and the state chairman, Miss Street, paid a high tribute to Parent-Teachers associations which are aiding in this important work. "Better Films" report told of the Yale university press film service that has planned 'Chronicles of America" and about half of it is completed. Conservation and Thrift—50 acres have been purchased at Haddamsted; Continental Hall library, correct use of the flag, Ellis Island, genealogical research, historical and literary reciprocity. The manual is published in 11 languages at an enormour expense and 127,000 copies were distributed at Ellis Island and aboad steamers. Connecticut has two real Daughters, Mrs. Angeline Loring Avery of Willimantic and Mrs. Sarah Bosworth Bradway, of Eastford. The state has had 30 in all but this is all that are living. All real Daughters receive a small pension from the national society.

Other subjects reported were memorial to Mrs Caroline Scott Harrison first president-general national old trails road patriotic education, Philippine scholarship, preservation of historic spots, legislation, Revolutionary relics, publicity through the press.

Mrs Batty reported for the social side and gave a report of the masterful address of Rev. Clinton Wunder, pastor of the Baptist temple, Rochester, N. Y., subject, The Soul of America. She said he was rightly named wonder. She read from the paper excerpts which gave some idea of what a bright speaker he is. He spoke of the seaople that attend his service—3000—and they are from the most tristocratic to the lowest, and his aim is to uplift, befriend them and restore them to good citizenship, as some are from descendants of those who came over on the Mayflower. He has recently visited the White House and the president gave him a message for his people, in Rochester. At close of the reports Mrs. Ralph Wheeler played two selections and Mrs. Joseph Johnson and Mrs. Thomas Trevena the duet, Whispering Hope. Refreshments were served.

Miss Constance Rathbun of Westerly was a guest this week of her grandmother, Mrs. Warren Rathbun.

William Noble has returned to Malden, Mass., after a visit with his sister, Mrs. Eugene Wilcox.

Mrs. Mary B. Johnson and two children of Stamford have been visitors here this week.

Jack Macy has gone to Moosup where he has secured employment.

J. M. Buchanan of Norwich has been a business caller here.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Evans of Westfield, N. J. called on relatives here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jennings and family of Deep River have been recent visitors here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coogan and three children, Mrs. Martha Morgan and S. J. Carr returned Wednesday evening from Florida where they spent the winter touring the state during the time

The exclusive "ambs" club, of New York, organization of actors and other folk of the stage world, has raised an issue within its own doors as to whether tradition shall be violated by allowing women to participate in the annual spring frolic.

FRIEND SAVED MRS. WILHELMY

"Overwork, worry, no appetite, no sleep, I looked like a corpse," says Mrs. Mary Wilhelmy of St. Paul, Minn., "and to add to my troubles my physician advised an operation. A friend, however, asked me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and you should see the improvement. I eat well, sleep well, have gained in weight and strength and feel fine." That is what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Wilhelmy, and it will do as much for any suffering woman.

CONSTIPATION means MISERY

Rouge and powder will not cover up the effects of constipation. The bowels are the worst abused and most variously damaged of any organ of the body. When they are clogged, they cause lusterless eyes, dingy complexions, pimples and blackheads, bad breath, headache, bilious attacks, heart burn, acid stomach, belching, depression, nervous exhaustion, chronic weakness and other more serious ills. The bowels should act at least twice daily.

Dr. Caldwell's
SYRUP PEPSIN
The Family Laxative

—will produce proper bowel action and insure a healthy condition so Nature can exercise her proper function. A delightful liquid combination of Egyptian senna, pepsin and pleasing aromatics originally prescribed by Dr. Caldwell for ailing patients of his extensive practice and used nationally for the last 30 years by all members of the family.

Acts As Nature Acts! No Inconveniences!

It does not act as a purge, forcing the bowels to artificial action, but gently and easily, without pain or discomfort. 10,000,000 bottles used annually prove its effectiveness. Old people, young people, children and babies can be kept in perfect health through its use.

It is sold everywhere medicine is sold—and guaranteed. Try it at our risk. Your druggist will return your money if it fails to do as promised.

COAST GUARDSMAN, SHOT FROM RUNBOAT DIES IN NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—Carl Gustafson, 32, United States Coast Guard, assigned to duty aboard the CG-237, one of the several government's fleet of revenue cutters, patrol boats and destroyers, stationed at this port in an endeavor to suppress the great amount of transportation of liquor through Block Island, Fishers Island and Long Island sounds, was fatally wounded this morning, off Race Rock lighthouse by a bullet which, it is believed, was sent through his body by one of the crew of a rum-boat that was proceeding through Long Island sound under cover of darkness and without lights being displayed. Gustafson was shot down while he was in charge of his boat and endeavoring to locate the craft that undoubtedly was transporting a cargo of liquor from the rum-supply fleet off Montauk Point to New York.

The bullet entered Gustafson's abdomen and passed out of the hip, the leaden missile causing such a wound that the man died at Lawrence hospital, four hours after he was admitted to that institution.

Gustafson became semi-conscious immediately after he was wounded and was unable to make a statement. He had been in the federal service several years and at the time of his enlistment he gave his home address as 25 South street, New York, which is a seaman's lodging house.

The CG-237 went to the waters adjacent to this port late yesterday and throughout last night the craft, together with other rum-chasers, scoured the sounds for craft that might take on a supply at Rum Row, where about eight supply ships are at anchor. Shortly after 1 o'clock Gustafson, who was in charge of the CG-237, having assumed command when Chief Boatswain's Mate J. M. Gray, went below and entered his bunk, detected the sound of a motor, but peering into the darkness, he failed to observe the front or stern, lights, nor sidelights of any moving craft, yet the whirring of the motor could be easily heard. Heading his craft in a southeasterly direction, Gustafson attempted to bring the CG-237 within hailing distance othe supposed rum-runner, but he failed to observe the power boat.

When off Race Rock and still peering into the darkness, a shot suddenly was heard and in another moment Gustafson dropped to the deck of his boat partially unconscious. Other members of the crew who were on duty and who had heard the shot, ran to the bow bf the CG-237 and found Gustafson on the deck. Boatswain's Mate Gray was aroused from sleep and acquainted of the shooting of Gustafson. The former immediately took command of the patrol boat and headed her for New London harbor, reaching port shortly after 2 o'clock. The CG-237 was moored at the municipal wharf and a physician summoned to administer first aid treatment.

In the meantime the police had been notified and Patrolmen William Riordan and John Clifford conveyed Gustafson to the hospital, where he lingered until about 6 o'clock.

It is believed that the crew of the rum-runner had detected the CG-237 searching the waters of the sound in the vicinity of Race Rock light and when they realized that the crew of the patrol boat was searching for the liquor-laden craft, one of the crew of the motor boat waited his opportunity and in cover of darkness caught sight of Gustafson as the patrol boat approached the location where the rum-runner was endeavoring to make a get-away, Gustafson forming a good target for the fire of the rum-running crew. One of the crew took aim and the bullet from either a 38 calibre revolver or a rifle entered the body of Gustafson.

Since the government has issued orders to put a stop to the transportation of liquor in and about this port and with some of the rum-chasers firing shots at rum-craft that attempted to escape, it is not a surprise that fire was opened upon the crew of the government craft, for such an opinion has openly been expressed of late, it being stated that a rum-runner would not stop at using firearms if fired upon.

The death of Gustafson has been reported to the treasury department at Washington. What steps will be taken in the future to prevent a recurrence of today's tragedy is not known.

A touring car owned by Nathaniel H. Avery, Groton Long Point, until recently a resident of New London was stolen from State street late last night. The authorities, together with the police at the Groton and Centerbrook barracks, the police of Norwich, Hartford, New Haven, have been requested to be on the lookout for the stolen machine. Avery operated the automobile to New London and parked the machine near the Thames club. After absenting himself for some time, Mr. Avery returned to where he had left the machine only to find that it had been stolen.

Another supernumerary police officer has been assigned to duty by Captain Charles A. Pinney, H. C. Sylvia. The assignment of the added officer is due to the annual vacations of the patrolmen having started. Sylvia will be kept on duty until the latter part of the year. The officers now on their annual vacations are Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Traffic Officer John Courtney. Sylvia has been assigned to a night beat on Montauk avenue and intersecting streets.

The New London police have been requested to maintain a lookout for Bruno Mullen, 16, of Manchester, who ran away from his home yesterday as the youth had signified his intention of joining the navy and it was believed he might come to New London for that purpose. He is described as having light hair and light complexion. When he left from home the youth had a brown sweater and light cap.

The funeral of Benjamin K. Allen, formerly of Hartford, whose death occurred in this city Monday, following an illness of seven months, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence of Charles Prentice, 279 Huntington street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Saybrook.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of Mrs. Victoria Kosky, 25 Cedar street, to be suspended.

Miss Elsie Jackson, of Niantic; Mrs. William Bailey, Waterford; Ernest Norris, U. S. S. Downes; Edmund Roberts, Mystic; Thomas May, Ocean avenue; Leo Whouley, U. S. S. Jouett, and Miss Mariam Corcoran, teacher in the public schools and daughter of Patrolman and Mrs. Michael Corcoran of Crystal avenue, who underwent a serious operation recently, were patients dismissed today at Lawrence hospital.

Reuben Lubchansky, local junkman, will be in the police court tomorrow morning charged by his wife with non-support. Lubchansky and his wife recently became estranged and the former is accused since that time of having refused to pay for the support of his wife. Today Mrs. Lubchansky lodged complaint against her husband with Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky, with the result that that official caused Captain Charles A. Pinney to order Lubchansky into court this being done by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray.

Alfred Coit, Ellen Coit, Fannie Coit and Charlotte Coit Peck today sold three parcels of land on Montauk avenue to Joseph A. St. Germain. The price paid was $22,000. It is understood that Mr. St. Germain will cause several dwellings to be erected upon the sites.

Mary E. Bragaw has sold two building lots, corner of Ocean avenue and Faire Harbour place, to Michael R. Schwartz.

The deed transfering the residence 57 Bellevue place, owned by Mrs. Carrie Ramage, to Attorney Morris B. Lubchansky, was received for record at the office of the city clerk this afternoon. The price paid was $11,000.

William Caird, a boy, residing with his parents, 203 Colman street, who last Monday was struck by an automobile, owned by Mrs. Bertha Barclay, wife of George Barclay, Jefferson avenue, and driven by James Telford, 350 East 166th street, New York, has sustained much more serious injury than was at first believed. It has been ascertained at Lawrence hospital that since the boy was admitted to the institution for treatment he has a fractured skull. When the child was admitted it was thought that the injuries consisted only of contusions and abrasions. As a result of the seriousness of the child's condition, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky this afternoon instructed Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney, to have an investigation made, to determine just what caused the child to be struck by the automobile. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray is conducting the investigation.

Telford, who was arrested following the accident for not having a Connecticut operator's license, although he held a license of New York issue, stated that the accident occurred when he was driving through Lincoln avenue. At the corner of Connecticut avenue, the child, who had been to the rear of an ice wagon, suddenly darted to the middle of the highway, apparently to reach the opposite side of the street and ran directly in front of the automobile, which the child had not seen approaching. The youth was hurled to the highway. He was taken to the hospital by Telford.

Carl Carlson, a youth in the coast guard service, may congratulate himself today that he was not severely handled when he was arrested last evening for his insulting and violent action toward a police officer. Carlson went to the Capitol theatre very much under the influence of liquor. He was with a companion who was also intoxicated. At the door they were refused admission and were escorted to the ticket office where the money they paid for admission was refunded to them. This was not to the liking of Carlson, a boy of 18 years who came from Boston two months ago. He expressed himself forcefully and in vile and abusive language. Then he was ordered to run along and proceeded to do so, but he went only about 200 feet away from the theatre entrance where he showered abuse of even a more offensive nature on Officer William Manice, who was dealing with him. The policeman then went after Carlson and got him. The pair scuffled and the officer slipped and struck his head against an automobile which was parked at the curbing. He got up and grappled with Carlson. Officer Braxton Hill appeared and Carlson was hurried to the lockup. He thus avoided an application of the night stick of the policeman. Today he had no defense to offer for his conduct except the one that he would not have behaved as he did if he was not intoxicated That was taken for the truth by the court. Carlson was fined $10 and he was given an opportunity to pay in installments. It turned out that he had overstayed his leave from the coast guard station, and for that he will be punished there.

John H. Kelly, 69, Groton assessor, died this morning at his home, High street, Noank, after an illness of several weeks. He is survived by a son, George H. Kelly, of Somerville, Mass., a step-son, Frank M. Lanphear, 62 Gorton street, this city; a daughter, Miss Millicent Kelly, Noank; two sisters, Mrs. Charles Pigeon, Holliston, Mass., and Mrs. Elias Copp, St. Johns, N. B., and two brothers, Michael Kelly, St. Martin, New Brunswick, and Geo. Kelly, Orsego, N. Y.

New London property owners are to pay a tax rate of 26 1-2 mills on the dollar next July. That rate was fixed tentatively this afternoon at 5 o'clock when a special meeting of the city council was held to listen to the first reading of the ordinance providing for a budget for the year beginning with the first of October last. Some amendments were made transfearing money from one fund to another, but the amount of the budget as completed was not changed. The rate is the same as prevailed in 1924.

Loring Underwood of Boston, author of several books on gardening, talked on "Old New England Gardens" at the Women's National Republican club in New York Wednesday afternoon. His talk was illustrated by pictures of gardens, among them that of Henry W. Longfellow, which now belongs to his daughter. Mr. Longfellow gave the same lecture here this evening at Bulkeley auditorium for the New London Garden club and friends.

STATE DEPT RECEIVED A NOTE FROM PERU

Washington, April 3—The Peruvian embassy presented a note to the state department late today having to do with President Coolidge's recent arbitral award in the Tacna-Arica dispute between that nation and Chile.

The communication was delivered shortly before six o'clock and state department officials refused to make any part of it public in the absence of Secretary Kellogg.

Whenever a man fails in an undertaking he attributes it to fate.

HOUSE PASSES BILL FOR HIGHWAY SURVEY BY HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 3—The committee on Cities and Boroughs and Finance today devoted the entire morning to Bridgeport matters. The appropriations committee held no hearings, but were in executive session as they will be for three days next week. They are considering the maintenance appropriations that are asked for the state institutions. They expect to report on these matters within a short time. On Wednesday the Judiciary committee will have before them bills concerning salaries of officers of the courts of the state. This includes, salaries of judges of superior and supreme courts, judges of courts of common pleas in New London, New Haven and Fairfield counties, clerks of supreme and superior courts, messengers, and stenographers.

Sessions four days a week have been the rule but is considered by the house leaders that the business before the assembly is in such a position that three days a week will suffice for its transaction. Friday sessions have never been popular and several times lately if a roll call had been made it would have disclosed a lack of a quorum and adjournment would have followed. Just before adjournment, Rev. Chandler arose and said that all work and no play was harmful and read resolutions on the chairmen of the various committees.

Among the bills taken from the calendar and passed today is one concerning the practice of dentistry. Section 2497 of the General Statutes which concerns the practice of dentistry is amended in a bill. It provides for the employment of women as assistants to a licensed practitioner, and the conduct of dental offices.

Senate

The senate was called to order at 11:00 by Lieutenant Governor Brainerd.

The committee on railroads reported favorably on senate bill No. 516 repealing section 3758 of the general statutes concerning fares on Sunday trains.

Section 3758 provides that no railroad company shall carry passengers on Sunday trains for less than the regular fare collected on week days.

The bill was tabled for calendar.

The committee on railroads reported a substitute bill to senate bill No. 616 concerning the operation of Sunday trains. The substitute reads: "No railroad company shall run any train on any road operated by it within this state between sunrise and sunset on Sunday provided it may run trains carrying the United States mails or perishable freight and such other trains or classes of trains as may be authorized by the public utilities commission." The substitute bill amends section 3755 of the public acts. The substitute was tabled for calendar.

Senator Pierson offered an amendment to the bill relating to the operation of restaurants to limit its application to place where eight or more persons are employed. The bill and amendments were tabled.

The senate adjourned to Friday at 1 p. m.

The House

Speaker Darbie called the house to order today at 11:30. Chaplain Lewis offered prayer and made supplication that effort might be given to Judge Peters of Mansfield, a member of the house whose son met with a painful accident Wednesday.

Remodeled house bill No. 195, concerning the powers and the duties of the tax commissioner, which has been reborn of some of its more drastic provisions, came back from the committee on finance today with a favorable report and was tabled for calendar and printing.

Upon adverse report from the committee on labor the house rejected bill No. 9 allowing the employment of women in ice cream parlors until 11 o'clock at night.

Bill No. 478, providing that auctioneer's licenses be issued by the state treasurer was rejected on unfavorable report from the judiciary committee.

Prayers which rang through the hall of the house of representatives today were the "aye" votes of the members accepting the committee reports and rejecting the fifty or more senate bills restoring certificates to deposed doctors.

The house also passed bill No. 933, prohibiting any person, firm or corporation from excavating within or under or place any obstruction or substruction within, under, upon or over any trunk line or state aid highway without the written permission of the highway commissioner. All such encroachments now existing must be removed by the parties making or maintaining them within thirty days from the date when notified by the commissioner.

Bills passed from the calendar: No. 407, requiring practitioners of optometry to have a certificate from the Connecticut state board of examiners in optometry; senate bill No. 511, concerning certificates for dental hygienist and prohibiting widow of dnntist or administrator from conducting dental office for a period longer than one year following the decease of such licensed dentist.

House Leader Alling in moving adjournment today until tomorrow gave the members to understand this was the last time this session that he would move for a Friday session.

A revision and codification of the fish and game laws was reported today by the committee on fish and game and the bill was tabled for calendar and printing. It is voluminous of course and it provides for the appointment of a state game warden at a salary of not more than $3,000 a year; it raises the hunting license fee to $2 and the angler's license to $2, for residents in both instances, and to $10 for non-residents; it requires hunters to wear a license tag in the shape of a button while hunting. The bill provides for a combination hunting and fishing license at $3.50 for residents and $11 for non-residents. Incorporated in the codification is the bill authorizing the leasing of streams and lakes by the state board of fisheries and game, and giving that board control of the fishing in leased waters. The bill also incorporates the provision that the state board may issue a permit to a property ofner to use a rifle to kill deer which does damage. Regulations as to perch fishing, lobsters, etc., are also in the bill. The measure is expected to cause much debate on the floor of the house.

Mrs. Lewis of Stratford called from the table house bill No. 543, providing that budgets of expenditures prepared by school committees and boards of education shall be submitted to the boards of finance two months before the annual meeting at which the appropriations are to be made. The bill was passed.

Bills favorably reported and tabled for calendar: Roads, bridges and rivers, No. 918, prohibiting unauthorized "stop," "danger" and warning signs on highways; judiciary, No. 927, consolidating the dairy and food commission and department of agriculture and providing for the appointment of commissioner of agriculture; banks, No. 95, providing for loans to members of building and loan associations not to exceed 80 per cent. of the appraised value of real estate or of his own shares.

The proposed constitutional amendment providing that each town shall have at least one representative in the general assembly and designed entirely to provide representation for the town of West Haven, was favorably reported today and tabled for calendar and printing.

A bill providing that undertakers and embalmers shall apply to the commissioner of health for licenses was favorably reported by the committee on public health and safety and was tabled for calendar. This committee also obtained the rejection of a couple of bills, one limiting drug stores to one for each 3,000 population and the other prohibiting the practice of pharmacy by practicing physicians.

Bills rejected on recommendation of the finance committee were concerning taxation of trustees, merchants and manufacturers; relieving the estate tax; and exempting soldiers' wives from taxation.

It is well enough for you to put your trust in Providence. But it's unwise to go around looking for holes for providence to pull you out of.

STREAM POLLUTION BILL HEARD BY COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 2—The old senate chamber was well filled this afternoon when the judiciary committee held a hearing on several stream pollution bills. Representative Wheeler withdrew three bills that he had introduced and offered a substitute. He reviewed previous legislation on this subject of the passage of the act passed in 1923 and which was vetoed by Governor Templeton. The Wheeler bill defines the pollution as domestic and industrial. While these court decisions as to industrial pollution there is no law as to the economic side of the question. He quoted from Governor Trumbull's inaugural address when he asked for consideration of the pollution of our streams. He said that continental countries had made great progress in this matter and had successfully solved many perplexing problems.

George B. Chandler, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, advocated the passage of a bill prepared by that body. It is essentially the same as the Wheeler bill except that it includes the municipalities of the state, in its provisions, which the Wheeler bill does not. The bill as a whole is more radical than that bill.

Among those urging the passage of some form of bill that prevents pollution were John H. Buck, attorney for the Manufacturer's association of Connecticut and David C. Decker of Norwalk, Mr. Decker is a large oyster grower and packer. He was opposed to the Chamber of Commerce bill as drawn. The discussion covered the economic, industrial and health features of the question and was ably presented. The Wheeler bill seemed to meet with more approval than any other.

CASE AGAINST LILLIAN GISH ABRUPTLY DISMISSED

New York, April 2—Federal Judge Mack today put a dramatic finis to the trial of a suit to compel Lillian Gish to make movies only for the company headed by Charles H. Duell.

The court abruptly halted the testimony of a witness, dismissed the suit, ordered grand jury proceedings aimed at Duell's indictment for perjury, and further recommended that steps be taken to disbar him from practice as an attorney.

The movie producer was ordered held in $10,000 bail for grand jury action on the court's charge of perjury. Later he was released without bail in the custody of his brother, who also is an attorney.

Judge Mack's action brought a gasp from a courtroom thronged with spectators. Duell flushed with consternation. Miss Gish didn't too khis way. She stared straight ahead, unsmiling.

Federal Attorney Bucker announced after a conference with Judge Mack that he would present the perjury charge against Duell to a grand jury next week.

The court said that with one or two exceptions he had never judged a case "of more flagrant, outrageous breach of trust and overreaching" or one involving "more downright perjury" than had been shown by Duell.

"The only possible doubt that the court ever entertained as to the willfulness of the perjury arose yesterday," said Judge Mack. "The doubt engendered was as to the possible enmity of any man who thought or could think that he could get away with the tissue of falsehoods that were attempted to be perpetrated on this court in the affidavits and in the testimony. That doubt as to sanity has not, however, become a conviction with the court. The witness (Duell) in other proceedings may endeavor to establish that insanity as a defense."

CONDEMNED CHILD LABOR CONDITIONS IN THE U. S.

Geneva, April 2—Child labor conditions in some sections of the United States were condemned today by labor members of the governing board of the inetrnational labor office, which opened a three days' session here.

Yan Oudegeest, president of the Dutch labor federation, and Leon Jauhaux of France, president of the general federation of labor, urged publication by the bureau of all possible information on conditions in America, expressing the belief that world public opinion thus could be brought to bear on the Americans and culminate in an improvement.

Albert Thomas, France, who is director general of the international labor organization, answering the laborite delegates, explained that the governing board had no right to interfere in what the United States government or state governments were doing on the labor question. He said, however, it was the bureau's duty to publish all statistical information because of its bearing on general industrial conditions. M. Thomas added that he already had requested the bureau's representative in Washington to collect and forward data.

The discussion of conditions in the United States was the sequence of the recent apparent rejection by the Americans of an amendment to the constitutino authorizing federal laws

CUSTOMS MAN BORROWED MONEY TO PAY DUTIES

New York, April 2—John P. O'Connora, deputy surveyor of customs, had to borrow $60 from his colleagues to pay duties when he and his wife landed today from a tour of the West Indies.

O'Connor had received "the courtesies of the port" where he landed on the Indies, but he found no free entry in his own home port.

Inspectors pounced upon his traps, examined everything, and demanded $60 in duties. O'Connor admitted he was a bit short of ready cash. The inspectors refused to lend him money or to accept his check.

For forty minutes O'Connor scurried about the dock trying to borrow the money. Then another deputy surveyor, James S. Long, took a collection of $10 each from his co-officials. O'Connor paid the duty demanded and was permitted to go home.

TO REGAIN HOME OF RED CROSS FOUNDER

Washington, April 2.—Possession of the Maryland home of the late Clara Barton, founder of the American Red Cross, will be regained by her secretary, Dr. Julien B. Hubbell, as a result of a court decision today holding that Mrs. Mabelle Rawson Hiron was without legal rights in the property.

Messages from the spirit world figures in the litigation, which extended over five years. Dr. Hubbell averred that Mrs. Hiron had represented that she would carry out a plan for a Barton memorial that would make the Maryland home a shrine to Clara Barton.

Dr. Hubbell told the court that he visited a medium here with Mrs. Hiron; that both accepted messages from the spirit world as authentic, and that Mrs. Hiron had claimed she had received personal communications from Miss Barton approving the plan.

Deeds to the property were conveyed to Mrs. Hiron.

Dr. Hubbell said she sold some of the land and that the memorial plan was forgotten.

Mrs. Hiron represented that she paid $10,000 under the agreement for the purchase of home and denied that she was a medium or believed in spiritualism.

EVIDENCE OF GENERAL STIMULUS IN AGRICULTURE

Washington, April 2—This is the "first spring in five years with any evidence of general stimulus in agriculture," the bureau of agriculture economics declared today in a report on the situation.

There are no big agricultural surplusses except in cattle, the report said, and "judging from the lessened population movement, an increased number of farmers apparently feel it financially safe to stay on the farms this spring."

"Returning strength in livestock prices is the most impressive of all the general signs," it declared.

Reviewing its recent intentions-to-plant report, which indicated that farmers contemplated increased acreages of important crops, the bureau repeated its warning that, "it seems doubtful if the general expansion of production contemplated by farmers would be to their best interests."

DESTROYER LOCATES PLANE ADRIFT AT SEA

San Diego, Calif., April 2—An airplane from the battleship Oklahoma, which left the North Island naval air station here at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon and failed to arrive at San Pedro, its destination, was found at sea together with two airmen, by the destroyer Sinclair today.

A radio message from the Sinclair, one of several warships sent in search of the lost airplane, said that Lieutenant W. N. Ugdegraff, the pilot, and another airman, whose name was not given, were uninjured and that the plane was undamaged. The airplane made a forced landing and remained on the water until the destroyer arrived.

WOMAN DIED FROM OVERDOSE OF OPIATE

Greenwich, Conn., April 2.—Mrs. Edith I. Thompson died today in her room at the Mary Ann inn here, from an overdose of an opiate. Medical Examiner John A. Vlark later pronounced death due to have been the result of premeditated suicide.

A note requested that her body be cremated and that the ashes be placed beside those of her mother.

Mrs. Thompson came here abou a year ago from California. It was said she had two sons living in Oklahoma, but the whereabouts of her husband, Charles Thompson, were unknown.

AMPHIBIAN AIRPLANE WAS TESTED AT ROOSEVELT FIELD

New York, April 2—An amphibian airplane designed by Capt. Charles Nungesser, French war ace, for wealthy commuters who prefer the freedom of the air to crowded automobile roads, was tested today at Roosevelt Field, Long Island. The results of the tests were said to have been entirely satisfactory.

The plane has a land chassis which can be drawn up when the landing is made on water. It carries three passengers and a pilot, has acruising speed of 73 miles an hour and a cruising radius of 300 miles.

FINANCING THE PURCHASE OF DODGE BROTHERS, INC.

New York, April 2—Some of the country's most powerful financial interests will be associated with Dillon, Read and Company in financing the purchase of Dodge Brothers, Inc., automobile manufacturers, for slightly less than $175,000,000 in cash.

Allied with Dillon, Read and company, in this connection will be Kuhn, Loab and company, the National City company, Blair and company, the Chase Securities Corporation and the Central Union Trust company, all of New York, and the First Trust and Savings company and the Continental and Commercial Trust and Savings company of Chicago.

More than $100,000,000 worth of stocks and bonds of the new Dodge company will be sold to the public. Although bankers have not yet decided on the total amount of financing, it was estimated in the financial district that by applying part of the Dodge cash reserves to the purchase price the public offering could be limited to about $125,000,000.

Dillon Read's winning bid for the dodge properties involved the payment of at least $30,000,000 for "good will," which is believed to be the largest price such an item has ever commanded in a cash transaction.

The General Motors Corporation, in its offer, was understood to have valued the Dodge company's "good will" at roughly $34,000,000, basing its estimate on plans to make Dodge a unit in its combination of motor companies.

SINGULAR SEQUEL TO CASE OF SURGERY AT SEA

New York, April 2—A strange sequel to a recent case of sea surgery was related today when Dr. M. S. Shaughnessy of Framingham, Mass., arrived from Bermuda on the Royal Mail liner Araguaya.

While the steamship was nearing Bermuda two weeks ago an emergency operation was performed to save the life of the ship's purser, Herbert Stoddard. Two passengers, Dr. M. E. Hundley of Martinsville, Va., and Dr. Shaughnessy operated.

A day after the ship reached Bermuda, Dr. Hundley became ill with intestinal trouble and now lies on a cot next to Stoddard in a Bermuda hospital, Dr. Shaughnessy reported.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKEA WAS IRREGULAR

New York, April 2—Stock prices turned reactionary today on selling inspired by a series of adverse news developments. These included another break in grain prices, which carried May wheat down more than six cents a bushel; the announcement of the French government's decision to increase its note circulation, the extension of crude oil price cuts and the reduction in the Great Northern ore dividend. The announcement of the reorganization plans of the Pan-American petroleum and Wilson Packing companies also proved disappointing to the speculative fraternity, which sold those stocks freely.

Closing quotations disclosed considerable irregularity, several of the popular industrials losing 2 to 3 1-2 points. Trading was again in moderate volume, the day's sales running just over a million shares.

Professional traders are reported to have sold stocks freely in order to test the technical condition of the market after the two day rally. United States Steel was hammered down to 124 and then rallied feebly, showing a net loss of 3 points on the day. Baldwin closed fractionally lower at 113 1-4 after selling between 111 1-4 and 114 1-2. American Can closed at 162, off 1 3-8. American Woolen was hammered down to a new low record for the year at 35 1-4 and then rallied to 37 off 1-2. The preferred touched a new low at 77 and then snapped back to 78 1-2, off 2 1-8.

Selling of the Pan-American issues reflected disappointment over the failure of the backers to give more definite information concerning the proposed offering of stocks of the new Pan-American Western Petroleum company, which is to take over the California properties. Pan-American A and B closed at 74 3-4 and 73 3-4, off 3-4 and 1 1-2, respectively. Wilson preferred was hammered down 6 points and the preferred corporates on the announcement that the reorganization plan provides that holders of the present preferred stock will be given new common stock in exchange. The common fell back more than one point to 7 7-8.

Marked weakness also was shown in American Tel. & Tel., Coca-Cola, Northern Pac., Lorillard, Gen. Asphalt, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Postum cereal and U. S. Rubber. Pipe off 2 to 7 points.

Independent strength was shown, however, by Nash Motors which advanced 3 points to 99 1-4 and Reo Motors, which reversed Tuesday's downward trend and closed 1 1-2 points higher at 13 1-4. Chrysler and American Locomotive common and preferred, Lee Rubber, Pierce Arrow preferred and Standard Milling, up 2 to 5 points.

Most of the rails moved within narrow and irregular limits, but good gains were recorded by Jersey Central, Lackawanna and Reading, which reversed Tuesday's downward trend and closed 1 1-2 points to 3 points higher. Pere Marquette, Chesapeake & Ohio and American Car & Foundry were also strong.

Call money renewed at 4 1-4 per cent., and then dropped to 3 1-2 with funds in the "outside" market quoted as low as 3 per cent. Time money rates reacted slightly with the passing of the quarterly payments, 60 to 90 day funds being available at 4 per cent., and the longer maturities at 4 1-4. The commercial paper market was quiet with no change in rates.

Foreign exchange rates were again slightly reactionary. Demand sterling ruled about 1-8 of a cent lower around $4.77 1-4. French francs reacted about 4 points to 5.19 cents against a high of 5.26 1-2 cents a few days ago, and then recovered about half of the day's loss. Moderate recessions were shown by most of the other European currencies.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 2—Bond prices held relatively steady today although trading was restricted somewhat by uncertainty over the policy re-discount rate to be followed by the federal reserve bank. The general belief that no change would be ordered at this time was confirmed when the banks' directors men after the close of the market.

Price fluctuations were narrow and generally somewhat irregular, with the heaviness of certain stocks contributing to reactions in the bonds of these companies, Wilson and company convertible issues rallied in the early dealings in response to the adjustment features provided under the reorganization plan, but the sharp break in the preferred stock subsequently carried the bonds to lower levels as well.

Mixed price changes marked trading in the railroad group. Moderate improvement of Southern Railway, Baltimore and Ohio, Northern Pacific, Iowa Central and "Katy" issues were Erie General 4s, Chicago and Alton 3 1-2s and New York Central 6s. The decline in the latter was attributed to the fact that bonds of this issue can no longer be converted in time to receive the May dividend on the exchanged shares. Approximately $17,500,000 of the bonds out of a $100,000,000 issue still remain unconverted.

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS
The auction season is now at hand, and our business has been for the past eighteen years selling public sales through the Eastern United States. Your Sale, Mr. Farmer, Administrator or Executor, no doubt represents the hard earned savings of a life time. Whether large or small, you can not afford to experiment with an inexperienced public sale crier, neither do the beneficiaries in an estate wish you to do so when it comes to the point of turning property, either real or personal, into cash.

GREENEVILLE

The Ladies' Aid Society of Greeneville Congregational church met in the Sunday school rooms Wednesday evening for a regular session with 35 of the members present. It being April first, the meeting took the form of a masquerade party. A general good time resulted. Each one present was supposed to do a stunt. The president of the society began the program by reading an original poem mentioning the name of each member and this was most cleverly done. Lively music by the Hungarian Band was the next feature. (This band was announced by the manager as having played before all the crowned heads of Europe.) It was right up to date. A selection on the cornet, "It Ain't Goin' T' Rain No More" was played with unusual sweetness, as was also the violin solo "The Last Rose of Summer." (The artists are open for engagements.) The next number was The Darktown Quartet, and very fine, the rendering of "John Brown's Body" delighting all, and the loud and prolonged applause called for another selection which was greatly appreciated. The dialog of a musical sketch, the singers being two of the most talented of the members, made a hit; it was a Scotch number and was called "When You Gone Awa', Jimmie" and was given in excellent voice—in fact melting the audience to tears. After the program all unmasked and there was a great deal of surprise and laughter. Fruit salad, sandwiches, cake and tea were served by the committee, Mrs. William Murphy, Mrs. Howard Spaulding and Mrs. Charles F. Sears.

TAFTVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gagnon and family of South B street have moved to Canada.

Scoutmaster Harold E. Linderson was in charge of the weekly meeting of Troop 3, Boy Scouts when they met in the recreation rooms of the Taftville Congregational church Thursday evening.

The members of Castle Perilous, K. of K. A., met Wednesday evening at the Taftville Congregational church. There was a short business session at which plans were made for two esquires to receive the accolade and be raised to knighthood at the next Feast of Pentecost. After the business session there were the usual games in the recreation rooms in the basement of the church building.

Lewis A. Tillinghast has been confined to his home on North Third avenue by a hard cold.

The regular weekly meeting of the A-O-wa-ki-ya Camp Fire Girls was omitted this week.

Very few trophies have as yet been brought back to the village to prove the skill of the angler, now that the trout season has opened. Good trout brooks are few and far between and those who discover the good spots are not making any one a present of the information. Local dealers report that the sale of fishing tackle was fairly brisk, and although many were known to have sallied forth to try their hand at casting, only six speckled beauties have thus far been exhibited in the town, and these were not of very large size. Each year there is considerable rivalry among the older and younger anglers, all contending for the honor of landing the biggest fish of the season. There seems to be plenty of opportunity this year for the experts to show their skill.

Alfred Langlois of North Third avenue has been able to return to his work after being confined to his home by an injury to his hand.

STATE SCOUT EXECUTIVES ENDORSE SHANTOK PARK

At the Scout Executives course at Yale University Wednesday, a resolution was presented by Scout Executive F. A. Benton of this city and adopted by the entire group endorsing the project of the proposed state park at Mort Shantok on the Thames river. The tract of 100 acres needed for this park is situated in one of the most interesting and historical Indian territories in the State of Connecticut. The ancient tribe of Mohegans headed by the noted Chief Uncas played an important part not only in Indian history but in the history of the Connecticut colony. A cairn was erected in 1908 by the Connecticut Society of the Daughters of American marking the spot where Lieutenant Thomas Leffingwell brought supplies to the [illegible] when they were besieged at Fort Shantok.

The fort and ground is situated on the banks of the Thames River about 3 miles below Norwich and is reached by the Mohegan Trail. It is hoped by many that the establishment of this park will be assured.

SEEK $15,000 FOR INJURIES TO GIRL IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Four new suits for damages through automobile accidents were among the new cases, returnable to the superior court in April, which wer filed with the clerk of the court here Thursday.

Annie Burba, 7, daughter of William Burba, of Colchester, is the plaintiff through her father in a suit for $10,000 damages against Nathan and Pauline Manchik of Colchester. It is alleged that the defendants on Jan. 13, 1925, assembled and beat the girl on the back and head, causing her to be confined to her bed for several weeks.

The father of the girl also sues the Manchiks for $5,000 damages for his expenses in connection with her medical care and the loss of her companionship because of her illness.

Tony Menghi of New London is the plaintiff against the Flanders Garage, Inc., of East Lyme in a suit for $5,000 damages. He alleges that Mrs. Menghi was severely injured on March 4, 1924, when she was a passenger in the car of one Ceccarello, which was run into by a machine of the defendant company, which was operated by Arthur G. Winslow. The crash occurred near Trail's Corner on the road between Groton and Mystic.

Damages of $1,000 are sought from the Massachusetts Banking Co., doing business in New London, by William W. Burgess of Waterford on the claim that on Nov. 11, 1924, the plaintiff's automobile, then driven by his wife, was run into and damaged by the defendant's machine. The accident happened on the road between New London and New Haven near the residence of Carl Reynolds.

Foreclosure Suits.

Foreclosure suit is brought by the Savings Bank of New London against The Soltz Co. and others. The mortgages on which foreclosure is asked are $3,000, dated May 19, 1905, on property on John street; $10,000, dated Sept. 3, 1907, on property on Douglass street; $2,000, dated June 2, 1913, on property in Waterford; $8,500, dated March 14, 1914, on property on Douglass and Bradley streets; $11,500, dated Dec. 2, 1914, on seven lots in New London, and Waterford; $10,000, dated Dec. 30, 1920, on eight lots in New London and Waterford. Party defendants named are Alton T. Miner, trustee in bankruptcy of the Soltz Co., Jefferson O. Bailey and William S. Thomas of Groton, the Union Bank and Trust Co., of New London, Jeremiah Twomey and Barney Dubow of New London and Frederick H. Gavitt of Waterford.

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $10,000, dated April 17, 1917, on property at Browning's Beach, Waterford, is sought in a suit by Ezra J. Hempstead of Waterford against Emaron J. Eaton of Stonington and Julian D. Moran, administrator of the estate of Ella O'Neill, late of New London, who claims a judgment lien on the premises.

Suit for foreclosure of a mortgage of $9,650 and the appointment of a receiver to take charge of the mortgaged premises is brought by the Winthrop Trust Co., of New London against David Soltz, endorser of a note of the Soltz Co., dated July 16, 1924. The mortgage is on real estate on Main street and it is claimed that accumulated taxes and liens against the property amount to $28,000, so that with the plaintiff's claim the liens amount to approximately $38,000, and are equal to the fair market value of the property.

TIME FOR FARMERS TO PLAN THEIR CROPS

Shrewd farmers can and often do increase their profits by planning their crops and operations upon the outlook for prices to be received for what they expect to grow.

The present time is a favorable one for New England potato growers to look ahead in deciding on their potato acreage this year, says the New London County Farm Bureau. Reports from thousands of farmers throughout the country show that plans for the 1925 acreage of potatoes are based mainly upon the present temporary price situation rather than upon the outlook for prices next fall.

Last year was very unfavorable for sweet potatoes which resulted in a small crop that sold at record high prices. In consequence a 30 per cent increase in sweet potato acreage is talked for this year. This would mean 9 per cent more than the largest previous acreage. Irish potato acreage in 1924 was 4 per cent less than in 1923 but the latter half of the season was so favorable that an unusually large yield and production followed. Prices in some western states were so low that part of the crop went unharvested. Acreage in New England in 1924 was 10 per cent larger than in 1923 and a big crop resulted, but although prices are low, nearly all the crop will be marketed.

Intended acreage for the country is 1 per cent less than last year and would be less than has been planted in any of the last 15 years, although but slightly below that in 1919 and 1919. This intended acreage with a yield equal to the 10-year average (100.6) bushels would mean a crop of 354 million bushels. But higher quality seed used the past few years has caused an upward trend in yields. A yield this year equal to the trend of yields would give a crop of 383 million bushels. Last year the bumper crop was 455 millions. A crop of 354 millions would be the least since 1919, and one of 383 millions, the least since 1921.

Most of the intended decrease is in the 19 late surplus crop states which expect a 7 per cent decrease. The late deficit producing states expect a 1 per cent increase over last year; early and intermediate states as a group expect a 1 per cent decrease, but the Atlantic group looks for an 8 per cent drop while the Mississippi valley group shows an 8 per cent gain. If these plans go through there is a better outlook for marketing the 1925 crop in the Atlantic states. New England farmers report intended acreages as follows in per cent of last year: Maine 90; New Hampshire 110; Vermont 92; Massachusetts 98; Rhode Island and Connecticut each 85.

Tobacco men here are mainly interested in cigar types of this crop, and a 10 per cent reduction in acreage is expected for the country but the prospective acreage in New England is uncertain, due to low prices for the 1924 crop and decreased demand.

MADE 156 ARRESTS IN NORWICH IN MARCH

The local police made 156 arrests during the month of March. Forty-three of the arrests were on intoxication charges and 37 for violation of the city ordinance, mostly for violation of local traffic laws. The charges and number of arrests on each charge follow:

Intoxication, 43; breach of the peace, 22; keeping gambling house, 3; frequenting place of gambling, 20; attempt at rape, 1; violation of city ordinance, 37; violation of liquor law, 6; adultery, 4; non-support, 1; failure to grant right of way, 1; operating without license, 1; reckless driving, 4; theft of auto, 2; violation of motor vehicle law, 7; begging, 2; evading responsibility, 1; assault with intent to kill, 1.

NORWICH SOCIETY OF NEW YORK GIVES TO MEMORIAL GYM

During the recent banquet of the Norwich Society of New York, blank envelopes were passed to the diners with the suggestion that any amount of money might be enclosed and passed back to the chairman. The amounts were thus kept anonymous.

The executive committee is pleased to announce that $100. is the subscription made to the Hutchinson memorial gymnasium of the Academy.

Petition in Bankruptcy.

Mrs. Tillie Bendett of this city has filed a petition in bankruptcy, which gives unsecured liabilities at $3,999.66, and assets of $300 in household goods and $1,638.50 in accounts receivable. She is employed as manager of an art shop of which the owner is Mrs. Jacob Schulman, New York.

PREACHES FINAL SERMON IN UNION LENTEN SERVICES

Rev. Richmond H. Gesner, D. D., rector of Trinity church, Newtown, this state, was the preacher at the united lenten service at Christ Episcopal church, Thursday evening. This service brought to a close the annual series of five lenten services held by Christ and Trinity churches. Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, rector of Christ church, led the service, and prayer was offered by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity church. Dr. Gesner preached from the text, St. Mark 8:36—What shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own sole?

One often hears the question, "How is business?" said the preacher. The answer is either "Well, business is rotten or "business is good". What about the business of the soul? What shall a man give in exchange for his soul? And what shall it profit a man if he gains the whole world and loses his soul? I am not against business and I am not one of those against wealth. Our Lord was the best business man the world has ever seen. He made a little go further than any man.

Why is it we pay too much attention to external and transitory business? Men are using their business as a means to an end more than ever before. What shall a man give in exchange for his soul? The temptation is ever before us to sell ourselves for a mess of pottage. Our Lord, too, was tempted. Satan is ever saying to us, "This is my world I can shadow it to you. Sell yourselves to me and I will give it to you."

We can only lose for a little while in this life and it becomes it we ought to make the best of our life and we can only lose for God as our partner. I think life is a silent partner with God in the business of making equal to the [illegible] because of such. Who knows how soon we will lose our worldly possessions—and not that (the soul) that we can make, if we can, some compensation for that most precious sacrifice, the life of the Son of God?

SHAKE-UP IN PINOCHLE TOURNEY OF EAGLES

The sixth evening's play in the Eagles pinochle tournament resulted in a great shakeup and upset the leaders. C. R. Hastedt, with high score for the evening came from fourth place into second while N. Petrone still holds first place. John Leirich goes into sixth place.

The three prizes for the weekly play were awarded to W. R. Hastedt, 8,150; A. Woodmansee 7,280, E. P. Mullins, 7,230.

N. Petrone, 41,480; W. R. Hastedt, 41,425; E. P. Mullins, 40,050; H. Marcus, 39,860; E. J. Mullins, 38,950; J. Leirich, 38,470; Timothy Fields, 37,465; H. Clements, 37,005; A. Hastedt, 35,045; John Bowne, 34,570; Joseph Yalen, 34,365; H. Congdon, 34,195; Thomas Fields, 33,750; John Sautter, 33,295.

A GARDEN OF MY OWN

I want to have a garden that is really mine alone;
Not like a grown-up's garden, but one that's just my own.
I want to dig the earth myself, with my own shiny spade,
And when I've worked until I'm hot, then stretch out in the shade.

I want to plant the seeds myself, in even little rows;
I want a little bit of almost everything that grows;
I'd like to have some crocuses, and lima beans and peas,
And daffodils and roses, and some peanuts, if you please.

I'm sure I'd want some onions and some hollyhocks so tall,
And pumpkins for old pumpkin pies; and say, that isn't all;
Some roasting ears and tulips red, and lettuce crisp and green—
My garden's going to be the best that you have ever seen.

I told my dad what I had planned; he laughed until he cried;
He didn't make me change my mind; he only hurt my pride;
But you just wait until it's time for planting and you'll see
The finest garden in the world—one that belongs to me!

Mary Lucretia Carr, in Cincinnati Enquirer.

SPRING BIRDS ARRIVE— OTHERS ARE ON THE WAY

Norwich bird observers will soon be afield, for during this month and in early May birds can be best seen and watched as they fly about in the leafless trees and shrubbery. The meadowlark which has been here for a week or more will be heard until November. Passing Lowthorpe Meadows one almost always hears its sweet familiar notes, as these meadows seem to furnish safe nesting places for birds that nest on the ground. This year song sparrows were heard the middle of February on Washington street and during March their constant song has told listeners that spring, if slow in arriving, is sure to come.

House wrens return every spring to the same nesting place. Once established in their house, their trilling notes are heard all day long. School boys make attractive boxes just fitted to the wren and the wrens seem very happy to get back to them. Boxes for wrens' nests should be put up now, as these birds are due in two or three weeks. Openings for entry in boxes should not be larger than a 25-cent piece.

The winter wren, not often about local homes, was seen in February and March; it is very small, in color reddish-brown, a darker red than the house wren.

The red-winged blackbird arrives early in March. Those who own cottages on the Rhode Island shore that are more or less remote from the popular resorts, are pleased to find on their return that this bird has its nest close by their doors and is not shy, but glad of crumbs and stays nearby through all the summer months. One wonders sometimes in these lonely places that birds have all to themselves until the hot summer months, how it must seem to them when the time comes for the automobiles, the bustle, the coming and going, for the residents, though few, change the silence to sounds of life.

It is time to look out for the phoebe now. Almost before it is noted as having come, its nest will be found built under the rafters, just inside a portico and it is most pleasant to watch its flying in and out. Looking forward to songbirds that come early in May, no bird's coming is longed for more than that of the woodthrush.

STATE INCOME TAX RECEIPTS ARE LARGER

Internal revenue receipts from Connecticut income taxes for the first eight months of the fiscal year 1925 were slightly larger than for the corresponding period in 1924, while the total revenue receipts for the state were less this year than in 1924, according to figures from the treasury department.

Income tax receipts for the Connecticut collection district from July 1, 1924, to February 28, 1925, totaled $12,966,373.80 as compared with $13,928,691.29 for the corresponding period last year, while total internal revenue receipts for this district fell from $20,689,698.55 to $19,364,359.75 for the first eight months of the present fiscal year.

Dennis P. Rainville, who has been employed by the American Woolen company (Yantic mill) for the past three years, has concluded his duties as overseer of the Finishing department and goes with the James & E. Wilson company, Pittsfield, Mass., as superintendent of finishing, considered quite an advancement over the position he held under the American Woolen company. He will assume his new duties April 15th.

The employes in the finishing department presented Mr. Rainville a beautiful amethyst ring, Andrew Grieve, in apt and felicitous words, making the presentation on behalf of the employes in this department. The overseers of the various departments presented Mr. Rainville, a Bristol fishing outfit, Sydney Shabecoff, in behalf of the employes making the presentation in a very witty speech and wishing him success and happiness in his new field of labor. Mr. Rainville responded to both in a fitting manner, stated he was sorry to leave his many Yantic friends; having been doubly surprised he said, he lacked words to express his deep feelings for their kind expressions to him and that had he realized there was such a kindly feeling towards him throughout the plant he might have hesitated in accepting his new position.

Mr. Rainville has been very popular and was always ready to help for the community's betterment. He was a good sportsman and will be missed by the coon hunters and fishermen. His dog Traveler, was considered one of the best coon dogs in the town. All his Yantic friends are wishing him success in his new work.

Mr. Rainville does not plan to move his family at present as he has recently purchased and made repairs to his new bungalow on Plain hill.

Andrew Grieve succeeds Mr. Rainville as overseer.

BLODGETT ENTERS DENIAL IN CZARIST ACCUSATION

An attempt to assume "czaristic control" in all matters regarding taxation, by favoring passage of a bill giving him "imperialist powers" was denied by Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett Wednesday afternoon at Hartford when he explained before the legislative committee on finance a bill drafted by him, as a measure defining his administrative duties in regard to existing tax laws. "The bill," he said, "struck discord in the minds of some few, through apparent misinformation, and the temper of those opposed has changed lately after a more intimate knowledge of the bill and what it proposes."

The bill had previously been reported favorably by the committee, but in the house had been subjected to much criticism and finally recommitted to the committee for reconsideration. It was then decided that another public hearing should be held on the measure.

Commissioner Blodgett said that the provisions of the bill had been recommended by a tax investigation commission as far back as 1868 which favored some centralized oversight for local tax authorities. "Opponents of the bill," he said, "assert I would have unlimited power in regard to subpoenas, but the proposed bill gives no more power to the commissioner in such matters than has been given by the statutes since 1901."

"I can issue subpoenas for the appearance of tax assessors, members of boards of relief or taxpayers, under the law, but I felt it would simplify matters to have them appear in their own towns as the bill proposes. Incidentally, I have issued some forty subpoenas and not one of the persons has refused to appear to testify and there has been no occasion for prosecution."

One clause in the bill, that had been responsible for much opposition in the house, provided for the 60-day jail sentence for refusal to honor subpoenas. Mr. Blodgett said that under the existing law the penalty was not strictly defined and could be anything a judge decided upon, "ten years, for example."

The new bill provides authority to the tax commissioner of accounting used by tax authorities in the various towns. "It does not," the commissioner said, "give power to compel the use of any particular system, but merely to suggest changes or to go to selectmen and point out inadequacies which I am certain would tend to develop a sentiment toward better accounting systems."

John H. Buck of Hartford, representing the Manufacturers' Association of Connecticut, appeared in favor of the bill, saying it does not change any of the important machinery of the tax laws, which have been laid down for more than a century, but does assure the working of that machinery.

DEPARTMENT COMMANDER FOR G. A. R. CAMPFIRE

Department commander Ira Wildman of Danbury, accompanied by members of his staff, will be a guest at the campfire of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., at the Buckingham Memorial next Wednesday evening when supper will be served at 6 o'clock by the supper committees of the Woman's Relief Corps and the Daughters of Veterans, these two organizations taking charge of the arrangements for the campfire. RECALLS MEMORIES OF THE GOODELL SCHOOL

The paragraph in Wednesday's Bulletin, referring to the little schoolhouse which stood on the Gallup property at Harland's corner, formerly owned years ago by the Goodell family, where Miss Sally Goodell taught school for a number of years, has aroused much interest.

There are several in town who are familiar with this location and the little schoolhouse, from stories related by their ancestors.

The building stood on that side of the large triangular lot facing Washington street. Among the pupils attending the school were several of the children of Gardner and Nancy Case Smith. Their only surviving child is Mrs. Rebecca Smith Moriarty, of Worcester, Mass., mother of Mrs. Byron H. Evans of Court street, Norwich.

The late William H. Smith of St. Louis, Mo., father of the late Mrs. Clarence P. Capron, and grand-father of Mrs. Charles H. Lamb, of Norwich Town, was another one of this family of children. Their homestead which was situated on upper Washington street in the location of the former Jabez Lathrop property, was torn down many years ago. Mrs. Capron was born in the same house as her father.

Miss Goodell also taught in the old Rufus Lathrop house, also the brick schoolhouse, now standing at the head of Schoolhouse Lane, as well as in other places. In fact, Miss Goodell is reputed to have taught the entire rising generation of Norwich Town, in her time. Raps on the head with her thimble, the tying of bashful boys to the apron strings of pretty girls, to whom they had presumed to whisper during school hours, were some of the punishments that yet linger in the memories of some of her pupils. These were the severest penalties which her gentle nature could inflict, and her pupils who are still living seem to cherish tender recollections of their former teacher.

ANSWERED 15 FIRE CALLS IN PAST MONTH

During the month of March the fire department answered a total of 15 calls. Twelve of the calls were by telephone, two were oral calls and one was a bell alarm. Two of the calls were for fires over the city line. At only two of the fires was there any loss to speak of.

Rub Away Baby's Colds

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vick's in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

CHAPMAN JURY LOCKED UP FOR NIGHT AT 10.45; OUT 9 HOURS AND 32 MINUTES

Court Was Adjourned Until 10 A. M. Today—Twice the Jury Sent a Thrill Through the Crowded Court Room When They Came in For Further Instructions—Jurors Sent to a Hotel and Chapman Taken Back to Wethersfield—Judge Jennings Was an Imposing Figure as He Instructed the Jury—In Closing Arguments Groehl Flayed Shean and Alcorn Lashed Chapman.

Hartford, April 3—After nine hours and 32 minutes after it had received the case the jury trying Gerald Chapman for murder was ordered locked up for the night at 10.45 o'clock tonight.

Court was adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow morning when jurors will return to the court house from quarters at a local hotel and resume deliberations.

Chapman was taken back to the prison at Wethersfield for the night. He had spent the hours during which the jurors deliberated in the basement of the court house, surrounded by the guards who never left him throughout the hours he is known.

The hours dragged on with no word from the jury room, where it had been calmly seated most of the day, got up from their chair and began walking up and down. Although his face never betrayed his master's mask, his nervous actions betrayed his perturbation.

Every time a report to the court only to send them only to seek and receive instructions. At 10:35 o'clock Jennings instructed Sheriff Hadley to summon the jurors.

"I've had a hard day and, if you don't mind an agreement, I shall retire early. What's your beda," he said, "Is there room for you?"

Chamberlain, Hartford, had been elected foreman. At it was, and the order of the jury room was obtained, with the exception of the clues furnished by the two-time appearance for each case they had additional light on the alibi of the same. Chief Defense Attorney J. Groehl said he knew a long deliberation a good sign for his client. The state prosecutor, Hugh M. Alcorn, made no reference to the south Main house purchased by a bootlegging rendezvous. Hadley is about ten minutes from Hartford.

The state attorney told the jury that "two bids for a disagreement was his chief hope. He said this hope was a small one. He resented rather bitterly the defense attorney's intimation that the prosecution of Chapman was the state's attorney's own personal affair, to satisfy a long standing grudge. He unravelled defense theories and threw the case from the hands of Alcorn's opponents, statements of the prisoner.

Jennings Imposing Figure.

Jennings presented his imposing figure, black robes and white whiskers, analysis of the case and recalled the record.

Chapman is reported to have suffered no visible reaction after hearing the verdict on completion of the story yesterday but showed the effects today.

Chapman, the debonnair fellow, though courteous, with five guards surrounded him in the court house cell-room awaited the result of his trial. Chapman was not too perturbed, however, to pay a pretty compliment. Chapman handed him a cigarette and sniffed it, inhaling the smoke deeply, and remarked that he prepared to light up.

"You can always tell a man by the cigarette he smokes. This seems to be fine and I take it that you must be."

He smiled again, crossed his legs, rolled the tobacco roll, and settled back to enjoy it while the jury debated life or death for him.

NARRATIVE OF FRIDAY'S SESSION OF MURDER TRIAL

Hartford, April 3 (By the A. P.)—Gerald Chapman's fortunes, the Connecticut jury which heard the testimony in the murder case against him remained deadlocked tonight after more than a half dozen hours deliberation.

Jury Returned For Instructions.

Informed by the court that it could render the law, return one of four verdicts—guilty of murder in the first degree, second degree, manslaughter or acquittal—the jury, before it had deliberated four hours, had returned to court twice for additional instructions.

In both instances their requests indicated that they were going over with minute care the alibi testimony introduced by a number of defense witnesses. For the first request was for a time table of trains running out of Springfield, Mass., for New York on Saturday, Oct. 11, 1924. The second request was that the testimony of two Meriden witnesses for the prosecution be read them, an action complied with by Judge Jennings.

Chapman, in his boldly told story from the stand, testified that he had left Springfield that Saturday—the day preceding the crime—on the 4.15 train for New York. He added that he had arrived in Brooklyn, N. Y., a few minutes after 8 o'clock the same evening. The Meriden witnesses, Louis A. Kubeck, manager, and Lillian Knell, waitress, of the Old Colony inn, swore that Chapman was at that place at that hour, in company with Walter E. Shean, the Springfield advertising man, who first accused Chapman of murder.

Also during the afternoon the jury sent out for a magnifying glass, presumably for better inspection of the two bullets introduced in evidence.

Both time that the jury sent into court would find it desired to see the judge a thrill ran through the crowds that lingered in the room and in the corridors, and even in the surrounding streets. Then the looks of expectancy left their faces on hearing that no agreement had been reached, and they returned to their "watchful waiting."

Chapman Started as Bell Rang.

Chapman awaited his doom in the court house basement, seemingly composed. But he was by no means indifferent to his fate. For on one occasion when a bell near him rang, as a signal that the jury was about to enter court he started violently and a flush spread over his face. But he quickly regained his composure, and was apparently the same indolent and unconcerned super-bandit of old by the time his guards got him into the court room.

Up to 12.59 o'clock when the picturesque prisoner's case was given to the jury, it was a day of vivid oratory in which Chief Counsel Frederick J. Groehl and State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn made their final pleas to the jury, the one for acquittal and the other for a first degree murder conviction.

Closing Plea For Defense.

Groehl centered his attack on Shean, who he characterized a "weakling," "this angel Shean," "piker," "lobbygow," "rascal" and associate of crooks. He cautioned the jury to withstand a possible appeal by Alcorn who was to have the last word, to vote to hang because Chapman was a known dangerous criminal. He reminded the jurors that freedom for Chapman in the Connecticut courts merely meant that the spectacular mail looter would return to federal prison to spend the rest of his 25-year mail robbery term. "Let him live to repent," pleaded in an eloquent conclusion, "for he is virtually a dead man as he is. He will die in prison. He is not strong physically, and cannot live long."

Alcorn "Lashed" Chapman.

Groehl's closing plea furnished Alcorn with an opening for his summation. He construed the plea that Chapman be "let live to repent" as a virtual "confession of guilt." Speaking in a high voice that at times threatened to crack under his seeming emotions, the state attorney lashed out at Chapman, characterizing him as a "panther," a "criminal who pillages and murders up and down the land" and as a man who, with his "crook friends" had established "a crime center in the heart of one of our New England hamlets, within ten miles of the humble home of our president."

LADY ASTOR REBUKED IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS

London, April 3—Lady Astor's impetuous temperament, which constantly enlivens debates in the house of commons and often makes her the center of little scenes, today led her to overstep the bounds of parliamentary decorum and brought down upon her a reproof from the speaker.

Lady Astor is no respector of persons, and her vivacious gibes are scattered indiscriminately, among the members of her own party as well as the opposition, but they seem to insure the greatest resentment on the labor benches. Today it fell to A. Hayday, who is the father of fourteen children, to arouse the anger of the woman member.

She was speaking on the children's bill and had declared she hated the assumption that the working mother is different fro many mother. Hayday interjected that she could read about "society women nursing puppy dogs when they ought to be paying more attention to human beings."

Lady Astor retorted that she would give the house something to think about Hayday and added that is she referred to the company he kept it would not reflect credit upon him or the labor party.

The speaker then admonished Lady Astor, saying:

"If the noble lady would act on my advice, which I frequently give her, and address herself to me she would not entangle herself in this way."

Lady Astor accepted the reproof in good part, and the incident so far as droppedthe commons was concerned was dropped.

It was learned later, however, that Mr. Hayday has written to Lady Astor inviting her to withdraw unreservedly what he considers to be an imputation concerning his honor, and giving her notice of his intention to raise the question again in the commons on Monday.

Meanwhile, in a statement issued to the press, Lady Astor says she intended no sinister implication in her reference to Mr. Hayday's personal affairs. All she had in mind was "his attitude toward the drink question, nothing more."

INCREASE IN PAYROLLS OF R. I. COTTON MILLS

Providence, R. I., April 3—Payrolls of representative Rhode Island cotton mills for the first three months of 1925 were 22 per cent. larger than during the corresponding period of 1924, according to a survey today issued for publication by the Rhode Island Textile association. Nevertheless, the report stated, the mills are not operating on a profitable basis, and the association urged increased protection from "cheaply made foreign goods" both for the benefit of the textile workers and the manufacturer.

The increased payroll resulted from longer and steadier hours of employment, the report indicated, since it came "during a time of ten per cent. wage reduction has been in effect" and despite the fact that the actual number of employed remained practically unchanged. Staffs, it was pointed out, had been retained, although on curtailed hours.

SERIOUS CHARGE AGAINST FORMER K. K. K. GRAND DRAGON

Indianapolis, Ind., April 3.—Miss Madge Oberholtzer, 28, Indianapolis, alleged in county grand jury indictments returned today to have been assaulted by D. C. Stephenson, formerly grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Indiana, was unconscious tonight. A blood transfusion was made, but results will not be made known for from 24 to 48 hours, according to Dr. John Kingsbury, her physician. Dr. Kingsbury held out little hope for the girl, who took poiwson after the alleged attack.

Stephenson, known throughout the country as the "old man" in connection with klan activities, was indicted today on five counts—assault and battery with intent to kill, assault and battery with intent to rape, malicious mayhem, kidnapping and conspiracy to commit a felony. Bond was placed at $25,000 which was provided. He will be arraigned next Monday.

Earl Gentry and Earl Klenk, said to be a deputy sheriff, also were indicted in connection with the case, each on a charge of conspiracy to kidnap. They had not been arrested early tonight. Stephenson was arrested last night on affidavits sworn by George E. Oberholtzer, father of the girl. He was dismissed in police court today on charges of assault and battery with intent to murder and kidnapping. Hearing on another charge—conspiracy to commit a felony—was continued until May 28.

Mr. Oberholtzer caused affidavits to be filed, he said, on statements Miss Oberholtzer made regarding a train trip to Hammind, Ind., March 15 and a rteurn trip by automobile. Mr. Oberholtzer said the girl was taken forcibly to Hammond after having been made to drink liquor at Stephenson's home here.

The girl said she took poison in Hammond. Other than to say the action was a "political move," Stephenson would not make a statement.

REAJUSTING ECONOMIC POLICY OF RUSSIA

Moscow, April 3—Far reaching decisions affecting the future economic policy of Rusia were taken today by the council of labor and defense. Finding complete government control of trade and industry was a failure the council meeting of which Leo Kameneff, acting premier, was chairman, decided to invite private capitalists to enter trade.

Present restrictions regarding the sale of goods to private concerns by state trusts and co-operative organizations will be removed and taxes on private traders greatly reduced. In introducing these reforms, which are considered the most important since the late Nikolai Lenine inaugurated the so-called new economic policy, M. Kameneff said: "At the present juncture the 'trade desert' which exists in certain regions of the soviet union is more harmful and dangerous to the economic structure of the socialistic state than private capitalists."

It was on the initiative of the supreme economic council that the new forms are being introduced. It is now admitted that the drastic campaign which was against private trade, virtually ruined Russia's internal trade, bringing the country to the verge of an economic crisis.

BRITONS GSRAT CONSUMERS OF MUTTON AND LAMB

Washington, April 3—In an analysis of meat consumption statistics of the department of agriculture today noted tha tthe British eat nearly seven times as much mutton and lamb as do Americans, and declared the reason has "baffled satisfactory explanation."

Mutton and lamb consumed in the United States last year made up only 3.2 per cent. of the total meat consumption, while the percentage in Great Britain was 22. There was ten times more beef and 15 times more pork than mutton and lamb eaten in this country last year.

The department estimated that mutton and lamb consumption was at the rate of 5.2 pounds per person; pork 88.8 pounds; beef 62.6 pounds, and veal 3.3 pounds.

OBITUARY

Jean De Reszke

Nice, France, April 3—Jean De Reszke, considered one of the greatest tenors in the annals of the operatic stage, died at his villa tonight after a short illness. Death was due to complications following an attack of influenza.

Although in his seventy-fifth year, De Rezke maintained all his varied interests in life, dividing his time between his house in Paris, his villa in Nice and an estate which, like Ignace Skrsydlom, Poland. A man of wide intellectual culture, speaking several languages, he was fond of sports notably tennis and horsebask riding. He even went in for breeding race-horses on a moderate scale, but he never gained the top of the list of winning owners.

The singer came from a musical family. His brother Edouard, and his sister Josephine, Baroness Kroneberg, both had distinguished careers on the operatic stage. Jean made his first appearance in Drury Lane, London, at the age of 22 and the following year made his debut in Paris, after which he toured the principal countries of Europe.

Following a brilliant engagement at the Paris opera lasting six years, De Reszke resumed his tours and reached the zenith of his career in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Music critics considered that while equalling the best Italian tenors in purely vocal effects he surpassed them as an interpretative artist. His impersonations of the Leaging Wagnerian characters were excellent.

After retiring from the stage De Reszke devoted himself to teaching, and pupils from all over the world, particularly the United States, were tutored by him. Many stars of the operatic stage and the concert platform owe much to De Reszke's ability as a teacher.

German Rep. Parties Unite On Dr. Marx

Indications Are That Jarres and Marx Will Oppose Each Other in Presidental Election.

Berlin, April 3.—(By the A. P.)—Unless an unexpected shift in party lineups occur within the next 24 hours Dr. Karl Jarres, and Dr. Wilhelm Marx will oppose each other in the election for president on April 26.

The three republican parties comprising the so-called Weimar coalition—the centrists, the democrats and the socialdemocrats — today tentatively agreed to unite on Dr. Marx and now await final sanction to their pact from the governing board of the democratic party, which will meet in Berlin Sunday. The national-conservative bourgeois bloc will ratify the nomination of Dr. Jarres tomorrow.

That the forthcoming campaign is destined to develop into bitter political strife through the injection of religious issues is now viewed as a certainty. An effort to head off such a contingency was undertaken today through the initiative of Dr. Leicht, leader of the Bavarian people's party in the reichstag, who requested Chancellor Luther to convoke a conference of all the bourgeois parties with the purpose of effecting a political truce through the nomination of Dr. Walter Simons, president of the federal supreme court and now acting president of the republic, as a nonpartisan national candidate.

Dr. Leicht frankly admitted the inevitable injection of religious bias into the campaign in the event of Dr. Marx was nominated and vainly sought to induce the center party to withdraw the former chancellor's candidacy and accept Dr. Simons as a non-partisan standard bearer for all the bourgeois parties.

The socialist leaders who participated in the conference announced that they could not retreat from the programme already adopted, and as for the centrist party was equally firm in its refusal to accept Dr. Simons as a sign of truce, the conference disbanded.

Dr. Marx discussed his election platform today at a conference of the three republican parties, and as the matter of obtaining the consent of the democratic party's governing board to his candidacy is viewed as a mere formality, it was considered certain tonight that the former chancellor will enter the race as the candidate of the Weimar coalition.

Despite attempts to replace Dr. Jarres with either Herr Gessler, minister of defense, or Chancellor Luther, there are scant prospects that the national conservative bourgeois bloc will do the Weimar coalition the favor of cedure. In the opinion of political observers, would be received as an admission that Jarres is a weak candidate.

Dr. Simons when appraised of the move to call a political truce by having him proclaimed a non-partisan candidate informed the promoters of the scheme that he would accept the nomination only if it was concurred in unanimously.

SNMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

John Van A. MacMurray, assistant secretary of state, was selected as minister to china.

President Coolidge, it was announced, expects to attend the Norse-American celebration at St. Paul, Minn., June 8.

Secretary Weeks suffered a mild thrombosial stroke and reports were revived that he soon would retire from the cabinet.

A paraphrase of the Peruvian memorial on Tacna-Arica became available, containing assurance that the arbitral award will be accepted.

Short line railroads were authorized by the interstate commerce commission to intervene in the proposed Nickel Plate railroad merger hearing.

A temporary injunction blocking sale of the California orient ships by the shipping board was issued by the District of Columbia supreme court.

AWARDED $500 IN SUIT AGAINST HIS FATHER

Worcester, Mass., April 3—Leo Pawlowski, Worcester, a minor who brought suit for $3,000 through his father against H. W. Hess of Philadelphia for injuries sustained in an automobile accident, was awarded $500 by a jury in the superior court here today. His father was given $200 for medical attendance for his son by agreement of counsel. The case was the first action tried under a new Massachusetts statute which allows service of a writ through the state registrar of motor vehicles in any proceedings caused by the operation in this state of a motor vehicle for a non-resident. Counsel said the case would probably go to the United States supreme court.

Government Oil Suits Dismissed

Indictments Were Dismised in the District of Columbia Supreme Court Yesterday.

Washington, April 3—The government suffered a reverse today in its criminal prosecutions growing out of the oil scandal.

Indictments returned last June against the central figures in the famous senate investigation—Albert B. Fall, former interior secretary, and Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Doheny, and his son, Edward L. Doheny, Jr., independent oil operators—were dismissed in the District of Columbia supreme court because of the presence in the grand jury room of an assistant to the attorney general.

Through District Attorney Gordon, special government counsel in the oil cases, announced that an appeal would be taken to the District of Columbia court of appeals. Should the government finally lose in this fight, the way still would be open for presentaiton to a new grand jury of the conspiracy charges in connection with the lease of the Teapot Dome naval reserve to Sinclair and of California oil reserves to Doheny.

Whether a new grand jury could consider the bribery charges against Fall and the Doheneys is not so clear. Counsel for Sinclair contend that the three years' statute of limitation will become effective next Tuesday, but government counsel are not convinced that the special act of congress in 1923 extending the limitation to six years in certain cases would not be applicable in this instance.

The bribery charge grew out of the delivery to Fall here, while he was interior secretary, of $100,000 in cash. The fund was advanced by the elder Doheny and brought here from New York by his son in the now celebrated "little black satchel." Fall gave his personal note for that amount, and Doheny, in disclosing that he had advanced the money, said it was a loan of a friend and had nothing to do with the leases.

The indictments returned here are ordered dismissed by Chief Justice McCoy are wholly apart from the civil suits which have been brought by the government in Wyoming and California for the recovery of the Teapot Dome and California naval reserves.

Nor is there involved in today's decision the contempt answer certain questions put to him by the senate oil committee. A demurrer to that indictment has been filed and is pending in the Distruct of Columbia supreme court.

Cotton men of six nations reaffimed the bonds of business cooperation across the seas, in the opening sessions of the Fourteenth Texas Cotton association convention in Austin, Texas.

HAD TOO MUCH CONSCIENCE TO BECOME NEW YORK CROOK

New York, April 3.—Arthur Prohaska, a youth from East Dedham, Mass., who found he had too much conscience to be a New York crook upon the only occasion he essayed that role was given a suspended sentence today in general sessions. Court officials promised to help him find a job.

A few days after he reached New York in March, Prohaska, at the end of his resources, held up a Columbus avenue grocery man at the point of a pistol. The register held only $1 and Prohaska declined to take it.

The next day he surrendered to police, told what he had done and gave up his gun. Detectives and police decided he was not a crook and today the court made the opinion unanimous.

ENORMOUS PRODUCTION OF GASOLENE IN FEBRUARY

Washington, April 3.—Daily gasoline production in Februry was the greatest on record averaging 22,800,000 gallons, or 5.2 per cent. above the previous high mark in the month before.

An announcement today by the interior department said February domestic demand amounted to 542,426,977 gallons, an increase of one per cent. over January and of 40 per cent. over February, 1924.

Stocks on hand were swelled in February and now total nearly 1,500,000,000 gallons, representing 77 days' supply at the February rate of demand.

DODGE FAMILY TO RETAIN INTEREST IN PROPERTY

New York, April 3.—Although control of the $175,000,000 Dodge automobile business has passed to bankers, who will shortly open it to public investment, members of the Dodge family will still retain a substantial interest in the property, it was learned today.

Having received almost $175,000,000 in cash for their holdings the heirs of John and Horace Dodge indicated today that they would reinvest a large share of it in the new company, now in process of formation by Dillon, Read and Company, the new bankers.

DISSOLUTION OF FRENCH CABINET IS PREDICTED

Chamber of Deputies Vote of Confidence in the Herriot Ministry is Regarded as Absolutely Without Significance—Senators Regret the Resignation of M. Clementel as Finance Minister—Ministry Has Decided to Maintain French Embassy at the Vatican.

Paris, April 3—(By the A. P.)—That political events rapidly are developing toward a crisis from which the only issue will be dissolution of the cabinet and new elections, is the prediction tonight of impartial observers versed in parliamentary affairs.

The senate openly favors the stand of Etienne Clementel, who resigned the portfolio of minister of finance Thursday night, in his controversy with Premier Herriot. A great majority of the senators sympathize with the former finance minister, express regret over his resignation and comment of the premier's intervention in far from complementary terms.

The chamber of deputies so-called vote of confidence of 530 against 26, given the Herriot ministry today, was said to be absolutely without significance. M. Maginot, leader of the opposition, laid emphasis on the fact that, although his followers were voting in favor of the government's proposal for a postponement of discussion of the interpellation on financial questions until the government's new bills were laid before the chamber, under no circumstances should the vote be construed as implying confidence "in this moribund government."

M. Herriot was a busy man this afternoon, appearing before friendly political groups and making a determined fight.

Since yesterday, the premier has lost his minister of finance and 41 members of his majority in the French chamber of deputies. He has found another man, Senator Anatole de Monzie, to grapple with the formidable task of unravelling French finances, but keen political observers of nearly all parties are of the opinion that the premier will have a hard time filling up the gap in the ranks of his supporters.

A break in the coalition that has been solidly back of the premier occurred this afternoon when the group known as the "radical left," led by Louis Loucheur, decided it could no longer support the policies of the Herriot government.

M. Loucheur had already hinted he would abandon the coalition ship, even before he refused the portfolio of finance last night. It is understood that his decision, in which all the members of his group concur, is due to the tendency of the Herriot government to look with favor on a capital levy.

When Premier Herriot left the chamber after a stormy session this afternoon he was followed by the same cries he heard in the lobbies of the senate yesterday, "resign! resign!" The Herriot cabinet, however, it is said, in official circles, will go ahead with the program it has in view, and will retire only after a battle.

The defection of the Loucheur group will bring the government's coalition strength in the chamber down to the neighborhood of 300 out of a total of 584 members, which is a smaller margin than any preceding premiers have required to remain in power. Loud outcries from the Socialist group are adding to the general disturbance, their newest protest being against the entrance into the Herriot ministry of Senator de Monzie, who is opposed to the suppression of the French embassay at the Vatican.

The minister of interior, M. Chautemps, announced after the cabinet meeting today that the ministry had decided to abandon the paragraph in the budget which by reducing appropriations for maintainance of the French representative at the Vatican amounted to the suppression of the embassy there. Strong pressure is being brought to bear on the irreconcilables of the Socialist group to induce them to accept this chance of front, in order to make it possible for the government to put through its financial measures, which largely were inspired by the Socialist leaders, Leon Blum and Vincent Auriol.

Foremost among its prospects, the Herriot government is expected to propose a capital levy, details of which are still incomplete, according to the best official information, but which it is said will be limited in duration. The Socialists are holding out for a ten-year limit, while certain influences in the cabinet aer insisting upon a single levy, to tide over the present financial difficulties, leaving the question of further demands on capital to be decided later. On the issue of more paper money the government has been silent today, but there has been nothing in official declarations to indicate the abandonment of the scheme proposed by M. Clementel, who last night resigned as minister of finance.

NO CHANGE IN POLICY OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

Washington, April 3. — President Coolidge believes that the re-arrangement of prohibition enforcement agencies in the treasury to place them all under the supervision of Assistant Secretary Andrews will bring about a more effective enforcement of the Volstead law, although it does not involve a change of policy.

It is the president's understanding the Mr. Andrews will act as special representative of Secretary Mellon in prohibition matters, and particularly as a liason officer between Mr. Mellon and Prohibition Commisioner aynes.

The new arrangement, in the opinion of Mr. Coolidge will place Mr. Haynes in a more advantageous position for his efforts to enforce the prohibition law and at the same time will relieve Secretary Mellon of much of the detail which has burdened him in his relations with the prohibition unit.

In studying the realignment of supervisory duties in the treasury, the president has also had in mind the necessity that public confidence be maintained in the internal revenue bureau. He sees no reason that this should be disturbed by the recent arrests of surbordinate officials of the bureau for alleged violation of law in connection with collection of taxes. If there has been any misconduct he feels that it should be disclosed, the offenders punished and steps taken to prevent a recurrence.

BUILDING TRADE INTERESTS TO CONFER IN BOSTON TODAY

Boston, April 3—A conference between members of the Building Trades Employers' association and the Building Trade council of the American Federation of Labor to discuss the strike situation in the building industry here has been called for tomorrow by Acting Mayor James T. Moriarity, it was announced today.

Several hundred plumbers and lathers have been on strike since Wednesday for higher wages. Several other unions are scheduled to meet this week to consider a strike or acceptance of the employers' three-year wage renewal contract which expired at midnight, April 1. Four of the traders have signed the renewal.

It is believed that the conference will consider the union demand for higher wages, and the recent action of the Employers' association in petitioning the state commission on the necessaries of life to investigate the building trades industry.

TO DEVELOP POWER FROM RIVER SHANNON

Dublin, April 3—The Dail Eireann this evening by a vote of 58 to 6 passed the government's bill for developing electric power from the waters of the river Shannon. All the members of the government party and all the laborites supported the measure.

Although none of the members of the dail voted against the bill there was a minority opposition composed partly of farmers and party of Dublin business men and one representative of Trinity college. These members left the house before the vote was taken.

LUMSDEN, SASK., HAS BEEN SUBMERGED BY FLOOD

Lumsden, Sask., April 3—This town today is under water as a result of the Qu'Appelle river bursting through the temporary embankments erected last night to confine the flood tide. The Canadian National railway tracks also are under water.

SALE OF SHIPS HAS BEEN TEMPORARILY BLOCKED

Washington, April 3.—Conclusion of the sale of the Dollar interests of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's California-Orient Line was blocked temporarily today in the District of Columbia supreme court.

Granting a petition of the Pacific Mail, Justice Hitz issued a temporary injunction against the shipping board and set April 13, for hearing arguments on making the order permanent.

Regardless of the outcome of this hearing, extended litigation is in prospect, with the probability that the supreme court of the United States will have an opportunity to pass upon provisions of the merchants marine act of 1920 before the case is ended. This will submit the act to judicial construction for the first time.

Meanwhile, the Pacific Mail will continue to operate the five shipping board vessels at stake in the service from San Francisco to Manila unless the board should take action to terminate the operation contract entered into more than four years ago. Chairman O'Connor of the board, declared today he personally would be in favor of terminating that contract if the injunction was made permanent.

Commenting upon that statement former Senator George E. Chamberlain, or Oregon, counsel for the Pacific Mail, interpreted it as willingness to drive the Pacific Mail out of business in any case. He would not say what legal steps, if any, would be taken if the board should adopt such a course.

The action of the Pacific Mail in resorting to court proceedings was taken as the result of the authorization of the sale of the ships to the Dollar interests by a four to three vote in the board, after one of the stormiest controversies it has experienced in years.

The reverberations of the fight reached such a point that it was suggested the White House might be called upon to take a hand, but this became a remote possibility today when it was learned that President Coolidge feels that responsibility for the decision rested entirely with the board.

IMPROVED EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS IN MARCH

Boston, April 3—Employment conditions during the month of March showed a decided improvement over the previous month with the demand for skilled labor in the mechanical trades greater than for some time past, the report of the public employment office revealed today. Employers called for 1,263 persons, an increase of 345, or 38 per cent. over February and a corresponding increase of 45, or 4 per cent. over March of last year. Positions reported filled numbered 1,066, a gain of 299, or 39 per cent. over February, and represented an increase of 34 over March of 1924.

Attendance of applicants for employment increased to 27,220, a gain of 4,473 or 20 per cent. over February and of 4,170 or 18 per cent. over March 1924. Demand for farm and common laborers showed increased activity in the unskilled departments.

A WHITE RHINOCEROS IN HUNTING TROPHIES

New York, April 3—Mr. and Mrs. Philip McFadden, of New York and Philadelphia, returned today on the steamship Aquitania from a four months' game hunt in East Africa, during which they bagged 150 trophies, including a white rhinoceros.

WILLIMANTIC

What is believed to be the most largely attended mass meeting of the strikers of the American Thread Company since the opening of the controversy was held at the Gem theatre early Friday morning. There were many of the State Federation of Labor officials present, the speakers, John J. Eagan, secretary of Connecticut and Edward Morris, president of the Rhode Island State Federation of Labor. Remarks were also made by State Senator John Powers of Cumberland, R. I., secretary of the national council of the United Textile Workers of America. Miss Amy L. Hooker presided at the meeting.

"Your strike is justified in every way and you have the unquestionable sympathy of all of Connecticut," said Secretary Eagan in opening his address. He continued, "I do not believe that your strike will be the last among textile workers in this section." He admonished in a mild degree the strikers for not having organized six months ago, in which event, he said, they would not have to be out on strike today an dthey could be enjoying some of the benefits attained by such strong unions as those of the Building Trades and railroad workers. "One way, to offset the possibility or probability of any further cut in wages is to retain a 100 per cent. union," he stated. In saying that the local strike was far-reaching as a precedent for other unions, he promised the moral and financial support of every union local in the state.

Edward Morris was introduced as "the Great Gold Digger of the 1925 Legislature in Rhode Island. State Federation President Morris spoke at length on wage standards the showed the upkeep of a union in the light of a business proposition, as necessary as any insurance or bank account. The American Federation of Yabor, he said, is always furthering a Better Home Movement. In regard to th emental depredations of anarchists and Reds, he said, "Give a man content at home and some luxuries and he never becomes solid for Communism. There is no mill owner starving because the workers have a little home, modern conveniences, some pleasure and possibly a little car, and there is no reason why textile workers should not be lifted from the dogma of civilized slavery." He told of the evil of sections where operatives are underpaid and both man and wife have to work to support the family budget.

In his remarks Senator John Powers sounded a warning against undue caution over meetings held or rumors afloat regarding a settlement of the strike.

Thomas M. Sylvain, 32, who was arrested in Providence Thursday and turned over to the local police to answer to charges of breaking and entering and theft of about $1200 worth of men's clothing from Ben Eisenberg's store at 51 Church street, here, earlier in the day, pleaded guilty, in police court, Friday morning. The imposition of a penalty was outside of the jurisdiction of the local court and Judge Frank H. Foss bound the accused over to the next term of the Windham county superior court. Bonds of $2,000 were named which Sylvain could not furnish and he will remain at Brooklyn jail to await trial. His accomplice, Peter Robinson, alias Peter Roberts remains at large, having escaped by jumping from the automobile loaned with the loot, as it was halted by Officer Barry in Providence.

A continuance until this (Saturday) morning was granted in the case of George J. Hurley, 24, charged in the police court Friday morning with the illegal transportation of liquor. Hurley was represented by a Hartford attorney. He was the driver of a touring coach which was captured on Thursday afternoon by County Detective William E. Jackson, Captain Thomas Grady and State Policeman Hilbert, following a chase from this city to Coventry, where the rum-car became overheated and was forced to a stop. About a gross of bottles of Scotch whiskey was found in the machine.

Mrs. Anna Lyons Mack, 73, of 25 Quarry street died at St. Joseph's hospital Friday morning after an illness of several months. She was one of this city's highly respected residents. She leaves her husband, Thomas Mack, a brother, Patrick Lyons, of this city, and two nieces.

Walter Taylor, a resident of Scotland for the past twenty years died at St. Joseph's hospital here Friday morning. He was born in England, May 22, 1848, a son of Thomas Taylor. The only near relative surviving him is his daughter, Mrs. Adelaide P. Smith of Baltic.

Jan Kerwicsky, 29, who said that he lived somewhere in the town of Coventry spent the night in the police station here to await shearing in the Mansfield town court on a charge of theft of goods from an automobile. Kerwinsky and a chum were caught in the act of stealing from a machine parked at The Ridges. Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews was notified and Kerwiscky was captured but his pal escaped. The young man did not have any of the stolen articles on his person and said that his partner had made away with them.

Chief of Police George Buckley, of Terryville, and James Higins, a retail clothier whose store was burglarized of $2,500 worth of men's clothing four weeks ago were in this city on Friday in an attempt to identify overcoats left at a local rooming house by Thomas H. Sylvain and Peter Robertson who broke into the Benjamin Eisenberg store here Thursday morning. Mr. Higgins failed to identify the coats as some taken from his stock.

TAFTVILLE MAN'S CAR SKIDS IN ROAD OIL POOL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 3.—Arthur C. Bernet of 28 Hunters avenue, Taftville, received a painful blow in the chest by being thrown against the steering wheel, and the car which he was driving was badly damaged, when the machine skidded in a pool of lubricating oil as it was descending Jillson Hill about 10 o'clock, Friday morning. About midway down the hill the machine believed, and in spite of the prompt action of the driver struck a stone wall. Bernet was given a severe jolt, although his injury did not warrant medical attention. It developed that the pool of oil nearly caused several other accidents and a man from the street department was sent to spread sand over the pool. Bernet reported the accident to Chief Allan MacArthur and Officer William Hurley.

JOINT CONFERENCE HELD— THREAD STRIKE DISCUSSED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 3.—The joint conference of officials of the American Thread company, representatives of the striking operatives and members of the civic mediating committee closed at 4.15 o'clock Friday afternoon, without having accomplished anything definite in the way of settling the strike at the local mills of the plant. The session convened at 10.30 o'clock in the forenoon under the chairmanship of T. Frank Cunningham, head of the civic committee. One hour was taken for lunch. A sidelight of the meeting was the congenial spirit with which employer met employe and vice versa, which was evidenced in the courteous manner with which remarks and statements were made by both sides.

President R. C. Kerr of the American Thread company reviewed statements issued by Local Agent Don H. Curtis which informed the employes that although the mills were open for anyone desiring to return to work and minor grievances would be considered when brought before the officials by department representatives the company was not, at this time, in a position to return the 10 per cent wage reduction, which took effect on January 12.

John H. Powers, state senator from Rhode sland, was spokesman for the strikers. He took exception to the position of the officials, but replied, on behalf of the strikers, that they would not recede from the decision which they had arrived at and that they would not return to work until some explicit agreement had been arrived at. There were about 35 in attendance at the conference.

The thread company officials who arrived here from New York in the forenoon and were present at the session were: President R. C. Kerr and General F. E. Kaley of the board of directors. With them were Don H. Curtis, agent of the Willimantic Mills and Carleton S. Pollard, assistant agent.

The representatives of the strikers were State Senator John Powers of Cumberland, R. I., Miss Mary Kelleher, national organizer, and Miss Amy L. Hooker, president of the local textile council and a delegation of representatives from each department of the plant. President Kerr and Senator Powers led in the discussion.

In his talk President Kerr stated that this was the first serious difference which had arisen between the employes and the company since the concern was organized, 26 years ago. He expressed every hope that the operatives would be enabled to return to work at an early date. For the directors, he stated that they had a mutual interest with the city and the citizens. He made a statement that the present difficulty was in reality the outgrowth of a disagreement arising in the swift spooling department of the local plant, concerning the discontinuance of the allowance payment basis and that the action for the restoration of the 10 per cent wage cut was only a pretext. The lack of foundation for this statement was apparently satisfactorily explained in subsequent remarks.

He went on to explain that as regards increases and decreases in wages since 1916, the local plant had simply followed precedents established in Fall River and New Bedford, Mass., and that wages paid in Willimantic were the highest in this section of the thread industry. Regarding a conference with President Thomas F. McMahon of the United Textile Workers of America held previous to the launching of the strike, he said that he had advised the union head to postpone any strike, as indications were that it would be long drawn out. The retention and acquisition of new and old customers is a serious problem in any business, he said, and the employes should consider the effect of the strike on this phase of the business.

In answer, State Senator Powers contended that the wage reduction was not general throughout New England and pointed to several additional reasons why he believed the strike here unjustified. Mr. Powers included every detail of the controversy in speaking from the strikers' point of view. He responded to the words "competition" and "presently not in a position to restore the wage cut," as used by President Kerr by presenting figures in tabular arrangement showing the earnings of the concern during the past year.

At this point Chairman Cunningham appointed Harry N. Bullard, John R. Pickett and Charles A. Gates a committee to confer privately with the officials. This was done during a 15-minute recess.

Upon adjournment of the morning session at 1 o'clock the way had brightened in the opinion of the majority present and there appeared indications of an early settlement.

Activities were resumed shortly after 2 o'clock in the form of rebuttals on the part of President Kerr and Senator Powers. Ground was covered rapidly in the hope that some definite conclusion could be arrived at for the day.

Both sides remained pat and at a suggestion of Senator Powers, Miss Kelleher and the civic committee withdrew to allow the officials and the strikers to discuss the matter without interruption. About a half hour later all interested parties resumed their seats. President Kerr arose and stated that the discussion had simmered down to the restoration or non-restoration of the 10 per cent cut. As the concern could not possibly agree at present to make a general wage increase, he believed that it would be impossible to offer any further inducements for the strikers to return, other than that they would be welcomed back to their jobs and consideration would be given to the grievances, other than the wage cut.

This concluded the discussion. On behalf of the bodies which they represented, President Kerr and State Senator Powers exchanged congratulations on the friendly spirit manifested throughout the day and both joined in thanking the civic committee for the part which it had taken in attempting a settlement.

The mutual understanding upon adjournment at 4.20 o'clock was that all concerned would readily accept invitations to hold another joint meeting at any time in the event that new developments on either side should furnish additional reason for a conference.

Brazil Has Deepest Mine

The St. John del Rey, a gold mine in Brazil, South America, now is said to be the deepest in the world since it has been worked down to a depth of 6,726 feet. Other holes have been bored much deeper, but not with productive result, as for instance one hole in the earth in West Virginia, which was sunk to a depth of 7,579 feet in a futile search for natural gas.

SUFFERED AFTER BIRTH OF BABY

Trouble Caused by Getting Up Too Soon. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Talerille, New York. — "I thought it would interest you to know what benefit I have derived from taking your medicine. A few days after the birth of my third child I got up too quick. Then just before my fifth child was born I had inflammation of the bladder and displacement. Seeing your advertisement in Liverpool (England) paper I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and that was the best confinement I had. Whenever I feel run down I always take the Vegetable Compound as a tonic. We have just removed from Brockville (Canada) so I was pleased when the store ordered the medicine for me and I got it today. I would not be without it for any price and I recommend it to ladies around here because I feel so sure it will benefit any woman who takes it." — Mrs. AGNES WIGHALL, Talerille, New York.

Women can depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve them from ills peculiar to their sex. For sale by druggists everywhere.

NEW LONDON FIRE CAR SPEEDED— NOW THE DRIVER MUST EXPLAIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3—As a result of the alleged reckless driving of the Northwest Hose company's apparatus last Wednesday when responding to a call for assistance at a blaze at Crescent Beach, which destroyed a summer hotel there, City Manager William A. Holt this forenoon caused Driver Alger, who was at the wheel of the fire truck, Chief Charles Rose and two firemen to be summoned before him at the office of the city manager in the municipal building. The hearing resulted in the testimony of witnesses being taken. Announcement of the city manager's decision will be made within a day or two.

The fire headquarters had received a request from officials of East Lyme for aid in combatting flames that threatened to reach buildings throughout the summer colony and the Northwest Hose company was dispatched to the fire. Because of water being located a considerable distance from the fire the driver of the fire apparatus was ordered to obtain additional hose before starting. This was done and as the machine, a powerful Seagrave pumper, passed through Bank street, it is alleged that Alger operated it at a speed estimated at close to 50 miles an hour. Charles R. Stoll, Bank street business man, and a member of Konomoc Hose company, lodged complaint with City Manager Holt because of the apparent recklessness in the handling of the apparatus. Mr. Stoll was also a witness at today's hearing.

The funeral of Mrs. Bertha D. Chapman, widow of C. Augustus Chapman, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Flanders Baptist church, the services being conducted by Rev. P. S. Collins, pastor of the church. Burial was in Union cemetery, Niantic.

Edward R. Henkie, 17, was arrested last night by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock charged with violation of the automobile laws for operating a machine without having a license. He will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning.

An automobile owned by the Spicer Ice Company, Groton, and operated by Harry Whittlesey, of Allyn's Point, struck a child, William Provost, 3, of 31 Hill street, on Main street, near the corner of Hill street, this forenoon. The child escaped with injuries not of a serious nature.

The child had been amusing himself on Hill street by coasting on a tricycle. On one of the trips down the grade the child was unable to stop the cycle when the corner of Main street was reached with the result that the cycle continued to the pavements of Main street before Whittlesey, whose truck was about to pass the intersection, could stop the vehicle. The result was that the cycle was struck and the child hurled to the pavements. An examination of the boy revealed that only minor bruises about the legs and body had been sustained.

Reuben Lubchansky, known in New London as a junk dealer and his wife, who was formerly Lottie Usher, were in the police court this morning prepared to accuse each other. Lubchansky was brought to trial for his failure to properly support his wife, he having denied her the right to get provisions, etc., at stores where she had been a patron. Attorneys in the case conferred and then it was concluded that there was a chance of settlement of the trouble and a reconciliation of the pair. To determine whether that belief was well founded, the case was continued to Monday next. Mr. Lubchansky said some ugly things about his wife to those in the court room while he was waiting. Prosecutor Hollandersky desired to go on with the case and told the court that his case was prepared and that he had the witnesses to prove his contention that Reuben had refused and still refused to support his lawful wife. But Reuben's attorney held that there was a prospect of a settlement of the matter without recourse to law. Reuben said some harsh things and accused his wife of being wasteful with money, also of having affection for another man who resides or does business close to the Lubchansky apartment. The matter will come to trial Monday unless Mrs. Lubchansky is of a forgiving turn of mind when that day rolls around. The stone that will be hurled at Reuben has not yet been produced.

John Billings, a man employed on a farm in the section adjoining New London, came to town yesterday and sopped up enough booze so that it put him down and out. Today he wanted a little thing like over indulgence in intoxicating liquor overlooked by the court. That was not to be considered and a fine of $5 was imposed. Billings had $3 coming to him, but that was not enough to pay the fine and the costs.

There is not the demand for stores in this city that has been apparent in the past, for more vacant places are noticeable on the principal streets now than have been to be found in many years.

The Goddard property, State street, formerly occupied by the Far East restaurant and C. W. Strickland & Co., is being dismantled, work on razing the structure having been started today by a New Haven construction company, in order to remove the ancient building to make room for a two story fire-proof structure that will house the S. S. Kresge company, a western concern, operators of a chain of five, ten, twenty-five, fifty cent and dollar stores. A stipulation of the lease of the Kresge company, which is for 30 years, is that the Kresge company shall erect a modern fire-proof structure and that it shall be completed by April 1, 1926. The Kresge company will occupy the ground floor and intends to lease the upper floor.

A board of inquiry, consisting of several officers of the United States Coast guard craft, conducted a hearing the latter part of yesterday and today in an effort to determine how Boatswain's mate Carl Gustafson, of the crew of the CG-237 was fatally wounded at his post aboard the craft early yesterday morning. A rifle ball entered the pilot house and pierced the abdomen of Gustafson while he was endeavoring to locate a supposed rum-runner operatifg without bow, stern or sidelights. The board has determined that the shot was fired from a rum-runner, the identity of the craft is unknown to the naval authorities. The ball that entered Gustafson's body was from a high powered device, presumably a rifle. It is believed by naval authorities here that the rum-runner was making an endeavor to get through Long Island sound without displaying lights and that when Gustafson detected the sound of a motor and headed the CG-237 in the direction of where the sound of the whirring of the motor appeared to be, the approach of the rum-chaser was observed and one of its crew caused the shot to be fired at the pilot house.

The theory was advanced here today that one of the four rum-chasing craft from the local section base, together with the CG-237, seeking to overhaul rum-runners and with the coast guard craft not displaying lights; that the CG-237 was mistaken for a rum-carrier and fire was opened on the craft, with the result that Gustafson was killed. This, however, is denied by naval officials, who contend that before any shots would have been fired a signal would have been given for the suspected rum-carrier to come to a stop and it would then have been revealed that the latter craft was a sister-ship of the craft making pursuit.

Gustafson's funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon and he will be given full military honors. The body will be accompanied by an escort of naval officers and a detachment of coast guard sailors.

Coast guard craft continued their search for rum-runners in the sound last night and as a result of their efforts two schooners were captured and this morning they were brought into port, together with their cargoes and crews. The seized boats are the Mary E. Beale, and the North Star, both of Providence. The Beale had 1,500 cases of alcohol and her master described himself as Capt. Albert G. Roberts, Boston. The North Star had a cargo of 500 cases of alcohol and the master was Capt. Archie McNeil, Wakefield, R. I.

Both craft have previously been seized by rum-chasers from the local coast guard section base.

The Beale was captured by the CG-231 when the boat was detected in the vicinity of Narragansett Bay and apparently headed for Providence. The chaft hove to when a signal was given to do so and was then brought into port. During the day the Beale was towed to Providence where the master and crew of one will be given a hearing before a United States Commissioner.

The North Star was seized by the CG-188 when the rum-runner was sighted about 11 miles southeast of Sandy Point light, off the Rhode Island shore. The craft had before been encountered light and her master refused to bring the craft to a stop when an order to do so failed as did a warning of three shots across her bow.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the crew were presented before United States Commissioner Earl Matthewson of Norwich, and all gave bonds for a hearing next week.

Montauk avenue has been oiled and sanded to lay the dust that comes with the advent of April. The season is far advanced. A resident of that avenue had a laborer at work cutting his lawn Wednesday. The grass was raked over too and gathered up and put into barrels.

Edward Gomes, of Jewett City, formerly of New London, is making a brief visit with relatives in this city.

William Boardman, 60, formerly of New London, died yesterday at his residence in Greenport, L. I., in which place he had made his home about 30 years. Death resulted from injuries he sustained in a strange manner the day before while in the performance of his duties as foreman of the caulking force at the Tuttle shipyard, Greenport. Mr. Boardman was supervising the lowering of the ways to the water and was standing at the controlling lever. Suddenly and without warning an object was hurled against his chest, causing him to become dazed and apparently fatally injured. He was then taken to his home by fellow-workmen and an examination revealed that Mr. Boardman had sustained several fractured ribs and one of them had pierced the heart. His death followed. Mr. Boardman is survived by two brothers, Albert and Augustus Boardman and a sister, Mrs. Emma Boyle, all of this city.

This fore-noon, Dr. Moody of the University of Vermont spoke to the student body of Chapman Technical High School on the necessity of higher sources of education and the knowledge of knowing how to increase higher standards of American life.

The speaker brought out very emphatically that one of the greatest of Americas faults is the sacrifice of reality for appearance. We should not sacrifice education for Degrees, nor be content with Diplomas, but that absolute honesty in scholarship was the essential thing, nothing else will do.

NORWICH DETECTIVE GETS EVIDENCE IN WENCH CASE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3—County Detective William Lewis, of Norwich, was in New London this afternoon for the purpose of completing gathering evidence against William T. Bartlett, 29 Henry street. The latter is charged with manslaughter in causing the death through performing an criminal abortion, of Miss Dolly Wench, 21, and former telephone operator at Hartford, where she resided with her mother at 102 Belmont avenue. Bartlett is now a prisoner at the New London county jail awaiting trial at the May term of the superior court, which will convene in this city the first Tuesday of the month. He has been unable to secure a surety on his bond of $10,000. John J. Woods, 23 Ocean avenue, at whose residence the alleged operation was performed and where the girl died, is charged with being an accessory before the fact and is a prisoner in the county jail in default of a surety on his bond of $7,500. Michael T. Day, 33 Cottage street, also charged with being accessory before the fact, is at liberty on bail of $2,000 furnished by his father, Patrick F. Day.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

At the annual convocation of Orient chapter, Royal Arch Masons, Wednesday evening, the following officers were elected: Most excellent high priest, Dr. G. Percival Bard; excellent king, J. D. The public schools will open Monday for the spring term of ten weeks.

The case of Sanford O. Bates, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor March 28, came up before Judge Heald in the borough court Friday afternoon by adjournment from Monday. The court found Bates guilty and imposed a penalty of $100 fine and costs and thirty days in jail. The jail sentence was suspended pending good behavior. The total fine and costs amounted to $111.21 and was paid. It appeared from the evidence that Bates while under the influence drove down for gas to the Matteson station, which is next door to the state police barracks and he was taken into custody by Officer Heinold.

PLAINFIELD

The supper and sale given at the Congregational church Wednesday evening was well attended; an excellent supper was served. An interesting entertainment was given, consisting of violin selections by Ellison Barstow, Roy H. Barstow, pianist; readings by Frances Mathewson; piano selections by Lena Piper; readings by Donald Gallup; the second came as a surprise in the way of an April fool. The chairmen of the committees for the evening were: supper committee, Mrs. Lotta Dodge; entertainment, Mrs. Fred D. Lyon; ice cream and cake, Mrs. John C. Kingsley and Mrs. Everett E. Dawley; apron table in charge of Miss Ruth A. Hall; fancy work table, Mrs. A. H. Mathewson and Mrs. Robert L. Dawley.

The Lincoln Club Father and Son banquet is to be given in April. It is expected that each member will bring as his guest his son or some other boy.

Sunday will conclude the interesting campaign which has been carried on by the Congregational Sunday school for a long term of weeks. The campaign was started under the former superintendent, Cecil I. Butler and is being closed under Superintendent Alfred Royle. It has been a close contest in attendance between the boys and the girls.

The following program will be carried out at the special services next week: Tuesday, speaker, Rev. George Keene Gray, of the Congregational church, Jewett City; Wednesday, Rev. G. H. Wright, Methodist church, Sterling; Rev. Chester J. Armstrong, Baptist church, Danielson. Soloists, James Royle, Mrs. Henry W. Fontaine, Mrs Arthur H. A number from this place were in Norwich Sunday evening to hear Dr. Merrill at the Central Baptist church.

A letter from Miss Elizabeth Budelt to friends here tells that their family has recently moved from Manchester S. D., where they located after leaving Lisbon, to Esmond in the same state. Most of the farmers in that locality have their wheat already seeded and some are now plowing for corn.

The Ross family, of Wellesley, Mass., arrived Wednesday to spend some time at their summer home here.

A meeting of the Woman's Missionary society was held at the parsonage Wednesday afternoon.

One day recently a local resident was passing a farm where a new truck with its brilliant surface stood in the yard. A tom turkey was strutting about and all at once discovered his reflection in the side of the truck. He wasn't going to stand being faced by one of his own kind in that way and with all the force he could muster attacked the other bird. The impact was so great that he was thrown backward in a heap but quickly gathered himself together preparing for another attack. By this time the passerby was too far past the place to witness the final outcome

Pig Has Beauty Treatment

Now naturalists report that the pig, which is given little credit for bathing, really does have beauty ablutions though he prefers mud to water, except in hot weather. His bath is like that of the modern woman who uses cold cream. He lets the mud dry and then rubs it and the bodily accumulation off against the straw stack or the fence post.

TEN MINUTE LENTEN SERMON

By the Rev. Charles Emerson Burton, D. D.

CHRIST THE WORLD'S SAVIOR

Sermon topic, The Cross: It is finished. John 19:30.

Language breaks down when we try to explain the full meaning of the words of Jesus on the Cross, "It is finished." We think of him as meaning that redemption is finished; man's salvation is provided for.

We talk about his paying the debt that we owe; we speak of being bought with a price. His death is called the sacrifice for our sins; he is said to make propitiation for our sins.

The Christ on the Cross is denominated our Redeemer.

Of course there are great mysteries involved when we are dealing with spiritual reality. Not a few are troubled when they undertake to fathom these mysteries. We shall not attempt this in these few words, but we do want to note some great facts, and to note them in a practical way.

First of all, God suffered. If Jesus was not deceived, and if he has not deceived us, then the fact that he suffered on the Cross means that God suffered. "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father," is at the heart of his message to men.

Jesus was no more loving than the Father was loving. Jesus did not care for the little children any more than the Almighty God cares for little children. Jesus was not patient with sinners any more than God is patient with sinners, and the agony of Jesus upon the Cross whatever else it may mean, signifies that sin inflicts suffering upon the divine heart. "I and my Father are one," indicates that the same kind of thing that gave pain to Christ gives pain to God.

What can this mean but that in all ages the burden of man's iniquity has fallen heavily upon the heart of the heavenly Father. Our question in passing is, Do I want to add to that burden?

Further, the Cross means that God's suffering shows a forgiving spirit. When you willingly suffer for an enemy you develop in your heart a forgiving attitude of mind. Someone has done you an injustice; if you let it rankle in your mind, if you meditate on revenge, if you contrive ways of getting even, then your heart is hardened; but if on the contrary you forget yourself and proceed to do kindnesses for the evil-doer, whatever the effect upon him, your own heart is enriched with a spirit of forgiveness.

Now God maintains that spirit of forgiveness in his own life by planning redemption for men rather than punishment. The Cross therefore on which Jesus died, and every other expression of God's Magnanimity, is a function of his forgiving love.

God's suffering saved men. Jesus said. "And I if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men unto myself." That is, when a man really sees Jesus Christ on the Cross and knows that in seeing this he is seeing the heart of God, he is mysteriously drawn toward God. The heart within him is melted; he repents of his sins; his moral nature is stirred to its depth, his desire for better living is mightily quickened; his will is galvanized with new energy. There is great mystery in the magnet which draws the iron to its heart, but its power is no more real than the power of God over the receptive heart.

Let us not miss the meaning, and much more let us not miss the value of the Cross is not to be worshipped but to be carried. The practical decision for us therefore is whether we shall so love the Christ as that we shall follow him.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Excavating is under way for the foundations for St. Alban's new parish house. The interior will include an auditorium 27 by 23 feet, with a stage that will be 12 by 11 feet. The kitchen will be 24 by 14 feet and will have complete modern equipment. Metal ceilings and hard wood floors are provided for in the plans. At the entrance there will be a wide veranda. It is anticipated that the building will be completed about June 15.

Dog shows to be held in Danielson are promised by the newly organized Windham County Dog Fanciers' association. The newly formed association is to make a canvass for members and it is hoped that many applications will be on hand when the next meeting is held on April 28. George Ide is chairman of the association and Joseph Birch secretary pro tem.

It is announced that Leo J. L'Hemmedieu, American Legion, has gone on record as favoring the acquisition of a fund to be used in constructing a community house, that would provide quarters for it and for other patriotic organizations of the town. The building would be in the nature of a memorial to the local people who served in the World war, in whatever capacity. The fund will receive its foundation dollars when a part of the proceeds of a play that the legion is to present is set aside for the purpose.

This (Saturday) afternoon at the Connecticut Mills grounds the Danielson A. A. baseball team will have its first real workout of the season. Manager Chet Forrest expects to develop a fast team. At present he is seeking practice games and offers opportunities for try-outs to local hurlers. April 19 the team has a game scheduled in New London and will play its first home game on April 26, with Putnam furnishing the opposition.

With the trout fishermen it is always one dam handicap or another. It is either too hot or too cold. There is either too much water or too little. Just now the knights of the rod and reel have there is too little water to fish what are ordinarily good brooks. This is a remarkable condition for the first week in April, when streams usually are so high they cannot be fished to good advantage. Nevertheless the catch has been very good everything considered, the past three days. A number of trout weighing a pound or more have been reported.

It appears unlikely now that anything will be done this year relative to paying the warden and court of burgess compensation. The warning for the annual town meeting has appeared and any provision therein for action on such a matter, so it cannot properly come before the meeting. While it is realized by many that the warden and his associates should have some remuneration, the matter has not been discussed generally in way to interest a large number in the proposal.

A conference committee representing MacGregor Post, G. A. R., McGregor, W. R. C., and Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans, have a meeting scheduled for this afternoon to consider plans for Memorial day. These organizations each year bear the burden of arranging the Memorial day program, which involves no inconsiderable amount of work.

Showing custom, Tax Collector James H. Walsh, has caused to be published a schedule of times and places where he will be at various communities in the town of Killingly later in the month for the purpose of collecting such taxes as are due the town. Mr. Walsh will visit all of the villages of the town, that the taxpayers therein residing may have an opportunity to pay their taxes without any great inconvenience.

At the annual business meeting of the Baptist church reports of the officers and societies were heard, and the budget, including an increase in the salary of the pastor, was approved as presented. The meeting was called to order by the clerk, Frank T. Preston. Raymond E. Allen was chosen moderator.

Reports were read as follows: records of the year, Frank T. Stinston; treasurer's report, Miss Lillian E. Bailey; Ladies' Aid Society, Mrs. Minnie E. Allen, treasurer; Sunday school, G. Clinton Cleveland, treasurer, and Miss Dorothy Burton, secretary; Missionary society, Mrs. William J. Craig; [illegible], Miss Alice Jordan; Senior and Junior World Wide Guild, Miss Grace Spaulding. The home department and cradle roll reports were omitted because of the absence of officers from these departments.

Although the balance in the treasury is not large, the year has been a financial success as the church has been under unusual expense in repairing the parsonage which was purchased near the end of the previous year. It was reported that pledges for the current period have come in well and at present the amount pledged for each Sunday is greater than ever before.

The result of the election follows:

Trustees, Frank T. Preston, Edward H. Hammett, John W. Gallup, Ernest R. Warren, Raymond E. Allen.

Deacons, Frank T. Preston, Edward H. Hammett, William J. Craig, Everett M. Colvin, Clifford H. Starweather, Raymond E. Allen, Charles B. Carver.

Treasurer, Miss Lillian E. Bailey.

Clerk, Mrs. Ethel W. Hale.

Finance committee, the trustees, deacons, treasurer, clerk, pastor, Rev. C. J. Armstrong, Walter L. Dixon, Frank T. Stinson, Walter I. Chase, Mrs. A. E. Withington, Mrs. J. T. Moran, Mrs. B. C. Conklin and Miss Grace Spaulding.

Committee on religious education, Mrs. Edward L. Keach, Miss Grace M. Stanton, Mrs. Charles B. Carver, Miss Grace Spaulding, Miss A. May Hammett.

Robe committee, Mrs. E. B. Wilbur, Mrs. E. H. Hammett.

Usher, Charles B. Carver.

Auditors, Henry E. Burton, C. Clinton, Cleveland.

Following the meeting the finance committee held a short session, naming Clifford H. Starkweather chairman and Miss Grace Spaulding clerk.

At a meeting of the Social club held Thursday evening first honors at what were won by Mrs. J. Bernier of the West Side, second honors by Mrs. L. J. Fournier and the consolation award went to Mrs. A. Fortier of Dayville. In the whist tournament first honors were won by Mrs. Amadee Lussier, second by Mrs. Joseph Bousquet, Jr., while the consolation award went to Mrs. Amadee Bernier.

Rev. Roger C. Stimson, newly appointed pastor of Danielson Methodist Episcopal church will begin his pastorate here Sunday. Rev. Mr. Stimson is a native of Maine and is 27 years of age. Prior to entering the ministry Rev. Mr. Stimson was actively interested in Y. M. C. A. affairs.

This is another season when complaint is heard in business circles that too much out of town buying is being done. The out of town shopper has been a problem for years. Likely always will be. The coming of the motor age undoubtedly has served to aggravate the tendency to go shopping abroad. Smart merchandising at home is regarded as the best remedy against it.

It has been figured out by Chief A. P. Woodward of the Danielson fire department that the total loss by fire in the borough the past twelve months—$630—represents a per capita loss of only 20 cents, a remarkable showing. The department responded to 39 alarms.

The Paschal retreat held evenings this week at St. James' church for the English-speaking members of the parish have proved of special interest. Friday morning, the first Friday of the month, there were an unusually large number at communion.

For hundreds of people in Danielson and vicinity Good Friday will be a part holiday, in following a custom established for many years. It will not be generally observed as a holiday in Danielson, however.

Frederick E. Kies, who has been spending the winter here after returning from a soldiers' home in Virginia, plans to leave the first of the week to enter the soldiers' home in Maine.

The Catholic Welfare council has a meeting planned for Tuesday evening of next week.

Leo N. Bousquet has gone to New York to take a course in automotive instruction, a combination of practical work and study.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gallup have returned from a trip to California. They have been away since mid-winter.

Mrs. E. B. Wilbur will have the members of the Ladies' Reading circle at her home for a meeting Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. LeClair, who motored to Florida during the winter have returned to their home here.

A Worcester man whose name was not given out caught a trout out of Snake Meadow brook Friday that was 17 inches in length and weighed two pounds.

The annual typewriting contest between teams representing Killingly High school and Putnam High school is scheduled for May 22.

Aside from the routine business that is transacted each year, the only matter of special importance listed for consideration in the warning for the annual borough meeting is that of passing on the proposal of building an additional filter bed for the sewer system at the borough farm.

Mrs. Amadee Boulais and Mrs. Joseph Bousquet, Jr., have been recent visitors in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Worthen, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Long and Miss Dora Swift of Putnam left Friday morning for Los Angeles, California. Various places of interest will be visited, including Chicago and the Grand Canyons. Miss Swift will remain a year in Los Angeles.

PUTNAM

In removing some old brick and rubbish from the cellar of the barn on the Col. Lyon property in East Woodstock, Rev. Henry D. Baker unearthed a tombstone with an inscription dating back 149 years, or to 1766.

The stone was in good condition and the following words carved on it were quite legible:

Sacred to the memory of Joseph Child
Who Departed this Life
In 1776
In his 70th year.

The stone marked the grave of a man who is believed to have been a relative of Benjamin Child, one of the early settlers of the town. There are records aplenty of him but none of Joseph Child.

A large two story house stood on the property, which is east of the Common. It was known as Wayside and was occupied by the late Frank Gordon until it was destroyed by fire a few years ago. Chester E. May bought the property and then sold it to Mr. Baker, who is building a residence there.

In the cemetery nearby are many stones dating back to the first half of the eighteenth century but there is no one who remembers this monument to Joseph Child or who can explain why it was removed from the cemetery.

A notice distributed in local homes reads: A town whose well children are always under the care and observation of a doctor and nurse has fewer infant diseases, fewer epidemics of contagious diseases, less sickness in adult life, less absence from school, less retardation in school. A mother who has her children examined by a doctor twice a year is not only protecting her children, is helping herself, her neighbors, her town, and her country. She is doing a most important kind of public health work. The Child Welfare conference is to be held on Tuesday, April 7 in the High school auditorium from 2 to 4 p. m.

Jade is Deceptive Gem

Pearls and jade are two precious gems widely worn by women today and one cause of their popularity is the difficulty of telling at a glance the real from the artificial. This is especially true of jade, even when laid side by side. There is no perceptible difference, even to an expert between one piece that costs a few dollars and one that costs hundreds.

PACKARD

Fulfills Long Life Expectations

Six months ago Packard began asking all buyers of Packards everywhere how long they expected to keep their new cars.

The record shows that 90% intend to keep their Packards three years or more, 75% four years or more, and 60% five years or more.

Every seventh owner expects to keep his car ten years.

For example, in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., a town of 77,000 population, 215 Packard Six cars were bought during the past five years and 212 are still in service there.

FIRE APPARATUS AND AMBULANCES.

While there have not been many who were willing to dispute the way with fire apparatus while responding to alarms there are some who do not appreciate the importance of furnishing every facility for the rapidly moving motor apparatus. There are [illegible] who take the strange position that their convenience must be served regardless of the emergency that exists, because of the numerous instances where interference with a motor has been encountered that legislation has been sought from the state legislature which would give fire departments and hospital ambulances the right of way.

Perhaps one of the worse difficulties which has been encountered is that of automobile drivers setting over the fire in a manner that handicaps the fire department. Clearly the fire companies are not engaged in the business of racing with private vehicles and they should have the benefit of as clear a highway as it is possible to provide. Much depends upon getting to a fire as quickly as possible as to the effectiveness of the firefighting. Delays of minutes may have serious results in the amount of losses and when streets are clogged with vehicles on the way to the fire or in the vicinity of the trouble it is a serious matter.

It is the same with the ambulances. Time is an important factor in many instances. The quicker a patient can be gotten to a hospital the quicker the relief sought can be furnished. Certainly no ambulance conveying a sick or injured person should be stalled because some other driver is unwilling to yield the right of way.

Whether it is the fire department or an ambulance, there should be no question about giving the full right of way. Experience shows that there has been and that the condition grows worse with the increase in motor vehicles. The [illegible] when has been proved to branches of the service is warranted and should [illegible]

STOPPING RIVER POLLUTION.

For a number of years Connecticut has been interested in the problem of preventing the pollution of its rivers. [illegible] has been had but they [illegible] worse as time goes [illegible] to those contributing to the pollution increases.

At the hearing on the bills with [illegible] before the present general assembly this week there was a [illegible] opinion as to which [illegible] should be adopted, but there [illegible] a general feeling that [illegible] should be done. In regard thereto it is to be hoped that [illegible] will be made than [illegible] checking pollution is [illegible] task. It has its many [illegible] and it means no small [illegible] but it is to be regretted that the longer the matter is [illegible] the more it is going to cost [illegible] becomes the [illegible] of the matter [illegible] [illegible] sum of [illegible] made. No matter what [illegible] that is passed, it will not [illegible] perfect. There will be [illegible] which it will have to [illegible] developed, but if [illegible] attempt made to wait until [illegible] is produced that can [illegible] perfect there will [illegible] be [illegible] made.

[illegible] have been done in [illegible] the serious[illegible] of the situation today would [illegible] greatly decreased. Could [illegible] be done now it will serve to [illegible] the situation getting any [illegible] than the checking of the [illegible] increasing pollution would be [illegible]. After that had been accomplished there could be a gradual [illegible] of long standing conditions. Under whatever law that is adopted much time and money will be required to make the rivers and the streams of the state better. With such an understanding of the present day pollution there is a duty resting upon the present legislature to insist upon a start being made. It is will start the ball rolling it will hasten the day for the solution of this problem.

PAN-AMERICANISM.

When Dr. Enrique Molina, dean of a large Chilian university, speaks at a Latin-American congress in Uruguay it a disparaging way concerning the motives of this country concerning pan-Americanism and added that he considered the Monroe doctrine a dead letter, he was voicing sentiment that has been heard before from Latin-American countries. It makes it evident that despite all that has been done to eliminate that feeling it has not been accomplished. There is a suspicion still lurking among the intellectual, that we have a selfish motive in endeavoring to throw a protecting arm about the republics of the western hemisphere.

It will be noted that Dr. Molina does not speak for the congress. At least it is to be inferred that he does not speak for other than himself from the fact that his words caused other delegates to jump to their feet and seek a chance to reply. This would indicate a decided difference of opinion, which will probably be revealed later.

South American countries have long suffered from misinterpretation. They have failed to appreciate the service that has been gratuitously rendered them. The Monroe doctrine has been in existence for many years and yet this country has not corraled the trade of the South American countries. In fact the United States has long failed to develop a most logical field. While the Monroe doctrine was meant for our own protection primarily, it none the less establishes us as the big brother of the other republics of North, Central and South America when it gets to the point where foreign control is threatened.

In the face of all this South America has been clinging to its European markets. It was not until the war, when it became necessary to turn in this direction that the United States began to get such trade as it had reason to expect. This country does not covet its neighbors. It believes that they should stand together for their own advantage and protection and it took an altruistic position in that regard when the Monroe doctrine became effective.

AUTO HEADLIGHTS.

Notice has been given that the state police department are going to enforce the headlight law. This is bound to get general endorsement, for while the number of instances where accidents are attributed to the glare of headlights is less than in other years there are plenty of times when glaring lights are still encountered, and there are too many times when they can be given as the cause for accidents.

Having the prescribed lenses does not necessarily eliminate the glare of the lights in all cases. It is important that the lights should be focused properly, and the motor vehicle department has given instructions as to how this can be done. Have you followed instructions or have you had someone else apply the test?

As an aid to the testing of headlights and to insure the proper focusing so that the rays of the lights will be thrown down onto the road instead of up into the eyes of other drivers, the state police have been giving their services at a few points about the state.

It is unfortunate that they have not extended this service to the greater part of the auto drivers of the state by having one or more men visit all the cities of the state for a certain number of evenings, or even days in a darkened garage. All the drivers would appear to be entitled to this service, and it is to be realized that while it was offered in midwinter some 20, 30 or more miles away there are this month hundreds of cars coming out of storage which could not take advantage of the testing period around the first of the year. It is neither unjust nor unfair that such tests should be provided for each city at this time of the year.

RUM RUNNING DESPERATION.

In connection with the murder of a chief boatswain's mate on a coast guard patrol boat off Montauk it is to be expected that there will be the most thorough investigation, and it is to be hoped that it will be possible to determine and convict the guilty person. Such, however, seems to be no easy task.

The coast guard patrol was policing the waters for the purpose of blocking the efforts of the rum runners. It had spotted a suspicious craft, but it doesn't appear that it had either hailed or attempted to stop it. Pursuit was underway when the shower of shot struck the coast guard vessel. It was as if a policeman had become suspicious of an individual and started to watch his actions only to be shot dead in his tracks.

Ability to trace law abiding craft in the region where the attack took place seems not difficult, but when it comes to determining what law breakers were abroad in that locality it is a different matter.

The desperate character of the rum runners has been demonstrated on different occasions, but when the coast guard patrol is fired upon it became evident that its activity is having a serious effect upon those who are determined to violate the law even though in doing so it becomes necessary to take life.

There was no question in the mind of those who fired the shots as to what they were doing or the character of the vessel that was fired on. Any doubt regarding that will be quickly cleared up by the investigation underway.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: No great amount of entertainment from the fish stories thus far.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Are we not making a serious mistake in ionizing criminals? There is no particular objection to hero worship, if, back of your adoration, there is a real hero worth praising. Still hero worship leads you nowhere, and usually leads to only feeble imitation. But it is an entirely different matter in trying to make a hero out of a criminal, especially a super-criminal. It flatters his pride and gives him a distinction which he has not earned, and certainly does not merit. The decent young fellow who does not break the law, and leads a straight honest life is not noticed. Nobody sends him flowers; nobody tries to photograph him, no newspaper cares about the names of his parents and grand parents. He is passed by for the rascal who has deliberately killed somebody. This age may lay some claim to intelligence, but that commodity has not yet been exhausted.

A pretty good one appeared in a paper the other day to this effect: "A boy never takes any of his meanness from his father because the old man never gives away any that he has." This squib was evidently intended for a joke, and the man who wrote it was probably paid for such. But whether the statement appears in the funny column of a newspaper, or among the proverbs of Solomon, or in the theology of Saint Paul it certainly has a religious teaching. If a man has a mean boy it does not indicate that he has lost any of his own meanness. If a man teaches a boy to steal instead of losing any capacity for stealing he has, by the act of teaching, become a sticker thief himself. If a man teaches his boy algebra he tends to fix algrebra all the more firmly in his own mind. A boy is actually mean only when he conceives a mean thing in his own mind and then carries it out. The most he can receive from his father is a trend to be good or bad. A man does not lose his meanness by having children but by coming into contact with the grace of God.

In the literary world one of the most difficult arts to master is that of condensation: that is, the art of putting one's thoughts into as few words as possible to make the idea he is trying to convey as clear as possible. I wish somebody would write a book on the Psychology of Brevity. That is the reason why Tacitus is studied in our colleges and universities. How that man could separate the wheat from the tares! How he could boil down facts, throw out the unimportant and give us only the gist of human action. Tacitus was not easy to read because every word had its chiselled place and every word misunderstood spoiled an entire sentence. Caesar's Commentaries are in the same catagory. So clear, so precise and yet so full! Brevity is something more than "the soul of wit."

Wouldn't is be interesting to hear the confessions of a waste basket? It would run something as follows: "How my poor sides ache! They are so bulged out with useless material! After every mail my master very thoughtlessly jambs handfuls of paper into my almost bursting abdomen with the angry remark, "hang these rotten stuff!' Sometimes just to take my mind away from my burdens I glance at this 'rotten stuff,' and feel that my master who is a very busy man has some reason for calling it 'rotten.' The first crumpled paper I look at is an appeal to help a struggling church in the far west. The object is doubtless a worthy one but the print is perfectly wretched and hardly legible. In that respect it was 'rotten' indeed! I can hardly blame my master for throwing it aside unread. The next wad straightened out is of large sheets, finely printed, on taxation. Think of it, taking so much of his valuable time! Well, as long as he has to suffer I'll try to bear my pain!"

Everything considered it must be far more satisfactory to be a guide board than a hitching post. If a real live man were compelled to be a hitching post he would soon die of nervous prostration. One can almost hear the guide board saying in lively tones: "I'm helping people to get somewhere, without me they would land in Labrador rather than in Arizona where they want to go." Now the poor hitching post is compelled to make this humiliating confession: "At any rate I'm keeping some old plug from getting away." Look at poor Mexico chloroformed with the old Spanish-Indian civilization, still plowing the rich fields of Sonora with a crooked stick as they did in Palestine twenty centuries ago. We have tried to supplant the old hitching post with the more modern guide board, but thus far it has only been partially successful.

A farmer was one day early in April plowing in the field with his hired boy. While resting the oxen a bit, the boy timorously remarked: "Mr. Smith, don't you think that the fish would bite pretty well today?" "I think they would, somethin' awful," replied the farmer, "but if we keep right on plowin' they won't bite us." Now doesn't that sound just like some hard, old-fashioned, tight-fisted New Englanders whom we have met. He might be a deacon in some orthodox church, or the third member of the board of selectmen. A man who had entirely forgotten that he was once a boy-if indeed he ever was one. This man had no boys of his own, and the only property he owned that he worshiped was tucked away in the town's savings bank whose cashier had not yet carried it off with him into some safe place of exile. O for men and employers of the young who understand boys, and their love for the speckled beauties!

Whether one wants to or not he can hardly help being reminded on the insecurity of life. He meets a friend on the street and says to him, "glad to see you looking so well, Joe!" And Joe answers with a broad smile on his face, "Never felt so well in my life!" Early the next morning when he stands aghast before that little item announcing that Joe passed away in the night. How little did the nation think when President Harding started on his Alaskan trip that he would never see the white house again. Another president who was elected in 1840, died on April 4—just one month after his inauguration. One day it is "Hail to the Chief," and the next "The Dead March in Saul."

THE PANAMA INDIANS WHO REVOLTED

The San Blas Indians of Panama who recently rose against the Panamanian government are unique among the coastal aborigines of both the Americas in remaining pure racially, according to a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

This is all the more remarkable, the bulletin points out, "because these people inhabit the portion of the mainland first visited by Europeans, and selected for their first attempt at continental colonization; and because control by Europeans has actually been in force all around them for more than 400 years.

"The part of Panama which is usually spoken of more or less loosely as 'the San Blas territory' begins about 60 miles east of the Atlantic end of the Canal and extends on eastward toward the Colombian border," continues the bulletin. "It also extends an indefinite distance inland. The typical San Blas Indians, however, are a sea-island people and the center of their activity, on the numerous small islands in the Gulf of San Blas, is a sort of New World Venice.

"Like true Venetians they seem to have taken up their abode on these islands as a measure of defense against their warlike kinsmen of the interior. The islands are almost exclusively dwelling places, and the Indians that inhabit them cross over to the mainland by day to harvest yams, plantains and other vegetables and fruits from their jungle clearings, and to gather ivory, nuts and other jungle products. Some of the Indians also live in villages along the coast of the mainland.

"The San Blas Indians are not savages. They are at least semi-civilized, and are an orderly people not given to encroachment on or aggression toward their neighbors. They have fought much during the past four centuries but it has been the fighting of a people with their backs to a wall, who believe the wall is theirs, and who mean to defend it.

"The apparent attitude of the San Blas Indians might be described by a phrase borrowed from the new psychology. They seem to have developed a strong 'superiority complex.' When the Spaniards began settling the Isthmus they could not see why their affairs should be interferred with, and they set the Spaniards down as their implacable enemies. All efforts to conquer them or to mix with them were unsuccessful. They were pushed farther back, but always managed to hold their own a considerable territory. Finally the Spanish settlers entered into a treaty with the San Blas people agreeing to remove all forts from their territory and granting them a sort of autonomy.

"When the Isthmus passed to Colombia the San Blas maintained much the same attitude toward the Colombians that they had maintained toward the Spaniards; and when Panama became independent in 1903 they held aloof from the new government. They have had their own chiefs and have had little or nothing to do with the Panaman government. Every effort to bring them any closer under the control of the republic starts an uprising like the recent one.

"It has been the boast of the San Blas that their race has remained absolutely pure—that there is no such thing as a half breed San Blas. This is the more remarkable because of the marked racial? mixture nearby, where a fusion of whites, Indians and negroes is to be found.

"The San Blas Indians have gained a reputation for being inhospitable. This is not exactly an accurate estimate. They have learned to be suspicious of strangers and they will take no chances. Those having legitimate errands, such as traders, are treated courteously, but there is an unvarying rule that no stranger shall remain ashore in their country over night. They look upon their land as community property but those who clear a space have a recognized title to it while they use it. If a clearing is abandoned it again becomes community property. Fruit trees planted by an individual become his property.

"Living as they do near the water, the San Blas are thoroughly at home in that element, being excellent swimmers and canoeists. The children are given tiny canoes as soon as they are large enough to wield a little paddle, and are accomplished boatmen at an early age. The San Blas are sturdy and strong but of low stature, hardly averaging 5 feet in height. There is a persistent tradition that the Indians not only go into the jungle to gather nuts and fruits, but also to work secret gold mines. They use a considerable amount of gold in personal adornment, but whether their ornaments are chiefly heirlooms or whether fresh gold is constantly made into these baubles has not been determined.

"An incident occurred during the digging of the canal that well illustrates the independence and the shrewdness of the San Blas. Engineers of the Canal Commission found in the edge of the San Blas country a huge deposit of sand of a type perfectly fitted to their needs for concrete mixing, and offered to buy it at a good price from the San Blas chief. 'No,' was his reply, 'it is our sand today, it belonged to our fathers before us, and it will be our children's in the future. We can not sell it. Anyway, if your God had meant for you to have it He would have put it at Colon, not in the land of the San Blas.'"

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir William Soulsby, who today enters upon his 75th year, has a record of service that is probably without a parallel in public life. For fifty years Sir William has served as private secretary to fifty successive Lord Mayors of London. In the British Metropolis it is a saying that Lord Mayors may come and go, but Sir William goes on forever—at least the city hopes so. For half a century he has been the real Lord Mayor of London. He has been the right hand of every man whom the public has imagined to be holding office during this period. Two or three hundred people call at the Mansion House every day to see the Lord Mayor, and Sir William, with smiling courtesy, sends them all away —satisfied. Seven hundred people send letters to the Lord Mayor every 24 hours. All are attended to by the private secretary. Sir William is a native Londoner and a graduate of King's College.

Ethel Barrymore Had to Earn Her Living

Extremely bashful and selfconscious, Ethel Barrymore had to give up her dreams of becoming a great pianist and begin to earn a living on the stage.

Daughter of Maurice and Georgiana Drew Barrymore and descendant of a long line of famous actors, it was the expected thing to do, but she had not considered the question before. In Philadelphia, her native city, she had attended the Convent of Notre Dame and spent eight years in study of the piano.

At 11 she took her mother, then ill, to Santa Barbara, Cal., only to return with the weighted coffin. After a year in the convent her funds gave out and she had to go to work. There was no opening for her in music, so she joined her grandmother, Mrs. John Drew, then touring Canada in The Rivals, and played the part of Julia, nervously forgetting her lines the first night. The tour a financial failure, she had to leave all her possessions in a trunk at a hotel and return home.

After a four-months' search for work, she was given a part at 14 with the company of her uncle, John Drew, playing in The Bauble Shop. After two years of small parts, she played in Rosemary and won recognition.

Playing a minor role in William Gillette's company appearing in Secret Service in London, she took the ingenue part without rehearsal and won praise form the critics. Soon afterward she was engaged by Sir Henry Irving.

Starred in Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines at 21, she won success after threatened failure. Then followed a series of successes.

Married at 31 to Russell Griswold Colt, she spent her honeymoon tour in Lady Frederick. After the birth of her first son, she appeared in Mid-Channel, her first serious play, and had to find a new public, but won greater success than before. Her married life proved unhappy and she was divorced.

Her Declasse, Claire de Lune and other plays brought greater praise and today she is beloved as an actress, a mother and a woman.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

THE CRUCIFIXION

The most important facts of human history are the creation, the redemption, the judgment. At creation man's relation to his maker began. At the judgment they will be forever and irrevocably settled. How they will be settled will depend upon ones relation to the redemption. Redemption is thus the pivot of destiny.

Its visible manifestation began with the incarnation and ended with the crucifixion. The resurrection and the ascension added nothing whatever to its completeness. They only testified —the one—that it was wrought out by one capable of meeting all of its demands and acceptable to God, and the other, that its benefits were forever secured to the penitent and believing sinner.

When the birth of Jesus took place —although it was at midnight—yet the place was filled with light, and the glory of the Lord shone round. Then angels from heaven declared to men upon earth, "Unto you is born this day a Savior which is Christ the Lord." When the crucifixion took place—although it was mid-day—the place was wrapped in darkness, and the earth did quake and the rocks rent, and the graves were opened. Then, there was no voice from heaven, but those who crucified Him cried out with awe, "Truly this man was the Son of God." Redemption, the ground of man's supreme hope of eternal life was now the supreme soul struggle of the Redeemer.

"When the sixth hour was come there was darkness over the whole land." Then all the reviling ceased and a mysterious awe rested upon all the people. Not only was the light of the sun hidden from the people, but the conscious sense of God's presence was withdrawn from His Son.

For as the sinner's substill He must bear the full penalty of sin, and enter into the experience of those to whom death is all, darkness, and God is afar off. For nearly three hours this darkness of souls continued. But at "about the ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachtani? that is to say, My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?" This word, the central word of all those which fell from the cross, and the only word of agony which Jesus uttered, speaks of the sinfulness of sin, God cannot look upon it. It is the bitter cry of the soul before God bearing the guilt of others.

"Knowing that all things were now accomplished," He said, "I thirst." Surely it was not merely of physical thirst that He spoke. He thirsted for souls according to the word's of the prophet. "He shall see of the travail of His soul and be satisfied."

This word speaks with more power and pathos than any other of the marvelous love of Jesus for those whom He came to redeem.

On the Cross, a "Living Way" was opened for every penitent and believing sinner, of every age, time, and condition, to enter into the Presence of God, by the blood of Jesus.

Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, April 3—Announcement is made that German woolen mills are bidding for American trade lost through the war, and a New York house "has become the important link of several leading woolen fabric mills of Germany with the American market." By the entrance of a group of mills located in Germany, into the American woolen goods market through the agency of this house "it becomes apparent that they are prepared to give American mills stiff competition in the near future," says the announcement. The house in question has at present six selling centers outside of New York, located in Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Louisville, and San Francisco—strategic centers.

The Payne tariff law was passed by the republican congress early in August, 1909. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1910, we imported 45,000,000 square yards of woolen dress goods, valued at $9,374,000, about 19 per cent of the yardage coming from Germany. This trade had fallen off by 1914 to 9,442,000 yards, nearly 25 per cent coming from Germany. Imports of wool cloths from Germany increased from 1,718,000 pounds in 1910 to 2,779,000 pounds in 1914, and there were increases in knit goods, etc.

The announcement states that "on the type of cloth now being imported from Germany, it is understood that the customary tariff is 50 per cent of the value and 45 per cent of the weight, (per pound) averaging about 3 cents an ounce." This would indicate woven fabrics, weighing not more than 4 ounces per square yard and valued at more than 80 cents per pound; those weighing more than 4 ounces, values running from 80 cents to $1.50 per pound; and knit fabrics valued at more than a dollar a pound.

Notwithstanding the present tariff on woolen goods, we imported almost 12,000,000 pounds of fabrics last year, and 11,000,000 pounds of woolen cloths. The statistics indicate that Germany is getting back into our market.

When Congress adjourns and the supply of news dwindles it seems to be the regular thing for a few Washington newspaper correspondents to reform the cabinet. A brainstorm of this nature struck some of them recently, and at least four cabinet officers were scheduled to walk the plank "between now and December." The job-hunters sought the Congressional Directory and began to figure out chances on the ground that bureau chief Dash would probably go out with Secretary Blank, and Senator Gas could do a little fixing with the new Secretary X. Ergo, get busy and urge the folks back home to have the selectman or town clerk prod the county committeemen into writing a strong letter to the Congressman of his district demanding that he take up with the Senator the matter of filling the vacancy made by Dash's resignation—or if need be, make Dash resign anyway and impress forcibly on Secretary X that Mr. Job Hunter is the very best man for the place because of party loyalty, antecedents and training.

J. H. had his labor for his pains this trip. The day following the reportorial death-sentence of the cabinet, President Coolidge very calmly and casually let it be known that "affairs are to remain as they are at present." The prospective "important guy" mint officials' delegation returned to their unremunerative occupation of damning the Administration. There will, no doubt, be changes in the President's cabinet between now and 1928. The republican incumbents do not qualify for Jefferson's stricture: "few die and none resign." From the financial standpoint cabinet offices are a dead loss, and a number of blood-lusting Senators are always on the scent and in full cry to make it miserable for incumbent chiefs. But the chiefs and the president will attend to resignations. They will be neither rumored out nor hounded out of office.

Vice-President Dawes will pursue a reasonable and straight-forward course in making appeal to the nation at large for the reform in senate rules of procedure which he in his inaugural address urged directly upon the Senate itself. He cannot discuss the matter any more with the senate, since he has no voice in its debates, and the public forum is therefore the only place in which he can have a hearing. Moreover he is practically if not theoretically elected by the people, and the senators were also all elected by them; wherefore his appeal to the people is made to both his and the senates own constituency. There can be no doubt that the people will hear him gladly, and will approve the stand which he has taken.

Until a short time ago one of the most popular forms of sport was to harrass the railroads. It is true that, in many instances, the railroads did not always act like good children are supposed to behave, but during latter years there has been a manifest desire on the part of the carriers of the country to be of real assistance to the people of the nation, to cooperate in every way, to get the produce of the farmers to the market, to get the manufactured articles of the mills to their point of distribution, and to provide better service all around.

During the last two sessions of congress there has been a decided sentiment in favor of the consolidation of many of the railroads. The sentiment has been caused by the recognition that the prosperity of the railroads is a material and very necessary element in the prosperity of the nation, so congress is getting to the point where they are willing to help by practical legislation to aid the railroads, if the railroads will in turn aid the people.

President Coolidge, Chairman Watson of the interstate commerce commission, are all intensely interested in seeing that the people of the country are given adequate transportation facilities. The entire question is one that will be carefully studied by the president and the others interested in the subject during the recess of congress.

While the balance of the nation is enjoying prosperity and, in many instances, also participating in the slight drop in the cost of living, Washington is still paying as much if not more, for clothes to wear and things to eat than they did a year ago. It is true that the prices that prevailed in Washington during the war period were higher than they are now, but not very much. Rents for a long time past have been in the same class as a high-flying airplane, namely, "way up." Apartments that, in many cities, would probably rent for $75.00 a month, here cost $150.00, or more—generally more. Prices on food products are much higher than they they should be. The quality of vegetables, fruits, etc., is not up to the standard set in thousands of other American villages, towns and cities. Washington is not a cheap place in which to live.

President Coolidge and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine are determined that sensible recommendations for legislation to aid the farmer shall be presented to the next congress. Neither the president nor the secretary of agriculture have for an instant, any notion that the mere enactment of a certain law will cure any legislative ill that may confront the agricultural industry of the nation. Both the president and the secretary desire that form of legislation that will permit the farmer to get reasonable credit on sound security when it is necessary. They desire to aid in the working out of a plan that will permit him to place his products on the market in such a manner as to put him on a par with other business men.

In the opinion of the secretary of agriculture the farmer's is a vastly complex business and one that needs improved marketing methods. As Secretary Jardine says in an article in "The Nation's Business," "What we all need to do is to talk less tommyrot and throw fewer monkey wrenches into other people's machinery." As Jardine puts it, "Quantity and quality are the two things 'that count' in the farm business, as in any other, and profitable production 'doesn't lie in producing at the lowest possible cost per acre, but in producing 'in such a way as to give the biggest margin between the production cost per acre and the selling price per acre.' The problem is just a business matter, and the farmer is working it out on his own farm."

Price Isn't All!

Do not be influenced by an attractive price alone. It means less than nothing unless it is backed up by quality. No piece of furniture finds its way to our floors unless the factory which made it has stood the quality test. It is only then that we feel justified in putting it into your home. Quality at lowest prices makes our store the logical Home Furnishing Headquarters.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Disgusting Sights

Mr. Editor: I have been wondering since reading Mrs. Marinda Robinson's letter why it was that she spoke of the Florida women as if they were an exception. Do not many of the Norwich and New London women dress just as immodestly as the Florida women?

One would judge that it was a new experience to her since having arrived in Florida. I have seen but two women in over 25 years with cigarettes in their mouths, but I hope I will never see the disgusting sight again, and one of the strange things to me is that they are usually so ready to criticise another woman for some thing far more trivial. If there is anything that is more disgusting than another it is a woman who uses paint on her cheeks and who wears a dress much too low in the neck and one that is much too short. And instead of the conditions improving they seem to be growing worse and worse, not only in Florida, but in Connecticut.

A Mother.

Centerville, Md., April 2, 1925.

John Quincy Adams.

Mr. Editor: In a recent issue of your paper, there appeared an account of the political career of John Quincy Adams in which it was stated that after his term of office as president had expired, he was elected to the senate.

In 1828 he was defeated for re-election by Jackson and he decided to retire to private life, but the constituency of his district prevailed upon him to allow his name to be used on the ticket as a member of the house of representatives, and he was elected to that body and served continuously for 18 years, until his death in 1848.

He was said to be the most scholarly official that had occupied the presidential chair. Like his father, John Adams, who was described by Jefferson as; "Our Colossus in debate in the convention that framed the Declaration of Independance." He also was a power in debate on the floor in congress. Any measure that he advocated was supported by abundant facts and powerful logic and his speeches were delivered with force and eloquence, which earned for him the appellation of: "The old man eloquent." It was said that he was more than a match single-handed in debate, against the opposing party on the floor of congress. He died of a stroke of apoplexy on the floor of the house.

The Foreign Influence.

Mr. Editor: I encountered no surprise when I read the letter of Mr. Ouimet. His helplessnes, his inability of comprehensive and limited intellectual balance can not be overlooked.

Any broad-minded individual who has read, Marinda C. Robinson's letter, will agree with me that it was good. The only objectional part in it was the slur at our public schools. It is the public schools that I have defended and at the same time showed where the foreign schools are a detriment to American ideals.

For the benefit of Mr. Ouimet, I will say this: I have used the history as an example for illustration. The geographies as well as other books used in the foreign schools are none better. I wish to inform, Mr. Ouimet and other individuals who are interested and are in doubt that, whatever I say or write, I make it my duty to ascertain if it is the truth and it must be so before I write.

Mr. Ouimet answered by letter with out good reason. The statements made therein are true. If he can prove to me of their falsehood, I wish he would. Now is the time. Just criticism is always welcomed. It is by such criticism that all can profit.

Mr. Ouimet's ignorant knowledge of socialism and anarchism portrays his ridiculous predicament. Not being a member of the socialists or anarchists, nevertheless I could enlighten him to his satisfaction on such a delicate subject.

The most outstanding issue of today, that which is freely discussed in the press and speech, is the foreign influence. It is nothing more than an enormous political machine under cover of its peculiar "ism." Its untiring efforts are plainly portrayed in the foreign schools, the secular press, state and national institutions. If allowed to mature, vicissitudes and chaos will be ours to contend with.

The same influence dethroned kings, ruined nations and brought internal strife among the peoples of Europe. Does not history tell us the fate of Poland, of Russia, of Mexico? Did not France have her dark days? The Argentine republic, Spain and France are now facing a drama we must face some time or other unless we do something now. The innocent peoples of the countries mentioned are not to blame for there untold sufferings. This influence is being drilled into these people with fear, darkness and superstition, from the cradle to the grave. The individuals who are responsible in furthering this influence cry out, "Our position is being questioned!" Why not?

In spite of the belief that we live in an era of liberalism and loyalty to American institutions, there is a cry that the institutions of American liberty and ideals are being threatened by certain foreign influences, because we hear there is a laxity regarding the laws of our land, and because it is impossible to achieve any thing to make sure and perpetuate these institutions by mere individual effort.

Therefore, to preserve our glorious heritage of the past, to keep pure the public school with the Stars and Stripes overhead and the open Bible within and keep separate the church from state, it behooves every one of us to labor.

Coming from a country where for political reasons, opportunities were very meagre or practically non-existant, and, enjoying the freedom of this hospitable land for 25 years, it is only natural for me to defend American institutions and ideals, from insignificant rocking-chair Paul Reveres and parlor patriots.

Concluding I wish to advise, Mr. Ouimet, that no smoke screen is needed to conceal my American ideals. His referenced to 'a well organized band' is nothing more than a gentle compliment for the K. K. K. I am no member of that organization nor its kindred branches. One does not have to be a Klansman to be a good American. "Emerson said, 'When God lets loose a thinker on this earth, beware!'"

$100,000 SUIT AGAINST ACTOR LOUIS MANN

New York, April 3.—Louis Mann, actor today was sued for $100,00 in the county court for having quit the cast of "Pilgrim's Progress," in which he played the leading part.

The suit was filed by Alfred Hill and Benjamin Strauss, theatrical producers, who avowed that Mann quit the production on February 9 without due cause or notice.

The producers alleged that, after spending more than $55,000 to produce and exploit the show, they were forced to discontinue when Mann quit, due to the fact that it was built around his personality.

Their original contract with Mann provided that he should receive $1,250 a week salary nad 15 per cent. of the gross receipts when they exceeded $10,000. Later his salary was reduced to $850 a week until the net weekly returns should reach $1,400.

TO RECOVER BODY OF COLLINS FROM GRAVE

Cave City, Ky., April 3—Experienced miners started work today to recover the body of Floyd Collins from the cave where he was trapped by a falling boulder Jan 30, last. The workers employed by Homer Collins, brother of the victim, expect to reach the body in about two weeks.

The abandoned rescue shaft, which it is proposed to use, was filled with loose brush and other debris and it was decided to leave the body in the cave.

CONCERT FINELY GIVEN BY ACADEMY GLEE CLUB

The concert given by the Norwich Free Academy Boys' Glee club in the auditorium of Chapman Tech, New London, Friday night, scored an instant success, the delivery of every number being excellent, winning insistent applause and credit to Coach Raymond V. Congdon.

All the ensemble numbers were rendered in fine harmony of voice and perfection of time and the solo numbers were on an equal plane. Leader Raymond Woods sang two very pleasant solos assisted by the dance orchestra, which comprised six members of the club, whose clever numbers brought forth enthusiastic applause, demanding encores time after time.

The club was assisted by several violin solos by Henry Brynan, which were greatly appreciated, and the interpretations of Robert Otis, pianist for the club added in making the concert a successful and enjoyable one.

The concert was arranged by John Haslam and was given under the auspices of the Champan Tech class of 1925. The Glee club is to give its annual Norwich concert next week at Slater hall.

The programme for the Chapman Teck concert was as follows:

BOSTON MAN INSISTS ON EXTRADITION PAPERS

John Hodgeman of Boston, arrested in this city early Friday morning, by the local police for the Boston authorities, was presented in the city court Friday morning on a charge of being a fugitive from justice. He is wanted by the Boston police on a warrant charging larceny of $9. Hodgeman declined to be taken back to Boston until extradition papers are secured. His case was continued until April 13th to allow time for extradition proceedings. In the meantime he will await the result of the extradition proceedings at the local jail.

He is said to be an ex-pugilist who fought under the name of Kid Daley. His wife is in Boston and he has been working here painting automobiles.

John E. Kearney, 18, of Jail Hill, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of annoying Mrs. Arthur Alquist of Ellzabeth street. Kearney accosted her at Franklin square Thursday night and followed her on the 10 o'clock West Side car out of the square. She got off the car at Dunham street and Kearney did likewise. Mrs. Alquist started to run and Kearney followed suit. In the excitement she fainted. Dunham street residents notified police headquarters by telephone and an investigation was immediately started, resulting in the arrest of Kearney at his home. Kearney paid his fine which amounted to $34.50.

Purse For Rev. C. E. Spaulding.

A purse of $423.63 "with more to come," was presented to Rev. C. E. Spaulding, the retiring superintendent of the Worcester district of the Methodist church, who has been appointed to the pastorate of the church in New London.

Touring Car Stolen.

The local police were notified Friday night to be on the watch for a Ford touring car, No. N-724, stolen in New London. The automobile registry shows that the machine is owned by William S. McCraw of No. 527 Ocean Avenue.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Mrs. Charles B. Chapman has opened her home on Sachem terrace, after spending several months at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Miss Eloise Smith, who has been at her home, "Oldelms," Washington street, during the vacation, will return to Wellesley Monday.

Miss Frances Dana Colt will return home today (Saturday) from Miss Maderia's school, Washington, D. C., to spend the Easter vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin A. Tracy, of Norwich Town, and Mrs. Chauncey B. Woodworth, of Laurel Hill avenue, returned to town Tuesday evening, having been in St. Petersburg, since the middle of January.

Norwich friends have received invitations this week to the wedding of Miss Nancy Bigelow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Bigelow, and John Melton Hudgins, 2nd, which takes place Wednesday, April 15th; at 7.30 p. m., at St. Michael's church, Charleston, S. C., and is to be followed by a reception for two hundred guests.

NORWICH RESERVOIRS HAVE REACHED HALFWAY POINT TOWARDS FILLING

Helped out by the pumping station on Trading Cove brook, which has been kept going regularly ever since it was started on December 22, and by the moderate amount of rain in the last few months, the two Norwich reservoirs have been slowly accumulating water until they had 550 million gallons on hand on the last day of March. This was divided about equally between Fairview and Stony Brook reservoirs and is approximately half the total capacity of the Norwich reservoirs, since raising the dam at Stony Brook has increased the total capacity of the two from 838 million gallons to one billion gallons.

The last measurements taken showed that Fairview was down 7 feet, 7 inches from full pond on March 30th and Stony Brook was down 5 feet from the old top level of the dam. To this is to be added 5 feet more for recent raising of the dam.

March gave a rainfall of 3.82 inches which is the best for six months, but the 1924 year of the water department, which ends on the last day of March, will go down on record as one of the dryest as the total rainfall for the year was only about 34 inches. This is 10 inches less than the average yearly rainfall for a 54-year period.

NEW LONDON ALSO WILL GREET RETURNING MGR. M. H. MAY

The committees of St. Patrick's parish reported all arrangements completed for the welcome to Rt. Rev. Mgr. M. H. May, at a general meeting held in the church hall, after Friday evening's Lenten services. Rev. Myles P. Galvin presided and John P. Corcoran was clerk. Ten cars will carry the reception committee, James J. Finnegan chairman, to New London to meet the express and this committee has arranged to have a luncheon and reception for Mgr. May at the Hotel Mohican, Tuesday evening from 6 to 7, before starting for Norwich. Mgr. May is a native of New London.

New London relatives, friends and especially members of Deshon Assembly, Fourth Degree, K. of C. are anxious to participate in the welcome and this will afford them an opportunity. During Thursday, Jerome Collins and John Sullivan, prominent K. of C. members, came to Norwich to confer with Father Galvin regarding the New London end of the reception.

The delegation appointed to meet the steamer will leave for New York Sunday evening or Monday morning. After all, while Mgr. May is returning on a steamer of the Italian Line, it is the Conte Verde, not the Conte Rosso and is scheduled to dock in New York Monday. That ship left Naples March 27th, and was the earliest to bring Mgr. May home in time for Easter.

The procession of parish women and men planned to meet the cars coming from New London will be in four divisions, and will be accompanied by two bands and two drum corps, the East Side Drum Corps being the last one secured. The men will form on Church Street, giving the ladies the right of way on Washington Street. On reaching the church, the men again will take second place, letting the women's division enter first.

For the church ceremonial, in all invitations issued are enclosed cards, to be presented at the church.

Parish members who have charge of the purse to be presented Mgr. May as a testimonial to mark the 40th. anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood announced considerably over $1,400 in hand, with other collectors to report.

FORMER NATCHAUG PRINCIPAL DIED IN MISSOURI HOSPITAL

Word has been received by Connecticut friends of the sudden death, March 19th, in a hospital in his home town of Columbia, Missouri, of Colonel John B. Welch, 82, the veteran schoolmaster whose life has been of so much interest and significance to hundreds of former pupils in Connecticut and Massachusetts, and especially in Willimantic, where for twelve years, 1872-1884, he was principal of the Natchaug High and Grammar schools. As "Old Natchaugers," the former pupils of Principal Welch had honored him in personal presence at three notable reunions in 1905, 1915 and 1920, and were looking forward to greeting him again next June, and their disappointment will be keen.

Col. Welch's health had not been good the past winter, as he suffered from rheumatism, and his final illness of a fortnight at the hospital revealed cancer of the left lung. He was for many years proprietor and principal of the Columbia Military academy, with rank of commandant, and the school was noted for the efficiency of its training. He retired from active service about nine years ago. He is survived by Mrs. Welch, by their daughter, Katherine V. Welch, and three sons.

Will Attend Springfield Meeting

Scout Executive F. A. Benton, Edward A. Harris, chairman, Lincoln Crawford and E. V. Ross, members of the camp committee, are going to Springfield Monday to attend a regional camp conference for executives, officers and others who are interested in the programme that will be carried out through two days.

Boy Slightly Injured.

Gordon Thayer, a small boy who lives at 125 Thames street, received minor injuries Friday afternoon when he was struck on Thames street by a motorcycles, ridden by Stanley Martinavich. The report of the accident made to the police was that the boy stepped off the sidewalk and walked into the motorcycle.

Cold coffee makes the boarder hot.

AMERICAN LEGION POST HEARS TAX TALK REPORT

R. O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion, at its meeting Friday evening in the Legion rooms, Main street, heard an interesting report by Commander Webster D. Copp, on the talk on Taxation given Tuesday evening by Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce.

Commander Copp in reporting of the meeting of the executive committee held at the Wauregan Hotel, on Tuesday night, said that Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce had appeared before the committee to urge the members of the Legion to give their attention to the importance of the tax situation in Norwich. In his talk, Mr. O'Rourke said that a special meeting would likely be called in April and for this reason it was most important to get the message across to every citizen of Norwich. Among the organizations and groups, Mr. O'Rourke claimed the American Legion as one of the most important to bring the matter before, saying that the 'Legion was composed of young men, in whom the welfare of the city must depend in the future. Older men have given their time to civic affairs, said Mr. O'Rourke and it is essential that the young men do so to secure a growth of the city.

Mention was made of the method of securing tax maps to account for all property in the city and town to aid in fixing land values. Thus after careful study the tax analysis committee submitted a majority report recommending that the board of assessors be given the right to secure competent advice and assistance, possible to get local men, but if not hire out-of-town men to aid them, the sum of $20,000 to be placed at their disposal for this work.

Mr. O'Rourke urged that the message be taken before the legion for their fair and square consideration of the tax situation as it is of vital importance to Norwich, since the tax rate affects the bringing of industries into a city. The Norwich rate low, yet it is hard to convey this idea low, yet it is hard to convey this idea to manufacturers, for they seem to feel that something is wrong with Norwich when a 46-mill tax is laid. They cannot see why Norwich continues to tax property on the 1850 basis of approximately 40 per cent.

Mr. O'Rourke also urged the Legion to back other civic projects, mentioning the Thames river project which is of great importance. Norwich has many kinds of industries and this fact alone makes the city attractive to manufacturers. Two railroads and a boat line are in competition for business and Norwich should be growing faster than it has in the past.

In closing Mr. O'Rourke said that the chamber of commerce or any other body must always be in a minority in the number of citizens as members. Thus any project for the good of Norwich must have the backing of other groups and individuals or else it cannot succeed. Whether the vote is for the majority or the minority report of the tax analysis commission, said Mr. O'Rourke, it is essential that thought be given to the subject and it is for this reason I have come before the Legion executive committee to urge you to have the Legion members give the subject fair and square consideration.

The post discussed plans for the local membership drive to start this month as a part of the state wide membership drive being held by posts throughout Connecticut. Attention was called to the coming banquet of the 40 and 8 society which is to be held at Station No. 16, Waterford, April 25. A number of the local members are planning to attend the banquet.

The usual routine reports were heard and accepted and bills were paid. The meeting was well attended.

APRIL-OCTOBER GROUP SERVES ATTRACTIVE SUPPER

The women of the United Congregational church whose birthdays fall in the months of April and October prepared and served the supper served to over 30 at the Community House, Friday evening. Some fifty women and young women of the church have birthdays in these two months and all took part in serving the supper which was one of the most successful affairs of the season.

More than twenty tables, each one in charge of a hostess, and gaily decorated with jonquils, daffodils, sweet peas and maiden hair ferns, were filled with guests. Adding to the attractiveness of the tables were lighted candles.

The menu served was as follows:

Grape Fruit Cocktail
Chicken Pie String Beans
Mashed Potatoes
Jelly Butterly Salad
Buttered rolls
Assorted Cake. Coffee
Ice Cream

During the supper a delightful musical entertainment was provided by Miss Lucile U. Guile, piano, and George A. Guile, violin, their several selections being greeted with applause. Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard in two solo numbers was most favorably received her choice of The Spring Has Come, (White) being given in fine voice. As an encore number Mrs. Bard favored with Two Violets, (Woodman).

A pretty feature occurred when all electric lights in the room were turned off and the waitresses appeared carrying the cakes for the tables, each bearing many colored lighted candles. This attractive feature added exceedingly to the already colorful picture of the banquet hall, lighted only by candles at the tables.

DISCUSS EARLY PLANS FOR CAMP TIPPECAN

A meeting to discuss preliminary plans for Camp Tippecan in Voluntown, the Boy Scout summer camp, was held Friday evening at Scout headquarters by the camp committee of which Edward A. Harris is chairman. This year's camp is to begin early in July and it is planned to make the season the most successful the camp has known. Early in May a camp reunion banquet will be held for those who were at camp last summer.

MISS ESTLOW'S CLASSES GIVE CLOSING RECEPTION

An audience that filled the Wauregan hotel ballroom Friday evening was given an evening of unusual pleasure by the closing reception of Miss Sarah Shipman Estlow's dancing classes, the programme including numbers by pupils from the Hartford classes whose dancing in interpretive, esthetic, character and ballet numbers was given with an excellence only equalled on the professional stage.

The Norwich classes as well, amply demonstrated Miss Estlow's ability as a teacher, every number combining rhythm and grace in a charming manner. Miss Estlow's own numbers on the programme, The Russian Rhapsody and hard shoe dancing, furnishing features which were enthusiastically applauded until they were repeated.

In the grand march, which closed the programme and which was led by little Miss Phyllis Hinrichs and Master Walter Crandall, the class presented her a beautiful bouquet of roses with the class gift.

The evening opened with classical exercises and Port de Bras by the Norwich and Hartford pupils, which was followed by the programme by the Norwich classes in which a solo number, Dream Waltz, by little Helena Crandall was danced with charming grace.

Dolly Dimples, Estlow, Led by Louise Pullen, Baby Class.

Dream Waltz, Estlow, Helena Crandall.

Modern Maids, Estlow, Mary Prunier, Helena Crandall, Beatrice Smith, Isabella Kennedy, LaVere Butts.

Esthetic and character dances were given in the next group, opening with a number by little Sally Foss, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Frank H. Foss of Willimantic, whose presentation of her number was little short of marvelous.

The programme continued with three ballet numbers featuring clever toe dancing in the following: Fleur de Lis, Estlow, Anno Condron; Twinkle Toes, Estlow, Virginia Gomperts; Coppelia and Specialty, Estlow, Ruth Garber.

The evening closed with dancing for the classes and their friends for which Ethier's orchestra played.

K. T. EDUCATIONOL FUND HELPING WORTHY STUDENTS

Grand Treasurer H. Wales Lines of the Grand Encampment of Knights Templar, U. S. A., has made public the following report of the present condition of the Knights Templar educational loan and educational endowment funds, which read in part as follows:

The Grand Encampment of Knights Templar, U. S. A., at its triennial session held in New Orleans, Louisiana, April, 1922, established a revolving educational loan fund which is to be available to assist worthy and needy students to secure a loan to aid them in completing the last two years of their course in the normal schools, colleges and universities of their states, the grand encampment also established an educational endowment fund, the income of which only can be used per annum on each Knight Templar by levying an assessment of one dollar under the jurisdiction of the grand encampment, payable July first of each year; one-half of which was to form a part of the endowment fund, which was supplemented by a transfer of $100,000 from the fund of the trustees of the grand encampment. The total amount of this fund, April 1, 1925, is $332,284.65. The total amount of the income from investments received to April 1 is $15,344.73.

There has been paid by the grand treasurer of the grand encampment before April 1, to the treasurers of the several grand commanderies, to be loaned in their states, and subordinate commanderies, under immediate jurisdiction of the grand encampment, to be loaned in their territories, $225,718-.15.

These loans in each jurisdiction will be made by a committee of their own Sir Knights, appointed as their Grand Commander may direct. The loans are made, not exceeding $200 in one year, to suitable students upon their personal notes, given without any security, with interest at 5 per cent. commencing upon the date of their graduation and the entire amount to be repaid, by annual payments, within four years from that date.

For Connecticut, seven beneficiaries have been awarded loans to a total of $1,250. The committee having this matter in charge in this state is:

COUNTERFEITERS FOUND GUILTY IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, R. I., April 3.—Five alleged counterfeiters were found guilty and five not guilty when a jury in Judge eorge F. Morris' room of federal court returned its verdict this afternoon in the case of 10 men charged with conspiracy to flood the country with $10 notes of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston. The jury was out for six hours.

Seventy-five men were arrested by secret service operatives, who set nation-wide drag-nets for the conspirators.

Those convicted are Henry Trillo, Antonio Longo, Gennario Lambiase, Luigi Laurenza and Angelo Cicatielo. Trillo disappeared two days after the trial started and has not been apprehended. He was found guilty in his absence. Cicatielo furnished $10,000 bil for release pending sentence. Longo, Lambiase and Laurenza were remanded to jail in default of bail.

Judge Morris reserved decision on motion of defense for a new trial. Appeal will be taken by the convicted men to the United States corcuit court of appeals at Boston.

TWO CONNECTICUT PENS TAKE HONORS AT STORRS

The hens at Storrs are still headed in the right direction. There was a gain last week of 115 eggs over the previous week's production which brought the total to 4725 or a yield of better than 48 per cent. In the honorable mention column for the 41st week of the contest Connecticut pens occupied first and second places. Keewaydin Farm's pen of Barred Rocks from Darien were at the top with a score of 57 eggs and Payne's Giant Reds from Brooklyn, Conn., were a close second with a production of 56 eggs. Rhode Island Reds owned by F. S. Chapin of Longmeadow, Mass., made third place for the week with a mark of 54 eggs and a pen of Barred Rocks entered by the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph, Ont., was fourth for the week with a yield of 52 eggs. Thus the Rocks and the Reds split fifty-fifty on the first four positions. Leghorns as a class moved up another point during the week. They are still being outlaid by the Barred Rocks and Rhode Island Reds but in turn they did a better job last week than either White Rocks or White Wyandottes.

For now nearly two weeks the management of the contest has been easing off on the use of electric lights as an aid to egg production. More daylight hours have obviated the necessity for night lunches. On the other hand hens that have been accustomed to a night meal for a period of five months should not be shifted too suddenly. The night feeding will be entirely discontinued on April 1st but a fortnight before this the management began by putting the lights on half an hour earlier in the evening or at 8.30 instead of 9 o'clock. A few days later lighting time was advanced to 8 o'clock, then to 7.30 and finally to 7 o'clock. In addition the last afternoon feeding was a little more generous in this way the shift from lights to no lights will be made gradually and thus the hens' regular routine will not be upset.

STATE'S SCHOOL POPULATION REMAINS ABOUT THE SAME

The percent of Connecticut's school population between the ages of 5 and 17, enrolled in public schools has varied but slightly during the years between 1870-71 and 1921-22, according to a report from the bureau of education of the department of the interior, at Washington, which reveals that the Nutmeg state, in 1921-22 reported the highest percentage of enrollment of any New England state.

During the 1921-22 session 82.6 percent of the total school population of Connecticut between the ages of 9 and 17 were enrolled in public schools this year marking the highest percent during the period in review.

For the 1870-71 session 80.8 percent of the state's school population enrolled in public schools, while during the session of 1879-80 but 77 percent were enrolled, and in 1889-90 the percent dropped still further, being 72.

A larger percentage of Connecticut's school children, however, were enrolled in 1899-1900, 74.5 percent. In 1909-1910 the enrollment dropped again to 73.8 percent, rising to 80.3 percent in 1919-20, and reaching its highest percentage the following session.

The other New England states during the 1921-22 session had the following percentages of the school population between the ages of 5 and 17, enrolled in public schools:

Maine, 89.4 percent; Massachusetts, 77 percent; Vermont, 75.1 percent; Rhode Island, 69.9 percent; and New Hampshire, 66.8.

The total number of pupils enrolled in public schools in Connecticut during the 1921-22 session was 283,759, of which 138,313 were girls and 145,446 boys. The average daily attendance during the session was 234,277.

EXPENSIVE ARGUMENT ON THE COST OF DOG MEAT

New York, April 3.—John W. Davis, Alton B. Parker and heads of six law firms retained in the $52,000,000 Gould estate accounting suit, in which court costs are estimates at $60 a minute, listened to an extensive argument today on the cost of dog meat.

The debate concerned whether the sum of $4.25 for meat for Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard's dog, and $1 for a license fee, should be deducted from the principal or from a fund set aside for maintenance of the Lyndhurst estate.

Attorney Lyttleton Fox representing Mrs. Shepard, cited the arguments over the dog's expenses in demonstrating the "pettiness of the objectors."

WHY COLLEGE GRADUATES BECAME CLEVER BURGLARS

New York, April 3—Two college graduates who told police they were unable to earn a living two years ago and whom authorities now rate among the cleverest of the city's super burglers," were held today in $10,000 bail each for hearing next Tuesday on charges of having robbed 30 fashionable residences in Brooklyn and Queens.

The prisoners said their names were William Brazell of Lynn, Mass., and Frank Foster of Westfield, Mass. They were arrested last night as they returned to luxurious Manhattan hotel apartments in evening clothes.

Pawn tickets and valuables worth $7,000 were found in their possession and the hotel suite was filled with rare works of art and a valuable library.

Police say they have confessed.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK MEET AT NEW LONDON TONIGHT BIG AFFAIR

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3—Over one hundred athletes from every walk of life will compete in the enormous indoor track meet which will be held by Bulkeley school Saturday night. Of this number, exactly 60 of the entrants in the various events are Bulkeley alumni, and as it is one of the annual indoor track events held at the State Armory, the meet Saturday will be more of a school affair. However, a number of interesting runs have been scheduled between outside teams, and added with the big event of the meet, the Bulkeley relay match with Weaver High of Hartford, one of the most successful meets is expected.

Receiving a host of entries from every source, and especially the four classes contributing a large share to the total, the fifteen events on the program will offer those who are interested in track to get their best view of this season with this meet. To do away with a tedious method which is undesirable in running off the events to the last meet held at the Armory last week, Bulkeley track officials have made arrangements to have the events run off without a single lag in the entire programme.

Of course the big event of the evening will be the dual relay race between Weaver High and Bulkeley High. Trials for this event were held at the Y. M. C. A. this week, and four fast runs have been designated to represent the school. The quartet is somewhat in the doubt at present due to the uncertainty of one man. However, the three runners who have already been chosen by Coach Frank E. Hamlen are Edward Henkle, George Sheffott and Locke. There is a little doubt as to whether Le Blanc will be the fourth man or Quentin Walsh. With the exception of Henkle, this same quartet made up the team at Hartford in the race which Bulkeley finished behind Hartford Tech and Hartford. However, a good deal of satisfaction can be gained over Weaver High, a team which finished fourth in the meet. Weaver comes here with the idea that an easy victory will be the result of her efforts and a keen race is expected to mature.

The Knights of Columbus with a team of six members, the Y. M. C. A. with six and the Kaybrooks with four will be the outside teams in the events. It is hoped by the Bulkeley management that some entries will be forthcoming from Norwich. Two other features of importance are the dash relay teams in which the entire four men take part. They consist of interclass matches, and a dash relay for "mugs."

There is much rivalry between the seniors, especially between the seniors and the freshmen. Although in the last meet held by the school classes at the Y. M. C. A. the sophs and juniors tied for the matter of points scored for supremacy, the running will be much closer and will be more interesting tomorrow night. Sheffott of the senior class is expected to come through in the 25 yard dash and the broad jump Hawley with his great running power, is a foothold on the 50 yard run. There are other good performers who will be closely watched during the evening.

The entries by events are as follows:

Dash: Henkle, Gavitt, Smith, Barry, Hutchinson, Wilson, Gentilella, Davis Agnew, Feeney, Spring, Weinstein.

Broad Jump: Sheffott, Parker, Robinson, Pendleton, Sullivan, Jacques, Selmann, Lowe.

Running High Jump: Stebbins, Hutchison, Allen, Brown, Locke, Hendrick, Parisi, O'Neil, Campbell, Jacques, Locke, Le Blanc, Sullivan, Firmin, Falgatter.

Relay race: Henkle, Sheffott, Allen, Le Blanc, Schuman, Robinson, Gentilella, McGrath, Firmin, Allen, Schuman, Walsh, Locke, Parker, Allen, Palmer, Shovlin, Wentworth.

Relay teams: Allen Barry, Henkle, Gentilella, Parisi, Hutchison sub.

Relay—Briggs, Decker, Robinson, Schuman, Olsen.

Interclass relay teams, three laps per man.

1924—C. Briggs, Robinson, Schuman, Olsen.

1923—Locke, Sullivan, Walsh, Le Blanc.

1922—Palmer, Palmer, Shovlin, Firmin.

DARK HORSE COMES THROUGH AT RECORD ODDS

Paris, April 3—Lee Rameur, a three-year-old maiden colt, today won the second race at the Maisons Lafitte track at the record odds of 215 to 1 in the grandstan and paddock Parimutuel.

Small bettors in the field staged a war dance and jeered the more prosperous racegoers for having completely overlooked the "good thing." Lee Rameur is French for "the palms," and followers of "hunches" insisting that the day after tomorrow is Palm Sunday, garnered enough five franc notes on the horse's chance to win to bring down his price in the cheaper ring to 60 to 1. And many of them knew who cashed tickets.

The official price in the grandstand Pari-Mutuel was 2163 francs for 10 and in the infield 407 for 5.

FRATERNAL BOXING BOUTS PROVE TO BE SNAPPY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—The joint Masonic and Elks boxing exhibition here this evening was a fine success and gave the members and friends of both fraternal organizations a chance to see some of the best boxers in the state perform. There were five bouts at the Masonic club and then the boxers adjourned to the Elks home where six bouts were staged. The bouts were of three two-minute rounds and the boys put plenty of action into their work over the short route. No decisions were given and all the bouts were practically even affairs. The bouts: At the Masonic club, Tony Travers vs. Mickey Travers of New Haven; George Day of New Haven vs. Matt Baldwin of the Sub Base; Kid Lopes vs. Steve Culver, both of the Sub Base; Henry Mungurcse of New Haven vs. Eddie Polo of New Haven; Shiek Leonard of Wallingford vs. Johnny Saxon of Bridgeport. Costello was the announcer and Louis Bogash, George K. Howe and Dave Palitz were referees.

At the Elks: Palitz vs. Saxson; Day vs. Baldwin, Travers vs. Travers; Slattery vs. Leonard, Pete August vs. Phil Jackson and Polo vs. Mungurcse.

CHAPMAN WILL HAVE STRONG BASEBALL TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Apr. 3—There is plenty of material at Chapman Tech from which to pick a well balanced nine. Coach Weaver has condensed quite thoroughly the large squad which presented itself at the beginning of the season and has enough material from which to pick a formidable team.

At the back stop position, MacDonald the veteran from last year, seems to be the likely one to start things rolling this season, while Pongetti a new man in the school, is showing up brightly; Courbois the all-around athlete is another likely player to hold down this position.

The selection of moundsmen seems to be a hard set problem for the coach. Morris Brown, a first team twirler from last season, is fighting strong for that position. John Brown has also showed up well while he was on the mound. Streeter, Seagraves and Gero are new men at this place. Gero pitched some last season and seemed to help out as a relief pitcher. Dean, the southpaw from Old Lyme is showing good form, by mid season, this twirler will probably be holding them down in fine fashion.

The initial sack seems to be cinched by Hewitt, who for three seasons played at this position and hooked all that came his way. He also had a high batting average which is the essential thing on a team. Everts, Seagraves and Hanson are other applicants for this position as substitutes.

The keystone sack is another place where a new man has to be worked in. Montecomery is a likely man to fill this position while Miller and Fritalle seem well able to receive a chance. Montgomery has served at this position for some time and it is thought that after a little time he will prove a hard man to send the pill through as his fleetness is outstanding.

At third, Courbois will probably be seen for it is at this sack that Courbois has proved to be an able player in the past years. John Brown has also served at this sack. Aquillo, a veteran from last year, is most likely to be called upon to take care of the shortfield. Aquillo was a fast player last year, so his ability will be an advantage to the Tech nine.

The outer garden will need three fast fly-catchers and from the report of about 15 candidates these grounds will be pretty well taken care of. The experience of John Brown will probably make him a sure man at left field therefore leaving center and right field to be filled by the best of what shows up. Among these are: Pongetti, Purcheski, Micell, Wolle, Richards, Sacchatella, Payne, Streeter, L. Hewitt, McGuire and Fox. Still from what material was left from last season Coach Weaver will have enough stock to mould a well organized nine, and will be strong contenders for the League.

BUSCH PERFORMS WELL IN BOUT AT JEWETT CITY

At the Keep-Fit Athletic club in Jewett City Friday evening five snappy bouts were put on before a large audience that filled the hall to capacity. The two feature bouts were between Jack Potts of Jewett City and Frankie Busch of Norwich. Busch had a slight edge on his heavier opponent and the bout was fast for a pair of heavies.

The other feature was the six-round go between Young McClugzake vs Young Cobb which was an even affair.

MARTIN DRAWS SUSPENSION FOR BITING CLEMERS

New York, April 3.—Vincent (Pepper) Martin, Brooklyn featherweight, drew an indefinite suspension from the New York State Athletic commission today for biting Joey Clemers, on the ear and shoulder in the seventh round of a boxing bout here Tuesday night. Martin had been disqualified by the referee for drawing blood with his teeth.

Passaic in Basketball Finals.

Glens Falls, N. Y., April 3—The "wonder team" from the high school of Passaic, N. J., won its way to the finals by defeating a fighting team from St. Mary's academy of Glens Falls in the semi-finals of the sixth annual New York-New England interscholastic open basketball tournament here tonight. The score was 44 to 24.

Yantic Booking Games for 1925.

The Yantic Mills baseball club is booking games for the coming season and is going into the national pastime on a more extensive scale than in years previous. A baseball association has been formed with Joe Wheeler at the head. Teams desiring games should write to A. Lane, Box 129, Yantic.

Broadway Beats Laurel Hill.

Opening their season with a victory the Broadway grammar school baseball team decisively trimmed the Laurel Hill Juniors, 16 to 9, at Laurel Hill park Friday afternoon. The Broadway team clashes with the Elizabeth street team on Monday afternoon. The lineup for the winners was: Nogle p; Crewell c; D'Atri 1b; Flaherty 2b; LeTendre 3b; Flathers ss; Pierson lf; Yiets cf; McCarthy rf.

BOROTRA REACHES FINALS IN DOUBLES AND SINGLES

New York, April 3—Jean Borotra of France became a finalist for both singles and doubles championship in the national indoor tennis tournament here. He disposed of the youthful Jerome Lang of Yonkers, in a brief singles semi-final, 6-3, 6-2, and then, paired with A. W. Asthalter, qualified for the title round in the doubles by a three-set triumph over Dr. George King and Fred Anderson of New York, 6-4, 2-6, 6-2.

In the singles final tomorrow the Wimbledon champion will oppose Fred Anderson, who earned the right to play Borotra Thursday, after a three-hour battle with H. L. Bowman. The doubles opponents of the French player and Asthalter will be the former internationalist, Watson M. Washburn, and E. T. Herndon.

HANOVER WINS THREE STRAIGHT FROM NIANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 3.—Hanover bowlers took all three matches from Niantic bowlers at the Y. M. C. A. alleys this evening. The first match was a close win for Hanover, but the other two strings were easy victories. K. Bamford for Hanover was high bowler with a single of 105 and a total for the three strings of 296.

HOPES TO STAGE DEMPSEY AND WILLS AT BELMONT

New York, April 3.—Belmont Park, scene of many of the turf's leading classics, today came under the consideration as the site for a heavyweight championship match between Jack Dempsey, the title holder, and Harry Wills, negro.

Claiming to represent a syndicate of wealthy sportsmen, Jack Curley, wrestling promoter, announced that he expected within a few days to complete negotiations for the bout, with Belmont Park as the site. Arrangement of seating accommodations to handle a crowd of 150,000 is contemplated by the syndicate, it was said.

ST. PATRICK'S SECONDS DEFEAT BROAD ST. SCHOOL

Friday afternoon the St. Patrick's Seconds defeated the Broad street school by a score of 29 to 4. The pitching of Russillo was a puzzle to the opposing batsmen and he succeeded in striking out 16 men. Joe Marks, captain, and Shorty Kilmore and C. Hammil led the field in batting marks, getting two homers and a double, Hamill getting two doubles and S. Gilman for his hunting. The Matthews boys starred for their catching. C. Hammill at second had 12 assists to his credit. The lineups were:

Broad Street: Celluci c, Mingo p, Weldon 1b, Lewis 2b, Grankski ss, Skiles 3b, Aldo lf, Alexander rf, Banning cf.

Ramblers vs. Valients.

Sunday afternoon the Rose City Ramblers will open their 1925 season against the Valients A. C. on the Lake street playgrounds. For the past several years the Valients have turned out exceptionally fine teams and as this year's team is practically the same as last, it is expected to put up a fine showing.

For the Valients the same team that played last Sunday against the All Stars will go on the field Sunday afternoon: Ruffo will be in the box and Minko will be behind the plate. Connell will hold down the initial sack while Shea and Vittiano will be short. In the outfield Joe Jackson will be at left while Morin and Marks will play the other two positions.

The Ramblers' lineup will consist of Jab Burns, formerly of the Nutmegs, doing the twirling with Mackey on the receiving end; Gibby Kanef, another Nutmeg player on first, Swanton, a former Rosedale man at second, and Carroll or Cimikoski, also Rosedale players, at third and short. In the outfield will be De Rusha, Mullins or Burdick, all well known local players. As this is the first time that these boys have played together as a team it will be interesting to see what kind of a game they will play.

The Valient vs. Ramblers game is the only local game over the week-end and it is hoped there will be a good crowd on hand when the game is called at 2.30 Sunday afternoon.

Practice Notes

Chapman Tech practised regardless of the cold weather yesterday. The coaches at the local institution are speeding the team towards assuming a formidable aline to oppose Old Lyme in the opening game on Saturday.

Hewitt, Brown and Acquillo who have been deliquents in reporting for various reasons, were out performing together today for the first time since the initial practice of the year.

Bulkeley first and second teams will engage in another short skirmish tomorrow at present the veterans, especially Sheffott, Daniels, Barry and Cestano are performing at their usual clip.

The infield work of the Bulkeley team was excentionally good. This department of defense is expected to carry the team through a hard year's banging.

Coach Bill Canty was serving them up during practice. But he later gave way to Parisi. Illness to players is holding up the Bulkeley mentor in getting down to more serious work. Another week the infield is expected to be going at their old clip.

Chapman Tech is fortunate in uncovering a moundsman in Dean of Old Lyme. He showed good stuff against the seniors in the inter-class game on Friday. He will bear watching by the other teams in the eastern section of this state.

EXPERTS ARE STUDYING THE PERUVIAN MEMORIAL

Washington, April 3.—The additional safeguards during the Tacna-Arica plebiscite requested of President Coolidge by the Peruvian government are to a large extent already provided for in the terms of the arbitration award, on the judgment of the president and his advisers.

The Peruvian memorial, which was transmitted to the president today, is now before state department experts for study. It is not a direct communication from the Peruvian government, but bears the signature of one of its special representatives in Washington in connection with the Tacna-Arica arbitration.

The text of the communication has been withheld from publication pending the drafting of the president's reply. Although he has received no detailed analysis of its contents.

ARTICLES FOR KAPLAN-MASCART BOUT EXPECTED TO BE SIGNED TODAY

New York, April 3.—Articles of agreement for a featherweight title bout between Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., recognized as champion by the New York boxing commission, and Edouard Mascart, European titleholder, will be signed tomorrow at noon, Promoter Tex Rickard announced tonight.

Rickard proposes to stage the match on May 5 in Madison Square Garden, 15 rounds to a decision will be required by the contracts, Rickard said.

A conference between managers of the two boxers today resulted in the completion of many of the details for the bout. Lew Burston represented Marcart, while Scotty Monteith negotiated for Kaplan.

NEW SODA FOUNTAIN INSTALLED AT MARA'S STORE

The latest thing in soda fountains has been installed in the drug store of James Mara on Franklin square. This fountain is of the frigid air type and is the only one in the city of its kind. Several places have frigid air cabinets but not of the single unit type which is the last word in simplicity and sanitation. The temperature in the compartments where Treat's ice cream is kept, is always between 8 and 12 degrees above zero, which insures the patrons of a smooth firm cream at all times. There are compartments for five flavors of ice cream and one compartment for brick cream.

The fountain itself is a thing of beauty of Tennessee marble highly polished and finished. The metal work is of solid silver plate and german silver. There are two soda taps and one water tap, six sanitary jars for crushed fruits, and fourteen jars for soda syrups. The refrigerating plant is located in the basement and is controlled by a thermostat which starts the motor when the temperature reaches 12 degrees above zero and shuts it off when it goes down to 8 above.

Treat's ice cream is served at the fountain and the best and most delicious of flavors in soda syrups are also served with fresh fruit in season. Mr. Mara's aim is to give his patrons the best of service at all times and welcomes inspection of his new soda fountain.

Life of Christ at Y. M. C. A. Sunday.

Beautiful pictures by the stereopticon will be shown at the 4 o'clock meeting at the Norwich Young Men's Christian Association on Sunday afternoon. The pictures will portray the birth of the Christ in the stable, the visit of the shepherds and the wise men, the flight into Egypt, his return to Nazareth, his life in the family and indeed the whole story of his unique and wonderful life will be vividly pictured by some fifty slides, which will prove very timely in the Lenten period. To this service men and women are cordially invited by the management and boys and girls may come on condition that they are accompanied by parents or guardians. Hugh Kinder will render solos.

First Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Tuesday night at 7.30 meeting of the Y. P. S. in the church parlors. Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, meeting of the Ladies' Aid society in the church parlors. Good Friday, special service with confession and Holy Communion, beginning at 10 o'clock. Easter Sunday, festival service, beginning at 10 o'clock. Confession and Holy Communion on Easter Sunday also.

Purchase Yantic Store.

The Berkman Bros. of Bozrah purchased the general store business and good will of W. E. Manning at Yantic Thursday. For the past 27 years W. E. Manning in a very quiet way conducted the general store and postoffice there and faithfully served the villagers and surrounding townspeople. Mr. Manning will still remain in the store as postmaster, a gratifying fact to his many friends.

Special Sunday Afternoon Service.

There will be a special service on Sunday afternoon, at 4 o'clock at the Central Baptist church under direction of Rev. Valentino Panizzoli. Motion pictures on the life of Jesus—From the Manger to the Cross, will be given and the meeting is open to the public.

Breed Theater

Monta Bell, who directed Lady of the Night, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which comes to the Breed theater Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday is both a realist and a psychologist. From opening title to fadeout, his new picture is lite itself, replete with human interest.

Lady of the Night is a story of American life in New York where the society and criminal worlds rub elbows; it is a story of the love of a society girl pitted against the love of the elemental woman who fights for "her man."

In the dual role of Florence and Molly, Norma Shearer contrasts the two types with vivid artistry. Of course, she is charming as the aristocratic Florence, but as Molly, the dance hall queen, she essayed something different from anything she had done heretofore. She made the character thrillingly convincing; pathetic, passionate, humorous, vulgar, fascinating; without doubt her finest performance.

It is a performance made possible by Monta Bell's faith in Miss Shearer's versatility, and it creates, the conviction that this actress, instead of remaining a mere beauty of the screen has a feeling for character and emotion that will carry her to the head of the profession.

Malcolm McGregor, as the young inventor who lives between the half-world and the over-world, and George K. Arthur, as the under world sport, share honors with Miss Shearer in vividly realistic portrayals.

The story, by Adela Rogers St. Johns holds gripping interest from start to finish. It has been expertly adapted to the screen by Alice D. G. Miller. Superb acting and direction, coupled with flawless continuity make Lady of the Night one of the most completely satisfying screen entertainments of the season.

Topics of the Day, a cartoon and an Education comedy take lup the remainder of the bill.

Today's bill consists of Alyce Mills in Daughters of the Night, The Iron Man, the Pathe news and a comedy. Continuous show today from 1:30 to 10:30 P. M.

Palace Theatre

In conjunction with a big double feature bill of pictures Sunday night at the Palace theater Paul Specht's Carolina Club orchestra, the favorite orchestra of the Prince of Wales both in the ballroom (Piccadilly Hotel, London,) and at the ship's concert (The Berengaria,) will play a program to the pictures. This orchestra is composed of students from the North Carolina University.

A clipping taken from the New York Times—August 27, 1924 reads,

"At his (The Prince of Wales) request, when the weather turned slightly cloudy with a sprinkle of rain, the ballroom was opened up and Paul Specht's Carolina Club Band which traveling back from an engagement in England was brought up to play. He danced one collar into a concertina and went at once for a second. That failed him by the end of the evening, but he did not appear to care. Until the orchestra packed up its instruments the Prince was on the floor dancing encores which sometimes ran to thirty minutes.

Norwich Music Association.

The Norwich Music Association will hold its final meeting of the season on Monday evening, the 6th, in Slater Hall Annex at 8 o'clock.

As this is the annual meeting of the association, the musical program will be preceded by a short business meeting. It is hoped that this part of the meeting may be reasonably brief.

The musical program will be in the hands of Miss Fanny Washington, who will sing the songs and tell stories of the old time southern darky.

Miss Washington's program is as follows:

Negro Stories
Data What I Calls Music
Bible Names
Negro Folk Songs

Mischa Elman's Tour of Orient.

During the season of 1920-1921, Mischa Elman, the celebrated violinist, was engaged for a concert tour of the far east and orient, being the first of the world-famous violinists to visit that part of the globe in an artistic capacity.

This visit stirred the orient as only did few events of international import. Mr. Elman opened his tour with six consecutive nights at the Imperial theatre, Tokio. The impression he made upon the native music-lovers of Nippon's capitol, as well as those in the other principal cities of Japan where he played, is summraized by the headline to the review published by the Tokio "Asahi": "Elman is a rare genius and his technique is perfection itself."

Mr. Elman's tremendous successes there paved the way for the recent professional journey of other noted violinists. It also brought an invitation from the leading impressario of that territory for Mr. Elman to come there again during the summer of 1924.

Mr. Elman will appear in this city under the auspices of the Norwich Hebrew Institute at the Palace theater on Sunday afternoon, April 19.

Next Week at United Congregational.

An invitation is extended to all the missions departments of the W. H. M. U. of Connecticut, New London association, to a meeting in the United Church lecture rooms, Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30, when Miss Lydia Hartig of the Lebanon-Goshen church will speak and promotion plans will be discussed.

The Haviland class will meet at the home of Mrs. C. Arthur Lathrop, 51 Oneco street, Wednesday evening.

The annual Maundy Thursday service will be held in the church auditorium, Thursday evening at 7.30.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting at the Jail.

At 1.45 p. m. Sunday, representatives of the local Y. M. C. A. will conduct a religious service for the benefit of the prisoners at the Norwich jail. Edmund A. Prentice will have charge of the service. Hugh Kinder will render vocal solos and General Secretary Edwin Hill will give a brief talk to the men.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater.

The title of the new Paramount picture, which will top an excellent bill starting tomorrow night at the Broadway theatre, has an alluring sound. The Top of the World smacks of action and drama and love—the three graces that are fundamentally necessary to every successful photoplay if it is to fulfill its mission of entertainment.

With a combination of such box office favorites as Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis there is no lack of acting talent; and the fact that George Melford, producer of The Sheik and other outstanding successes, made it is a guarantee of its worth from a directorial standpoint.

For those who are not familiar with the story, it will suffice to say that it deals with a complex love problem involving a girl and two cousins who resemble each other physically. The bitter struggle between these two men reaches a terrific climax and takes an unexpected turn when a raging flood sweeps down from the mountains with disastrous results. Even the most blase picture-goers will experience a quickening of the pulse and a faster beating of the heart when they see the realistic storm effects, that the director has achieved. Just one of the many thrills in this melodramatic film! Incidentally, some astonishing photographic effects have been achieved, which show the two cousins—a dual role portrayed by Kirkwood—fighting, shaking hands, passing each other in the same scenes, and otherwise acting as though they were distinct and individual personalities. Credit for this camera wizardry belongs to Charles G. Clarke, who supervised the photography.

All in all, The Top of the World shapes up as mighty worthwhile screen entertainment and is especially commended to those who are looking for something different in the way of film fare.

Short subjects include a comedy and news.

Bible Held Consistent.

The "World Almanac" lists nearly two hundred recognized denominations of Christians in the United States, and it stands to reason that not all the two hundred can be right. They are teaching different creeds. These creeds vary from each other, some in one point, some in another, with the result that the reasoning mind is bewildered when it tries to find the right path.

Even when a thinker has found what has been most strongly presented to him as the right path, he does not find the unanimity of thought that he had hoped for. On the contrary, he finds the leaders in each particular movement at odds in their remarks if not in their opinions, and sometimes openly discordant.

Christians ought not to be in such a frame of mind that they accept unquestioningly every idea that is passed out to them. They may know the truth on any doctrine of the Bible, if the Lord's own words are to be believed; but if they are to get that truth, they will get it from the storehouse, that is to say, from the Bible itself.

The Lord gave the prescription of how to find the truth: "If ye continue in my word . . . ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." A knowledge of the truth regarding God's character and plan is the greatest of boons; the freedom which it gives is the only true freedom, namely, freedom of the mind and of the heart.

At a free lecture at G. A. R. hall Sunday, W. T. Knight, under the auspices of the International Bible Students' association, will undertake to answer the question Pilate asked of Jesus, "What is truth?" and to show what is the liberty which it brings.

Ritz Revue.

After a week's rehearsals, "The Ritz Revue," the third annual show of the Nemrod Grotto, is rapidly shaping into professional form and the auspicing society are assured of another success like other years.

The performances are to be staged at the Palace on April 14-15, the entire production being staged by Harrington Adams Inc. Torrey T. McKenny and F. Stephen Wilkinson, representing the company.

The show is a revue modeled on the lines of the current Broadway shows, with a kaleidiscopic ensemble of songs, dances and sketches. The latter part is modeled after The Vanity Fair magazine, starting with the cover page and taking on through from editorials to advertisements. The principal singing roles will be taken by Miss Eunice Taft, Lyle Fillmore and Miss Mary Grey. Mrs. Walter Buckingham will appear in the role of Condeta Naste, the editoress of Vanity Fair.

One of the most attractive song numbers is done by Miss Taft and 12 young men. The number is called Eunice and Her Boy Friends. The settings and costumes are beautiful and the show in its entirety will be staged as it was by the Junior League of Providence, and the Vincent Club of Boston.

Isabel C. Bradley at Spiritual Academy.

Isabel C. Bradley, famous on two continents for her marvelous demonstrations of clairvoyant power, comes to the Spiritual Academy, Sunday. Her startling reading of sealed letters, and descriptions of missing persons and giving of addresses of same, have amazed and delighted thousands from coast to coast and in European countries.

Mrs. Bradley always draws immense crowds, many times turning away large numbers of people unable to get seats. Afternoon service at 2.30 is free with collections; evening admission 25c. Service at 7.30.

Cheer Up

Cheer up, chillun, though the weather's raw,
Every time dey comes a freeze dat's got ter come a thaw.
It takes a little patience till de freezin' time is done,
An' if you lose yoh temper, why it doesn't help you none.

Cheer up, chillun 'cause de weathers on de move,
When de luck appears de hardest it is certain to improve,
Cold wave and storm wave, day gotter mind de law—
Every time you gits a freeze you gotter have a thaw.

Cheer up, chillun and prepare to say Hurrah!
De chilliest propositun by an by is boun to thaw,
Yoh hopes dey keeps a droppin—don't you let it make you frown;
Thermometers was built foh movin up de same as down

So cheer up chillun, cause you shely might as well,
We all has our troubles, an dars nothin new to tell,
Each botheration seems about de worst you ever saw,
But every time you gits a freeze—you's gotter have a thaw.

A Wish

This is what I want to be:
Fit for every eye to see
Strong enough to do my task,
More than that I need not ask,
Big enough to brave a blow,
Disappointment's touch of woe,
Petty loss or sorrow's touch,
Without whimpering too much.
I should like to play the game
Clean: hand and free from shame;
Fighting hard, but when it's done
And the battle's lost or won,
Coming home without regret,
Leaving none that I have met
Who could say I'd failed to be
All that honor asked of me.
There are goals I hope to gain,
But I want them free from stain,
Want to earn them in the light,
Want to make them mine by right;
And above the deeds I plan,
First of all I'd play the man.
Though for glorious crowns I dare
I would never be unfair.
This is what I'd like to be:
Kind and brave and neighborly,
Full of heart and broad of mind,
Glad with every joy I find,
Friendly as I go my way,
Courage-packed day by day.
Keeping through it rise or fall,
The love and good esteem of all.

HELIOTROPE: Letters sent as requested.

ELLIOTT: Your name has been recorded as Corner member. Penname selected belongs to another. If another is desired please select it.

DOING HER BIT FOR CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: As I finished reading the Corner page I felt myself to be a slacker, enjoying all the nice things and doing nothing myself, so I said Amelia get your pen and get busy and do your share. I live very near Ma of Greene Gables and I am glad for her that she has her housecleaning all done. I wish mine was finished, but I am going to begin next week if the weather permits.

Lime Lady: In answer to your question, my answer is, I think you must be a Yankee. Tell your mother I will get the dahlias to her soon.

Here is a recipe I wish some sister would try and report. It makes a nice supper dish and am very sure you will like it.

Vinegar Slump: 1 cups of sugar, 1 cups of molasses, 1 1-2 cups of red vinegar, 2 cups of water, small piece of butter a little salt. Make biscuit dough for the dumplings. Put all in a kettle and when boiling drop in the dumplings boil 10 minutes uncovered and 10 minutes covered, serve hot.

I am glad our editor has decided we are to have the Social Corner pins. I for one will be pleased to have one and proud to think I belong to the family that entitles me to wear one.

AURELIA.

GREETINGS FROM ROSALIND

Dear Social Corner Friends: We are having nice weather. I was looking at a picture the other day of old winter going round the corner of the house. It was the form of a man dressed in black with a long nose and the whole family was on the steps bidding him good bye.

I haven't seen any letter from Just Me in a long time. I have had to be up to mother's all I could for the past three weeks as she is sick. I want to thank Free Air for the mock cherry pie recipe and I have read Eclipse's recipe. I am very fond of cranberries and they say they are very healthful to eat. I make cranberry dumplings and turn over pies. Borkara use to come selling them, but haven't seen her this way for a long time.

"Spring spied Miss April through a window pane and she motioned, come in for its going to rain. She stammered, Oh-h-h don't you think when the weather's like this you need an umbrella. No, Spring winked. I'm a water proofed fella."

Although Easter does not come at the same time each year, it always seems right and natural to think of Easter as the exact time when those growing things that have lain dormant during the winter are bursting forth into new growth and renewed glory. Whether we are particularly religious or not we think of spring as the symbol of the resurrection.

ROSALIND.

JOINS THE CORNER

Social Corner Editor: Have you room in your Corner for another? I have read the Social Corner for some time and like it very much. Will take for a penname

ELLIOTT.

GREETINGS FROM CRIMSON RAMBLER

Dear Corner Sisters: Here I come for a little chat. I was extremely sorry to hear of the accident to Sister Red Clover.

Paula: How did you find things at home when you got there? You should have waited a while longer.

Lorna: Did you get home before dark, last Wednesday? I didn't.

Maple Leaf: I saw you out sporting last Wednesday. Say, that arbutus looked very pretty.

Gem: Why don't you write to the Corner? You know you owe the Corner a letter in order to be a good member. Get busy don't let your pen get rusty.

Eca: I saw you out after trailing arbutus. Did you find much? Some trip, wasn't it? I'd like very much some time to visit the old ruins in the hollow near the sand dunes. What do you say if we all go some time, take our lunch with us also some shovels and see what we may find? Ask our chauffeur what he thinks of a trip there? I would like to visit that spot and I think Maple Leaf and Lorna would, too.

Wurdy Belle: Why so silent? I hardly ever see anything from your pen lately.

Calla Lily: I thank you for your kind invitation. We are thinking of accepting it sometime in the near future.

U. C. E.: Glad to receive a card from you, call again.

Was sorry to hear our sister Queen Elizabeth broke her arm. Why not send her a card shower? Her address is Mrs. Albert G. Avery, Norwich Town, Conn, R. F. D., No. 3.

Balsam Fir and the Groom: I thank you for remembering me on March 5. Hoping all those in trouble are on the way to happiness again, I will close with best wishes to all.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

WANTS STANZA'S DAILY DOZEN

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Having been admitted to membership the next thing is one of the Social Corner pins. Do I want one? I'll say I do.

Stanza: Please do send in the daily dozen. I am sure many of the members will appreciate it. Though not exactly stout, am a wee bit overweight, but when it comes to reducing by the starvation route, I simply "ain't there." So I for one shall be glad to know of some reliable form of exercise.

Here is a recipe which I hope some of the sisters will try.

Macaroni and Salmon: Cook one cup of short cut macaroni in boiling salted water until tender and drain. Open one can salmon and break salmon apart with fork. Make a cream sauce with two tablespoons butter, one tablespoons oil drained from salmon, three tablespoons flour, and two cups milk. Arrange the macaroni and the macaroni and salmon in layers in baking dish. Season salmon lightly with pepper and salt. Pour sauce over each layer. Sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top. Bake in hot oven 30 minutes.

With best wishes to editor and sisters,

SASSY.

RECALLS OLD TIMES

Dear Cornerites: Quite a little has been written about the little village of Yantic also much guessing as to who is who. It reminds one of old times when we kept one guessing our pen names.

It was about 1895 when I first knew of Yantic. The names mentioned except a few were familiar to me. I was sure I had guessed N. O. T. but the reply to Uncle Charlie rather misleads me. N. O. T. mentioned the Parkhursts. Our two families have been very dear friends for 30 years or more. Never-the-less will give another guess. Perhaps Betsy Trotwood has already spotted you. If not will not give her initial. Still believe you live in that neighborhood and are quite musical, playing both violin and tamborine and can sing quite good if you want to.

A good sister gave Uncle Charlie away to me and I believe you both used to attend Sunday night service at Bean Hill when Rev. Mr. Thomas was pastor, what meetings those were! How full of the spirit and such blessings as we received! Were you at a wedding in N. M. in 1900 and did you have one at your home in 1923? As you seem to know me was I at both of them? You and W swept up the rose petals. Betsy Trotwood was there also. You then lived near each other, if I have guessed right. Find her also.

GRACE.

Dear Social Corner Friends: How nice to see a full page every week and new ones coming all the time.

Billie: The weather is warmer; a good time for you to make that promised visit.

Uncle Charlie: Do you remember John C. House who lived on the Tibbetts place and afterwards conducted the boarding house? I used to visit them. I knew the Gleason boys. George Cryer and his two sisters, also Rev. George Cryer and his daughter Mary.

Hope the editor will remember me when distributing those pins. Should be pleased to have one.

Marigold: Congratulations upon winning a prize.

Hope all the sick ones are improving and will soon be able to meet with us.

Best wishes from

JOAN.

Norwich.

ONE MORE CORNER MEMBER

Editor of The Social Corner Page: May I become a member of your Social Corner? I have read a great many of the Corner's letters and find some of them very helpful and interesting.

If you are so kind as to allow me to be numbered as one of the Corner sisters I will take as my pen name.

SUNFLOWER.

THE RETURN OF SPRING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Many weeks have passed since I wrote you. Weeks of severe pain and suffering, dragging difficult nights when time passed all too slowly.

"For 'tis a small relief one gains,
To change the place, and keep the pains."

In fact I have had a very tedious winter, but I hope as the weather gets more mild, rheumatic conditions will improve.

I have read your nice letters with much interest, and enjoyed your enthusiastic reports of the various meetings and happenings of the different clubs. Now, there is a pleasant change in the seasons, and spring, smiling spring, is with us once more.

But spring is not one unbroken advance and triumph. There are late frosts and setbacks, that make great demands on patience and hope. This is a good discipline for us. A spring without disappointments, would be to lose something of incomparable worth.

"There is no time of hoping and watching,
That God in his mercy has not blest,
There is no horror that we may not banish,
If we and strength to murmur, He knows best."

Our feathered friends are returning to us, and we enjoy their sweet music, and they seem so busy in ceaseless journeyings for nest material.

Two, by two they seem to find innumerable havens open to them, in treetops, or beneath the eaves, or beside the stream.

How wonderful are the bird devices for protection and privacy. Dear little birds, so patient, so silent, so oblivious of their own needs, in their care for the future that shall be. The flash of a bluebird's wing, the notes of robin redbreast are sure messengers of spring. April is here now, the month of bud and early blossom. The many colored crocuses in the garden bed are cheering us with their brightness, after the little brown bulbs have slept soundly beneath the snows of winter.

"The little brown bulbs went to sleep
In the ground,
In their little brown nighties, they slept very sound,
And winter he raged, and he roared overhead,
But never a bulb turned over in bed.
But when spring came tripping over the lea,
With finger on lip and so still as could be,
At the very first sound of her soft little tread,
They all spilt their nighties, and jumped out of bed."

We should be very grateful to the giver of all good gifts, for the miracle of spring. With love to all, and goodbye from your shut in friend.

HOW TO GROW SWEET PEAS

Dear Sisters of the Corner: One of you wrote about the growing of the sweet peas. Sweet peas can be grown with an easy margin of profit if ordering care is taken. The bogey that attends the growing of the sweet peas in the minds of most people is purely an imaginary one, for they simply need exact methods. They should always be given an early start so they will be well established before hot weather. Put in the seeds as soon as the ground is in working condition, which usually is the latter part of April.

Sow the seed in trenches at least six inches deep; scatter it thickly in the bottom of the trench and cover with about an inch of the soil that has been thrown out when the trench is made. Tramp this down firmly. When the young plants are about 3 inches high, fill in about them with more soil and keep on doing this from time to time until all the soil that has been taken from the trench has been returned to it. In this way the roots of the plants are deep enough in the ground to insure coolness and moisture during the heat of the mid-summer—one of the basic necessities of the sweet pea is realth.

Brush is an ideal support for the sweet pea, but it is often difficult to get enough for the proper size. The brush should not be less than six feet high above the ground and should have branches close to the soil so that the vines can take hold of them as soon as they begin to throw out tendrils—where bushes are not obtainable—a combined board and netting support is good. Set stout posts lengthwise of the row, about ten feet apart. Across them close to the soil, nail a piece of board two feet in length. To these cross pieces nail stout strips of wood, from post to post. Let a similar strip of wood run from post to post at the top. Then stretch coarse meshed wire netting from the strip at the bottom to the strip at the top. This gives you a support like an inverted V. It will be understood there is a row of plants on each side and that these 2 rows are 2 feet apart. The support should be at least six feet high. At first the young plants may not "take hold" of the netting readily. They will soon do so if you continue weaving them out and in among the lower meshes of it until they are a few inches tall.

The soil in which the sweet pea is planted should be of moderate richness only. If very rich, there will be a growth very luxuriant of branches at the expense of blossoms. If barnyard manure is not obtainable, use fine bone meal as a substitute scattering it along the rows; in the proportion of 1-2 teacup to a yard of row; after the plants have attained a height of five or six inches, barn yard manure is used; you should make a liquid manure. If the plants are not growing as vigorously as you think they ought to more fertilizer can be added from time to time, working it into the soil well about the roots of the plants.

Like most other plants the sweet pea is subject to insect attacks if the weather is hot and dry. There is a red spider which can do great injury in a surprisingly short time, and he is really too small to be readily discernible to the naked eye. Your only way of discovering his presence is to watch the lower leaves on the plants to see if they are turning white. Clear water applied with a sprayer in such a manner as to thoroughly drench the foliage above and below is the only remedy. Keep doing this until the spider is routed.

There is the aphis or green plant louse which often attacks the plants when young. As soon as it is discovered, prepare an infusion of tobacco, and apply it in the form of a spray, as directed for the red spider. Or a spoonful or two of any nicotene extract on the market, put it into the water and use it freely and frequently will be equally effective.

The seed you use is the most important item. Cheap seed and you'll find any amount of it offered each spring—is dear at any price. If you want to grow fine flowers you cannot afford to invest in cheap seed.

Aloise Janet: I want to say that is the best way to make your coffee. I have made mine that way for quite awhile and it is so much nicer. My brother was a coffee demonstrator for quite a few years and he said it was the hardest work to get the housewife not to boil her coffee.

SOWING AND STARTING ASTERS

Dear Corner Sisters: May is the time to transplant into the open any china aster plants which you buy from the florist or may have started in your window garden. These early seedlings will be likely to yield early blossoms and to complete their period of bloom long before the time of killing frost. Consequently as I have written about planting the seed, it is well worth while to supplement them by a later crop, the seed which may be sown now in the open ground in short rows. The seedlings are to be transplanted in a few weeks—when they have reached the height of about three inches. In an ordinary season the asters thus sown will have opportunity to furnish their period of flowering before nipped by frost.

HASTENS TO SHOW APPRECIATION

Dear Corner Folks: I have started several letters since you last heard from me only to consign them to the waste basket before finishing them; but when I read the editor's kind offer to send a pin to every member who writes expressing a desire for one, I decided to brace up and be one of the first to show my appreciation. It will be nice for us all to have pins alike and I shall be delighted to receive one. I am however, still fond of my "yellow bow" given me by Saturday Eve and shall keep it as a souvenir of happy days gone by. I know one sister who has quite a collection of them. Some were given her, others borrowed and then not having enough she took the yellow baby ribbon that trimmed her apron and made more. I don't know whether she pin will satisfy her or not and I am not sure what will become of me when she finds I have exposed her weakness for "bows."

Several weeks ago Rosalind asked for my recipe for mock cherry pie. It differs so little from those already sent in that I will send a recipe for a banana pie instead that is very nice. Will also send a recipe for a pineapple pie that I have never tried, but it sounds good and as it came from a Social Corner sister must be all right.

Banana Pie: Bake a crust and let it cool. Slice into it two bananas. Scald one cup of milk and stir into it a half cup of sugar; two tablespoons of flour and the yolks of two eggs. Cook until thick. When cool, pour into the crust and frost.

Pineapple Pie: Cut a pineapple in halves. Pare and cull, run through the food chopper saving all the juice, add one level tablespoon of flour, one egg and the yolk of another and one half cup of sugar. Stir all together and bake with one crust. When baked beat the white of egg left, add sugar to taste and spread over the top.

Wist best wishes,

PRIMROSE.

CARING FOR OUR CHILDREN

Hello, Sisters: Neighbor Eveready certainly did give us of Club No. 3 a grand send off. I'm glad we made a good impression on her and her sister and was quite willing to be of assistance to them in getting them to the car as I would any other sister who found herself stranded. I feel sure though if a number of you should get together and come in a bunch that arrangements could be made for a 4 o'clock bus. I do wish some of you would try it. Our members attend your meetings and it is only fair for you to encourage us. Yes Neighbor Eveready, Mr. Don't Worry remembers you well and we would welcome you and sister any time.

Papa's Boy: Congratulations on that son! Now, I guess you do feel important. How is your mother?

Polly Peppermint: We were sorry to hear of your accident and have thought of writing you. Had I been feeling well at the time would surely have been one of the first.

We read so much of Ma's housecleaning. I wonder if she realized the comments she'd call forth. One thing about it, Ma, you either tend strictly to the junk man or else you don't have any cupboards. And how about children banging up the furniture making you nevarnish that each spring. Come on now be honest with us. I'm not envious but I'd jolly well like to know if it won't need to be done again about the time the rest of us get ours done. Did you paper and paint this year? You've started something you

I was speaking to a sister about washing windows. I like best of all a little water and kerosene to wash with and an old linen cloth for drying. The glass is clear when I finish. Have tried other ways but do not get such good results. I spoke of my window washing not amounting to much, as the children's finger prints are all over them three days after. Friend said that might be all right in kitchens but no need of it in other rooms, keep 'em out. Well, with one child I did manage, with 2 I did very well, but when there are 6 rooms downstairs all open all the time and three pairs of little hands all busy all the time and the weather is perhaps too damp to go out and there are lots of things so interesting the other side of the window, what can you expect? My house is situated so we can't see but one side at a time and three of those sides are apt to hold interest. When I tuck those three little bodies under the bedclothes for the last time at night before I retire myself, and look at those innocent little faces in their secure and contented sleep, how do you suppose I feel if through the day large tears have run down those little cheeks from mother's punishment? I know how I used to feel when I was a little child. I can remember my childhood. Some folks don't seem to ever have had any. If my baby gets enjoyment in scuffing around in daddy's big rubbers and mother's old hat, and drops them wherever she tires of them, doesn't she repay all the trouble and fuss when she suddenly takes a streak in her year and a half little mind to help mother clean up? She gets her little broom rushes for the dust pan, gets into the pile of sweepings and sends it helter, skelter, puts brother's rubbers behind the stove, grabs mother's slippers from where she dropped it and carries it where it belongs, all in the hurry and bustle to help. When brother is tired but the little imp of mischief has control over him at the table, you say, "Either eat and behave yourself or go into the other room," and he turns to you with dancing eyes and says, "Lean over mummum, me want to kiss you," could you send him from his dinner? When big sister gets the dish pan, water and all ready for the dishes while you put the younger ones to bed, can you refuse her a few bedtime stories, no matter how your nerves are shrieking for rest? I can't. Maybe I love my little ones too much, but I don't think so. I'm only human, and I do punish, but there are so many real things in life where they'll get their knocks, let me make their childhood as smooth as I can and let their home be a pleasant memory. When one is inclined to be too strict let the thoughts dwell on what the little one will be when he or she grows up. Could you think of spanking a judge or a doctor, a nurse or great writer? The world is full of thorns to prick our babies so let us not add to them.

DON'T WORRY.

SINGS PRAISES OF BERMUDA

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Hurrah! We are to have our emblem pins at last! Thanks to who ever helped to get this desire into concrete form.

Silent Stranger: We enjoyed your "natural study" talks. Won't you come again?

We appreciate the poems sent in by the members. Won't you all write your date of birth and name of your town when signing your letters to the Corner? It is so interesting to see from whence they come. We have letters from Maine, Washington, Florida and other states.

For the benefit of the good man who has the "travel-bug," and others who are alarmed at the number of automobile accidents, let me tell you a little about a place where auto accidents are unknown. Bermuda. (The enchanted isle.) is 48 hours by steamer south-east of New York City. Bermuda belongs to the British West Indies and depends almost entirely on the tourists for support as there are not any manufacturing industries there. The winters are about like our spring and summer weather, with fine sea breezes all of the time. The natives fish, grow Easter lilies and other flowering bulbs, and are able to plant gardens all of the year. No automobiles are allowed on the islands. Horses, carriages, and bicycles are used, one-third of the natives are pure white, one-third are black; one-third are mixed. The native rock is like that of Italy and can be sawed out in blocks with which to build. The natives are very religious, well educated, quiet and obliging. There has been but one murder there in 20 years.

A tourist can live at the fashionable hotels at the rate of $100 per day, but one can also live among the natives and get along very nicely on two dollars per day.

There are many natural caves and pools and the rocks form gigantic shapes on some of the headlands. There are not many sea shells to be found but plenty of coral formations. There are not any rivers or brooks. The people depend entirely on rainwater for drinking and personal use. The rain collected in large cisterns and is very pure and good. There is very little illness since the government has taken charge of health conditions. Only one leper on the island and he is being cured. There is a garrison at either end of the island of Bermuda for protection.

See the United States first, but after that, don't forget Bermuda.

ARIES, (April 13.)

Moosup.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Dear Social Corner Pals: Greetings and best wishes to all who have April birthdays. Thanks to those who remembered mine recently. Perhaps you've not had time to answer the questions of last letter so here goes.

1. Why do some people get bald? This is an effect of the hair cells going on strike. Instead of merely refusing to make color, they refuse to make hair at all. Poor nourishment is the most frequent cause. Scalp massage or anything that stimulates the circulation of blood in the scalp will sometimes cure baldness provided the hair cells are not dead.

2. Does the boiling of water remove impurities in it? Very few if any, of the chemical impurities are removed by boiling. But boiling does kill the germs in the water.

3. Do insects have brains like ours? No. The brain of an insect is much smaller and controlled by little knots of nervous tissue in the body.

4. Why can parrots talk? A parrot happens to have a set of vocal cords and a formation of the throat capable of imitating many sounds including human speech. There is no reason to believe that parrots ever understood what they are saying.

5. Why is it hard to run up hill and easy to run down? Because when you go uphill you are lifting your weight against the force of gravity. This takes power or strength. When you go down, the force of gravity is with you.

6. Why does a giraffe have such a long neck? Because he is in the habit of feeding on the leaves at the top of trees. In the course of millions of years he and his ancestors have developed a longer and longer neck so that they could reach high trees.

7. What is an echo and how is it caused? The waves of sound in the air strike against something hard and smooth, like a wall of the side of a cliff, and are reflected back again, much as light waves are reflected when they strike a mirror.

8. What is it that makes a person feel hungry? When the stomach is empty and several hours have passed since the last meal, the nerves in the stomach lining send messages to nerve centers in the spine and in the back part of the brain and announce that the digestion of the last meal has been completed and that another one can be sent along.

9. Do animals laugh? So far as we know they do not, though it is possible that the playful chatter of some of the higher apes is an equivalent of our laughter.

10. What is a kiss? Nothing divided by two.

Trusting all who are ill or are shutins may be much improved and cheered by the coming spring with its sunshine, rain and flowers and may we all be very grateful for our many blessings which have been bestowed. We all need feel indebted to our ever patient editor who has so kindly provided us with pins and showing an unceasing effort to please.

Am already for mine and many thanks until I can do better.

HOPE COBWEB.

USING PINEAPPLE IN PIES

Dear Social Corner and Members: I think the Social Corner pin a fine idea and would like to have one to wear.

If R. I. stands for Rhode Island and that writer is not too far from the boundary line of Connecticut the pin may help us to discover each other, as I live only a few miles over the line, close to the Shore Line (electric railway.)

In reply to the query regarding the selection of our pen names would say I chose mine from my favorite flower. Its colors, fragrance and meaning (devotion) appeal strongly to me.

I am one who would like to try out the daily dozen Stanza offers to send to the Corner.

Gypsy Wanda: Perhaps you have tried the pineapple pie recipe published in last Monday's Bulletin. Here are two others so you can have a variety.

Pineapple Pie: Make a cream filling one pint of milk heated in double boiler, and while heating mix together (in a bowl) 3 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, yolks of 2 eggs moistened with a little cold milk; stir into the hot milk and cook about 5 minutes or until it thickens. Remove from the fire and cool a few minutes. Add 1-2 can (1 cup) of grated pineapple. Pour into a crust that has been previously baked. Beat the whites of the 2 eggs to a stiff froth, add 2 tablespoons sugar, frost the pie and bake a light brown.

This may be varied by using oranges, lemon or bananas, in place of the pineapple.

Apple pie with pineapple: Bake apple pie the usual way, but without sweetening. Take 2 tablespoons of grated pineapple, 1 tablespoon water, 3 tablespoons of sugar, simmer till looks clear. Remove the top crust and spread this over, replace top crust and cool the pie.

Would be glad if you would report which you like best.

I do not often write the Corner but am glad to do so when I think I can help.

Sorry I am too far away to attend the meetings, but enjoy reading about them and all the good things you have to eat, and to enjoy.

How often are the meetings held at Buckingham Memorial?

Wishing the editor and all the sisters a bright and joyous Easter.

HELIOTROPE.

ANXIOUS NOT TO LOSE MEMBERSHIP

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: In reading over the many nice letters in a recent Corner page, one in particular attracted my attention, and that was student's. Student said she "had heard a sister say, when one did not answer the roll call and write once in about so often it was decided they were dead and their name crossed off."

Well, in the first place, I am very much alive although I haven't written for some time. Now in the second place I should be terribly disappointed if I thought my name was to be crossed off from the Social Corner list. I meant to have answered the roll call, but I kept putting it off until it would be too late every week. But, as the old saying goes "Better late than never."

I was very sorry not to have been able to attend the anniversary meeting at Franklin hall but I had about 500 baby chicks so I didn't think it would be wise to take a chance and leave them.

With best wishes for the Social Corner.

MORE TOURING OF FLORIDA

Dear Social Corner Friends: This will be my last letter before coming back north for we expect to be home about the first week in May.

Our last long trip was in the southern part of Florida, on the east coast.

We spent a day in Labelle where Henry Ford has bought extensively, to raise rubber plants. It is a small place but can be made very pretty. From there we drove over a trail across what seemed like the western prairies flat and barren, with cattle ranches two miles or more apart. A good deal of the land is pasture land of a very poor kind for Florida does not raise much grass. Big herds of cattle were grazing about. They are branded and are rounded up occasionally by the cow boys, the same as in the west.

Our next stop was at Lake Okechobee on the borders of the lake of the same name. We drove for miles along the shore and as it is 60 miles long and 40 miles wide, it seemed almost like being on the sea shore. We visited Palm Beach and Miami and the suburban places all of which are lovely with the tropical scenery and fine buildings.

We saw big groves of cocoanut trees and fields of pineapples loaded with fruit. We returned by the east coast road and drove along the shore when possible and we enjoyed that very much for the grand old ocean in all its moods makes a charming picture.

Fort Lauderdale, Fort Pierce and Del Ray are all thriving little towns but Melbourne better than any of the towns we visited for it is beautifully situated on the Indian river and has a fine beach, across a two mile bridge. This little suburb is called Indialantic, because the Atlantic ocean is on one side and the Indian river on the other, and it makes an ideal summer resort. We came through St. Cloud, Kissemee and Haines City, all pretty little places and growing rapidly.

We spent two days at Dradenton and Saracota. Both towns are lovely with fine buildings and estates, along the bay which is a part of the Gulf of Mexico.

We shall soon move to Eustis for a short stay and then to Jacksonville where we take the boat for a part of our journey home.

Greetings to all.

HULDY.

CLUB NO. 2'S APRIL MEETING

Dear Editor and Sisters: I was sorry to hear we had another member of Club No. 2 in Backus hospital, Norwich—Mrs. Estella Miller suffering with some trouble with her eyes. Any one who would be kind enough to send her a card would cheer her up. She is Catnip of the Corner and knits such lovely lace. She is one of our willing workers at the meetings and our sympathy is with her and our dear Red Clover, who is also at the hospital. The cards that Red Clover, Mrs. George Bailey has received have been a great help to cheer up her nervous spirit. Her trouble is a slow one and one that takes time to heal and get her up and around. The cards make them feel as though our thoughts are with them.

The April first meeting was well attended. The program was good. It usually is pleasing. The duets on piano by Joan and Black Eyed Susie were appreciated and well done. I trust we'll have more of them in the future. As usual our hostesses deserve praise and credit for their work putting on the dinner.

Bug, You and Ma of Greene Gables took up something to entertain us. We want to hear you as well as see you.

Windham Blue Bell seemed to be missed, she is so perfect in attendance.

Our Willimantic visitors, Cretia and Mrs. S.: I was pleased to have the little chat with you. Come down again and bring more of Club No. 1.

I want to thank the editor for my pin also for his kindness in all things pertaining to the Corner. When ever I ask his advice or help in any thing that I go to him for, he is always willing to advise. I think him for all help.

Delilah Deal: Am going to try and make you a call some Sunday now the spring weather is here.

Crimson Rambler: You ought to see my radio recipe book that I get on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 to 11 o'clock a. m. No phone answered at that hour. Have wonderful cooking recipes and will send in some later to the Corner. I'll have to change my mind it works so much better up here. You would have a fine place for one. Everybody will be writing for a pin so I'll sign off as usual.

CALLA LILY.

SOME GOOD RECIPES

Dear Social Corner Members: Like milk, an egg is almost a perfect food, that is, it has all the elements, which are necessary for the support and the growth of the body in the right proportion. They are highly concentrated foods however, and should be eaten with other foods which furnish bulk.

Scrambled Eggs: 3 eggs beaten slightly with fork three tablespoon milk, salt and pepper. Heat frying pan, put in butter, and when melted turn in mixture. Cook until of creamy consistency stirring and scraping from bottom of pan.

Scalloped Eggs: Line a well buttered baking dish with bread crumbs, add a layer of sliced hard boiled eggs, a little salt and pepper, dot with butter, add another layer of bread crumbs, eggs, etc., until all material is used, having a layer of crumbs on top. Cover with rich milk and bake until brown.

Cracker Pudding: Three large crackers, put through grinder, 2 cups sweet milk 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, pinch salt, 1 cup shredded cocoanut.

Stir crackers, milk, egg yolks and sugar together and bake 30 minutes. When baked frost with whites of the 2 eggs beaten stiff with 1 cup shredded cocoanut and 2 teaspoons sugar.

This pudding is very nice if you eliminate the cocoanut and use whipped cream flavored with ginger, lemon or vanilla.

Egg with Toast: Toast as many pieces of bread as there are persons. Dip an instant into hot rich milk and place on a platter. Allow one egg for each person, place a tablespoon of butter in the skillet and to one egg add 2 tablespoons of milk. Take up carefully and place the egg on each slice of toast. Season lightly with salt and pepper.

Rice Pudding with Maraschino Cherries: 1-3 cup rice, 1 tablespoon gelatin soaked in a little water, 3-4 cup of sugar, 3 cups milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup whipped cream. Boil the rice with milk in double boiler until thoroughly cooked. Add sugar, vanilla and gelatin soaked in a little cold water to this mixture. Cool and when ready to serve stir in a cup of whipped cream and serve with maraschino cherries. The above is a delicious and not an expensive dessert.

Breezy Meadow Pudding: 3 large crackers rolled fine, 2 cups rich milk, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, pinch of salt, 1 cup of prunes, strawberries or raspberries.

Stir crackers milk, egg yolk together bake 30 minutes. When cooked frost with the white of two eggs beaten stiff 2 teaspoons sugar and a pinch of salt. Flavor with a cup of prunes, strawberries or raspberries, sweetened with shredded cocoanut.

UNCLE SAM'S DAUGHTER.

RURAL DELIVERY'S PENNAME

Dear Social Corner Friends: There has been quite a little said in regard to how the members selected their pen names. Perhaps it is my turn to tell the Corner members where I got mine, as we do not live in the city or village, but live where the fields are green and the birds come back in early spring and sing their sweet songs, and there is no smoke from the mill, the foundry, the cars and hundred other bad smells. It is just God's pure air which needs no filtering to make the cheeks of the girls and boys as red as roses.

Having always been much interested in newspapers and mail matter and having to go two miles for all our mail I said I was going to see what Uncle Sam would do for me and I started out to get signers to fill out a long paper I had received from Washington, D. C., to get a rural route in this section. I had quite a trial to get signers. One man whose name I wanted was away from home much of his time and I visited him one rainy night and held the light for him to sign while he was in bed. As the congressman in this district was a pretty good friend to me I placed my case in his hands and we were granted the R. F. D. one month earlier than we expected. It is a God earlier than we expected. It is a God send to all who live in the rural districts who are now having anything from parts of automobiles to garden tools and seeds to plant also live chickens by the thousands, dog pups and a hundred and one things all delivered at their door promptly. It was about the time the Social Corner started when I made the trial for a rural route and thinking the penname Rural Delivery would be accepted by the editor I used it in my first letter to the Social Corner 15 years ago and have never changed it.

The parcel post packages are coming daily and the Bulletin Co. sends the Social Corner page regularly and really it makes life worth living in the rural districts. A good motto is to live and let live. Long may the Social Corner live and prosper is the wish of

GREETINGS FROM BON AMI

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Good morning How are you as this lovely spring morning? It does seem lovely to hear the birds singing. The grass in our yard is coming on nicely now. This is all so refreshing after a hard and tiresome winter. spent some time the other day watching a large flock of birds bathing and having such lively time in the little brook that runs by here.

Sweet William: How are you? Why do you never write? I know it must be lovely up there now. How is little W— as full of business as ever?

Anna Z: No, I do not live in Manchester. I am way down here in the Rose of New England. I took my name for what it stands for, A good friend.

Red Clover, am sorry you had such a misfortune.

J. E. Accept my sympathy. I am very sorry.

Good cheer to all the sick

Best wishes from

BON AMI.

LETTER OF THANKS AND SYMPATHY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I should have written and thanked the sister who sent me the calendar for Christmas but for several weeks was not able to do so. Then the last week in January the man of the house was taken with serious illness—the Bears was his trouble—and it has been eight weeks since he has been able to work at all. But he is much better and hopes to take up some of his work again the first of April.

I do thank the Social Corner Sister for her kindness in remembering me with the pretty calendar. But have been so busy—worried—and stirred up with all the sickness we have had. I havent had to neglect all my friends. I find time to

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Caucuses and political rallies featured the happenings of the week of fifty years ago in Norwich. Paul B. Greene was nominated candidate for representative by the republican party's caucus. For second representative the caucus named Willis R. Austin.

The democrats at their caucus nominated H. L. Parker and J. B. Shannon candidates for representatives. Interesting extracts from the files of The Bulletin of 1875 are as follows:

Monday, March 29, 1875—The selectmen concluded their labors Saturday with the class originally set down on the registry list. To be made. There were 609 applicants of whom 340 were passed.

Two days of mild weather and the westerly winds have nearly freed the sound from ice, and it is probably safe to say that there will be no further obstruction to navigation.

The Hon. J. H. Ela, member of Congress from New Hampshire will speak to the republicans in Lebanon Town Hall tonight. Mr. Ela is a good speaker and should receive a warm welcome.

Henry B. Allen for some time in the Western Union Telegraph office at Worcester and well known in telegraphic circles in this section, died suddenly of pleurisy in Groton Friday.

Judge Harland has been revising the form of probate record and has reduced it to about one-third of its former length. For eliminating this mass of verbiage he deserves the thanks of all explorers of his musty realm.

Tuesday, March 30, 1875—The democrats made their first rally in Breed hall last evening. The hall was filled when the speaking began. The Hon. David A. Wells presided and in a few brief remarks introduced F. W. Bird of Massachusetts. Mr. Bird is a garrulous old gentleman who rambled in his speech, and after the manner of old age told senile stories of his college days and youth. He wandered from subject to subject in an incoherent manner, and much of the time he spoke so feebly that he could not be heard a few feet from the stage. The result of this was that there was great disorder in the rear part of the room and little attention was paid to his remarks. It seems unfortunate that an old gentleman like Mr. Bird, who has reached the age of chimney corners and gruel, and who is so eminently unfit for public speaking should so expose the weakness of his time in public life. His speech was more an apology for his joining the democratic party than a support of that party or denunciation of the republicans, and so utterly in opposition to what had been expected that even the leading democrats on the platform were disgusted.

At the annual meeting of the Central Baptist church, held last evening, the following officers were elected: President, Edward Ray; clerk, J. H. Powelson; treasurer, John C. Perkins; society committee, C. F. Setchell, J. A. Brown, J. H. Arnold; ushers, J. H. Powelson, A. P. Carroll, M. A. Cole, Charles W. Gale, George Greenough, Ernest Weitzel.

Wednesday, March 31, 1875 — The democratic caucus was held in the City Hall last evening. H. H. Roath was appointed chairman and E. H. Thomas and John F. Morgan, secretaries. On motion of Daniel Lee a vote for first representative was taken by passing around the chair and resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes,	77
H. L. Parker,	65
J. B. Shannon,	5
Thomas Brock,	7

On motion of Daniel Lee the nomination was made unanimous.

A ballot was taken for second representative and resulted as follows:

Whole number of ballots cast,	93
J. B. Shannon,	66
Thomas Brock,	13

A motion of Mr. Lee to make the nomination unanimous was rejected.

We are called upon again to chronicle the death of another of our active business citizens. After a brief sickness of eight days Everett P. Jacobs, of the firm of L. W. Carroll & Co., died at his residence in this city at noon yesterday. Mr. Jacobs was a native of Thompson and was born in 1833. He leaves an invalid wife and three sons.

Thursday, April 1, 1875—The republican caucus to nominate representatives was held in the city hall last evening. Ebenezer Learned was appointed chairman and J. C. Kellogg and E. S. Bishop secretaries. Paul B. Greene was nominated for first representative and Willis R. Austin was nominated for second representative. In response to repeated calls, Mr. Austin spoke briefly accepting the nomination. The meeting then adjourned.

A teachers' Institute will be held in the Free Academy next week. The exercises begin Thursday night and close Saturday. Citizens will be solicited to entertain visitors.

The river is free from ice except that part of it west and north of the steamboat wharf to the rolling mill.

The examinations at the Free Academy close Friday noon, having commenced yesterday. After examinations Friday the closing exercises of the term take place and will consist of a dramatic representation and singing.

Friday, April 2, 1875—The third republican rally of the campaign will be held in Breed hall tonight. Gen. James A. Garfield of Ohio and the Hon. Eugene Hale of Maine will address the meeting. They are both eloquent speakers and deserve a full house. Let the hall be crowded.

The body of a man was found in the Thames near Stoddard's Wharf yesterday. It was frozen in the ice. It was found to be that of Michael Griffin of Bean Hill, who disappeared from his home in November last. It is supposed Griffin fell off one of the wharves. A jury of inquest with S. B. Stoddard foreman was summoned and returned a verdict of accidental death by drowning.

The funeral of Mrs. Juliet Perkins will be held at Christ at three o'clock this afternoon. Funeral services will be held at the same hour at the Packer Institute in Brooklyn.

Saturday, April 3, 1875—Some sixty persons met at White's Hall last evening to hear what might be said by the prohibitionists. U. S. Gardner was chosen chairman of the meeting. The speakers were J. A. Mowatt and John A. Rockwell. They brought forward the arguments which their party adduce as their reasons for political action. The meeting adjourned at an early hour.

A loss of $300 or $400 was occasioned by a fire at the residence of Charles Davis on Laurel Hill yesterday, caused by a partition catching fire from a stove pipe. The city bell rang and the fire department scaled the heights across the river with great enthusiasm but their services were fortunately not required.

Park Church Installation—In the installation service for Tuesday evening next, a sincere and general interest will be taken. The vigor and success which has marked the course the youngest of the Norwich churches, has won for it a hearty admiration. The Rev. R. S. Storrs, D. D., of Brooklyn, will preach the installation sermon.

After struggling with two days of examination, the students at the Free Academy refreshed their minds yesterday with a dramatic entertainment at noon. It was applauded deservedly.

Farmer Brown's Boy Explains to Bowser the Hound

The future will call blessed he
Who frequently doth plant a tree.
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Bowser, the Hound likes to go with Farmer Brown's Boy wherever he goes. So, while Farmer Brown's Boy was setting out the little pine trees in the

"You old fraud," said Farmer Brown's Boy, patting Bowser on the head

Old Pasture of course Bowser the Hound was with him. When Farmer Brown wasn't there Farmer Brown's Boy talked to Bowser.

"This is hard work, Bowser," said he. "Yes, sir, this is hard work, but I don't mind. You know a thing isn't worth having if it isn't worth working for. The Old Pasture was all grown up to brush and brambles and wasn't good for much of anything except berries in the summer. It wasn't even a good pasture any more. But now part of it is going to be good for something. Yes, sir-ee! These little trees are going to grow and grow, and some day they will be as big as any of the trees over in the Green Forest.

"When these trees get big there will be a wonderful Green Forest here and the Old Pasture which hasn't been worth much of anything will be one of the most valuable parts of the whole farm. Yes, sir, that is just what is going to happen. What men are thinking of when they keep cutting down trees and cutting down trees and never planting any I don't know. I love trees. It makes me feel badly every time I see a tree cut down. But we have to cut down trees for fire wood and lumber. But if every time a tree is cut down another to take its place is planted we will always have a Green Forest. This land here isn't good for anything but to grow trees. For that it is splendid. Trees are what Old Mother Nature intended should grow on it. More trees will mean more feathered folks and more of the little people who wear fur.

"I suspect that Reddy Fox and some of the others thought I was doing a dreadful thing when I cut off the brush and brambles and burned them. But they'll like these trees ever so much better. Besides, I didn't cut off the brush and brambles all over the Old Pasture. I left enough for those who like them to hide in. You know, Bowser, there are some places in the Old Pasture where trees can't grow. Those are the places for the brush and the brambles."

Bowser looked up and wagged his tail just as if he understood what his master was saying. He had his own opinion of what Farmer Brown's Boy was doing. Many a time had Bowser chased old Granny Fox and Reddy Fox through the Old Pasture, and many a time had he chased Old Jed Thumper there. The brambles had scratched him and torn his coat and made him yelp as he tried to get through them. So it had suited Bowser to see those brambles cut and burned. Yes, sir, it had suited him perfectly. These little trees wouldn't be in his way. He would be able to follow Reddy Fox up here now with some comfort. So he looked up in his master's face and grinned and wagged his tail quite as if he understood everything.

"You old fraud," said Farmer Brown's Boy, patting Bowser on the head. "You old fraud. You haven't understood a word I've said, and you needn't pretend that you have. Just the same, it is all true. The Old Pasture is going to be a wonderful place shot Skelly at the time he fired the some day."

APPOINTMENT OF LOWER COURT JUDGES TO BE MADE NEXT WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, Apr. 3—The only contest in the appointment of minor judgeships, that of Stamford having been heard by the judiciary, they have arranged for hearings on the remaining resolutions, ninety-three in all. Many of them are for reappointment and it is not expected that there will be any appropriation to the several resolutions. Among those from the eastern counties to be considered, are Arthur P. Libby, judge, and Henry H. Pettis, deputy judge of the city court of Norwich; S. Victor Prince, judge, Lewis Crandall assistant judge of city court of N. Lon.; John T. Barry, judge, James H. Shea, deputy judge, of the town court of Griswold; Frank E. Robinson, deputy judge, of town court of Griswold; C. C. Costello, judge, C. Tyler Landphere, deputy judge, of the town court of Groton; Wm. Fennar Woodard, judge, Charles S. Francis, deputy judge, of the town court of Killingly; Mahlon H. Geissler, judge, and Archibald Macdonald, deputy judge of the city court of Putnam; Henry A. Adams, judge, John W. Crofts, deputy judge, of the town court of Sprague; Wm. H. Heald, judge, and Ernest K. Taft, deputy judge, of Borough Court of Stafford Springs; Wm. A. Wilcox, judge, and James H. Stevens, deputy judge, of the town court of Stonington; Otto B. Robinson, judge, and Curtis Dean, deputy judge, of the police court of Willimantic.

A resolution is in the possession of the judiciary committee appointing Frank H. Foss as judge in Willimantic that will be heard later.

Among the bills that were signed by Governor Trumbull Thursday were: A special act concerning the hours of voting at city elections and the warning and notices that are to be given; An act defining the territorial limits of the city, located in and about Mohegan park; an act providing for the use by the city of a part of the profits of its gas and electrical departments; an act exempting from taxation the property of Bacon Academy at Colchester; an act reimbursing John R. Miller of Brooklyn in the sum of $200 for damage done to his property in alteration of highway; an act allowing the borough of Groton to issue bonds to the amount of $150,000 for the purpose of refunding water bonds falling due soon at a rate not exceeding four and one-half per cent. The bill concerning the taking of shad favorably reported by the committee on fish and game provides for the repeal of the 1923 bill that only allowed four days fishing, and prohibits set or stoke nets.

The House

The house got to work this morning at 11:33 with Speaker Darbie in the chair. Prayer was offered by House Chaplain Lewis.

Favorable reports were made by finance committee on bill authorizing the town of Newington to issue bonds to an amount not exceeding $60,000; an act authorizing the city of Waterbury to issue sewage bonds in an amount not exceeding $650,000.

Roads, rivers and bridges committee reported favorably on H. B. 916 making a certain road in the town of Newington a state aid highway.

The fish and game commission reported favorably a bill regulating the taking of shad.

The cities and burroughs committee reported favorably bills incorporating the city of Manchester; bill consolidating the cities of Norwalk and South Norwalk; bill amending the charter of the city of Waterbury relating to elective officers; bill authorizing the borough of Branford to enact by-laws concerning parking of automobiles; bill concerning powers of board of aldermen of city of Torrington to make assessments; bill establishing a fireman's pension fund in the city of Willimantic. A resolution was passed paying John J. Murphy $500.00 for the preparation of bills.

All senate bills, rejected or favored, had the occurrence of the house.

Matters on the calendar passed were:

Substitute for S. B. ..o 13. An act amending the charter of the Waterbury Gas Light company.

S. B. No. 131. An act amending an act establishing the borough court at Naugatuck.

At 11:54 adjournment was made till Tuesday next at 11:30 a. m

Senate

Senator Ernest A. Anderson, Fifteenth district of Waterbury, presided at today's session of the senate which was called to order at 11:15.

The committee on finance reported favorably on substitute bills authorizing the city of Waterbury to issue bridge bonds to the amount of $400,000 bearing interest at a rate not greater than five per cent., and storm water drainage bonds of the same city to the amount of $100,000 at a rate of interest not more than five per cent., and a favorable committee on the bill authorizing the city of Norwich to issue refunding bonds to the amount of $166,000 at a rate of interest not exceeding four and one-half per cent. The reports were tabled for the calendar.

Senator Felton of the Thirty-fourth district was appointed a member of a committee of conferences on the part of the senate on the disagreeing action on the petition to restore forfeited rights to Louis E. Barnes of Granby. The senate some days since rejected the petition and the house recommitted it.

The committee on agriculture reported favorably on a substitute bill concerning commercial feeding stuffs in relation to the taking of samples for the purpose of analysis by the dairy and pure food commissioner who is empowered to regulate the sale. The bill was tabled for calendar.

Calendar

Passed. Fixing the salaries of the officials of the town court of Milford as follows: Judge $1,500, deputy judge $200, with a provision that if he acts as judge more than 20 days during the year he shall be paid $10 a day for the extra days to be deducted from the salary of the judge, prosecuting attorney $1,500, and assistant $1,000; validating the election of commissioners of the Sixth Taxing district of the city of Norwalk and certain acts of the district and providing for the election of a treasurer of the district.

Senator Shaw announced that senators should procure new mileage books as the old books would expire next Monday.

The senate adjourned to Tuesday, at 11:15 a. m.

GALES FERRY

COLUMBIA

The Columbia Dramatic club began Monday evening the rehearsals of the three-act play, The Adventures of Grandpa, to be given when arrangements can be completed in a circuit with the dramatic clubs of neighboring towns.

The funeral services for Mrs. Babette Bertsch, wife of William Bertsch, were held at Columbia Congregational church, Wednesday, at 1 p. m., and were conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. C. Haun, many being present. Mrs. Bertsch had been ill with tuberculosis for a long time at her home, and recently her friends, feeling that she needed skilful nursing and the best possible care, provided those comforts for her, at the Norwich state tuberculosis sanatorium. She died there Sunday night. The body was brought to Columbia for burial in the family plot, in the new portion of the cemetery at the center. The bearers were William Wolff, Erwin Collins, Conrad Schriefer and Hubert Collins. She leaves her husband and two children, Elizabeth, a student at the Windham High school, and Frederick, attending the district school at the center.

The Village Improvement Society is continuing its work on the green. Tuesday the dead grass on the eastern side was burned off, and Wednesday, grading of portions of the green, through which roads have been cut, was begun and later will be seeded.

Mrs. Clayton Hunt went to Johnston, R. I., Thursday, and will spend the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Simon Goff.

At the meeting of the grange Wednesday evening, forty-one members were present and six persons, Edna Edwards, Harry Field, Theodore Ladd, Juliette Hennequin, Erwin Collins and Clinton Lewis were elected members.

The grange was fortunate in having a very energetic and resourceful lecturer, Mrs. Howard A. Rice, who devotes much time to providing entertaining and interesting programmes. Wednesday being April 1 Fools' day, the programme was filled with sense and considerable nonsense. The programme opened with a parade of the members dressed in ancient and worn, but not ragged clothes. Mrs. H. W. Porter, Mrs. Ida Lyman and Mrs. Chas. K. Hitchcock as a penalty for not appearing in old clothes, were appointed to judge who were entitled to the prize for wearing the oldest clothes, their decision being in favor of Mrs. Lester Hutchins and Lucern Hennequin. Gladys Rice and Myrtle Collins read very interesting articles on the story and origin of Mary Had a Little Lamb. Miss Margaret Hutchins read of the Great Financial men of the world, detailing their work and gifts; Miss Lila Seely read an article on the lives of Great Men and Women, and Mrs. Cora Hutchins an article on noted Rich and Prosperous. Mrs. Alice Hunt read a poem, Keep on Just the Same. A Mother Goose party was then formed, the poem being read by Mrs. Rice, interspersed with humorous selections, Mother Goose rhythms and nonsense by members of the party. Gladys Rice reciting a verse entitled Twisting, very clearly, Miss Clough, Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers and Roy Lyman, Humpty Dumpty. The entertainment closed with a throwing contest, with rubber balls. William Wolff and Raymond Lyman being captains of the opposing sides, the contest being won by William Wolff's side, the score being 120 to 110.

At the next grange meeting there is to be a competitive programme between the stout and thin members of the grange, the committee being Mrs. Ethel Blakeley, Mrs. Alice Hunt and Mrs. Mary Hutchins.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY.

Eight tables of whist were in play Tuesday at the home of Mrs. William F. Bogue of 106 Broad street, who entertained for the Woman's Auxiliary of Robert O. Fletcher Post, No. 4, American Legion. Four prizes were given to those having highest scores, and a good sum of money was realized for the treasury of the auxiliary.

The auxiliary is planning to hold more whist parties in the future to assist them in their charitable work among the disabled veterans in Norwich institutions.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY.

A regular business meeting of the R. E. Hourigan Auxiliary, V. F. W., was held Wednesday evening at the post rooms, 2 Market street, with the president, Mrs. Annie B. Turner, presiding. Regular routine business was transacted. The auxiliary was visited by the state deputy, Mrs. Mary A. Nixon of Stamford. One new member was initiated. The auxiliary was presented a Holy Bible from Mrs. Elizabeth Bogue and is very grateful to her for her fine gift. After the business session refreshments consisting of cake, sandwiches, coffee and chocolates were served by Mrs. A. Hoelck, the entertainment committee.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY.

Norwich grange, No. 172, has Indian night on the programme for the lecturer's hour at its next meeting. One interesting detail of the evening will be the appearance of Lemuel Fielding (Chief Occum) in Indian costume to give a talk on Indian customs and habits.

EASTERN STAR.

Mary Todd Lincoln tent, No 15, of Willimantic, is to make its second anniversary a special occasion next Monday evening and will have as its guests the members of Clara Barton tent, No. 4, of this city. A supper is to be served at 6.30 and the Norwich Daughters of Veterans have made plans to leave here by the 4.45 trolley.

JUNIOR MECHANICS.

Buckingham Council, No. 14, met in regular session Wednesday evening with Councilor W. Chapman presiding. Relief and special committees reported favorably to the council and the regular business of the evening was transacted. The council has received thanks from the school teacher of Pleasure Hill school for the Bible which the council presented to the school some time ago. Each week applications for membership are being brought in and the council is growing rapidly. Plans for an open meeting to be held May 18 are being made by a special committee.

ODD FELLOWS, M. U.

At the regular meeting of Loyal Hugh Henry Osgood lodge, No. 6,920, held Friday evening at Steiner's hall, Brother F. Hill acted as noble grand and there was a large attendance. Routine business was transacted after which members discussed business to be brought before the state convention to be held in Hartford on April 22nd. The following delegates were elected to represent the lodge at the convention, Brothers Crooks, Addison and Nelson. Several brothers applied for the gold degree and intend to take it in Unity lodge, Fall River, Mass., in May. The dance committee reported a good sale of tickets for the dance to be held at Ponemah hall and the lodge adjourned.

RED MEN

Mohegan Tribe, No. 64, met in their wigwam at Steiner's hall, Wednesday night with Past Sachem Clyde Whitman holding the stump. Various matters of business were taken up and disposed of and plans were made to hold a big time in Norwich on April 15th when two Hartford tribes will trail to this city. Each tribe has a very high class degree team and will put on the hunters' and chiefs' degree.

The adoption degree was put on Wednesday night and four palefaces went through. Fourteen candidates await the arrival of the Hartford teams. Benjamin Rose of New London was present with Sachem Thompson, Past Sachem Hopkins and Past Sachem Cummings. Brother Rose spoke words of wisdom and advice to the tribe and extended an invitation for them to attend the Past Sachems' banquet at the Mohegan hotel, New London, in the near future. Brother Cummings gave a long talk on degree work and Brothers Farrell, Dean, and George spoke on Redmanship.

The officers announced that a large attendance was expected at the next meeting and the meeting closed with refreshments of sandwiches, coffee and doughnuts.

LADIES' AUXILIARY, A. O. H.

The regular meeting of Division No. 54, was held Wednesday evening in their rooms at 99 Main street, many members attending. Several matters of business were discussed and Mrs. Julia Brock, chairman of the Irish Night social, read her report, which showed a good sum of money realized for the treasury. It was voted to entertain at whist and pinochle during the latter part of the month and Miss Mary Fallon was appointed chairman.

The quarterly report of the officers was read and accepted, showing that twelve members had been added to the rolls of the auxiliary and that the treasury had gained in finances. The next meeting was scheduled for Wednesday evening, April 15th.

ARGUES FOR MONEY FOR CONNECTICUT AIR FORCE

With the assertion that "our Connecticut squadron, necessarily the nucleus of all aeronautical activity in the state, is sadly handicapped at present by lack of even the bare necessities for proper maintenance of the quarter of a million dollars' worth of property which our government at Washington has entrusted to us," Major Talbot O. Freeman, in a letter referring to a hearing before the appropriations committee of the general assembly at Hartford Tuesday afternoon in regard to a requested appropriation of $119,500 for the construction and equipment of machine shops, living quarters and administrative offices, says in part:

"Connecticut has the best aviation law in the country, ably administered in the interest of public safety, by the motor vehicle department and an advisory board of seven inspectors.

"Connecticut has the best municipal airport in America, located at Hartford. The field has been designated as the training center for aviation in New England. This acquisition alone means the expenditure of a payroll of $150,000 annually in our state by those who come here for training.

"New Haven, Naugatuck, New Britain and several other cities are taking an active part also in the development of aviation.

"The air mail service between New York and Boston, to be inaugurated later this year, will take on and drop mail at Hartford, giving Connecticut 40-hour service to the Pacific coast.

"Finally, Connecticut has one of the 12 national guard air service squadrons in the country, maintaining a splendid technical training school for over 100 men and officers from all over the state.

"As Mr. Maxim has so aptly said, Connecticut is the gateway between New England and the west."

GURLEYVILLE

Mrs. Joseph Snow who has been in Hartford for some time has returned home.

Among those who attended the funeral of Mrs. Amigon last week Friday were Robert Knowlton, Mrs. Calista Bisco, Mr. and Mrs. James Sunderland, and Arthur Wood and family.

Theres were no services in the church last Sunday, Conference Sunday.

E. L. Smith of Willimantic has been doing some painting on his houses here.

Due to the work of Warren Hobby, also climatic conditions the highway from here to Mansfield Center is in the best condition it has been in for some time.

Enduring Quality Assured As Well As New Superiorities

The popularity of the new good Maxwell, the ready acceptance of this finer four wherever automobiles are used, is not alone a question of performance, nor yet of price. To win such wide approval, there must also be the certainty of enduring quality.

The public recognizes that the new good Maxwell gives ample proof of the highest quality. It knows that this Maxwell-Chrysler creation is truly a manufactured car—that it is actually made in the great plants where it was conceived.

The new good Maxwell buyer knows that in addition to 58 miles an hour, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds, 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline and a riding ease such as no other four has ever possessed, he can count on soundness and the highest degree of precision, accuracy and long-life.

That is why the new good Maxwell is so highly regarded as an investment in finer motoring. We are eager to give you all the facts concerning the car's design and manufacture, and to demonstrate Maxwell's superior performance.

The New Good MAXWELL

POETRY

It's April

A new calf in the red cow's stall—
A colt beneath the manger—
The old sow thinks her nine red pigs
Are threatened by some danger!
And Lady brings her four white pups,
To show our proud old tabby
That though her kittens may be fine,
White pups are not so shabby.

The house smells clean with farm soap suds.
And shines with paint and varnish.
My spring hat has a gilded rose,
Warranted not to tarnish.
Bill's plow turns up the sweet warm earth.
He's singing as he follows.
The hens are hiding out their nests
Down in the bottom hollows.

Ah, life is sweet, and love is good
And winter a forgotten mood.
It's April.

—Farm Life.

The Waking

Blackbird and thrush will sing
Me to my sleep in the dark,
I shall awake to the Spring,
To the voice of the linnet and lark.

There shall be dew a-glisten
And morning mist on the grass,
The sleepers shall turn and listen
To the feet of the Saints that pass.

They shall arise and be merry.
They shall be treading light;
They who lay down so weary
Sweet was their sleep all night.

Fine as the hyacinth showing,
Brave as the daffodil,
Rose and gold they are going
Over the heavenly hill.

Love shall run to lover,
There will be kisses and cries;
Love, long parting is over!
Love, the light of your eyes!

I shall lie down in the dark,
I shall sleep sweet and long,
I shall wake up to the lark
And the thrush and the black bird's song.

—Kathryn Tynan in The Observer (London.)

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Caller—Got a goldfish, have you?

Bachelor host—Yes; I never fancied living alone.—Life.

Officer—Sir, you must accompany me.

Drunken Banjoist—Allri'; what are ya goin' to sing?—Wesleyan Wasp.

Visitor—And what are you thinking of becoming, my boy?

Son of the House—Well, I'm rather keen on profiteering.—Humorist, London.

"Don't be angry with me, dear. Nobody is perfect. In the whole history of the world there has only been one perfect person!

Who was that?

You!—Strix, Stockholm.

Grocer—I saw you showing Mrs. Finnick the potatoes. Did she buy some?

Clerk—No, sir; they didn't seem to suit her.

Grocer—What was the matter with them?

Clerk—I guess she didn't like the color of their eyes.—Punch.

Critic—You say you are your wife's leading man. I didn't see your name in the program.

The Star's Husband—No, I am not in the cast, but I am her leading man, nevertheless. That is to say, I lead her dog.—Stray Stories.

Cloaeman—The fact is, doctor, I do not recover as rapidly as I should because I am constantly worrying about your bill.

Doctor—Oh, that's all right. You can easily get around that by paying me in advance.—Boston Transcript.

Woman Visitor at Sing Sing—Remember, my good fellow, that a man may be down but he's never out.

"I believe yuh, lady," ruefully replied No. 37947, who had already been an inmate of the prison for 22 years.—Yonkers Statesman.

Detroit, Mich., has a restaurant in which the meals are served by electricity. The diner selects a table, notes on the menu the food he desires, and drops the menu through a slot in the table. Presently there is a humming noise, and in the center of the table, on a four-post tray appears the food he has ordered.

A letter received at Biddeford, Me., was directed to the "Roadside Eating House, between Biddeford and Kennebunk." In addition there was a crude drawing of a house and large plazza, and a barn on the other. The rural carrier was able to deliver the letter, so correct was the drawing of the place. The writer had evidently passed through in an automobile last summer and stopped at the place. Wishing to communicate with the proprietor and not knowing his name, he had used this method.

Four men of Ansable Forks, N. Y., had a merry game of tag with a fish. They had reached a lake in the midst of a thaw and found five inches of water covering the ice. Using poles made by other fishermen, they soon had lines in the water and tip-ups in position. They promptly caught a large fish, but left it, hook in mouth, to go to another hole. On their return the prize had disappeared. Far away a gleam of color caught their attention. It was the tip-up flag fluttering behind their fish, which, its pursuers estimated was making about thirty miles an hour through the water covering the ice. There followed a wild chase during which the fishermen fell repeatedly. When the fish tired of playing tag it disappeared down the same hole through which it had been hauled, taking hook and line with it.

CANTERBURY GREEN

A public teachers' meeting was held at the school house on the Green on Tuesday afternoon. Several visitors availed themselves of the opportunity to hear the programme. Mr. Floyd, the supervisor, was present as were the teachers from Lisbon, Sterling and Voluntown with those from this town. Miss Reese of Willimantic Normal school read a paper on English; Mrs. Brownell a nurse from state headquarters at Hartford spoke and papers were read by Miss Hoch of Baldwin, Miss King of Hyde, Miss Dawley of Frost, Mrs. Lovell of the Green, Miss Card of Lisbon and Miss Shipman of Sterling. Miss Peckham of Voluntown was scribe of the meeting. Miss Dawley exhibited pieces of toy furniture made by some of her pupils.

A pleasant meeting of the whist club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thad Wilson, Saturday evening. A delicious supper with Mrs. Clinton Frink as hostess, was served early in the evening to twenty-four people. This was followed by whist and a social hour. This club usually meets at the Wilson home.

At Grange hall there was a large gathering Wednesday evening at the regular grange meeting. During the lecture hour the unmarried members presented their programme in competition with the married members, who gave theirs at the previous meeting. The numbers were as follows: Piano duet, Misses Elsie Hawes and Helen Nelson, encore. Introductory Original poem, Fred Hicks. Play, The Masquerade, characters: Misses Grace Dawley, Luck Eastlund, Emma Eastlund, Helen Nelson, Elsie Hawes and Margaret Gunnerson. Piano solo, by Miss Hawes, who continued to play for the following jazz musical sketch, which included songs, dancing and other features. The seven girls were dressed in different colored costumes which, with the throwing of colored streams produced a brilliant stage effect. Those taking part were Lucy and Emma Eastlund, Helen Nelson, Ruth and Gladys Davis, Margaret Gunnerson, Ida Kinne, Roy Goodrich, Curtis Kinne, Norman Kerr and Richard Parkhurst. Uncle Josh Fred Hicks) appeared and sang with Aunt Jerush. The whole entertainment was pleasing and showed that much time and effort had been expended in its preparation. The judges, Miss Bessie McCluggage from Pachaug grange, Everett E. Brown and Mrs. H. B. Brown of Plainfield grange, decided in favor of the young people. The married members accepted the decision gracefully and will pay the penalty of defeat at the next meeting by giving an supper. There were a number of visitors from Pachaug and Plainfield. Refreshments were served by waitresses, who had fool's caps in observance of the day, April 1.

The cottage meeting this week is held at the home of Fred Stafford. Last week on Friday evening there was a meeting at James Towne's.

Mrs. Hiram Hawes and son, Merritt, motored to Ayer, Mass., Friday and spent the day with relatives, also meeting an aunt from Maine who was visiting there.

Mrs. C. C. Frink is confined to the bed with a severe cold or grip. Mrs. Addie Bushnell, who has been spending several months with Mrs. Frink has returned home.

George Hatch has moved his family to Canterbury, in the house with his mother, Mrs. Susan Hatch. Mr. Hatch is now employed in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Graves spent the week end with their daughter in Springfield, Mass.

Fred Williams of Willimantic visited this week with his father, Herbert Williams.

Mrs. Elsie Linton and daughter, Olive, were in Norwich over Sunday guests of Chief Linton and family.

SOCIAL CORNER

ters about Yantic. Mr. Conundrum sold the Bulletin in Yantic. He began selling when the paper was in its infancy. He thinks it was in 1856. It sold for two cents a copy. He also remembers Dr. Phinney's pills. I don't know but he could tell us how to make them.

Reading over the old familiar names has also been interesting to him. Mr. Backus was one of his paper customers, and he was very fond of the old gentleman.

Dr. Phinney's house was an old landmark of Yantic. It was destroyed by fire a few years ago and the debris has recently been cleared away.

I have been told, that during the Revolution there was ammunition stored in that house.

Here is an inexpensive cake recipe I like very much. I use it for layer cake and use any filling, or frosting.

Layer Cake: Break two eggs into a coffee cup, fill the cup up with cream, and beat this with one cup of sugar, add one and one half cup of flour sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder, flavor to taste. Bake about fifteen minutes.

Hope some of the sisters will try this and like it as well as I do.

Did I hear some one say ring off? I will, but first, let me express love and sympathy for the afflicted, and best wishes for all from

CONUNDRUM.

RECIPES FROM ROSY POSY

Dear Social Corner Sisters: This is a very nice day for your meeting in Norwich. I only wish I was there with you all. I had a very good time at the last meeting, and hope I can go again sometime.

I have a new recipe which I call my Social Corner Meatless Meat Loaf: Two cups cold cooked beans, 2 cups moist bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1 teaspoon salt; 1 egg, 1 1-2 cups walnut kernels (chop fine,) 1 tablespoon poultry seasoning, 2 tablespoons of butter, 3 green peppers (chop fine,) 1 small can tomatoes. Mix all together, form into a loaf, put in greased pan. Bake in a moderate oven 30 minutes. Here is something else that I had for Sunday dinner and we all liked it.

Fresh Pork Meat Balls: Take 1 1-2 pounds fresh ham ground up like hamburg and 1-2 pound bacon, sliced thin, take the pork, salt and peper it and born into balls. Put a slice of bacon around it and fasten with a toothpick. Place the balls in a pan and bake in the oven. The bacon will make enough grease.

If any of the sisters try these recipes please let me know if you like them.

Black Eyed Susie: How are you? I was very glad to have met you. You seemed like an old friend. Do write to me when you have time.

Lonesome: The ice has been gone for a long time. No danger of your falling now.

Balsam Fir: I received your card and I will write to you soon.

Rural Aunty: The weather is fine so couldn't we have another meeting in Central Village pretty soon?

For-get-me-not: You have joined the Corner but you do not write very often. Let us hear from you.

Best wishes to all from

ROSY POSY.

WAYS TO USE ONIONS

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: I wish to thank the sender for the pretty calendar I received. It is one of my favorite views of mountains. I have it over my desk where I can see it.

I also thank my many friends for their good letters and pretty cards with kind thoughts.

I have been shut in for several weeks with a lame back and could not move, I am thankful to say I can walk now by using a cane. Slow work.

Here are a few good ways of using onions. Some people say they like onions but they distress them so they cannot eat them.

If they would peel a few onions, put them in a cheese cloth bag and pound them to a jelly then pour boiling water over them, let stand, till cool, strain and bottle the liquid, it would be ready for use for salads and soup.

Onions are fine baked with beef, and fried with beef steak or any kind of meat.

Onions sliced with sugar on and a little water and baked make a syrup that is good for colds. Onions sliced and placed on a cloth and bound on the throat are good for sore throat.

Onions are good pickled.

Onions are good for the nerves, good to help one sleep.

Nema: I thank you so much for coming over here.

Marigold: Your way of washing blankets is fine. I am having some washed today.

Foxglove: I hope you will have a pleasant trip. I hope to see you and Whirlwind soon.

Brave: Some coffee is still waiting for you.

I, as well as others, will miss our dear Sister C. E. S. Her kind hospitality will never be forgotten.

I am so sorry for the sister who was injured while visiting at our last dinner. I hope she will soon be better.

I am pleased to see so many new members. May the Corner keep right on growing is the wish of

WOULD ALLOW SUITS HERE AGAINST NON-RESIDENTS

Automobile owners of Connecticut having a cause of action against an automobile owner of another state, the result of an automobile accident on Connecticut highways, may bring suit in this state under the terms of a bill which is to be reported favorably by the judiciary committee of the general assembly. At the present time it is necessary for the plaintiff to start his action in the courts of the state of the defendant, who as in the case of tourists, usually moved along out of the state within a short time after the accident.

The bill before the judiciary committee would provide that papers be served upon the motor vehicle commissioner who is constituted the attorney for out-of-state automobile owners, and the cause of action tried in Connecticut courts. The judgment obtained would then be sued upon in the home state of the defendant with alleged better chances of success in making actual collection of damages. One of the strongest arguments in favor of the bill was the fact that under present conditions it is necessary to transport many witnesses to an adjoining or other state, in prosecuting the claim, while the proposed procedure would be far less expensive. It was likewise pointed out that such a law is already upon the statute books in the state of Massachusetts.

SHORT CALENDAR SESSION BEFORE JUDGE DICKENSON

Judge Edwin C. Dickenson, recently appointed to the superior court bench, held his initial sitting in New London on a short calendar Friday morning. He will open trial cases beginning next Tuesday. The short calendar business was disposed of as follows:

Bonds of $7s for prosecution were entered in the case of Annie London vs Hyman London.

A motion for default was granted in the case of Jeremiah Twomey of New London against Prottas, and a similar action in the case of Drabik vs Way, et al, went off the list.

On a motion that case be put on the uncontested divorce list for failure to demur; an order was entered providing that an answer to the complaint be filed within two weeks in the case of Alice Marshall Hayden vs Luman H. Hayden.

A disclosure of defense was ordered in the case of Bessette, et al., vs Cohan, and motion for non suit for failure to plead, in the case of Rosenberg vs Palma, et ux, went off the list. On the argument of demurrer in Tanner vs Dawley, admr., the judge took the papers.

EARLY DAFFODILS AND HYACINTHS IN BLOOM

At the home of George E. Pitcher of Division street a bed of daffodils and hyacinths has been in full bloom since March 26th and have attracted considerable attention among neighbors. The daffodils became in full bloom last Monday and later in the week several of the hyacinths began to blossom. The plants are of several shades and stand nearly 10 inches from the ground.

According to Mr. Pitcher, this same bed of flowers was in full bloom about the middle of April last year, over two weeks later than this year's blooming.

PREVENT INFLUENZA

New Englanders have been warned of another epidemic. NOW is the time to get on the safe side — ward off grippe entirely or make an attack light and easily thrown off by keeping the bowels and body right by using

Dr. True's Elixir

For INFLUENZA

This laxative, famous for over 75 years, has in years past helped many in their fight against Influenza. Made of pure herbs; no harmful drugs—mild in action and a proper cleanser of the intestinal tract, which must be taken care of if you want to guard against INFLUENZA or grippe.

CHARMATZ TO BE PRESENTED IN NEW YORK COURT ON MONDAY

Julius Charmatz, 53, proprietor of the Anna farm in Preston, where he was arrested last Wednesday afternoon by Constable Michael Nolan and a New York detective, was lodged in the Tombs at New York, Thursday, and will be arraigned in general sessions Monday. He has four indictments against him—two charging grand larceny in the second degree and two, forgery in the third degree—for alleged acts committed while he was president of the Henry J. Schnitzer state bank at 41 Washington street, New York, before it was sold more than two years ago.

Upon his arrival in New York, Wednesday evening, Charmatz declared he was innocent of wrong doing in the management of the bank.

The four indictments against Charmatz were returned several weeks ago and a bench warrant was issued for the man's arrest. Assistant District Attorney Hugo Wintner said that an examination of the books of the bank for the period in which Charmatz was president had revealed alleged illegal withdrawals of approximately $60,000. The prosecuter added that Charmatz was alleged to be in sole control of the bank at the time.

He said that when the bank was sold to others, the discovery of the shortage in its funds was revealed by accountants. The shortages, he added, were attributed to moneys sent to persons in Europe who had no legitimate claims against the bank.

One indictment charging larceny and another charging forgery allege that on Dec. 20, 1920, Charmatz drew a draft for 7,000 kronen in favor of his brother, Dr. Adolph Charmatz of Carlsbad, which was sent to the Union bank in Prague, Czechoslavakia, although Dr. Charmatz, who died recently, was alleged not to have any claim against the Schnitzer bank. The other two indictments are based on the charge that, in sending a draft of 12,000 kronen to Katrina Klinka at the Union bank in Prague, for a customer of the Schnitzer bank, Charmatz included in the draft 8,000 kronen for Dr. Charmatz, with instructions that it be paid to his brother, although the money was not due Dr. Charmatz. This offense was alleged to have been committed on Dec. 8, 1921.

In Litigation Here

Charmatz had been in litigation in this city in the superior court with Elisa B. Von Blankenfeld, widow of Egon Von Blankenfeld, in February, with the late Judge Gardiner Greene hearing the case as a state referee, but the death of Judge Greene occurred when the case had been only partly heard. Re-assignment of the case could not be made then as the court files in the case had disappeared and it was believed that Judge Greene might have put them away somewhere either in his home or in his office. Eventually they were found by court officials in the judge's desk in the court room, where they had been overlooked in the first searches.

It had been expected that the widow's suit against Charmatz and another suit in which Charmatz was the plaintiff might be assigned before Judge Dickenson at the present session of the superior court in New London and Charmatz was to have conferred with his attorney, C. Hadlai Hull, in New London on Friday in regard to the assignment, but his arrest has set this plan back indefinitely.

NEW LONDON PASTOR GIVES LENTEN ADDRESS

A spirit of enthusiastic interest continues in the noon lenten series of meetings at the local Young Mens Christian Association where a fine company of business men assembled Friday to listen to the sixth talk of the series by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth of New London. The parlors were crowded by the men. Dr. Danforth selected as his topic, "The Island Fire." James M. Morton presided. Captain Wilbur of the Salvation Army offered the prayer and Hugh Kinder sang with rare impressiveness, "I need Thee every hour." The hymn used was "Hiding in Thee," and this was sung with a marked feeling. Dr. Danforth spoke in part as follows:

"It was at the close of one of the most memorable storms in the annals of the Mediterranean sea. For days the sky was black with clouds, the winds had blown hither and yon with hurricane velocity. The sheets of rain were cleft only by forks of lightning. An ancient little ship was driven like driftwood, stripped of its gear, its cargo jettisoned to lighten it, and struck the sandy beach of an island. Those on board were glad enough to get ashore, some swimming, some clinging to bits of timber. And there they stood, a sorry crowd, wet and shivering and not knowing where they were or what to do next.

But the island was not like that on which Robinson Crusoe was cast. There were people on it. And they gathered with hands that were helpful rather than grasping. Instead of combing the beach for articles of value they lit a fire and helped the shipwrecked ones to warm and dry themselves by it. These also busied themselves in helping at the fire, gathering sticks and putting them on the blaze. One of these was a man who always drew the notice of the discerning. A rather small figure, bent more by trouble than years, with eyes that flashed with a brighter fire than that on the beach, an energy of action that marked him as dynamic. His name was Paul.

The islanders thought nature to be governed by a certain justice which in the long run would bring rewards or punishments to those who deserved them. So when Paul came up with a large bundle of sticks and threw them on the fire and from the bundle a viper wriggled out upon his hand and hung with fangs fixed in his wrist, they thought that hand had been red with murder and had escaped the storm only to be punished now by the poison running through each artery. Paul shook the serpent off into the fire and not even a swelling remained to show the spot the fangs had pierced. Then the men who were waiting thought he was a god. He had shed much blood in his day, but he was not a murderer. He had done wonders and spoken divine truths, but he was not a god. What was he?

Paul's faith had been kindled by a fire from on high. On the road to Damascus the flaming glory of the Risen Redeemer had shone upon him and he had fallen blind as a worm upon the earth. Sight, hunger, thirst all gone; only the misery of a great mistake filled him with wretchedness. Then by one who called him brother he came back to light.

In a room in Jerusalem, not so many years before, the flaming tongues of Pentecost had brought new power and function to those who followed Christ. To them had come the great commission to carry his name through all the world. And God gives with every commission the power to carry it out. To them was given the speech which no man could gainsay.

Three years in Arabia Paul was thinking, and there God gave him his message. And the flaming tongue of the Spirit was added to that message to be its proper vehicle to all mankind. He had gone where the work was hardest, the danger greatest. Now a prisoner on his way to Rome for trial in the emperor's court he is shipwrecked and destitute.

But Paul became a blessing to the whole island, and one for whose sake all the rest of the shipwrecked ones were carefully tended until the Spring came and a ship to take them to the Italian coast.

Do you ever feel the imprisonment of circumstance? The narrowing bound of things from which you cannot escape, the sense of some boundless thing within you that does not have a chance? Let that light shine on you which shone on Paul, let that tongue flame in you which sent the burning words of truth to hearts of men, make the imprisoning things themselves the instruments for the spreading of the glory of the conquering Christ, and the little island where your life seems shipwrecked will flame with the glory of the Eternal God."

Charles F. Noyes Company and Joseph P. Day, of New York city, have sold for Max N. Natanson, president of the Sheepshead Bay-Harkness Estate Corporation, in a million dollar transaction, to William H. Oat, of this city with a group of New York and Connecticut associates, all unsold lots at Sheepshead Bay. The sale was made for cash. Mr. Oat has appointed Joseph P. Day, Inc., and the Charles F. Noyes Company as managing agents with instruction to sell all property at public auction during this Spring and Summer. Several hundred thousand dollars have been spent in filling in all lots purchased, completing the boulevard running through the property and other improvements.

Mr. Oat's purchase includes 2,100 lots near the ocean and close to Emmons Avenue, which is Sheepshead Bay's prominent thoroughfare. The sale was made by Mr. Natanson and his associates so as to enable the Sheepshead Bay-Harkness Estate Corporation to liquidate and distribute its profits among the syndicate members. The operation has been the most successful of its type in the history of New York City and the development and quick disposal of the property is the sensation of the reality world and a great achievement for Joseph P. Day and Charles F. Noyes Company, the brokers and managers for Mr. Natanson.

The property was originally sold to Mr. Natanson and his associates by the Charles F. Noyes Company in the Spring of 1923. Mr. Natanson then made arrangements for Joseph P. Day and the Charles F. Noyes Company to handle the property.

Sheepshead Bay-Harkness Estate was the result of 4 purchase made about thirty-five years ago by William K. Vanderbilt, James Gordon Bennett, Perry Belmont, James R. Keene, Leonard Jerome, James G. Hechscher and others of equal prominence and wealth who organized the Coney Island Jockey Club and bought the large tract for race track purposes. Harry S. Harkness afterwards poured over $2,000,000 into the enterprise and the property was withheld from the public and used for a racing motordrome after it was closed as a race track. Envious eyes always turned to Sheepshead Bay and Mr. Day predicted fifteen years ago that the property, if ever placed on the market, would be the most ideal home section in Greater New York. Early in 1923 when Mr. Noyes sold the property to the Max N. Natanson syndicate Mr. Day publicly stated: "The location of Sheepshead Bay is perfect. On the shore and yet within minutes of the heart of the City, for years it has been the plaything of millionaires and the playground of millions. Twenty-five years ago Flatbush was a question. The march of Brooklyn homeseekers down to the sea began many years ago—with added thousands every year until today over two million people live there. First this great tide of homeseekers came up to Prospect Park. It encircled this beautiful playground, and homes were built around it and beyond it. Nothing could stop this onrushing tide until it came to the old Sheepshead Bay Race Track. There it lay—hundreds of acres of the same splendid level land, fenced in with a great iron fence that stood for years as an impassable barrier to the tide of homeseekers. Homeseekers flowed all around these hundreds of acres of the Sheepshead Bay-Harkness Estate, down to Coney Island, which is today solidly built to the sea; to Bay Ridge, which is solidly built to the Bay."

Joseph P. Day then and there called attention to the iron fence that encircled this property and as a result of his first auction sale in 1923 "New Flatbush" was a reality. Within a year six hundred buildings were constructed at a cost of more than $6,000,000. A million dollar fireproof school was erected; stores and apartments were completed and the last improvement contemplated is one of the finest moving picture houses in the Greater City. Brooklyn's strongest and largest builders have bought largely and while the improvements in 1923 and 1924 were unusual and sensational yet within the past twelve months more has happened to enhance the value of Sheepshead Bay than during the past twelve years. The city has actually taken title to Plum Island. The city has accepted Marine Park and the park department and the borough president of Brooklyn have pledged the people that they will have one of the finest parks and recreation grounds adjoining this property. Construction of new homes is progressing rapidly and the people who build homes at Sheepshead Bay will have unusual advantages for the education of their children. Mayor Hylan has promised improved transit facilities and there is every prospect of the continuation of the subway down Nostrand Avenue right through this property.

Mr. Noyes states that approximately seven thousand lots were disposed of during the first campaign for Sheepshead Bay and he states that Mr. Day will sell the twenty-one hundred remaining lots in record time.

Mr. Oat and his associates have appointed the Charles F. Noyes Company and Joseph P. Day, Inc., exclusive selling and managing agents for this property and instructions have definitely been given that every lot will be sold to the public without reservations and the sales will continue until the complete tract is disposed of.

The present sale to Mr. Oat and his associates was negotiated by the Charles F. Noyes Company and Mr. Day. It completes the successful conclusion of the largest transaction of its type ever handled in Greater New York. Walter M. Wechsler and Alexander S. Natanson were the attorneys for the selling syndicate. Messrs. Wechsler and Alexander S. Natanson have had charge of all legal details in connection with this big syndicate operation from the inception of the enterprise.

TELLS HARROWING EXPERIENCES IN TORNADO

The following letter received by William A. Elliott of Central Village from his daughter, Helen V. Elliott, county nurse of Peoria, Ill., will be of vital interest to her friends and to many who have read the account of the western tornado:

Care of American Red Cross.
Murphysboro, Ill.,

Dear Father: Of course you will be surprised to learn that I am working in the storm and tornado county, but such is the case and I don't suppose a storm ever did any more damage. Words cannot describe it. Murphysboro is a town of about 1200 people and the most part of it now is flat country, I can't tell you what it is like, but I will send you a picture and if you will, pass it on to the rest of the family to see. However, I will send you some post cards. Of course you have read the papers and know how it was all done in three minutes, but the things that happened, large schools are in ruins, a wonder that children ever got out. Of course many were killed—dead children were found hanging in trees, bodies were taken out of wells, mothers ran out of their houses with babies in their arms and in a couple of cases the babies' heads were blown off of them. Several women were dragged out of the ruins and it was found that they had given birth to babies. Of course both mother and baby would be dead. Some of the bodies were burned. As you know fire started soon after the tornado. One man who weighed 300 pounds was burned so bad that they got a little baby coffin for him, a big shoe factory is all flat; another large machine shop is flat, the people were blown out and later burned to death. The horror of it all is awful.

I am doing public health work. That is, we go out over these ruins and visit the families to see that their condition is all right, that they are not in need of food, clothing or medical call, then we have many dressings to do and at the same time getting a family history for future records. We have workers here from Chicago and all other parts of Illinois and St. Louis.

The people are living in tents and some of them are doing their cooking in the open. You will see all kinds of pieces of furniture—pianos, sewing machines, washing machines, Victors, beds, tables, buried in the ruins not worth five cents.

In the Baptist church there was a funeral being conducted when the church caved in and buried the casket. Another story of a large tree in a cemetery that was torn up by the roots and it pulled up a coffin that had been buried for many years and the tree had grown around it.

I have told you enough for tonight as I am tired; my brain refuses to work, however, I must say that the people have started in to repair the homes that they can and are making plans to build again soon.

Do not send my mail here as I might miss it as I should get back to Peoria soon as my own work is being neglected. We are over 30 miles south of Peoria.

MILLERAND ELECTED AS SENATOR FROM THE SEINE

The Vote for M. Millerand, Former President of France, Was Almost Thrice That of the Next Candidate—Premier Herriot Warns All His Adversaries That He is Ready to Meet Their Opposition—At a Meeting in the Elysee Palace on Tuesday the Cabinet Will Determine the Policy of the Government.

[Paris Advices by the A. P.]—For[mer] President Millerand today was [elected] to the department of [the] Senator [from] the Seine, an[d] opposition [to] the republican union [group, of which another former pres]ident of the republic, M. Poincare, is [the leader. M. Millerand] received [the] most [votes. Of] the [votes cast] M. Millerand [received] M. Bachelet, [in]dependent [candidate with] 86 votes. [Communist] candidate [received] M. [Those] political [straining] [to re]turn [to the house] [of] president was [the] result [of] Charges that he [had] [connived] [with] the senate for [the] death of Senator [Millerand] was the first to [be] [announced]

The [entire] press made a [strong campaign] against M. Millerand, [making] particular play of [extracts] from [his] speeches and writings [when] at the beginning of his career, [he was] an advanced socialist.

At one point [Herriot made] reference to "republicans, traitors to [their] programmes, who had sought in [certain] satisfaction for their egotism [and] cupidity." This was interpreted as [being] M. Millerand, whose election [as] senator became known at the lun[cheon] and was agreed with shouts of [Vive] Millerand."

Premier Herriot ended with the [declaration] that he had no intention [of] [retiring] before any privileged class, [or] before the demands of the most [exhausting] luxury known since the [Romans.]

[Another] cabinet meeting at the [Elysee] palace on Tuesday, presided over by President Doumergus, will [definitely] determine the government's [policy.]

[Count] Fountainbleau [Herriot] had a long [talk] with [Rene] Renoult, minister [of] [and] Camille Chautemps, minister of the interior. They [met] at the cabinet [council] before the parliament, [but] did not decide on anything definite.

[When] the government introduces [the] chamber of [deputies] will ask that [urgent] measures [be] [voted] by it will consent to this and the bills then will be sent to committee, which will discuss them without delay. It is possible that M. Herriot will be asked by some deputies, either by way of question or by interpellation, to explain at once the government's financial policy.

In principle the premier is disposed to postpone explanations until the bills are duly reported on by the committee and come back to the chamber for debate. But events may lead him to modify his viewpoint and accept immediate discussion of them.

HERRIOT IS READY FOR BITTER BATTLE

Fontainebleau, France, April 5—(By the A. P.)—Premier Herriot spoke today at a luncheon at which two thousand covers were laid, and declared that he was ready to make every sacrifice for his country. He gave warning to his adversaries that the battle was on and that the forces which were victorious at the elections on May 11 last would never capitulate before those then vanquished.

In the course of a long speech, M. Herriot claimed credit for his foreign policy of peace with dignity and reiterated his faith in the Geneva protocol, which, he said, was for peoples what the declaration of rights was for individuals.

The premier continued that it was audacious to blame the present government for the country's financial difficulties these were due to its predecessors, who had resorted to borrowing and other expedients to balance budgets, thus deluding the public and leaving the task of finding a settlement to their successors.

When he took office, he went on, the long term, or perpetual, debt amounted to more than 149,000,000,000 francs the short term debt to 37,000,000,000 and the floating debt to 81,000,000,000, a total of nearly 268,000,000,000. To this must be added the foreign debt, concerning which he had opened negotiations with England. M. Herriot [made] [brief] reference to France's debt to the United States.

"A country with such a floating debt," he said, "is no longer at liberty with regard to its interior policy; a country with such a foreign debt is no longer at liberty with regard to its external policy. I refuse all right of [criti]cism to those who piled up for 1925, a total of payments to meet of 21,000,000,000 francs."

The premier dealt with the proposed capital levy in general terms, and continued: "the time of illusion is past; no miracle will solve the problem created by the size of our debt. France is not a country which can accept summary measures, to which other states have resorted. I see no means to escape certain sacrifices.

"Our plan will not have that brutal form attributed to it by our adversaries. We are working to give it an elastic form, in conformity with the French character. It will demand from the taxpayers an effort, which will serve the interests of each and at the same time the interests of the country. Those who have fallen on the battlefields and thosew ho survived, I imagine, have done more. I know it difficult to stir up heriosm when its hour has passed, but it is to such heroism that we must appeal."

DR COOK IN LEGAL BATTLE OVER NEW TRIAL

Fort Worth, Texas, April 5.—Dr. Frederick A. Cook said au revoir, but not good bye to Fort Worth today.

"I'll be back some time," the physician-explorer-writer-oil promoter-convict told friends who saw him leave for Leavenworth prison. "Texas has been the scene of my bitterest trouble, but I plan to make it my home when I am free again."

His departure to serve a sentence of fourteen years and nine months for froudulent use of the mails terminated his stay of more than sixteen months in jail here. Federal District Judge James C. Wilson allowed the time in jail awaiting results in his battle for a new trial, to apply to Dr. Cook's sentence.

Neither Dr. Cook nor his many adherents believe he will serve the entire time. Petitions to the president, asking for his pardon, have been placed in circulation and a large number of signatures already have been obtained.

When he reaches Leavenworth, Dr. Cook will find there but one of the [men] sentenced with him. This is Seymour E. J. Cox, promoter and author of promotion literature, who besides a long sentence in the Cook case, later had another five years added in the Bluebird Oil case at Houston. All the other Cooke defendants, except one who died in prison, have completed their terms or been paroled.

Dr. Cook was not heavily loaded with lugage when he left. He carried a small suitcase and several bundles containing materials for the art needle work that has been his solace during his stay in jail. He has contributed many beautiful specimens of this work and distributed them among his friends.

TO BUILD THE LARGEST WOMEN'S CLUB IN THE WORLD

New York, April 5—A thousand business and professional women, members of the American women's association, tonight inaugurated plans whereby they expect to build here the largest woman's club in the world. A 19 story structure to cost $3,000,000 is planned to be built by women, financed by women and run by women.

Among the officers and directors of the association are Miss Anne Morgan, Mrs. Newcomb Carlton, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, Mrs. Isaac Gimbel and Mrs. Robert Low Pierpont.

The plans provide for a clubhouse containing 1,000 bedrooms which will be rented to members for considerably lessthan hotel rates.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Turkish Troops Skirmishing.

London, April 5.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Constantinople says Turkish troops are engaged in important skirmishes with rebels at Tajabaktohour. The troops have recaptured Ghendu despite fierce resistance on the part of the rebels.

Italian Steamer Afire.

London, April 5.—A dispatch to Lloyds from Brindisi says [illegible] steamer Candiano, bound from [illegible] for Tripoli, caught fire today in Brindisi. The vessel and its cargo of petroleum and wood probably will be a total loss. The crew was saved. The cause of the fire is unknown.

"DOCTORED" ALCOHOL SOLD AS BOOTLEG LIQUOR

New York, April 5.—Five million gallons of re-distilled denatured alcohol, "doctored," flavored and colored, is sold annually as bootleg liquor in New York city and vicinity, Palmer Canfield, prohibition director for New York state, estimated in a statement on prohibition enforcement conditions, issued today. He estimated that there were at least 5,000,000 counterfeit prescriptions in the hands of retail druggist permitted in the city.

More than 300 major vessels are engaged in smuggling liquor, Mr. Canfield said, with from 20 to 60 anchored off New York and vicinity. Mr. Canfield said he foresaw increased activities in the smuggling of liquor across the Canadian border as a result of the inroads made by the government's dry fleet against smuggling by water. He recommended the organization of "a patrol company of 50 to 100 intelligent men, organized and trained in semi-military manner, some uniformed men and some not, with barracks and with a proper telephonic and signal system," to guard the border in New York state.

Nine specific recommendations made by Mr. Canfield were: Six more United states district court judges for the southern district of New York; the "right number of right men" for enforcement; a divisional chief with a corps of agents for each federal judicial district to work closely with the federal district attorney; the non-bonding and non-release of seized vessels unlawfully transporting liquor; organization of an effective Canadian border line patrol; a special squad of chemists and other qualified inspectors to combat the diversion of specially denatured alcohol and its use as semi-poisonous beverage liquor; the purchase and distribution by the government of all bonded liquor in warehouses for non-beverage purposes; concentration on larger cases in prosecuting violations; the control of retail drug stores.

Mr. Canfield concluded his statement with the assertion that the outlook for enforcement was "much better than ever before."

BOSTON MOTORCYCLE POLICE SEARCHING FOR YOUNG THIEF

Boston, April 5.—Six motorcycle police officers, among them the most reckless and daring drivers in the Boston police department, had been assigned tonight to capture Jame L. Sheehan, 15 1-2 year old youth, who, according to the authorities, is the speediest whose wild rides back and forth through the Charlestown district in stolen automobiles, has had the section stirred into excitement since last Tuesday.

The youthful driver today expanded his nightly programme of dashes throught the district and the surrounding territory, to include an afternoon performance which brought "circus day" crowds aggrgating many thousands, to the streets to watch for his. The crowds were not disappointed for he appeared repeatedly during the afternoon, to tear through central portions of Charlestown at a breakneck pace. Always he has eluded his pursuers and disappeared by sudden and unexpected turns, at speeds estimated by the police as high as 60 miles an hour. He has several times been fired upon without effect.

Last night, he was said by the police to have stolen four different automobiles, driving each until its gasoline supply was exhausted. One, a new machine, was deserted with being burned out and tires literally "burned off." Tonight he was said to have been in three different cars in the course of his wild dashes through the city.

MATTERS BEFORE GREEK CHAMBER OF DSPUTIES

Athens, Greece, April 5.—The government declines at the present moment to permit debate in parliament of the recent declaration of Benito Mussolini, the Italian premier, that Italy eventually would have to claim her entire rights in the Doecanese islands.

The question was raised in the chamber of deputies today, but Premier Michaelakopoulos declared the moment inopportune for discussion. He added that all the Greek governments since 1218 had striven to maintain friendly relations with Italy and that this was not a favorable moment to discuss a somewhat delicate subject which the government would take up through diplomatic channels.

MEETING OF GOVERNORS OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANKS

Washington, April 5—Governors of the twelve federal reserve banks are due here tomorow for the regular spring conference.

Federal reserve board officials believed today that the governors might take time to consider the general European situation, since it has been announced in London that the British government hopes to restore that nation to a gold basis by June 1. This obviously would have an effect in the United States with its great gold supply, and the guiding minds of the reserve banks naturally desire to take stock of probabilities in advance.

EXHIBITION OF PAINTINGS IN LONDON THIS WEEK

London, April 5.—As picture after picture is wheeled before them, a committee of eminent academicians this week will pass upon the paintings submitted for the annual exhibition of the Royal Academy.

Last week, thousands of paintings were sent to Burlington House in Piccadilly, but only a comparatively small number will pass the scrutiny of the hanging committee and grace the academy walls in May.

Legal Fight To Save [illegible] Of Chapman

Counsel Groehl Has Announced Important New Evidence Discovered.

Hartford, April 5—The fight to save Gerald Chapman from the gallows went forward today unabated. With only eighty days left before the date fixed for his execution at the state prison, the fact that it was Sunday did not deter the lawyers working in his behalf.

Frederick J. Groehl, senior defense counsel, announced to the Hartford Courant over the telephone from New York that important new evidence had been discovered on the strength of which a trial would be requested without delay. At the same time Nathan O. Freedman, junior defense counsel, was in pursuit of further evidence in support of the alibi offered by Chapman which failed to immress the jury.

Much hope was placed by Mr Groehl in the legal question raised in the department of justice as to the right of the state of Connecticut to put Chapman to death before he had served the remainder of his 25-year term for the two million dollar New York mail robbery. He contended that the federal sentence took precedence and that the only way that precedence could be removed would be by the government pardoning Chapman. Such a pardon would have to come from President Coolidge, he said, adding that he would promptly advise Chapman to refuse to accept a pardon, in which case the penitentiary sentence would have to stand and the execution of Chapman be delayed more than twenty years. Chapman is now 37 years old.

It was determined in the case of Comptroller Charles L. Craig of New York, according to Groehl, that a man under federal sentence had the right to decline a pardon.

There are godo prospects that the case will be carried to the United States supreme court. State's Attorney Alcorn when reached by telephone tonight at his home in Suffield, said he had no comment to make on the situation which has developed. It is believed, however, that he will make a strong fight to have the judgment of the Connecticut court satisfied.

Mr. Groehl was back in fighting trim today after the blow of the "guilty" verdict returned Saturday. He announced that no stone would be left untumed in possession of proof that Chapman was in Brooklyn the Saturday night preceding the New Britain crime. The man wrote that he had been reluctant to become involved in a murder trial and remained quiet as long as there appeared to be a possibility of a disagreement in the jury. He wrote today, according to Mr. Groehl that he was now willing to have his name used or to appear personally wherever required to tell what he knew. Mr. Groehl had not had much time to consider the matter when interviewed, but said that his first impulse was to appear before Judge Jennings with a motion requesting a new trial on the strength of his correspondent's affidavit.

H. D. McLean, Holyoke furniture dealer, notified Nathan O. Freedman today that he had found in a store book a notation of the fact that Chapman under the name of Charles L. Shelburne was in his store the Saturday afternoon preceding the murder, when according to Walter E. Shean of Springfield he and Shean were startled to see an automobile ride which ended with the New Britai murder at 7 o'clock the next morning. McLean testified the last day of Chapman's trial, but hesitated slightly when State's Attorney Alcorn asked him if it were not possible that Chapman's visit was Friday afternoon rather than Saturday. He said today that the entry in the store book proved that it was Saturday and added that the last syllable of the name of Shelbourne and the address No. 180 College avenue, was written in the book by Chapman himself, and could be compared with Chapman's present handwriting for verification.

McLean said he had spent several sleepless nights before she was summoned to testify in Chapman's defense because of a belief that he was in possession of important information. He was loath to get into the matter, however, but when Lawyer Harold Evans of Hartford was sent to him Tuesday by Chapman, he readily agreed to testify on the ground that it was his duty. He said his conscious was greatly relieved even if his nerves did not, after he had been on the stand and told his story, but he recreated his inability to produce a written record to prove that it was Saturday that Chapman was in the store.

State prison authorities today withheld all information about Chapman. He had no visitors. Lawyer Freedman will visit him Monday.

SEIZURE OF RUM RUNNING CRAFT NEAR NEW YORK

New York, April 5.—Seizure of two trawlers, a skiff and a motor boat as rum runners was announced at the coast guard headquarters today. Ten men were taken prisoners.

The two trawlers, the Eda of Bridgeport, Conn., and The Pal of Greenport, N. Y., were seized off Long Island last night. Three men were arrested on the Eda and four on The Pal. Small quantities of liquor were found on both trawlers, the coast guards said.

The skiff was seized after it had been reached on Oak Island and three men had escaped in the woods. Three men were arrested on the motor boat, also captured off Oak Island, in which the coast guards said they found one bottle of champagne.

HISTORY OF THE STAGE IN NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS

New York, April 5.—A rare collection of clippings representing a complete newspaper history of 60 years of the New York stage, beginning with Edwin Forrest and Charlotte Cushman in 1860, will be exhibited at the New York library about May 1.

The exhibition will include hundreds of volumes collected by the late Robinson Locke of the Toledo (O.) Blade, and will be supplemented by rare miscellany and memorabilia of long forgotten "first nights" loaned from other sources.

From Forrest and Cushman, the running record penned by leading reviewers of each generation will be carried down from Edwin Booth, Mrs. Drew and Joseph Jefferson to the stars who twinkled as late as 1917.

Houses Wrecked By Wind Near Miami

Wind Storm Passed to Sea About 15 Miles North of Miami.

Miami, Fla., April 5—One woman is dead and 24 injured people are in Miami hospitals following a wind and hail storm a few miles west of Miami this afternoon. The force of the storm struck the White Belt dairy, one of the largest in the state, where homes and dairy buildings were demolished. Damage at the dairy is estimated at from $150,000 to $200,000.

The storm formed near Hialeah, six miles west of Miami, struck with greatest force at the White Belt dairy, wrecking homes and buildings, and doing damage estimated at between $150,000 and $200,000. It continued in a northeasterly direction and passed out to sea about fifteen miles north of here.

Reports reaching Miami say that rain and hail storms were felt along the east coast of Florida this afternoon from homestead 20 miles south of Miami, to Fort Lauderdale, 25 miles north of here. Large hailstones were reported along the southern fringe of the storm's path. Some were solid ice, clear as crystals.

In the path of the storm, houses were unroofed and debris carried to the height of several hundred feet. Arthur Pryor, bandmaster, who lives at Hialeah, near where the storm started, said he saw house roofs raised 200 feet in the air. The noise of the storm was terrific, he asserted, similar to hundreds of cannon being fired.

Thousands of automobiles choked roads to the scene of the greatest damage. A number of accidents and collisions were reported. One ambulance was wrecked in Miami.

LONDON IS WATCHING SITUATION IN FRANCE

London, April 5—The political and financial situation in France, which has had the effect of temporarily suspending the conversations of the two governments over the debt settlement question, is being watched here with intense interest. This interest arises not only over concern at the possibility of a further serious fall in the value of the franc, but from the possible effect the funding of the French debt to Great Britain would have on British taxation.

Winston Spencer Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer, is preparing his budget statement and is generally credited with the intention to make some reduction in the income tax, although national accounts do not seem to show a promising field for alleviation of the burdens of the taxpayer. If however, there were prospects of some annual payments from France to offset the British debt repayments to the United States, these, together with expectations from the operation of the Dawes plan might, in the opinion of Mr. Churchill, justify some tax reduction.

According to Paris dispatches to English newspapers, M. Herriot, the French premier, contemplates some exceedingly bold and courageous plan to rehabilitate the franc, which would include a settlement of the debt question with the United States and England.

Dispatches say the premier would be taking his political life in his hands, foreseeing a defeat in parliament. But he would put his trust in the country to be reelected.

STANDARD MEASURES FOR SALE OF FARM PRODUCTS

Hartford, April 5, — To establish standard measures for the sale of farm products, made necessary by the lack of uniformity in containers and methods of bunching vegetables, the state board of agriculture has issued a ruling, effective May 1, 1925, specifying the size which shall be used for box measurement and the manner for grading farm produce sold by the bunch.

The ruling makes the standard measure for product a "box" and a "half-box." The box must have an inside measurement of seventeen and one-half inches in length, seventeen and one-half inches in width and seven and one-sixteenth inches in depth. All such boxes must be marked in letters not less than one inch in height "standard box farm produce," or "standard half box farm produce." Penalty is provided for wrong marking or misrepresentation of these standards.

TWO INJURED IN CRASH OF AN ARMY AIRPLANE

Mitchell Field, N. Y., April 5—Lieutenant Roy Wiedersum, a reserve officer and Private Ralph Hyslop were injured today when an army airplane, piloted by Wiedergum, crashed to earth from a height of 300 and was wrecked. The pilot's injuries may prove fatal.

With Hyslop as passenger Lieutenant Wiedersum was performing acrobatics when the plane was caught by a sudden gust of wind that sent it into a tail spin. Before the pilot could regain control, the machine crashed to the ground.

Lieutenant Wiedersum suffered fractures of both legs and numerous arm fractures, Hyslop suffered only abrasions and bruises.

YOUNG WOMAN SHOT DEAD IN WOODS NEAR GREENWICH

James A. Mahoney of New York Has Surrendered as the Murderer—Will Make No Statement Other Than Admitting the Murder—No Cause for the Shooting is Known to the Greenwich Police.

New York, April 5—Beatrice Donnelly, 24-years-old New York girl, was shot and killed in a patch of woods near Greenwich, Conn., today according to word received by police officials here tonight. James A. Mahoney, also of this city, surrendered himself to the Greenwich police voluntarily.

Mrs. Margaret Donnelly, the girl's mother, said tonight that the girl left here this afternoon at 2 o'clock but that she did not know at what time she expected to return. Captain Flanagan of the Greenwich police told the New York detective division over the phone that both Miss Donnelly and Mahoney had return tickets to New York.

Captain Flanagan said over the telephone tonight that Mahoney had confessed to the shooting and was being held on a charge of murder. Mahoney refused to make any statement other thana dmitting the murder, Captain Flanagan said. No cause for the shooting was known to the Greenwich police.

The shooting of the girl, which occurred in the woods, in the Little Bruce park section of Greenwich, was discovered by the police when Mahoney appeared at police headquarters, threw a revolver on the desk and stated that he had shot his sweetheart. The revolver, which held eight cartridges showed that five of the shells had been exploded.

Mahoney was placed under arrest and then accompanied by Medical Examiner John A. Clark led the police to the scene of the shooting. The party was taken down a road towards the Indian Harbor Yacht club and then up another road into the woods.

The body of the girl was found in the bushes. She had been shot five times in the face and chest.

Mahoney confessed to the police that he had taken the life of the girl but refused to give any reason for his act, declaring that his story would never be told. He told the police he had been keeping company with the girl for 14 years.

They left New York city together this morning, he told the police, and after leaving the train walked into the woods near where the body was found. It was then that he shot her, he said, and placed her body in the bushes. No one nearby heard the shots and the police had received no report on the case until Mahoney appeared and gave himself up.

Mahoney came to New York from Manchester, England. He is a veteran of the World war, having served with the British army.

GERMAN DEMOCRATIC PARTY HAS RATIFIED DR. MARK

Berlin, April 5 (By the A. P.)—With approval voted him at today's session of the national committee of the German democratic party, Dr. Wilhelm Mark is formally ratified as the official candidate of the so-called Weimar coalition, comprising socialist, center and democratic parties.

The caucus of the democratic party today was largely attended by out-of-town delegates, and, although a strong minority was opposed to formal action by the party, it was finally resolved that in view of the equivocating and anti-republican attitude of the national-conservative bourgeois bloc, no choice was left for the democrats but to join the center and socialist parties in a determined effort to carry the election on April 26 for Dr. Marx and the Weimer constitution.

With the former chancellor thus ratified the die is cast so far as the three republican parties are concerned. That Dr. Marx in many respects is not the most formidable candidate at the disposal of the Weimar parties is plainly reflected in the scrutpues entertained by prominent democratic leaders, who do not attempt to conceal their disgust at the manner in which their party was forced into becoming a partner in the pact negotiated between the socialists and centrists.

The democratic party, however, found its way to the right barricaded by the intransigeance of the Jarres supporters, and in its isolated position was obliged finally to ally itself with the two other parties of the Weimar bloc, although it is numerically the smallest of the liberal parties, it aspired to the distinction of assuming the leadership in the next pegnied presidential situation by proposing Dr. Walter Simons as a non-partisan candidate.

Political onlookers who profess to know the temper of the great body of voters in both socialist and democratic parties openly charge that Dr. Marx is by no means assured of the complete support of either or both these parties and that the question of religious bias is one of the most serious handicaps confronting the Weimar coalition in its efforts to keep the nominal vote of the three parties intact. Its strategic and moral advantage at the outset of the forthcoming three weeks' campaign is supplied in the demoralized state in which the national-conservative block is now flounderling.

TWO GIRLS INJURED WHILE STEALING RIDE

New Rochelle, N. Y., April 5—Fractured jaws, broken teeth and one fractured shoulder was the toll exacted from two small girls who stole a ride on the running board of an automobile on the Boston Post road today.

The children, Katheryn Reilly, 3, and her sister, Geraldine, 6, both of this city, mounted the running board of the car, a sedan owned and driven by William E. Nevins, of Hopewell Junction, as it stopped in front of their home.

A precarious five mile ride at a fast clip through the busiest section of the city was punctured by frantic attempts on the part of pedestrians to warn Nevins who was unaware of the children's presence.

The children fell to the pavement, barely escaping the wheels of another car, before pursuing traffic policemen could overtake the joyriders.

Geraldine, in addition to a fractured jaw and the loss of several teeth, received a broken shoulder. Her sister also suffered a broken jaw.

BELGIAN CABINET HAS TENDERED RESIGNATION

Brussels, April 5 (By the A. P.)—Premier Theunis handed to the king this morning the resignation of the cabinet. The king asked the president to continue in his present post until a new cabinet is formed. Parliamentary elections were held today throughout Belgium, but as the campaign has been dull and no great question is at issue, not much interest was manifested in the balloting. Prince Leopold voted early, but the king did not vote.

The resignation of Premier Theunis and his ministry was expected, announcement that the cabinet would resign having been made several days ago, regardless of the results of the elections. M. Theunis headed the cabinet formed in December, 1921, and that formed in March, 1924. He held also the portfolio of finance minister.

Parliament was dissolved by royal decree March 6.

HEROIC RESCUES MADE IN FIRE IN HOSPITAL

Englewood, N. J., April 5—Rescue work by nurses, citizens and passing motorists saved 110 patients, including 20 new born babies, from a fire which partially destroyed the Englewood hospital this afternoon. Firemen and apparatus from half a dosen surrounding communities were sent to help local firemen combat the flames.

The fire starting in the X-ray room of the hospital, quickly spread through the building. The rescuers braved a heavy smoke in carrying many of the patients from the wards. Twenty children besides the newborn babies were among those rescued. None of the patients suffered injuries beyond shock.

Among the heroes was fifteen-year old John Macris, operator of the telephone switchboard in the hospital. His post was directly outside the X-ray room where the blaze started.

When fire broke out Miss Mary Elizabeth Lewis, nurse, rushed to the switchboard and said, "stay by the board as long as you can, John, so we can notify all the wards."

Half an hour later a fireman entered the smoke-filled hallway and discerned a boyish form prostrate on the floor. The man grabbed the heels of the lad and started for the door.

"Let go!" he cried, "I've got to work the switchboard and am lying here to keep out of the smoke."

He was told he was needed no longer and was sent home.

PACIFIC BATTLESHIPS ARE IN SAN FRANCISCO HARBOR

San Francisco, April 5.(By The A P.)—The Golden Gate swung wide open today in welcome to the grand fleet of the United States which arrived from southern waters for ter days of final preparation for the war game in Hawaiian waters—the greatest peace time maneuvers in the history of the nation—and the long regira to Australia and New Zealand.

While thousands of residents of the bay region, crowded hillsides, docks, piers and other places of vantage, the armanda steamed slowly into San Francisco harbor. The larger vessels in single file at intervals of 500 yards, and the destroyers, mine layers and other craft slipping to their berths in double line.

The entire assemblage—the largest concentration of sea power ever assembled in San Francisco harbor and the mightiest naval force ever brought together at one time under the Stars and Stripes—formed a procession 27 miles long. The entourage consisted of 107 vessels of all kinds and classes, carrying an officer personnel of 2,500 and approximately 33,500 enlisted men.

The first welcome tendered by San Frascisco to the grand fleet was in the form of an aviation maneuver performed by seven airplanes from Crissy field.

The cruiser Seattle, with the four-starred flag of Admiral Robert E. Coontz, entered the harbor at 12.46 p. m.

PRISONER RECAPTURED ON CHARGE OF BRIBERY

New York, April 5—As he left the workhouse on Welfare Island today after serving a 30-day sentence for assault, Jack Morris Seldow, 28, was rearrested on a charge of bigamy, for which he was indicted March 23.

He is also charged with violation of parole from Elmira reformatory. The bigamy nidictment charges Seldow with marrying Mary Wilson, 17, when he was already married to Augusta Redenback, of Brooklyn.

Seldow's troubles began last month when Mary Woodson's mother, Mrs. A. R. Wroodson, of Washington, found the girl, who had disappeared two years ago, living with Seldow in Brooklyn. Police who had been looking for Seldow for parole violation located him through newspaper stories of the reunion of mother and daughter. When he was arraigned it was found that he was wanted also for assault and he was sentenced on that charge.

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS FREQUENT IN MEXICO

Mexico City, April 5.—Advices received here from the city of Durango say that refugees from the towns of Guadalupe, Victoria and Canutillo, located in the district surrounding Chalchihuites report that earthshocks, which have been prevalent for several days are continuing. Property damage is declared to be heavy. The level of lakes and of rivers have been lowered, but no loss of life has been reported. Friday night was marked by six heavy tremors.

WILLIMANTIC

Stanley A. Motyka of 201 North Main street, Pawtucket, R. I., came to this city Sunday afternoon and interviewed County Detective William Jamieson as to the possibility of having the Hudson coach, taken into custody here Thursday while being driven by Jerome J. Hurley of New York on a booze car, returned to his possession. Motyka claimed ownership of the car and showed a conditional bill of sale of its purchase from the Robert W. Powers company of Providence. Motyka's explanation of the case was that the machine was owned jointly by himself and his brother. The latter had allowed Miss Katherine Mulcahy, alias Mrs. Stephens, to use the car. The woman in the case in turn allowed Hurley to take the machine for a few days. Motyka knew nothing of his whereabouts until in reading the newspapers he saw that it was now in possession of the police. He disclaimed having ever known or seen Hurley. Hurley was bound over to superior court at a special session of police court Saturday and is awaiting trial at Brooklyn jail in default of $1,000 bonds. Motyka was informed that he need no chance of having the machine returned at least until after the trial which would be on or about the middle of this month. A further investigation will be conducted in the case, to determine the veracity of Motyka's statements.

When starting out Thursday afternoon to resume the trip Hurley was told for the first time that there was liquor in the car. He was told to complete the trip and to make his delivery at a restaurant a short distance from the bridge on the Hartford Boulevard. He was to be paid $25 for the job and being short of funds he accepted.

Diego Zagaro, ordered by the court some time ago to pay his family ten dollars a week toward their support was in court Saturday morning charged with failure to comply with the edict. Mrs. Zagaro appeared against her husband. Prosecuting Attorney Harvey explained that although Zagaro had been doing his own cooking at home and living his life independently of the remainder of the family, he authorized a local grocer to give his wife ten dollars a week worth of groceries and he would pay the bill. Zagaro and his wife do not get along. His oldest daughter married some time ago and took her husband into the Zagara home. The case was continued until this (Monday) morning to give time for a settlement.

"CONTINUE STRIKE TO A FINISH" RESOLVE OF THREAD MAKERS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 5.—After hearing the boiled down facts of the joint conference of Thread Company officials, strikers and civic committeemen, which were to the effect that a ten per cent. restoration in wages was refused by the company the strikers voted unanimously, at a mass meeting, saturday morning, to continue the strike to a finish. A statement handed to Senator John Powers, spokesman for the strikers, by President R. C. Kerr, of the American Thread company, as Friday's conference was about to adjourn after a five-hour session, was read before the mass meeting. It follows: "As has already been stated by our agent, Don H. Curtis, the Thread Company stands ready at all times to listen to any grievances which workers, either individually or collectively, believe they are laboring under and furthermore stands ready in so far as it possibly can, to rectify the same. This must not be construed to mean that the company will consider any general advance in wages." After the reading of the statement Mrs. Lillian Whitmarch arose in the audience and said: "I move that we accept the reading of the message but reject the proposition. I have worked for the American Thread Co. and the concern that the thread company bought out. I am still a poor woman because my wages did not give me a chance to save."

A chorus of voices throughout the theatre took up the motion and it was carried as a vote, without dissention.

Miss Mary Kelleher, national organizer, outlined the progress of the joint conference. She stated that although the strikers' committee did not expect an announcement at the conference that the ten per cent. cut would be restored, the meeting was far from fruitless, however, as a mutual understanding between the strikers and the board of directors was established and many things of interest were learned on both sides.

She made mention of the outlaw unions, such as exists in Fall River, much to the detriment of the workers. A vote of thanks was extended State Senator John H. Powers of Cumberland, R. I., who laid bare the cause of the strikers in a clean, pleasant and precise manner and spared no effort to bring about a settlement. Another vote of thanks was extended the civic committee for the wonderful spirit of fellowship which urged them to the controversy, ended to the satisfaction of all.

Sunday afternoon about two hundred strikers of Polis nationality met at White Eagle Polish-American hall on Brook street to hear Joseph Markosky who addressed them two weeks ago. Mr. Markosky will speak in English at the mass meeting in the Gem theatre this (Monday) morning.

JAMES DONAHUE DROWNED—BULLETIN TYYPO. SAVES T. AKIN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 5—James Donahue, 45, was drowned, Thomas Akin, a bricklayer was rescued and two other occupants of a leaky row-boat, Thomas H. Hussey and Daniel Killourey, Jr., of this city swam to shore, when their boat sprang a leak and sank, about 300 feet above the first Quidnick-Winddom Banufacturing company dam, on the Willimantic river, about 1:20 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The four men rented a boat from Paul Dansereau and started to row up the stream when it was discovered that a hole in the bottom of their craft was letting in water. Donahue and Akin could not swim and realizing their predicament the party started back toward shore but were still practically amid stream when the boat capsized, pitching the occupants into the river, Benjamin Axelrod, employed as a lynotype operator for the Norwich Bulletin, saw the men struggling in the water. In spite of the fact that he was fully clothed he rushed to the rescue and after a terrific struggle succeeded in bringing Akin to shore. Axelrod swam back for Donahue but the strain of bringing Akin, who is a heavy man, to safety was fast overcoming him and the second man slipped from his grasp and disappeared below the surface.

In the meantime Hussey and Killourey had succeeded in reaching shore.

The local police were notified and Captain Thomas F. Grady and Officer William Hurley speeded to the river bank. Three boats were commandeered to drag the river, one being occupied by Officer Hurley. The search continued until 3:15 o'clock when Charles Cook of 1046 Main street in a boat manned by his son Fred Cook struck the body with his grappling hook and it was brought to shore. The man sank some fifty feet below the point of the capsizing.

Chief of Police Allan McArthur notified Medical Examiner Dr. Louis I. Mason as he could not respond due to illness so Medical Examiner Dr. William L. Higgins of South Coventry was summoned. Dr. Higgins pronounced death due to accidental drowning and gave permission for the removal of the body to local undertaking parlors. While the river was being dragged, it was suggested that the river be lowered by opening the gates to the dam, but Engineer George McCracken of the Quidnick-Windham company stated that as the river was unusually high at this time the opening of the gates would fail to make any noticeable impression on the water. The river at the location of the accident has a rocky bottom and is as deep as twenty feet in some spots.

The drowned man, known familiarly as "Husso", made his home with his aged mother on Valley street extension. He leaves besides his mother, Bridget Donahue, three brothers, Patrick of New Jersey, Michael of New London and Jeremiah of this city and two sisters, Mary of Pennsylvania and Katherine of Boston. He narrowly escaped death about nineteen years ago, while riding on top of a freight car which passed under an overhead bridge at Norwich Falls, causing him to be hurled through the air and severely injured.

Donahue has been employed for some time in the yard of the Willimantic Lumber and Coal company. Akin is employed as a bricklayer at the Mansfield State Training School and Hospital and has made his home in this city for the past year. It was said by one of the men that Patrick Doyle had been invited to start on the fatal trip up the river, but seemingly foresaw danger and declined, on the grounds that he could not swim in case of an accident.

SO. COVENTRY TROLLEY CAR STRIKES ARCHILLE BOIRRIER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 5.—Archille Boirrier of 484 Huntington avenue, Providence, sustained several broken ribs and other injuries when struck by the Willimantic-South Coventry trolley car, at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night while he and several friends were standing near the track on West Main street, opposite Dr. George B. Wilcox's home. The injured man was returning home with Raymond Brogeur of 46 Linwood avenue, Providence, who was driving a Ford touring car. In a Dort car was Arthur Brogeur and family, the party had been visiting Chris Christenson, of Stafford Springs, and the latter in his Studebaker car acted as an escort to his guests to this city. On West Main street the party halted and all got out to bid good bye. Christenson was first to notice the oncoming trolley. He shouted a warning and all jumped to safety but Boirrier, who has two artificial legs. In a desperate effort to save him Christenson had part of his overcoat torn off by the trolley. Boirrier was dragged several feet before the car was brought to a stop. Christenson lays the blame for the accident to Motorman John Young. He claims that the trolley was being operated at a fast rate of speed and that no warning was sounded as the car approached the line of street cars parked on one side of the road and beside the trolley tracks. Boirrier was rusher to St. Joseph's hospital here in Christenson's car. In being hurled through the air Boirrier's body struck and bent the right rear fender of the Ford. Officer Larriviere investigated the accident where it happened and Officer Arthur Hurley conducted inquiries at the hospital.

MILITARY FUNERAL AT NEW LONDON FOR BOATSWAIN'S MATE GUSTAFSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5.—The funeral of Carl Gustafson, boatswain's mate aboard the patrol boat, CG-237, was held Saturday. The young man was fatally wounded several days ago when a stray shot killed him aboard the craft that was searching for rum-runners off Race Rock lightship. The funeral service was held at 2 o'clock at the First Church of Christ. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, and six bluejackets acted as bearers. The body was escorted to the church and to the naval plot in Cedar Grove cemetery by the military band from Fort Wright, a detachment of bluejackets from the United States coast guard academy, ensigns and officers of the local section base.

The band played the Chopin Funeral March as the line moved to the church, also playing Nearer, My God to Thee as the casket was borne from the edifice, following the services. The entire ceremonial was most impressive, hundreds gathering to watch the funeral cortege pass up State street to and from the church.

Thieves gained entrance to the Dixie filling station, Huntington and Church streets, last night, but they were not successful in obtaining plunder, for nothing of value was found. The break was discovered this forenoon and reported to the police. Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels, who was assigned to the case, reported that entrance was gained by smashing a window near the lock, which enabled the crook to open the door.

Joe Bennett, 16, Waterford, was arrested this morning by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman Howard Sloan, charged with the theft of a quantity of Sunday newspapers from a Bank street periodical store. The papers were left at the place before it was opened for business and Bennett, observing the papers in the doorway, stole them. The youth when arrested, had most of the stolen papers in his possession and admitted the theft. He will be given a hearing in the police court Monday morning and in the meantime is in the custody of his parents.

The Connecticut Power company has lodged complaint with the police, because of the nightly smashing of bulbs of street lights on poles of the company on Raymond street. The breaking of the lights is attributed to a youth residing in the vicinity of Raymond street, according to the police.

Silas Maxson Jr. has sold a house and lot on Montauk avenue to Chester L. and Jessie R. Howe.

The deed transferring the property consisting of a story and a half wooden structure at 166-170-172 Bank street, Frederick W. Mercer to Joseph, Michael and Louis Schwartz, has been received for record at the office of the city clerk.

Miss Fanny A. Denison, 78, died late Friday at the Smith Memorial home where she had been a resident for a number of years. She leaves no relatives. Miss Denison was born in Mystic, but had resided in New London the greater part of her life.

The funeral of William M. Boardman, formerly of New London, whose death occurred at his residence in Greenport, L. I., several days ago from injuries sustained while at his employment at the Tuttle shipyard, Greenport, was held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at 45 Shapley street. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman received a report Saturday of the analysis by Prof. Bartlett, Yale Medical school, of the internal organs of Mrs. Mary Perry Colandini, daughter of Manuel Perry, Phillips street, and wife of Michael Colandini, 327 Jefferson avenue, whose death occurred at Home Memorial hospital a fortnight ago. This report corroborated that of the medical examiner that Mrs. Colandini died of general peritonitis produced as the result of a criminal abortion. Mrs. Mary Vendetti, 36 Grand street, is being held in bail of $10,000 for hearing on the 16th inst., charged with having committed the abortion and Colandini is being held in bail of $2,000 charged with being an accessory before the fact. Mrs. Vendetti and Colandini have both made confessions.

The police received a telephone message at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night that a young woman residing on Main street, was entertaining a number of sailors at her home. Sergeant Patrick Murphy, Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Patrolman William Riordan went to the Main street house, and learned that the woman complained against had not been home since 7 o'clock, when she left the house accompanied by her husband.

Several drunks were gathered in the police dragnet Saturday night and will be in the police court Monday morning. Ralph Smith, 57, proprietor of a store at Montville, was released upon furnishing a bond for his appearance in court. Smith was arrested by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Patrolman Dennis Murphy. After being lodged in a cell, Smith damaged his bunk and this act may tend to make the discipline he received in court more severe than it otherwise would be. Frank Cone, 50, of Ashaway, R. I., was arrested on North Bank street by Patrolman William Riordan. Cone was disciplined in the police court less than two weeks ago.

Mrs. John Dunwoodie, of Bradford, R. I.; John Walter, Woodbridge street; Policewoman Jane Cassidy, of Franklin street; Miss Marian Howe, Montauk avenue, and Clifford Bradley, Niantic, patients at Lawrence Memorial hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

James W. Lee, formerly of Groton, died Saturday at Norwich State hospital, in which institution Mr. Lee had been under treatment for some time. He is survived by his wife, who resides in Groton, and by a son, George Lee, formerly well known plumber, who for several years has been under treatment at the same institution where his father died.

Miss Edna Greene, Home street, employed as stenographer in the office of City Clerk Julian D. Moran, resigned Saturday and will become the bride of Charles Christensen, local truckman, the 11th inst. Miss Greene was tendered a shower at the municipal building Saturday noon by employes of the building, receiving numerous handsome gifts.

City Manager William A. Holt has received complaint that the parking of automobiles on the east side of Bank street, just south of Howard street, is detrimental to business interests there and has been requested to cause the parking to be discontinued. As a result of the complaint, Manager Holt has communicated with Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney, instructing Capt. Pinney to make an investigation of parking conditions there and to report to the city manager. There is no existing ordinance preventing the parking of machines at that section of Bank street.

Three family rows were disposed of in the police court Saturday, two of them probably for good and another by continuance for three months, during which time it is believed the parties concerned will agree to live as they should and avert interposition by law. The complainant in each case was a wife, the trouble came about by indugence in liquor by the husband.

Michael Solomon, one of the best known tailors in this city, is to go to a hospital for treatment for a malady that is of a most serious nature. It is an affection of the throat, but how the treatment will terminate is doubtful. The doctors do not have a great deal to promise to encourage the belief that a cure can be effected. Mr. Solomon has been in business here during four decades. He is a charter member of New London lodge of Elks in which he is much respected. His business career has not been of a profitable nature, it is said by his relatives and he is without the funds that would be necessary during his illness and treatment.

There was a great gathering of members of the Masonic order in this city, Saturday evening, when the degree team of Jerusalem council of Bridgeport worked the superexcellent degree for Cushing council, R. A. M., of this city. The work was in full form and was an exemplification that surpassed anything ever seen in this section. There were some 250 or more members of the craft in attendance. A supper followed the work.

Another automobile was stolen from State street into Friday night when a machine owned by William S. McCrank, 527 Ocean avenue, was taken from its place of parking in the rear of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument. The theft was reported to the police and a request was made of the authorities at Norwich, Hartford and New Haven the state police at Groton and Centerbrook, to be on the lookout for the car.

The police have been unable to fasten the crime of the burglarizing of the rooms of the masters of the steamers Charles Cramp, moored at the state pier, and the Gen. Nathaniel Greene, government transport, several weeks ago when the boats were boarded and money and jewelry obtained. Capt. E. G. Ellis, master of the Cramp, lost $112 and jewelry and Capt. William Coughlin, of the Greene suffered the loss of $240. Several suspects have been questioned by Sergeant Nelson Smith and Acting Sergeant Edward Daniels, but the thefts could not be fastened upon any of the young men questioned.

Guido Valli, Smith street, East Hampton, Conn., was arrested late this afternoon by Sergeant Hick and Traffic Officer William Corcoran, charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor and failing to have an operator's license and registration. He is being held in bail of $200 for his appearance in the police court Monday morning. When searched at the police station Valli had a flask of "white mule" in his possession. Valli operated his machine through State street shortly after 5 o'clock and passed the soldiers' and sailors' monument. Traffic Officer Corcoran observed the irregular course taken by the machine and so did Sergeant Hick. Both officers followed the automobile to the municipal pier, where Valli was taken into custody.

The burning of a large acreage brush in Waterford this afternoon caused residents of that town considerable alarm and when volunteer fire fighters attempted to extinguish the fire they were unsuccessful. A request was made of the local department for assistance and the Niagara Engine company and th Ockford Hose company were sent to the fire. After a large quantity of chemicals had been thrown upon the burning brush the blaze was subdued. The fire caused immense clouds of smoke to rise high in the air and gave indication of a serious blaze.

William Corcoran, 68, former well known crossing tender in the employ of the New Haven railroad at the union station, died Saturday night at Lawrence hospital from a general breakdown in health. Mr. Corcoran is survived by his wife and by several nephews and nieces. He had been in failing health for some time, but not until last Wednesday did his condition become serious. He was then removed to the hospital.

Mr. Corcoran was for nearly a score of years crossing tender at the dangerous location at the union station and during his long term of service saved many lives. His faithful service there was greatly appreciated, not only by the railroad officials, but also by commuters using the Groton ferry and as a result of his watchfulness in guilding pedestrians and vehicular users of the crossing, Mr. Corcoran received many presents each Christmas day, most gifts being gold pieces. After leaving the employ of the railroad Mr. Corcoran was night watchman for the Brainerd and Armstrong Silk company and latterly was employed by the city's highway department.

Saturday afternoon the fire department was called out by an alarm from Box 23, corner of State and North Bank streets, the awning in front of the stores of the Bee Hive becoming ablaze. Other than the destruction of the awning and the demolition of a large plate glass window the fire was inconsequential. About 4 o'clock the large awning was discovered ablaze and an employe of the store caused an alarm to be sent in. Thomas W. McGarry, another employe in an endeavor to tear the burning awning from its fastenings, fell through the window.

STATE TRADE SCHOOL SHOWS DIVERSITY OF WORK TAUGHT

The State Trade school held its annual opening Thursday afternoon and evening and there was a very large crowd in attendance. This school is one of nine such institutions under the supervision of the State Board of Education.

Many visitors passed through the building, between three o'clock in the afternoon and ten o'clock at night at the invitation of Director E. E. Ellis. Mr. Ellis had a strenuous day, answering questions and explaining things. The impression carried away by all who have attended these exhibits from year to year as bigger, better and busier than ever before.

Director Ellis had put in words what the school teaches and its purpose. This was easily read on an illuminated two-sided electric sign in the school yard. The sign, arranged and wired by the boys of the electrical department after having been built in the carpentry department, read as follows:

"State Trade School Putnam. A Free Public School Promoting Good Citizenship by Training, in the Habits of Industry, Free Instruction to Any Boy or Girl Resident in Connecticut Over 14 Years of Age, in the Arts and Practices of Machine Work, Electricity, Cotton Textile Manufacturing, Carpentry, Draftine, Sewing and Cooking."

With this offer on the part of the State of Connecticut, a leader in free schools and free education, it is only to be wondered at that the institution is not twice as large. However, boys and girls as well as parents of boys and girls, are waking up to the advantages of this free vocational training, so the student body, day and evening, is now larger than ever.

Besides the electrically lighted sign at the front of the building, on entering the school yard to approach the front door of the building on passed between two rows of incandescent electric lights intermittently lighted in five sections, alternating, one after the other, in quick rotation. This also was the work of the boys in the electrical department.

It would take one technically versed in the work going on in each of the various departments to intelligently record what was going on at the three floors of the Trade school and the two floors of the Putnam High school, the home of the home builders and the home economics department.

In the cooking department, about twenty white-gowned girls were standing about tables on which stood nine two-burner gas plates, some girls mixing materials, some reading recipes and others frosting little cakes. In one corner of the room were delicious looking goodies made by the cooking class of the eighth grade. On the upper floor of the high school building was the display of needlework, from the work of the beginners to that of the advanced classes. Gowns and dresses for adults and for children, millinery and embroidery, all were done by the pupils. Girls were busy with needles and at sewing machines. There were curtains and draperies made from the products of the Trade school.

In the Trade school building was the machine shop, where both small and large boys were busy at the heavy machines. One especially attractive exhibit here was a motor driven attachment for a moving picture machine, made by the students. Other articles were displayed, as were the drawings and books of the academic side of the instructions.

In the carpentry department, a flight of stairs was set up marked "Job 9,563" meaning this was the nine thousand five hundred and sixty-third job completed since the school started. These stairs are to be the back stairs of a Putnam home. There were many drawings and plans, some had been finished, others were to be finished. There were many samples of cabinet work and repair jobs, also a piano bench and an electric piano lamp.

The whole space of the street floor is devoted to cotton manufacture. Cotton is poured into the picker and passes through the various processes until finally ready to be woven into cloth. Some samples are being made for a New Britain shirt manufacturer and these were displayed. A jacquard loom has been set up for fancy weaving.

In the electrical department students were experimenting, winding motors, soldering wires and getting a general technical and academic knowledge of this interesting subject, which attracts many pupils. There was a wiring job and lighted fixtures, the fixtures loaned for the purpose by the Moss Electrical Co. and the Bates Electric Shop.

Boys were bending over drafting tables in the drafting department. Many drawings both architectural and Mechanical were displayed here.

It was har dto believe that this work was the work of boys, beginners in many cases; the finished products displayed looked to have been done by experienced men. These boys being trained, even before reaching thir majority, will become expert workmen, capable of earning the wages paid to skilled labor in the trades they are pursuing. Were it not for the Trade school, these same boys would spend years at very small pay before becoming proficient at their chosen trade. The Putnam State Trade school is certainly a wonderful institution and this season it is bigger, better and busier than ever before.

JEWETT CITY

Saturday afternoon at one o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gill, Hugh Gordon Willis and Emma Campbell Potter were married by Rev. G. K. Gray, pastor of the Congregational church, Mrs. Willis wore tan georgette over satin-back canton crepe, with hat to match. The bridesmaid was the groom's niece, Miss Agnes Gill, and the best man was his nephew, Edwin Moore, of Norwich. Miss Gill wore powder blue flat-crepe, with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs. Willis will visit relatives in Worcester, Southbridge, Webster, Waterbury and New Haven. On their return they will live in an apartment in the Finn block.

The Jewett City chapter, American Red Cross has made its final shipment of knitted articles to the United Veterans' hospital, New Haven—a total of 14 porch caps and eight sweaters. The corps of knitters to whom the chapter has extended thanks consists of Mrs. Emma Raney, 28 caps, Mrs. F. X. DesJardine, 11 caps, Mrs. Alice Anthany, 11 caps and 2 sweaters, Mrs. Enoch Cheney, 11 caps and 2 sweaters, Mrs. Perley Melvin, 8 caps and 1 sweater, Mrs. James Blair, 3 caps and 1 sweater, Miss Foster, 4 caps, Mrs. R. F. Cheney, 23 caps and 2 sweaters, and Miss M. A. Burdick and Mrs. J. C. Hawkins together knitted 15 caps.

Mrs. Lewis Hewlitt and two children returned Saturday from a visit in Mystic.

A large number from Jewett City attended the presentation of The Crucifixion at the United Congregational church Sunday evening.

The service at the Congregational church was especially enjoyed Sunday morning as Hugh Kinder of Norwich sang The Palms as an offertory solo. He also played the organ prelude, a composition of his own.

Elsie May Kittlitz, of the South China mission, spoke at the Sunday morning service at the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Robertson, Jr., celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary Saturday evening with a reception held in Rioux hall. Over fifty relatives and friends were present and enjoyed the programme. Mac's orchestra of Central Village furnished music. Mr. and Mrs. Charles MacFarland of Central Village and Irving Thornton of Jewett City sang, and Frank Mell gave several readings. Sandwiches, cake and ice cream in forms were served. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson received gifts of silver, and a beautiful basket of potted plants was given them by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Whiting. Mr. Robertson is a printer in Aspinook Bleachery, and chorister of the Methodist church choir.

Saturday night, Deputy Sheriff Dolan was driving through Brown avenue when he saw two men who seemed to be intoxicated, some 75 or 100 feet ahead of him. He blew his horn, and slowed down, but they kept zigzagging in the path of the automobile, until he was obliged to stop. Then one of them lurched up to the bumper, and threw himself under the car, as if he had been hit. Thereupon, the two men began to berate the driver in all kinds of language, until he got out of the car and the ysaw who he was. With a horrified exclamation, one of them took to his heels. The other, Joseph Small, started to run, but a kick from the sheriff landed him on the ground, and later he was landed in the police-station. He will appear before the court this (Monday) morning. Both Officers Dolan and Vegiard have received numerous complaints and attempted hold-ups and disturbances in this vicinity.

"Protects"
Lifebuoy cleans wonderfully and removes from the skin the germs and impurities children are so apt to pick upin play or from playmates. —Mrs. Arthur C. Gandy, Richmond, Ind.
"Clean Odor"
Lifebuoy is wonderful for bathing. Its antiseptic lather is just what children need. I like its clean healthful odor. —Mrs. Virginia Lee Boyer, Newtonville, Mass.
"Healthful"
Lifebuoy has helped me raise my tiny tots to their now splendid health and beauty. Its gentle lather has kept my skin wonderfully clear and fine. —Mrs. John M. Walton, New Orleans, La.
"Safe"
I find Lifebuoy a comfort. It cleans thoroughly and keeps youngsters safe from many ills of childhood. —Mrs. S. H. Clark, Lakewood, Ohio.
"Wholesome"
Lifebuoy is excellent for keeping skin purified, wholesome and fresh looking. Its antiseptic suds remove dirt and perspiration, leaving the body sweet and fresh. —Mrs. Lawrence G. Ludwig, Houlton, Maine.
"Pure"
We have found Lifebuoy pure, very cleansing, excellent for the skin and a real protection to health because of its antiseptic qualities. —Mrs. Bertha Neise, Chicago, Ill.

Could five million mothers be mistaken?

"Antiseptic"
I do not like to deny my children the joy of playing in dirt. But in a city park it might prove dangerous but for antiseptic Lifebuoy. —Mrs. Geo. G. Bogert, New York City.

"Beauty"
Lifebuoy keeps our skin in beautiful condition. It is a favorite of ours on account of its fragrance and antiseptic value. —Mrs. Herbert V. Lindsay, Kennett Square, Pa.

OVER TEACUPS across adjoining flower-beds, wherever you exchange ideas—these splendid American mothers are talking to you—their neighbor.

Simple, practical, sensible facts like these:

"It protects against dirty playmates."

"Wonderful for bathing."

"Playing in city parks and playgrounds might prove dangerous but for this antiseptic protection."

"Leaves hair soft and silky."

"Removes body odors."

"Keeps skin in beautiful condition."

"Gets all the ground-in dirt from knees and faces."

"Helps keep youngsters safe from ills of childhood."

"Its use means clear, smooth skin."

From thousands of such letters we could quote. Millions of modern mothers have this enthusiastic faith in Lifebuoy Health Soap.

They could not be mistaken.

The living proof of Lifebuoy protection and benefit to skin is always before them in rosy laughing faces and sturdy little bodies.

The proof is in Lifebuoy itself—in its refreshing odor of purity—in the zestful feeling it gives of being cleaner than you ever were before—in the clear, smooth softness and pulsing underglow it imparts to skin.

Lifebuoy is wonderful soap. Your faith in it will equal the faith of these other mothers—once you have given it a real trial.

BORAH AND THE COURT.

When Senator Borah comes out in opposition to the international court of justice there is nothing unexpected about it. He has been opposed to the league of nations and he has been opposed to the world court. His opposition has been due to the fact that the court was the creation of the league, but when in his latest address he comes out against the court because there is no perfect code of international law under which it can do business he indicates his irreconcilable position. His attitude is fixed and his future course is indicated.

When he urges the lack of a perfect code of international law he indicates that there should be a delay until such is obtained. But how does he plan to bring such a thing about? If he doesn't favor a court he probably wouldn't favor anybody that might be created for the purpose of establishing such a code. And should such a code be established there would of course be immediate ground for his disapproval because it failed to suit him. It is not improbable that he would oppose the court even if there was a code which might meet his approval.

It is believed that it is the court that really meets the disapproval of the senator from Idaho and that his position is fixed. He takes that attitude of demanding perfection before any start is made. Supposing that view was followed in all instances how much progress would be made?

It is interesting to note that while Senator Borah is asking for perfection in international law before this country enters the court of international justice, he makes no such requirement of Russia before we extend recognition and enter into diplomatic relationship therewith. If he wants this country to refrain from entering the world court until there is a perfect code of international law, there should be quite as much concern, if not more, on his part that Russia government should measure up to the standard required of other governments, and to that set forth by this government, before urging recognition.

PICKING DIPLOMATS.

That President Coolidge should have accepted the recommendation of Secretary Kellogg in regard to the appointment of a new minister to China to succeed Dr. Jacob G. Schurman was expected. It was not only the logical course but it was an excellent selection. It was a repetition of those instances where men who had qualified for certain service have been picked for more responsible positions.

John V. A. MacMurray has been assistant secretary of state in charge of the far eastern bureau. He has served in a minor position in legations in the far east and by this service he must be regarded as being not only in touch with the affairs of China but one eminently qualified to administer the duties of minister to Pekin.

This is an important post just at this time in particular. Dr. Schurman has been promoted and Assistant Secretary MacMurray is to be promoted and in each case it is because of a display of fitness and efficiency. There is thus being carried out a policy that is not only highly commendable but what is needed for the putting of the diplomatic corps on the highest basis.

China has always placed much dependence upon this government. Whether it is disposed to look elsewhere at the present time, or whether it has been drawn in other directions, the situation in that country certainly calls for the sending of the best man obtainable as our representative. This has been given full consideration. It is recognized in the choice made, and there are just as good assurances that Mr. MacMurray will measure up to the responsibilities of the post at Pekin as there are that Dr. Schurman will make good at Berlin.

It was be easy enough to pick men for diplomatic posts, but it is another matter to select those who are equipped for the work and upon whom dependence can be placed for the best representation of this government. President Coolidge in the filling of diplomatic vacancies has made an excellent impression.

HERRIOT'S TROUBLES.

Once again the situation in France as regards the cabinet and premiership is decidedly uncertain. Premier Herriot has had his difficulties. He has been beset by various influences and like others he has found that he cannot satisfy them all.

The first break came with the resignation of E. Clementel, the minister of finance, who advanced his financial policies without support of the government, and failing to get approval withdrew. There was nothing else for him to do, and while his resignation may not have been enough to have tipped over the entire cabinet, or to necessarily have weakened that body, there are other conditions of a like character which do not indicate plain sailing.

Premier Herriot being confronted with conditions which involve many compromises if he is to remain makes his position a difficult one. Can he make these compromises and still retain his support? He is evidently going to be put to the test, and from the fact that possible successors are being mentioned it might be interpreted that his days are limited.

There are evidences of political unrest which too often mean a desire for a change. It is not improbable that matters which have been brewing for some time are being brought to a climax. French finances are always a serious bone of contention. How to balance the budget is a serious problem at times. Naturally there is opposition to the increasing of taxes and yet when there is talk about a levy on capital it means much opposition. It is apparently a time when the premier must tell the people as well as their representatives just what the financial situation is and impress upon them the importance of meeting it. Much rests upon his policy in this respect and more than France is concerned in the turn affairs will take thereafter.

CHAPMAN'S CONVICTION.

Not for a long time has there been a trial in this state which has aroused so much interest as that of Gerald Chapman, charged with the murder of a New Britain policeman. It was the work of a courageous and desperate individual, who when caught did not hesitate to take life in order to get away with the loot or to escape arrest.

There were circumstances about the case which created more than the usual interest for the accused is considered one of the country's worst criminals, one who has long defied the law and one who has demonstrated that once sentenced to punishment it was difficult to hold him.

Chapman has made as determined a fight for his life as he did desperate deeds in his criminal career. It has been a case which has also involved other criminals than himself, whose testimony has been heard and craefully weighed by the judge and jury.

The case was carefully and fully tried, every advantage was permitted the accused. After deliberating long and carefully over the evidence the jury finds him guilty as accused and the penalty which goes with that crime has been imposed. The jury, virtually picked by Chapman himself, was convinced that the evidence was against him, and how fully convinced the members were of that is evidenced by the fact that there was but one vote.

Connecticut has probably had no more widely known criminal before its courts than Chapman, and it has shown that crime of the character of which he was convicted cannot be committed in this state with impunity.

MOTOR VEHICLE CONDITIONS.

In the past there has been much said about the importance of uniformity of state regulations concerning automobiles. In some instances such suggestions have been adopted. Conferences of motor vehicle commissioners have hastened such results. So beneficial have been such gatherings that it is probable more laws will be enacted in common as time goes on.

In keeping therewith is the new proposal of establishing a central conference office for the motor vehicles administrators of the eastern division, which office "would constitute a ready clearing house for all questions upon which there is a difference between the states." With the lack of uniformity the value of such a central office is at least worthy of careful consideration. This is particularly true when it is observed that "eventually would save each member state or the citizens of each state, large sums of money through speedy determination of questions which now have to go to court."

When this will include the eastern part of the country north of the Mason and Dixon line and east of the western boundaries of New York and Pennsylvania it can be appreciated that it involves a section in which there are hundreds of thousands of motor vehicles and drivers, and a section in which the number of such is rapidly increasing.

Whatever can be done to better conditions and eliminate difficulties is well worth all the attention that is called for.

EDTORIAL NOTES.

The man on the corner says: Some people figure common sense as old fashioned.

From the fears expressed by the prince of Wales someone must have told him that no one lover a fat man.

Those who thought the president and Secretary Kellogg could be stampeded into recognizing Russia have another guess.

Some people are never happy unless there is some hero worshipping to be done over those who defy laws and take lives.

The present general assembly has had more respect than some for the Friday sessions but it is evident they are anything but popular.

The signing of a pledge not to drink intoxicating liquors for a year in this country may be one of the explanations for so many going abroad.

The nomination of William G McAdoo for president is slated for Kansas City on April 13. That is a date which his father-in-law considered lucky.

April with its showers not only stimulates the May flowers but it shoots the grass along in a way to worry the fellow back of the lawn mower.

It is safe to say that Countess Banky has no press agent when she said on arrival here "It is of little consequence what I think or say." And she expects to be a movie actress.

Congressman Tucker of Virginia has returned the excess salary voted by the last congress, doing what his grandfather did 108 years ago. Not many have emulated the elder Tucker and not many will do as the grandson is doing, but it is impossible to withhold due credit under the circumstances.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Roll sausages in flour before frying. It will prevent breaking and also improve the flavor.

Make holes in the centers of parsed potatoes, fill with sausage meat, place in a greased baking pan, and bake.

A little glycerine rubbed around the glass stoppers of bottles will prevent them from sticking.

The so-called cord attached to your electric iron is not a cord; it is two bundles of wires. Don't twist it or bend it or tie it in knots.

Butter the upper edge of the pan in which the cocoa is cooked and it will not boil over the top.

A little plain or preserved ginger root gives a delicious flavor when added to a jar of preserved pears.

Select small, firm beets, the large ones are apt to be woody.

Pineapple juice will prevent fruit gelatine from thickening.

Violin strings and dental floss both prove splendid strings for beads.

Season baked beans with olive oil instead of pork or butter. The flavor is fine and the dish is more easily digested.

To remove the smell of cooking pour into a basin of boiling water about five drops of oil of lavender. In a few minutes all smell of cooking will have disappeared.

Turn your window boxes once a week. It is a mistake to allow plants to grow always in one direction.

Have a bunch of chives and parsley growing in pots in the kitchen window, during the winter. Chives are a delicious addition to potato or lettuce salad and fine for flavoring soup or hash. They must be chopped fine. A tablespoonful is enough for a salad.

Ordinary baking powder either dry or dissolved in water, will put out a small fire immediately. It forms a gas, carbon dioxide, which smothers the flames. A small handful in a cup of water, or by itself, is usually sufficient.

SAFER PACKAGES

Perhaps you found out last Christmas through experience that the wise method of sending packages parcel post is to wrap them in two separate papers, the inside paper having the address on it as well as the outside, and tied just as securely. If the destination is a great distance three papers should be used.

MAKING A CUP OF TEA

The method of making tea is always the same, but the amount required depends upon the kind of tea you are using. As a rule a teaspoon of tea to each person you are going to serve and one teaspoon for the pot is about right. Have the water boiling before you pour it on the tea and before putting the tea leaves in the pot run a little hot water in to heat up the pot. Then pour this out, place in your tea and when the water is boiling pour it over the tea.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Do not drink water (especially ice water) just before or with meals, as it retards the digestive process. Drink it between meals.

After a meal do not seek a comfortable chair or take a nap, but stand up for from 10 to 15 minutes. Stand still on both feet, knees straight, in an easy position.

The first thing in the morning sip a glassful of hot water. If you have a thermos bottle it will be convenient to fill it the night before, so that you may take your hot water before dressing in the morning.

Here is a good tonic for falling hair of the oily type: One-half dram of salicylic acid; 2 drams of tincture of cantharides; 2 drams tincture of capsicum; 1 ounce cologne water; 2 ounces bay rum; 2 ounces distilled water.

White bread is starchy and rich in proteins, but less nourishing than the coarser dark breads made from unrefined flours.

Cheese contains milk casein and fat, with concentrated nitrogenous matter, and while nourishing is hard to digest and should not be given to children except in the mild forms like cottage cheese.

FOR THE ABSENT-MINDED

If you are inclined to leave packages, pocketbooks and umbrellas around promiscuously, why not see that they are always tagged with your name and address, so that if they are lost you stand some chance of their being returned? If you are shopping, write your name and address on your package as soon as purchased.

KEEP IT COOL

A bowl of fruit is very decorative in the dining-room, but unless eaten rapidly it will soon decay. Perhaps it is wise, if you are not big fruit eaters, to keep the fruit in the cool pantry and use some other form of decoration.

TO CLEAN WHITE STRAW HATS

Straw hats which have become very dirty should first be scrubbed with a dry brush to remove all dust, and then rubbed over with a clean white rag dipped in oxalic acid. This should be done quickly and afterwards the straw must be rinsed in clean cold water. Great care should be taken not to get the acid on the fingers, for if there is already a slight abrasion, poisoning might easily occur. One is always liable to such an accident which, though trivial in the beginning might easily develop into a more serious injury which would prevent a housewife from continuing her duties.

EXTRA STUFFING

When the family is very fond of filling in a fowl, try making an extra amount and putting it in a muslin bag, laying the filled bag alongside the fowl in the roaster. Baste it as well as the fowl.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Gold kid belts and gold kid inserts on felt hats or on collars are among the new touches.

Some of the new scarfs for spring are so very narrow that they give the impression of a tie worn without the customary collar.

Covert cloth in the light shades makes delightful garconne frocks with a touch of white pique or a colored vest for trimming.

Pajamas of cotton broadcloth in wide stripes in charming color combinations are an excellent choice for the school or college girl.

Scarfs are still popular. A very effective one is halved lengthwise, cerise, on one side and white, given in large roses on the other, giving the appearance of two scarfs.

While hats nearly always match the coats or frocks with which they are worn, the interesting exception is the bright red hat, often topping an all white costume.

Ostrich boas are rivaling the scarf. They are seen in many colors, pastel shades preferred. Some are in ombre shading of pale yellow in the center to deep orange at the ends, others in orchid shading to petunia or fuchsia.

The high-neck type sweater is tremendously popular among British sportswomen in both the fair-isle weaves and spun silk. In most instances the high close collars are fastened with buttons and may be worn open if desired.

Small, high soft collars of summer fur are a feature of many of the heavy corded silk coats so popular for the spring ensemble costumes. Frequently these collars are double, especially when the material is squirrel or fitch.

Simplicity is the keynote of the new lingerie now on exhibition. One beautiful example is a camik-nicker set. The top is absolutely plain in opera shape, with elastic arms. The bottom is accordian plaited, with the hem cut in deep points. Ivory, sky and peach are the color tones used.

A modification of the Spanish shawl seen everywhere, is one with large octagon shapes appliqued and stitched in gold thread, the long fringe matching the figures. Another shawl is hand painted in the opposite corners with two bold conventional motifs—only two on the entire surface of the shawl.

FASHIONED FOR YOUTH

Period frocks, those charmingly youthful models with little bodices and wide, full skirts, have not by any means been relegated to the background. They are, if anything, more intriguing than ever, for they reveal a distinct Spanish influence which makes for certain picturesque qualities. Not the least interesting of these frocks are those which have an overdress of black Chantilly lace over a slip of satin which is a rich valencia pink in shade. Others of the same beautiful pink tone are flounced with black lace and the effect is enchanting.

However, the period frock is distinctly the costume of youth. While youth may be a matter of actual years in modern days it frequently is a state of mind aided and abated by all the arts of the modiste, the hairdresser and the beauty specialist. At all events, youthful contours are essential to the successful wearing of these piquant costumes.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES

When the stitches are loose on the under side of the goods on your sewing machine, it is the upper tension which is too loose, and not the lower one. The stitches can be made regular by tightening the upper tension.

An easy and attractive marking for the new street is to cross stitch one initial just below the wide hem in either Delft blue or old rose. It will only take a few minutes and is most effective.

Crochet cotton doubled is splendid for sewing on the buttons on the young man's rompers or small suits. The buttons are much more apt to remain through all his activities than when ordinary cotton is used.

A most satisfactory method for sewing on buttons, especially on heavy garments, is to place button on garment, lay a pin on top of the button and sew over it, then remove the pin. The button will stay on twice as long.

A WEEKLY JOB

Saturday morning is a very good time for the weekly scrubbing of the refrigerator. A regular time for this task means it will not be neglected. The refrigerator is then clean and empty to receive the week-end supplies.

DID IT EVER OCCUR TO YOU

That huge gold-framed mirror so beloved in the time of our grandmothers can be cut into desired sizes and framed in up-to-date frames and you will have a quality glass impossible to purchase these days at any price.

FOR SMALL QUARTERS

In the modern small apartment it is sometimes a problem to know what to do with favorite books. The problem is solved by a narrow hanging book-case painted in whatever color one fancies. An especially pretty combination is of lacquer red with stripes of black and green.

FOR YOUR AUTO TRIP

Boil scraps of left-over soap and water until dissolved. Pour into discarded tin spice box with perforated holes in top or use a bottle. If the latter is used purchase a clothes sprinkler to fit bottle. Crepe paper napkins make splendid towels. Place a package of these and your liquid soap in your automobile and you will find that your trips will bring you more pleasure than ever before.

MAKE THEM SWEET

If one prefers sweet mixed pickles to the sour variety, but finds them more expensive, buy sour pickles in jars, pour off the vinegar, add a little sugar and a few pickle spices, bring to a boil and pour while hot over the pickles. After standing a few days the pickles are just as good as those already sweetened.

STEAM THE COCOANUT

When using dry cocoanut with cake frosting, try steaming the cocoanut first and you will be pleased with the result. Before putting the cocoanut over the steam place it in a clean napkin. In this way none of it is wasted.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Mrs. Alice Rees, California's first woman sheriff, wears trousers and rides astride her saddle horse.

A newspaper for women and by women, the first of its kind in China, has been started in Tientsin.

Girls do all the handling of baggage in the Union Station, Ogden, Utah of the Southern Pacific lines.

Queen Mary of England has let it be known among the society folk that she does not like bobbed or shingled hair.

TELLTALE FEET

The feet of geese tell the story of the bird's age, as the feet of young geese are yellow and those of old geese are red. The feet should be pliable, as they become stiff if kept too long after killing.

VEGETABLE STAINS

Stains on the fingers caused by preparing vegetables can be removed by holding the hands in very strong tea for a few minutes. Then wash with soap and clear water. The stains will disappear.

RECIPES

Head Cheese—Clean a pig's head after it has been thoroughly cleaned. Cook until it is so tender that all the bones will drop out. Season the meat while warm with salt, pepper and sage. Put into a cheese cloth strainer and press out flat. Put in an earthen dish, place a plate upon it and press down with a heavy weight. Set it away and when cold slice off as you use it. It may be served cold or it may be dropped into egg and flour then fried a nice brown.

Cheese Omelet—Beat together two and one-half tablespoons milk, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of mustard, few grains of cayenne. Add four tablespoons of grated cheese and one tablespoon of milk, stirring constantly. Add yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored. Add to the first mixture, continue stirring until well blended. Melt one tablespoon half tablespoons of butter in a cast iron skillet; turn the mixture until the bottom and sides of the skillet are well buttered. Pour in the mixture and as it cooks prick and slightly lift with a fork to allow the uncooked portion to flow underneath; add a little more butter if needed. Cook until the omelet is firm and creamy on top. Sprinkle thickly with grated cheese seasoned with salt and a few grains of cayenne. Fold (as "puffy" omelet) onto a hot serving platter, pour around tomato sauce and sprinkle the whole with grated parmasan cheese. This is a most delicious omelet and may serve as the main dish at luncheon or supper.

Are You Discouraged?

Curtiss, the Widow's Boy

Often Glenn H. Curtiss had to rush at the last minute in order to merely get a chance to show what he could do.

Born in Hammondsport, N. Y., he was four years old when his father died. He attended the public school and worked in the vineyards during vacation time to pay his way. He was 13 when his mother moved to Rochester so that his sister might attend a school for deaf mutes.

After attending high school he started to work as messenger for the Eastman Kodak Company. Promoted to the assembling room, he asked to be put on piece work, then suggested an improvement that speeded up the output and raised his income to $12 a week.

Back in Hammondsport, he worked in a bicycle shop, won bicycle races and at 22, opened his own shop. At night he studied and in spare time at the shop he invented a motorcycle that looked "like a bicycle with tin cans tied all over it with a rope." But it was too small. He perfected another and rode thirty miles an hour on it.

Local capital was interested and the company produced a motorcycle with which Curtiss won a hill-climbing contest in New York and a speed race nearby on the same day. Four years later he devised a new machine, finished it at the last minute, but rode 127 miles an hour, but the record was not accepted as official.

Attaching his motor to Captain T. S. Baldwin's dirigible, he shared in the aircraft prize at the St. Louis Exposition. He then sold the United States its first dirigible. He collaborated with Dr. Alexander Graham Bell and gave the first public flight in America of a motor-driven heavier-than-air machine.

Watching competitors' chances and giving thought to details at the last minute, he made an airplane rushed it to Rheims, France, was penalized for not taking part in the preliminary, but won the event. He made the first amphibious airplane and his was the first aircraft to cross the Atlantic.

Curtiss, at 46, is head of the Curtiss Airplane Company and many other organizations and every plane at the last Dayton meet bore at least one of his 300 inventions.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Opposed to Increasing City Employes' Pay.

Mr. Editor: The employes of the city are about to make a raid on the city treasury and fatten their pay envelope at the expense of the already overburdened taxpayer, and the police make as a claim for such a demand that some other city pays more, and that they have to pay for their uniforms and 2 per cent of their wages into an old age pension fund. Every person, so far as I know, has to buy his own clothes and the average man could not get any pension unless he paid the whole amount, let alone 2 per cent. The police work seven days a week and get two days off a month, with pay and ten days' vacation with pay. They get $35 per week, 52 weeks in the year, no laying off when business is poor, as the average working man gets more or less within the year, and a better pay than the average taxpayer gets. In the writer's opinion the policeman or fireman is much more highly favored than the average man. I doubt if any of the police or firemen could make as much in any other industry; and if the council which is sworn to perform the will of the people and make laws for the best interests of the city and its residents should vote to favor such a demand, it must be for personal and political reasons and not as a matter of necessity or justice.

It would cost the city in the end nearly $100 per day extra to meet all the demands that would follow from the different city departments, police, firemen, street and water departments, etc.

They are well paid as it is and should be thankful to have such steady jobs and steady pay.

While remembering that all around them the mills and shops are running short time and the taxpayers who have to maintain the city expenses are getting short pay themselves and have a good right to be considered before putting any further burden on them.

WEARY TAXPAYER.

Norwich, April 4, 1925.

Support Norwich Merchants and Manufacturers.

Mr. Editor: Having read Mr. Henschel's talk on purchasing at home before the Lions' Club, we would like to use a little space in your paper on the same subject. A few years ago Norwich boasted of 60 cigarmakers and today there is only a handful of them working in town. Norwich is not only unfair to its merchants but it will not support its manufacturers. These same merchants that cry about the mail order houses can be seen going in and out of the cheap cigar stores to make their purchases of cigars made out of town. They not only pass up the local cigar manufacturers but they spend their money with a concern that employs one or two clerks at the most and every cent of the week's receipts are sent right down to the main office. You can plainly see what these same merchants are losing with only a few [illegible] Norwich.

The annual pay roll of 60 cigarmakers at the rate of a scale of wages would amount to $75,000, which would be spent in Norwich, while the wages of the present employes is practically nothing. Cigars made in Norwich are not offering goods equal in many cases are far superior to cigars coming in here from other districts. Another feature of buying cigars made in Norwich is that you can drop into any factory and see for yourself under what conditions they are made. Cigars made in Norwich are made from the choicest of tobacco and made under clean and healthful conditions.

The week of April 26 to May 2 has been designated New England Union Label week by the Cigarmakers International Union in order to boost the cigars made in New England. That is in order to get the people of New England to smoke cigars made in New England and the people of Norwich to smoke cigars made in Norwich. The details of this drive will be published later but we want everybody in Norwich to get behind us and see if we can't get back to the time of 60 cigarmakers in Norwich. Mr. Henschel has started the ball rolling so let's all get together and support our merchants and manufacturers and have a bigger and better Norwich.

Very truly yours
Cigarmakers' Local No. 407,
WILLIAM H. DONAHUE, Secretary.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

NIGHT FLYING

Sunset-to-dawn mail service between New York and Chicago, which is being projected by the post office department to start by June 1, finds the postal service in an old role—that of sponsoring night communication.

In the early days of the railway service, postal demands brought about night trains. Trainmen were horrified that the postal officials should urge such a risky thing as running trains at night. Now the eight-cent stamp demands night air service in order that mail deposited in New York at the end of one day may be in Chicago at the beginning of another.

It may be that night air service in the future will be as common as the night sleeping cars of today.

Details of the first night air service placed in operation by the post office department form Chicago to Cheyenne, Wyoming, are described in the following communication to the National Geographic Society. These methods of lighting and control are similar to the facilities which will be extended between New York and Chicago.

"Last July the post office department began to carry mail over the entire route from coast to coast in planes. In preparation for this project eight intercoastal relay flights were made a year ago, and letters bearing a San Francisco postmark of 8 a. m. August 24 were canceled at the New York post office at 2 p. m. the following day.

"It was during these flights that the great white airway along the night route from Chicago to Cheyenne was tested and night flying shown to be practicable. For this achievement the Air Mail service was awarded the Collier trophy for the second successive year.

"The electrical engineer provided five stations with aerial beacons aptly nicknamed 'midnight suns of the Air Mail.' Each beacon is a high-intensity searchlight, mounted on a 50-foot tower, and it revolves three times a minute.

"Set at an angle of one degree, the 800,000,000 candlepower beam from each of these land lighthouses sweeps the sky just above the horizon and has been spotted on clear nights, at 130 miles. At 100 miles where it is plainly visible, the diameter of its beam is about two miles.

"At 34 emergency landing fields along the night airway, large guiding [illegible] have been erected and [illegible] are smaller lime gas flares every three miles, making a continuous light line over the 800 mile route.

"Various mechanical [illegible] miles [illegible] placed before night flying [illegible]. Searchlights are aimed to be within the glance of the [illegible] must be hit on from the pilot's eyes; and special paint is used on the propeller blades so they will not reflect light.

"In addition to the obvious commercial value of speeding up business letters, it has been estimated by a bank official, and, of course, the amount is purely an estimate, that $100,000 has been saved in a single month on the interest on notes which otherwise would have been in mail sacks for two business days between New York and Chicago."

Stories That Recall Others

A Lucky Girl

OCEAN BEACH COTTAGE OF L. O. SMITH BURGLARIZED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5.—The summer residence of L. O. Smith, 132 Washington street, Norwich, located at 36 Boardwalk, Ocean Beach, was entered by a thief recently, it became known Saturday, when Mr. Smith's chauffeur visited the cottage and found evidence of the entrance to the place. The only plunder obtained by the thief, so far as known was a ring. Entrance to the cottage was gained by forcing a window. The theft has been reported to the police. The burglary is one of a score of breaks to occur at the shore resort since cottages were closed there last fall.

WEDDING

Beard-Johnson

Saturday at noon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John O. Johnson, of the Baltic road, their daughter, Olga Eleanor, was united in marriage with Roy Leffingwell Beard, of Leffingwell, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Charles Smith, of Uncasville Methodist church, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Baltic, of which the bride is a member.

Miss Elsie Beard, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. Frederick O. Johnson of the state police barracks, of Groton, brother of the bride, was best man.

Mrs. George Robish played the wedding march.

The bride wore a powder blue pussy-willow taffeta dress, with cream-color all-over trimmings.

The bride has always lived in Baltic. Until recently she has been bookkeeper for the Daniel Boone Woolen company of Baltic.

The groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Eugene Beard of "The Old Homestead Farm," in Leffingwell. He has always resided there and is in business with his brother.

A wedding dinner was served to a party of sixteen, comprising members of the two families.

The bride's traveling dress was of green crepe de chine with which she wore a bengaline coat of old-blue, trimmed with bands of fur. She had a rust-colored hat with French flowers.

During the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Beard left by motor for a wedding trip.

On their return they will reside with Mr. Beard's parents for a short time until their new home, which is being built on the Salem turnpike, is completed.

The bride has had two showers given her by friends in Leffingwell and Baltic and has received gifts of silverware, cutglass, linen, pictures, money, a deed for the house and lot, and many other tokens of the affection and good will from relatives and friends.

Special Music at Central Church.

Palm Sunday, at the Central Baptist church, The Palms was beautifully sung by Walter St. Neely, at the offertory. The anthem was the Jordan-Fanning hymn, "Jesus of Nazareth Passeth By," the solo by Mrs. Olive A. Potter making a marked impression upon her hearers. Both selections gleaned much from the sympathetic accompaniments of the organist, Miss H. Louise Fuller.

Kept Virgil at Forty Hours

The Children of Mary society, Miss Loretta Bellerose, president, is keeping vigil during the forty hours' devotion in St. Patrick's church. Beginning at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, two girls take turns watching each hour until the church is closed at 9 p. m.

MASONS WILL HEAR LECTURE BY P. G. M. M'KENZIE

Following the regular business at the communication of St. James lodge, No. 23, F. & A. M., Tuesday night, members and Masons of surrounding lodges are to receive a treat when Thomas McKenzie, P. G. M. of Waterbury, gives his illustrated historical lecture, Unwilling Patriots of the American Revolution.

The theme of the lecture, to which all Masons are welcome, is the place of Freemasonry in the American colonies and the part played by Masons in the chain of events leading up to the American Revolution. The story begins with the introduction of Freemasonry into the new world and concludes with the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The idea of the union of the states appeared among Free Masons was developed and advocated by them and was realized under Masonic leadership, in fact according to the story told by Mr. McKenzie, it was the only organization in colonial times which of all colonies could meet on common ground.

With his lecture P. G. M. McKenzie is showing over 60 stereopticon slides, illustrating a message which has been seen in many cities and is most instructive.

Eastern Connecticut Health.

GEORGE H. DAVIS BREAKS LEG AND ANKLE IN FALL FROM TREE

George H. Davis, the well known tree surgeon, suffered a broken leg and ankle about noon Sunday in a 25 foot fall from a tree where he was at work in the yard of his neighbor, Mr. Cartini across the street from the home of Mr. Davis at 120 Palmer street.

Mr. Davis broke his right knee a year ago in a fall, this accident also occurring on Sunday, and he does not like to work on that day of the week if in order to accommodate his customers he started to do some trimming out of a big maple tree over the home where Mr. Cartini wants to plant some trees the surgeon had a rigging and was in the tree at a point higher than where he was working. This rigging let go suddenly and struck Mr. Davis as it fell, knocking him off the limb where he was at work. He managed to throw his axe from him as he fell so that he escaped being cut by its sharp edge, but he landed with such force that his right thigh was broken just above the knee and his left ankle was fractured.

Dr. J. J. Donohue and Dr. R. R. Agnew were called to attend him immediately after the accident and he was then taken to the Backus hospital in the ambulance which was summoned. Pictures by x-ray are to be taken of the injured limbs to determine if there are any further injuries than those already determined upon by the examinations already made by the physicians.

CONGREGATION OVERFLOWS CHURCH TO HEAR CRUCIFIXION

Several score of people were unable to gain admittance to the United Congregational church Sunday evening to hear the rendition of The Crucifixion, written by Rev. W. J. Harrow-Simpson, M. A., music by J. Stainer, as given by members of the several Protestant church choirs of the city and four Hartford artists. The Crucifixion was given in this city through the use of the Sturtevant fund of the Young Men's Christian Association and brought to a most successful close the series of united Lenten services in Protestant churches in the city.

Throughout the entire program of the evening the audience was held in rapt attention as the singers rendered the various selections of The Crucifixion. The solo work was ably carried out by Maurice M. Wallen, tenor, and Benjamin M. Knox, bass, and they were assisted in the quartet numbers by Mrs. Josephine Simpson Koch soprano, and Miss Edith Aab, alto, all four singers being members of the choir of the Asylum Hill Congregational church of Hartford.

In the chorus numbers the quartet was assisted by members of the choirs of local Protestant churches, and at times, by singing by the entire congregation. Those assisting in the choruses were: Choir: soprano, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, Mrs. Vandalia H. Burgy, Mrs. William Crowe, Mrs. Miss Cecile Stevens, Miss Eunice Taft, contraltos, Mrs. Curtis Bernard, Mrs. Helena M. T. Church, Mrs. Edwin A. Harris, Miss Lucille Howland, Miss Doris Myott Mrs. Reuben P. Potter; tenors, Frederick A. Alter, Lyle H. Fillmore, Robert A. Gray, Frederick J. Maples, George A. Turner; bass, J. Benjamin Brown, J. T. Hurd, Walter F. Lester, William A. Lund, Walter H. McNeely, William H. Rush.

Previous to the giving of The Crucifixion an organ prelude was rendered by Frederick H. Lester, who also accompanied the singers on the organ throughout the entire selection, adding much to the charm of its presentation.

The opening number was a recitative, tenor by Mr. Wallen, followed by The Agony, the solo work being by Mr. Knox, bass. Another recitative by Mr. Wallen, tenor, and Mr. Knox, bass, was followed by an organ selection, Processional to Calvary, by Mr. Lester, the chorus being sung by the choir, the second part by Mr. Wallen. A recitation, bass by Mr. Knox, was followed by the congregation singing The Mystery of the Divine Humiliation. After another recitative, bass by Mr. Knox, The Majesty of the Divine Humiliation was sung by Mr. Wallen, with quartet number by members of the Hartford choir following. The congregation again joined in the singing of the Hymn of the Passion, this being followed by a tenor recitative, with chorus, concluding with a duet by Mr. Wallen and Mr. Knox. This was followed by the recitative in tenor and bass with chorus, and the singing of The Appeal of the Crucified, by the chorus. The concluding number was a recitative by Mr. Wallen [illegible] and the united singing of [illegible] For the Love of Jesus.

[illegible] by the entire body of [illegible] of exceptional beauty and [illegible] preparation. The solo [illegible] quartet and chorus numbers [illegible] worthy of praise and should [illegible] be repeated in Norwich [illegible] there would be [illegible] who would welcome a chance [illegible] a second time.

[illegible] arrested by Dog Warden [illegible], following complaint made to First Selectman [illegible] Chesebrough by W. Potter [illegible] and John Mc Partland, the latter [illegible] the Quaker Hill school, [illegible] the dog had attacked and [illegible] them. Dog Warden Bliven ordered Ginsberg to keep his dog chained. It is Ginsberg refused to do [illegible] which resulted in his arrest. When court convened Brown was on hand to testify but claimed to have an important engagement in New London which prevented him from remaining as a witness. He will be served with a subpoena Monday to insure his court attendance that night. Ginsberg is represented by counsel in Attorney Perry I. Hollandersky. When court convened the question arose as to whether Justice Goss was qualified to preside on the case because Justice Goss had previously been engaged in a civil action against Ginsberg. It was finally decided that Goss was qualified and he will hear the case.

Sailor Summoned to Court.

Ernest Greenhill, a sailor from the coast guard academy at New London, will be before the Norwich city court this (Monday) morning to answer to the charge of operating an automobile without registration and without a driver's license. He came here Saturday night in a roadster which he said he had just bought. A soldier with a driver's license drove the car here for him and they stopped at the curb on West Main street near the east bridge. Greenhill cranked the car when it was in gear, causing it to start ahead and run into and damage the machine of Calvin Main, Jr. When Greenhill was sent to police headquarters to report the accident, Captain Thomas Murphy summonde him to court and held the machine as a bond.

RADIOGRAM FROM MGR. MAY; STEAMER DUE AT 9 TODAY

Unconscious of the ovation awaiting him, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael H. May, rector of St. Patrick's church, is approaching his native land; for a radiogram received by Rev. Fathers Galvin and Reilly Sunday morning read: Ship will dock at 9, Monday morning.

Meantime preparations are rounding out for the big reception Tuesday evening. The deputation of five prominent parishioners to meet S. S. Conte Verde left Sunday evening for New York. Former Mayor Timothy C. Murphy at their head. In response to the 250 invitations sent out by the invitation committee, Thomas H. Beckley, chairman, a large number of acceptances have been received. The parade committee, Michael J. Kelly marshal, has announced the order of line formation as folowis:

Squad of Police
Marshal
Aides
American Flag and Color Guard
Men's Division
East Side Drum Corps
Fourth Degree Assembly, K. of C.
Monsignor M. H. May and Escort
Aides
Band
American Flag and Color Guard
Women's Division, (1st Section)
Boy Scout Drum Corps
Women's Division, (2nd Section)
Automobile Division

The very important matter of parking arrangements has been put in charge of Thomas F. Shea, whose aides will be Jeremiah Sweeney, Arthur Boyer, Albert White and Frank Battersby. This committee, in a conference at the K. of C. Home this (Monday) evening will perfect arrangements for the handling of the immense number of cars expected to participate in the procession on Sunday, the stringent regulations for traffic, parking, et al, were read. As was pointed out, one car out of alignment or parked in prohibited space, could disrupt the entire arrangement for smoothness of traffic handling. Parishioners riding in their own cars in the parade are to follow the instructions of whatever aide is assigned to their particular division.

Spectators not holding formal invitations and not participating in the parade are directed to assemble at the north (not the middle) front door of the church, to enter, following the entrance of the parade body through the center door.

The paraders will assemble at Washington Square at 7 o'clock. No children will be permitted in the parade or in the church, except the Boy Scouts in uniform and the altar boys.

The church hall will be kept locked until after the exercises in the upper church.

The reception committee, James J. Finnegan chairman, is to start at 5 p. m. Tuesday from the K. of C. home, to meet the New York express due in New London at 6.01.

INTRODUCES BILL FOR THE CARE OF GRAVES

Representative Charles B. Jewett of Hampton has introduced house bill No. 834, the intent of which is to provide for the care of graves remote from those who desire to have this done.

The bill would authorize the state treasurer of Connecticut to receive sums of $100 or more to invest these like other state funds, and to pay the income thereof to specified cemetery association, or to the town clerk, if there is no such organization, in order to provide for perpetual care of the grave or cemetery specified. Representative Jewett has submitted to the committee on judiciary, which is considering the bill, a copy of a similar Massachusetts law which is now in effect. The bill has aroused considerable interest and Representative Jewett desires to hear from all who favor it.

WATERFORD HOUSE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5.—The home of Manuel Carlson, located on the North road, Waterford, leading to Jordan Village, a story and one-half, stone and wooden structure, was destroyed by fire together with its contents on Saturday night during the absence of the family. Carlson's loss is estimated at approximately $1500, which is covered by insurance.

The family went to New London early Saturday evening. About 10.30 o'clock neighbors discovered the place afire, the flames having broken through the upper part of the house. Assistance was asked from Niantic and that village's apparatus was sent to the scene of the blaze, but its services were not required because the structure was doomed when the firemen arrived there. It is not known how the fire started but it is believed it originated from a defective chimney.

WATERFORD FATHER AND SONS UNDER PROBATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5.—Henry Doherty, charged with breach of the peace, together with his sons, Thomas and Henry, similarly charged, were before Justice of the Peace Frederick L. Goss in Waterford, Saturday afternoon. They were placed on probation for 30 days. The trouble that arose between the father and sons was the result of a family affair in which the father is alleged to have quarreled with his wife and when the sons came to the rescue of the mother, a fight between the father and sons followed. The sons lodged complaint against the father and when he was taken into custody, he lodged a similar complaint against them. The trial lasted from 2 o'clock until 5.30 and when concluded Justice Goss informed the accused that a repetition of their offense would result in a jail sentence.

A complaint against the Wickwire Spencer Steel corporation of New York, manufacturers of screen wire cloth, charging violation of the anti trust laws, was made public by the federal trade commission.

SETS STANDARD MEASURES FOR FARM PRODUCE

To establish standard measures for the sale of farm products made necessary by the lack of uniformity in containers and methods of bunching vegetables, the State Board of Agriculture has issued a ruling, effective May 1, 1925, specifying the size which shall be used for box measurement and the manner for grading farm produce sold by the bunch. The ruling is the result of conferences, held over a period of several months with officials of the state and local vegetable growers associations, and several executive sessions of the state board.

The ruling, which will either directly or indirectly affect every grower, wholesaler and retailer of farm products, makes the standard measure for produce a "box" and a "half-box." The box shall contain not less than 2,150.42 cubic inches and the inside measurements must be seventeen and one-half inches in length seventeen and one-half inches in width, and sevent and one-sixteenth inches in depth.

The standard half-box is specified to contain not less than 1,075.21 cubic inches and the inside dimensions shall be twelve and three-eighths inches in length, twelve and three eighths in width and seven and one-sixteenth inches in depth. It is further specified that when such boxes are made of wood, the ends shall be not less than five-eighths inches thick and the sides and bottom not less than three-eighths inches thick.

All such boxes are to be marked on at least one outer side in bold uncondensed capital letters, not less than one inch in height, "Standard Box Farm Produce," or "Standard Half-Box Farm Produce." Penalty is provided for wrong marking or misrepresentation of these standards.

In addition to the box measurements, standard grades for bunched beets, carrots, turnips and winter radishes have been established. Bulletins containing full information regarding the methods of grading may be had on application to the State Board of Agriculture at the Capitol, Hartford. Members of local vegetable growers associations will be supplied through their local secretaries.

In substance a bunch of any of the above vegetables to be included in Grade 1, under the new ruling shall consist of four vegetables of similar characteristics which are firm, well formed, smooth and free from decay. The tops must be fresh and clean and not less than six inches in length. Grade 2 shall consist of four vegetables free from decay and excessive dirt and damage caused by disease or other means and the tops free from serious damage from any cause. In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling, not more than 5 per cent of any lot may be below the requirements of these grades. Grade 3 shall consist of four vegetables which do not meet the requirements of the first two grades.

The size of the beets in any lot may be stated in terms of minimum diameter or on the basis of "small," between 1 1-2 and 2 inches; "medium," between 2 and 3 inches; and "large," more than 3 inches. Unless otherwise stated, the minimum size shall be 1 1-2 inches. For carrots the size requirements in the three above classifications are 1 1-4 to 1 1-3 inches; 1 3-4 to 2 1-4 inches; and over 2 1-4 inches. For bunched turnips, the classification is 1 3-4 inches to 2 1-4 inches; 2 1-4 to 3 1-4 inches; and over 3 1-4 inches. Winter radish classifications may be 3-4 to 1 1-2 inches; 1 1-2 to 2 1-2 inches; and over 2 1-2 inches.

Bunches shall be fairly uniform in size and the various vegetables in the individual bunches must also be fairly uniform in size.

PLAUT-CADDEN CO. WILL MAKE BUILDING ADDITIONS

The first important step in the extensive expansion plans contemplated by The Plaut-Cadden Co., since the company's purchase, on January 2nd of this year, of the Bill estate properties, was taken Saturday when Patrick F. Sweeney, contractor and builder, was awarded the contract for additions to and alterations in this company's property consisting of the building formerly known as the Bill block fronting 80 feet on Shetucket St. and 150 feet on Water street and the main building fronting 65 feet on Main street and extending through to Water street with a depth of 120 feet. Contractor Sweeney will start work at once.

One of the additions to be made consists of the erection of a new five story structure on the open space at the rear of the Shetucket street property. This new building will be approximately 30 feet by 66 feet and will connect the Shetucket street property with the Main street property.

The other addition will be the erection on the top of the Main street building of a structure approximately 70 feet by 20 feet to connect with the fifth story of the new building. The entire fifth floor will be devoted to the manufacturing and finishing departments and will be one of the best equipped and most modern departments of its kind to be found anywhere.

The alterations planned to meet the expansion needs of this rapidly growing company are extensive and include the complete remodelling of the Shetucket street building with the addition of a new front and other changes necessary for its conversion into a thoroughly modern mercantile building.

The alterations in the Main street property will also be quite extensive and will include important changes and enlargements which will greatly improve the already splendid appearance of the establishment, make for a betterment in the displaying of the company's tremendous stocks of merchandise embracing every home furnishing and material need and to facilitate the rendering of service.

When the elaborate enlargement plans which The Plaut-Cadden Co. has under consideration have been completed there will be available practically three and one-half acres of floor space and there will be created in Norwich a mercantile institution of which not only everyone in the city but everyone in Eastern Connecticut may well be proud. For this completed store combined with the company's big New London store will make for one of the largest retail establishments in Eastern Connecticut and entitle it to be classed among the largest of its kind in the New England States.

The story of the progress and success of The Plaut-Cadden Co., from a humble beginning back in 1872 is of interest to everybody, together it has few equals in a city of the size of Norwich and illustrates what can be done by men of vision and determination. It is a story of confidence in Norwich and Eastern Connecticut of courage and hard work a tribute to the owners and officers—and is the natural result of an unswerving adherence to the sound business policy of fair dealing and of public service faithfully rendered. Such a policy cannot help but make for success and, judging from past growth, the future will witness further expansion in keeping with the expansion of Norwich and Eastern Connecticut.

SENIORS WIN INTERCLASS TITLE AT BULKELEY TRACK AND FIELD MEET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5—Bulkeley track men reached a new high pinnacle in the indoor inter-class track meet held at the state armory Saturday evening. Before a jammed house, which filled every available space and nook in the spacious armory, the seniors in their valedictory in this particular sport ran wild in every event in which representatives from the fourth year class were entered, and lessening to some extent the gloom which settled upon the on-lookers, due to the non-appearance of the Weaver High relay quartet from Hartford, took first place with a total of 36 points. Following the seniors, were the sophomores with 17 1-3 points, while the juniors were close third with 15 points. The lowly freshmen could garner but 3 2-3 points for the meet.

Entering the meet with 22 contestants, the seniors hurled the other classes under an avalanche of points coming directly from frequent first and second places in the various events. The field as well as the track events were captured by eager seniors, leaving very few points for their underclass mates. Numerous marks standing out for several years were shattered as the seniors in their triumphal march toward that coveted leadership swept through the field of entries with the force of a Western tornado. There was no stopping of the fourth year men in their collection of first second and third places in the various events.

Featuring the outstanding performance of the entire evening was the fast race in the 220 yard run which was electrified in the remarkable quick time of 31 1-5 seconds. Some of the other events did not come up to expectations, but others in time were better than the preliminary trials. Over 100 athletes competed in the various events, of this number alone, 68 were engaged in the interclass events, proving unusual interest in the meet.

Sheflott with two first places, and participant in two senior relay races was the individual high scorer for the evening. He gained the distinction of being the fastest man in the school by winning in the 25 yard dash and the forward run. Henkle another senior gathered first in the broad jump and low seconds in other events, besides appearing in the relays with the senior teams.

The performances of the inter-class runners was better than those of the outside contestants who were slower about in the same events in the relay race. "The big Triangular" between the Knights of Columbus, Kaybrooks and the Y. M. C. A. the latter quartet gained first honors with the Knights second and the Kaybrooks combination last in the 10 yard race from the time of the winner of that race was 1 minute 2 seconds as compared to time of Watson, the winner of the Bulkeley 440 yard run.

The distance the shot put was heaved was not by any means a record, for the previous mark set in the last meet by Barry at 39 feet 5 inches, was matched by the winners mark of 37 feet 3 inches Saturday. Other upsets were noted, with Stebbins winning over Decker for the running high jump with 4 feet 10 inches. The previous mark set at the first meet was 5 feet 3 inches. Le Blanc made fast time in winning the half mile run.

The result of the meet by the order of the events and their respective finishes:

Potato Race: first place won by Schuman, junior; Allen, senior, second; O'Neil, junior third. Time of winner 36 and 4-5 seconds.

Shot Put won by Wilson, junior with throw of 37 feet 3 inches. Second Barry, senior; Feeney, sophomore third.

Running broad jump won by Henkle, senior, 18 feet 1 inch. Second, Sullivan, sophomore; third, Parisi, senior.

50-yard dash: Won by Sheflott, senior; time 32-5 seconds. Second, Henkle, senior; third, Locke, sophomore.

Running High Jump: Won by Stebbins, senior, with jump of 4 feet 10 inches Second, Decker, junior; third tie between Brown, Firmin and Shovlin all freshmen.

Dash Relay: Seniors first team composed of Sheflott, Barry, Henkle, Watchinsky, Parisi and Stebbins. Second, Juniors; third, freshmen. Time of winners 1 minute 2 seconds.

Tug-o-war Relay race: Won by the Y. M. C. A. time 1 minute 32.4 seconds Second, Knights of Columbus; third, Kaybrooks.

Mile run: First, Watchinsky, seniors, second, Barry, senior; third, Olsen, junior. Time of winner, 6 minutes 10 seconds.

220-yard run: Won by Sheflot, senior, time 31 1-5 seconds. Second, Henkle senior; third, Camassar, junior.

Open 440-yard run: Won by Ward, unattached, time 1 minute 26 1-5 seconds Second, Gadbois, Y. M. C. A.; third F Brewer, Kaybrooks.

Inter-class relay race of three laps each man: Won by Seniors, team composed of Sheflot, Parisi, Barry and Henkle. Time of winner 2 minutes 25 3-5 seconds, Second, sophomores, third, freshmen.

PLAINFIELD CLOSES SEASON AGAINST TAFTVILLE TONIGHT

The final game of the basket-ball season will be played at the Plainfield Community House Monday night when Taftville and the local Army and Navy will clash. All fans in this section edge for this final game as both teams are out for victory. Whether Tafts brings the Whirlwind team to Plainfield or not Manager Salisbury states that his team will take the honor. This game will prove whether Plainfield has any claim to Eastern Connecticut championship or not. The local team will play Normandin and Desslinger, forwards, Norris center, Bristle and Benson guards.

Argentine Soccer Team Loses

Bilboa, Spain, April 5—The visiting Argentine soccer football team was defeated today by the Bilboa eleven.

C. F. A. TEAM CLOSES SEASON WITH VICTORY

The C. F. C. basketball quintet closed a most successful season Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Celtics, last years city champions, by the score of 40 to 23. At the very beginning of the game the C. F. C. team took the lead and never after that was the outcome in doubt, for they played one of the best passing games seen on the local floor during the past year.

"Zeke" Lemingwell played his usual fine game in the forward berth, caging nine baskets from the floor and one from the foul line, and holding Lemieux, fast Army and Navy guard, to one basket. Capt. Brown proved his worth by shooting six fouls out of seven attempts, and proved a corking good man in the defense, together with Lambert, Ludlow and Armstrong.

Ludlow was ejected from the game in the last quarter, Pitt taking his place at center. This fourteen year old lad should make a good player for the team next season as a defense man.

The Central Fellowship Club has 15 victories to its credit with only four defeats, a wonderful record for a team playing together for the first season. Much credit should be given to Coach Emory Davis who worked hard with the boys to make them a successful team, and to the Central Baptist church for their support in maintaining the team.

The score:

JOHNNY DWYER WELCOMED BY NEW LONDON FANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5—This city welcomed a prodigal son last night in the person of Johnny Dwyer, star pitching ace of the Fordham pitching corps, whose victory over Yale Saturday afternoon by the score of 8 to 2 was one of the most interesting events in the baseball line over the week end in collegiate circles. Dwyer's conquest of the Bull dog with whom he came to grips Saturday was witnessed by at least a delegation of 50 ardent supporters of the Whaling City star, and they did not fail to extol his work, nor to give him a royal reception at the local station when he arrived here to spend the week end with his parents. He will return to the University today.

Although his initial work out of the season, Dwyer won handily over the Eli nine Saturday and although the proteges of Smoke Joe Wood touched up the Maroon star box man for 10 hits, he was never in real danger during the afternoon. The infield work of the Fordham nine was one of the quickest means of cutting off Yale tallies. Together with consistent stick work by the Fordham batters, Dwyer was able to turn in a fine performance.

While Saturday's contest pried the lid loose from local baseball, at the same time it will mean that the efforts of the New London twirler, Johnny Dwyer will be watched with interest as the season approaches its mid-season form. Proper coaching, together with other essentials have done wonders for the former Tech twirler, and he is destined to keep a high place in collegiate circles this spring.

YOUNG COULON TO MEET K. O. WELLS IN NEW BEDFORD

Young Coulon of Taftville who is making quite a showing under the management of Del Dextrade of New Bedford, is slated to meet a tough proposition this evening at the Elm Rink in New Bedford when he battles for six rounds against Gene Wells, the kayo flyweight champion of Canada. Wells is a clean cut boy who has a string of knockout victories to his credit in the Dominion and also in the states.

Coulon is not impressed with Wells' knockout record in the least for his own record includes a majority of wins by the same route.

FINAL MATCHES IN BOWLING LEAGUE THIS WEEK

The Eastern Connecticut two-man league will come to an end this week with matches between the Aetna duo, who won the title last week, and Moosup and the Taftville-Palace match. This concludes the bowling season as far as tournaments go as there is small chance that an individual tournament will be rolled.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Harry Snider, a young pitcher of Oklahoma City, has signed with Independence of the Western Association.

Springfield of the Eastern League, has signed Dutch O'Neil, a young catcher, from Albany. He has been a star in semi-pro circles.

Pittsfield, has signed Al Bakos, a pitcher, for a trial. He took his first fling at the league game with Waterbury two years ago, but did nott make it then.

New Haven of the Eastern League, has signed Doc. Dreifus, an outfielder and first baseman. He is a graduate of Tulane University, New Orleans, and is a dentist.

Waterbury of the Eastern League, has signed William C. Walsh of Roxbury, Mass., an infielder. Walsh played independent ball around New England last summer.

The Bridgeport Club of the Eastern League, has placed Leo (Brick) Kane, veteran infielder, on the voluntarily retired list. Kane plans to devote all of his time to the insurance business at Hartford.

The West Fitchburg, Mass., playgrounds, near where Pat Moran, late manager of the Cincinnati Reds, learned to play baseball on the lots, will be named after Moran. Fitchburg was Moran's home.

New Haven has taken on two youngsters, Edgar Conklin, a pitcher from Croton Lake, N. Y., and Tom Dean, a catcher, from Cos Cob, Conn. Both were highly recommended to Manager Neal Ball.

Decatur of the Three-I League, has purchased Guy Morrison, right-handed pitcher, from San Antonio of the Texas League. Morrison pitched good ball for Bloomington in the Three-I for the past two seasons.

Lefty Corkle, who pitched for Ozark in the Western Arkansas League last season, has signed with Muckogee of the Western Association. He has been working out with the Little Rock squad of the Southern League.

Matt Donahue, last year with Dallas, but with Mobile this season, recently was remarried to his first wife in Wilmington, Del. The couple had been divorced for five years. "We decided," said Donahue, "to try it all over again."

Bob Tarleton, business manager and whatnot of the Shreveport Club of the Texas League, doesn't relish the nickname of "Gassers" for his team. So he has offered a ticket prize for the fan who turns in the most acceptable substitute for the present name.

Memphis has obtained from Washington, Phillip Tanner and George Rhinehardt, outfielders. Rhinehardt is the youngster who was a sensation in the South Atlantic League last season. At one stage of the Sally race he was hitting more than .400.

Jay Mitchell, shortstop of the Springfield Western Asspciation team, is to be sold to Independence, of the same league, it has been announced by Manager Mark Purtell of the Midgets. Purtell has released Ray Chappell, a young second baseman of Belleville, Ill.

Outfielder E. Barney, formerly with Pittsburgh and other major league teams, has signed to manage Elmira of the New York-Pennsylvania League. Barney Starred in the outfield for York of the same league last season. He will direct the Elmira team from center field.

President Wolfe of the Augusta Club of the South Atlantic League, has announced the signing of Bill Buckner, a first baseman. Buckner played in the independent Alabama League last season. He is 22 years old, weighs 170 pounds and bats and throws left-handed.

Los Angeles has released unconditionally four young players who came from the semi-pro ranks. They are Johnny Sisto, Los Angeles, a pitcher, and Harry Benjamin and Ray Cleary, infielders, and Matt Offer, catcher, of San Francisco. Lack of experience was the reason.

Up to the time the American league put a club in Boston, in 1901, the Boston Nationals led their league in games won, best percentage, and greatest number of pennants. But since then the National league fans in the Hub have had only one bright spot, the sensational world's series victory by the Braves in 1914.

H. L. (Pip) Koehler, former Penn. States athlete, surprised John McGraw by walking into camp and introducing himself the other day. He paid his own way to Sarasota to get a chance to make good. In his first out he did a lot of circus stuff in right field, and McGraw may rebate him for his carfare before the spring season is over.

Bill Doak, veteran pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, remains adamant on his determination not to report, so that he can devote his entire time to the real estate business in Florida. Everybody from the bat boy to Ebbets and McKeever have tried to get Bill to change his mind.

Bill Lamar is giving Connie Mack early hopes of seeing his bat cause considerable disturbance again this year. He got three singles and a double in the game against Buffalo on March 16th, which the Athletics copped, 4 to 0. Walberg and Gray pitched splendid ball for the Mackmen.

The Cubs have finished their work at Catlina Island and will be on the road until the end of the season. After the stay in Los Angeles they move north to Oakdale and will then start east with a stopoff at Kansas City for a series with the Blues.

Eddie Moore, young second baseman of the Pirates, is back doing regular duty in the exhibition games after taking it easy for several days because of a bad leg. While he laid off Fresco Thompson filled in and did a fine job of it. Thompson has been fielding and hitting sensationally.

Connie Mack his his first tough luck of the season on March 20, when Fred Heimach, the left-handed pitcher, suffered a dislocation of his left shoulder when he fell going after a grounder. Several ligaments were also torn in the shoulder and he will be out of the game indefinitely.

John McGraw found that he took more than young pitchers to fool the hitters of Donie Bush's Indianapolis team in the game at Plant City, Fla., the Hoosiers training camp on March 16, the American Association team copping the game, 7 to 3. Wisner and Lance essayed the pitching role to the big leaguers.

Miller Huggins has joined the anti-golf brigade, announcing that for the remainder of the Yanks' training season the green fee will be $500 per tee-off. That is, he proposes to hook a tax of that dimension on each player who violates the golfing rules. Miller, too, believes that baseball now demands the full attention of his men.

Five men have been dropped by the Chicago White Sox who are training in Shreveport, La. Frank Wegack an infielder, has been returned to Quebec. Jesse Cortazzo, infielder, sold to Cumberland; Ray Dearing and Alex Hamilton, given to Shreveport on option.

TWO RUM-RUNNERS SEIZED— CREWS ARE OUT ON BONDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 5.—Two more rum-runners were seized Saturday morning, this time the capture of the boats having been made by the coast guard at Greenport. The boats were the Helen LaForde, laden with between 700 and 800 cases of whiskey, and the C-81, a fishing craft, which had a cargo of approximately 30 cases of alcohol. The boats were brought into port, together with their crews and cargoes and late Saturday afternoon a hearing was conducted by United States Commissioner Earl Mathewson of Norwich, at the customs house. The crews were released on bonds pending their arraignment next week.

Street accidents in London last year claimed 845 victims, an increase of 178 over the number in 1923.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes —Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, sallow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit. 15c and 30c.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

Another fine line-up of worlds beautiful vaudeville opens at the Broadway Theatre today for a three day run. That the shows at the Broadway are the best in the city is a known fact and not disputable. See them yourselves and be convinced.

The Romas Troupe is the main attraction. It is called an acrobatic revue of 1925. It does not stick close to acrobatics as in the revue is a lot of dancing, comedy and singing, but acrobatics it endeavors to show the latest stunts in gymnastics.

Ruth Goodwin the personality girl will entertain with comedy songs.

Larry Harking and Jack McCoy, the two melodious chaps appear in songs, dances and comedy.

James Carlisle and Isabelle Lamar in "The Interview" have a comedy act it is not a sketch but sixteen minutes of fun. It is going to please everyone.

Jura and Sisters present a clever musical turn by three clever girls.

Film fans who prefer drama of the red-blooded, roast-beef variety, seasoned with plenty of action and diluted with the sauce of romance will find "The Top of the World," the new Paramount picture which opened yesterday at the Broadway theatre, and continues through Wednesday a very appetizing screen dish.

It was prepared by that able photoplay chef, George Melford, and is exquisitely served up by a superb cast featuring Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Raymond Hatton and Sheldon Lewis. The basis of this cinematic concoction is the Ethel M. Dell story of the same name, but the director, with the assistance of his scenario writer, has managed to include several original melodramatic ingredients which add considerably to the peppery value and taste of the picture play.

Palace Theatre

A splendid bill of vaudeville and pictures for the first three days of this week will be represented at the Palace. Heading the bill will be Paul Specht's Carolina Club Orchestra. Hayes and Keyes fast steppers, Harr Pearce Nut comedienne, Nayon with her worlds most talented troop of trained Tropical birds, Race and Edgee comedians. On the screen will be Andree Lafayette, declared to be the most beautiful woman of France, is the star of "Why Get Married?" which comes to the Palace Theatre today. This photoplay poses the question generations-old; "Can a girl be a success as a wife and a business woman at the same time"—and answers it.

The two principal women characters, impersonated by Mlle. Lafayette and Helen Ferguson, are friends who marry at almost the same time. One yearns for home life. The other prefers a business career—and independence. The picture shows them both with their husbands, during the first year of wedded life.

This big feature is chockful of entertainment and interest. One of the high lights is a thrilling fight between one of the husbands and a troublemaker who tries to cause an estrangement in each of the two families.

Besides Helen Ferguson, the cast supporting Andree Lafayette include such popular players as Jack Perrin, William H. Turner, Orpha Alba, Bernard Randall, Edward B. Tilton and Max Constant. William M. Conselman wrote the story and Paul Cazeneuve directed the production.

Breed Theater

Many phases of humanity's struggles have been assembled in "Lady of the Night, the Monta Bell picture produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and now showing at the Breed theater.

There is the eternal struggle between two women who loved the same man, the struggle of a boy to climb upward from a dubious social position, and the struggle of a young girl to extract a living from a world that has robbed her of father and mother and sent her into streets with the doubtful credentials of a state reformatory.

It is an American story punctuated with fervid American life and love. It is a story of realism and human interest, a story of inherited blessings and a great sacrifice. The author is Adela Rogers St. Johns.

Monta Bell, with the cunning of a great director, has not allowed the drab scenes to go without their humor. He has dotted the story with human interest and kept it alive with action.

The plot follows the lives of two girls, born at almost the same hour. It shows the two worlds that dwell side by side, each with little knowledge and less understanding, of the other.

The beautiful and talented Norma Shearer enacts the dual role of Florence and Molly with fine artistry. In the cast are Malcolm McGregor, George K. Arthur, Fred Esmelton, Dale Fuller, Lew Harvey and Betty Morrissey.

Other pictures on the bill include the Pathe news, a cartoon and an Educational comedy.

Annual Meeting of Y. M. C. A.

The annual meeting of the Norwich Y. M. C. A. is scheduled for Wednesday evening, when all active members are expected to attend. Reports of the various committees and officers will be given and other business pertaining to the association will be transacted.

JOIE RAY STILL A GREAT RUNNER ALTHOUGH NURMI BREAKS HIS RECORD

New York, April 5.—Joie W. Ray, of the Illinois Athletic club—Chesty Joie, the track fans call him—has seen all except one of his dozen records surpassed in the 1925 indoor season, but in the opinion of experts he is still America's premier miler.

Until Paavo Nurmi began his astonishing campaign against the marks of Uncle Sam's athletic nephews, Joie was the star attraction at each of the many meets in which he competed, year in and year our. Then came the Finn, and the fans found a new idol.

However, Ray regained any prestige he may have lost through his successive defeats by Paavo when he tied Nurmi's 4.12 record for the indoor mile. Up to that night—it was March 17 in Madison Square Garden—the Chicagoan had had a remarkable good season. Spurred to his best efforts by the keenest competition, Ray had won the Hunter mile at the Boston A. A. games in the excellent time of 4 minutes, 15 seconds. Not long after, running at the Western Union A. A. games here he did the best mile of his long career up to that time. Turning in a mark of 4 minutes, 13 5-5 seconds, only one-fifth of a second above Nurmi's record of that date.

After a few more or less mediocre performances in various parts of the country Joie came to New York for the Knights of Columbus games on the night of St. Patrick's day. Entered with him in the feature mile event on that card were Nurmi, Lloyd Hahn, who had broken two of Paavo marks, Jimmy Connolly and Leo Larivee, and the fans as well as the tehletes looked for a final test between Ray and his Finnish conqueror. A race which many expected would small Nurmi's mark of 4.12 set a few days before at Buffalo. But Paavo's sudden illness forced him out of the field and Ray, determined to re-burnish his faded glory, equalled the record breaking mile after a sparkling race with Hahn.

With that performance to his credit, fans and experts were convinced that Joie was still the Joie of old, and that his fighting spirit had not been smothered under his toppling records.

Ray, who has been running since 1909, now holds only the 1,000 meters records, and that mark, 2.29 3-5 he set here on February 24.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Bird's Plea

A pale blue egg in April, dear,
A baby bird in May,
And then throughout the summer,
A sweet song all the day.

Then let us spare the nest, dear,
And touch not eggs so blue,
And all the world will happier be,
And song-birds not so few.
—Virginia St. Clair in Our Dumb Animals.

The Death of the Flowers

The melancholy days are come, the saddest of the year,
Of wailing winds, and naked woods, and meadows brown and sere.
Heaped in the hollows of the grove the Autumn leaves lie dead;
They rustle to the eddying gust, and to the rabbit's tread.
The robin and the wren are flown, and from the shrubs the jay,
And from the wood-top calls the crow through all the gloomy day.

Where are the flowers, the fair young flowers, that lately sprang and stood
In brighter light and softer airs, a beauteous sisterhood?
Alas they all are in their graves; the gentle race of flowers
Are lying in their lowly beds, with the fair and good of ours.
The rain is falling where they lie, but the cold November rain
Calls not from out the gloomy earth the lovely ones again.

The wild-flower and the violet, they perished long ago,
And the brier-rose and the orchis died amid the Summer glow;
But on the hill the goldenrod, and the aster in the wood,
And the yellow sunflower by the brooks in Autumn beauty stood,
Till fell the frost from the clear, cold heaven, as falls the plague on men,
And the brightness of their smile was gone from upland, glade and glen.

And now, when comes the calm, mild day as still such days will come,
To call the squirrel and the bee from out their winter home;
When the sound of dropping nuts is heard, though all the trees are still,
And twinkle in the smoky light the waters of the rill,
The south wind searches for the flowers whose fragrance late he bore
And sighs to find them in the wood by the stream no more.

And then I think of one who in her youthful beauty died,
The fair, meek blossom that grew up and faded by my side.
In the cold, moist earth we laid her when the forest cast the leaf,
And we mourn that one so lovely should have a life so brief;
Yet not unmeet it was that one like that young friend of ours,
So gentle and so beautiful, should perish with the flowers.
—William Cullen Bryant.

The Petrified Fern

In a valley, centuries ago,
Grew a fern leaf, green and slender,
Waving delicate, and fiber tender;
Where the wind crept down so low
Rushes tall and moss and grass grew
Proudly.
Playful sunbeams darted in and found it,
But no foot of man e'er trod that way,
Earth was young and keeping holiday.

Monster fishes swam the silent main,
Stately forests waved their giant branches,
Mountains hurled their snowy avalanches,
Mammoth creatures stalked across the plain;
Nature reveled in grand mysteries;
But the little fern was not of these—
Did not number with the hills and trees,
Only grew and waved its wild, sweet way;
No one came to note it day by day.

Earth, one time, put on a frolic mood,
Heaved the rocks and changed the mighty motion
Of the deep, strong currents of the ocean;
Moved the plain and shook the haughty wood,
Crushed the little fern in soft, moist clay,
Covered it and hid it safe away.
O, the long, long centuries since that day!
O, the agony! O, life's bitter cost
Since that useless little fern was lost!

Useless! Lost! There came a thoughtful man,
Searching nature's secrets far and deep;
From a fissure on a rocky steep
He withdrew a stone, o'er which there ran
Fair, pencilling, a quaint design,
Veinings, leaflets, fibers clear and fine,
And the fern's life lay in every line!
Sweetly to surprise us the last day.
Mary L. Branch.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Every boy and girl ought to take care of the teeth for if teeth are not cared for properly they will decay and give us no end of trouble and pain. Washing the teeth regularly and often is the best way to keep the teeth in good condition. None of us would be willing to use our spoons, forks and dishes over again without washing them. But we do practically the same thing if we do not clean our teeth before we have breakfast in the morning.

There are food particles left in the mouth after we dine and these particles stick around the teeth and in between the teeth. The teeth then become dirty and if you don't wash them you must eat your next meal with those dirty, unwashed teeth. When we stop to think of it, what an unclean habit it is.

After each meal the knives, forks, spoons and dishes we use at the table are washed as soon as possible. One reason for washing them right after the meal is because they wash easier then. So it is with our teeth. They should be cleaned by brushing immediately after each meal.

When you go to bed at night your teeth and mouth should be perfectly clean, because decay of the teeth takes place more rapidly when we are asleep than it does when we are awake. We should be careful about cavities in our teeth. If they are allowed to go any length of time without attention they will get larger and larger and finally the tiny nerve in the tooth will be exposed. Then we have a toothache. It is much easier and a great deal less painful to have a cavity filled when it first makes its appearance than after the tooth starts to ache.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

An Invitation to go Fishing

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to you. I live with my grandfather and grandmother on a farm which is called Mt. Misery Farm because there is a mountain on it. I go up there quite often. You can see a number of places from the top of it. There is a hole in the side like a room that is called the Devils Bedroom and there is a big rock which is called the Devils Chair also there are stairs all made in the rocks. There were rattlesnakes on the mountain when my grandfather was a boy. He and his father would catch them. Once in a while they were found near the house. There haven't any been seen in a long time although several people have heard them rattle in the bushes.

There is a nice trout brook near the house called Mt. Misery brook. I went fishing every morning last spring before I went to school. I would be glad to have any of the Wide Awakes that like to go fishing come and go with me this spring.

The Disobedient Dog

Dear Uncle Jed: One day a dog happened to pass by a house where all the cats lived. The dog remembered this place from the year before. He went to the house and asked the master of the cats for some food. The master said, "Go to the cats and ask them for some meat and bread but nothing else." The dog without hesitation ran to the shed where the cats lived and asked the former for some butter and cheese because he didn't want the bread. The cats gave him the butter and cheese for they knew that their master sent the dog to them. The dog took the food he had and went to the master to ask him if he was satisfied. The master was surprised to see the dog with the butter and cheese but he only said to the dog, instead of asking for bread and meat you ask for butter and cheese. He took the butter and cheese away from the dog and gave him only dry bread. The dog didn't like this but he had to go away for the master called him a disobedient dog. From that day to this the dog always obeyed.

I am in the sixth grade and I am eleven years old.

An Outing

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell of another one of my rides.

Sunday in the afternoon my father said we would take a ride. There was nearly a mile of bad road and then we had macadamized road to the New London and Hartford state road. We went across it and went on the road that has just been put through that runs to Hadlyme. We went to the end of the good road and turned back. We went to where my father's cousin lived. There his three daughters and I got acquainted. I have been there before but had not seen them for some time. It took a little while before we were talking. We bounced ball. We talked about books. We played hide-in-go seek and talked. After we stayed there a while and as it was getting late we thought that it was about time to go home. We stopped to see my father's uncle. My father stopped but we did not go in.

We arrived home about half past five after having a very nice time. I liked my visit very much and hope I can go there again.

I will write again soon and tell of another one of my Sunday trips.

A Good Deed

Dear Uncle Jed: I found a poor cat. It looked tired and hungry. I took it in the house and gave it some milk. Last month my father brought home a little bed for the cat. The cat doesn't like to sleep on her bed. I think she is a good cat.

Our Exploring Trip

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you and the Wide Awakes a story about our exploring trip. I hope the Wide Awakes will like this story. During examinations a girl friend and I took a walk through the woods. My girl friend said lets take an exploring trip through the caves. We started through four small ones and then went through another one. In this one it was raining and there were many bones. We thought it quite funny raining inside and the sun shining outside. We hurried away from the caves and went to a spring for a drink. But we heard a noise which scared us. There was a hill near us so we ran up that whist brought us not far from home. It started sprinkling so we were glad we were home. I guess we wouldn't make very good explorers especially if we heard a noise.

A Joke

Dear Uncle Jed: Last week I went to see my friend in Taftville. When I got to the station she came and met me. As I went into the house her brother was saying to his friend, Johnny last week I got a new typewriter and the darn thing can't spell no better than I can." His friend and I laughed so much we had to go outside.

A Happy Bird Family

Uncle Jed: One fine summer day in the country, as I passed a thick bush, I heard the twitters of little birds. Looking over the bush, I saw a pretty sight.

There were four young birds and the mother bird. The young ones were hopping about, their wings moving, their bills open, waiting for something to eat. The mother bird had their food in her bill, and dropped it into their open mouths.

To one she gave a bug, to another a fat worm, to a third a taste of fruit, and to the fourth a bit of ripe grain.

They were greedy little things, they seemed to want everything there was to eat. But the mother gave all alike. The mother love that God gives to the least animal was strong in her, and she saw that each little bundle of feathers had its share.

It was only for a short time that the mother bird had to feed the little ones. In a very few days they grew large and strong and were able to fly and to help themselves. Then no fly, butterfly or insect of any kind was safe from these greedy birds.

My Pet Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide Awakes. I have a cat that is nine years old. He is older than I am. I can pet him just as if he were a kitten. When it is time for me to come home from school he watches for me. When I come he cries meow, and runs to meet me. He is very big and heavy. When I carry him my arms get tired. He has very few teeth. I would feel very bad if he died. I hope the Wide Awakes have such a nice cat.

The Value of the Steamship

Dear Uncle Jed: The steamships help us in two ways, namely, transportation and commerce. When people go from place to place on ships, they find it a very comfortable way to travel. There are three accommodations, the first, second, and third class. The first is expensive, the cabins are furnished with every luxury and everything is the best to be had. The second, less expensive, but very comfortable, the third class least expensive. On board a steamship one has all the comforts as on land. There are swimming pools, gymnasiums, places to dance, etc. A steamship has been called a floating palace.

Birds' Homes

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you a story about The Birds' Home. Each mother bird has her own way of making the nest, but there is one thing almost all of them try to do, and that is to hide it. They cannot put their little homes out in plain sight, as we do our houses, because so many creatures want to rob them. Squirrels and snakes and rats, and some big birds like to eat eggs of young birds. So most birds try first of all to find good hiding places. Some tiny warblers go to the tops of the tallest trees and hide the nest among the leaves. Orioles hang the swinging cradle at the end of a branch, where cats and snakes and naughty boys cannot come. Song sparrows tuck the little home in a tuft of weeds on the ground and bobolinks hide it in the deep grass. Some birds homes are only platforms, where it seems as if the egg must roll off and others have deep holes in the ground where no one can get in. There are as many different ways as there are many kinds of birds.

CHARLES LEONE, Age 13.

Lives on a Farm

Dear Uncle Jed: I live on a farm and we keep sheep. We now have twenty-eight sheep and about twenty-four lambs.

When I feed them I take a pail of corn and go into the sheep shed. The sheep crowd all around me they are so anxious to get their feed.

Then Polly one of the most tame sheep, and a few others come and stick their heads in the pail but finally get them fed.

All this time the little lambs stay huddled up in corner for fear they will get stepped on. They jump around and are very cunning and they go up on a shed with a slanting roof and jump off the other side. When the sheep come in the lambs come in groups. I think sheep make interesting pets.

My Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my cat. My cat's name was Coal. He was black and had a white necktie under his chin. His eyes were green. His ears were short and pointed. He had a twin brother named Nigger, and a sister named Beauty.

One day my dog had some bones and Coal tried to get one. The dog bit him and he died.

I am sorry he is dead because he was so cute. When I look at Nigger, I think of Coal.

FORREST TUBBS, Age 8.

About My Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: I see all the children have put their cats' names in the Bulletin, so I will tell you about mine.

I call my cat Black Cat and he knows his name. He can jump throught my hands when I hold them up high as I can.

He is just as old as I am.

He will give his paw to my mother but not to anybody else.

WAYNE RATHBUN, Age 7.
Norwich.

My Police Dog Jessie

Dear Uncle Jed: I have a police dog named Jessie which is the best and largest dog of its age in the state. She is a great comfort to me and seems like one of the family. She is like all other dogs and does not love cats. I have a beautiful Maltese kitten and Jessie will take it by the head and make it cry. So you see I have some trouble by having two pets at the same time when its cats and dogs.

Another thing about our dog. She is very nice and very neat. Every morning when I get up she jumps all over us. Then she takes our shoes and walks around and growls. But just as soon as you pet her she will go and lay down. I would be very lonesome without my pet dog.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Dispute About a Drummer

Disputes are foolish and are vain,
A waste of time with naught to gain.
—Old Man Nature.

Peter Rabbit should have been at home in the dear Old Briar Patch, but he wasn't. Here it was broad daylight and he was still over in the Green Forest.

Just then a low, deep, booming sound like distant thunder caused Peter and Jumper to sit up and point their long ears and exclaim, "Hah!" exclaimed Jumper, almost startled me for just a second. It's so long since I have heard Thunderer the Grouse drum that I had forgotten that he does drum. I suppose that from now on we will hear him often enough until Mrs. Grouse gets right down to housekeeping. Thunderer certainly does like to make a noise.

"I guess you heard what I said," retorted Jumper

"I wonder what he would do if he didn't have a hollow log on which to beat," said Peter.

Jumper turned and stared at his cousin. "Would you mind saying that over again?" he said pointedly.

"Certainly not," replied Peter. "I said that I wonder what he would do if he didn't have a hollow log on which to beat. You know, of course, that he always makes that noise by standing on a hollow log and striking it with his wings."

Jumper slowly shook his head. "No," said he, "I don't know it."

Peter opened his eyes very wide.

"Why," said he, "I thought everybody knew that!"

"No," replied Jumper. "I don't know it. You see, I know that he doesn't do anything of the kind."

"What's that?" cried Peter.

"I guess you heard what I said," retorted Peter.

"But it doesn't mean anything," replied Peter.

"Oh, yes it does," said Jumper. "It means exactly what it seems to mean. Thunderer the Grouse doesn't strike a hollow log with his wings to make that drumming noise. A good part of the time he isn't even on a hollow log when he drums. He isn't now. Listen to that. You never heard him drum better, yet he isn't on a hollow log."

"I know better!" retorted Peter, beginning to lose his temper. "Why, ever since I was big enough to wabble my nose I've known that Thunderer uses a hollow log for his drumming. I didn't suppose there was anybody living in the Green Forest who didn't know that."

"Well, I say that he isn't using a hollow log for his drumming now, and, what is more, he very seldom does," insisted Jumper.

"Well, all I can say is that for one who has lived all his life in the Green Forest you don't know much," asserted Peter.

"What I know I know," retorted Jumper. "I don't swallow whole every tale I'm told like folks I might mention. Have you ever seen Thunderer drum?"

Peter was forced to shake his head and say that he had not. "Well, I have," declared Jumper. "I have seen him many times."

"I've seen the hollow log he uses," declared Peter.

"Did you look to make sure that it is hollow?" demanded Jumper.

"No—o," confessed Peter reluctantly. "But it is so old it must be hollow," he added.

Jumper merely grinned. "You are talking about something of which you know nothing," said he.

AFTER HER BABY CAME

Mrs. Hollister Unable To Do Her Work for Six Months

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

MRS. HENRY HOLLISTER
WYANDOTTE, MICHIGAN

Wyandotte, Michigan.—"After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shoulders. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand."—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Michigan.

Another Woman's Case

St. Paul, Minnesota.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it were breaking in two, and bearing-down pains all the time. I also had dizzy spells. I had read several letters of women in the newspapers, and the druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing-down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. I will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. PRICE, 147 West Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

April first found Ralph Gibbs, an ardent young local fisherman, ready to whip the brooks. His five-year-old brother John asked to go with him and as John is a very good sportsman—for his years—his request was not denied. Ralph Gibbs fished and fished without results, when young John cast and the inevitable happened. A trout had caught the wiggle of John's worm and swallowed hook and all. Of course John Gibbs didn't know exactly what to do next but Ralph did, and with a clever maneuvre landed the fish. It measured 9 inches and weighed 9 ounces—so no more fishing was done until it was brought home to show the family—and provide a taste for each member.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

New York, April 5 (By the A. P.)—Bond prices drifted irregularly lower last week in sympathy with the general wave of reaction which spread over the financial and commodity markets. Trading was restricted by vague fears of another increase in the rediscount rate and indications of tighter money, but took on a better tone late in the week when these restraining influences were removed.

The most interesting developments of the week took place in the investment division of the market. Demand for new bond issues was sharpened by the recent lull in financing, resulting in advance oversubscriptions for some of the week's offerings. The Baltimore & Ohio railroad completed the last step in its $155,000,000 refunding program through the sale of a $45,000,000 5 per cent issue, which will replace a 3 1-2 per cent loan maturing July 1. Two important pieces of foreign financing were the $15,000,000 loan to Sao Paulo and a $14,000,000 offering for the Ujigawa Electric Power company of Japan.

The current week is expected to bring one of the largest industrial flotations in recent years, when the public will be invited to participate in financing the transfer of the Dodge Brothers automobile business from family to banking control. Dillon, Read & Co., New York bankers, whose cash offer of nearly $175,000,000 for the property outbid that of J. P. Morgan & Co., acting for the General Motors Corporation, will head a powerful banking syndicate which will offer securities of the new corporation. The new financing, it is understood, will involve the sale of a large block of bonds in addition to one or two classes of stock.

Investment interest was fired by the magnitude of the transaction and inquiries for the new securities poured in from all parts of the country as well as from foreign investors, virtually assuring a large oversubscription in advance of the actual offering.

Trading interest last week centered mainly in the French obligations, which were depressed by the confused political and financial situation in France. Selling of these bonds was promoted by talk of drastic measures to relieve the present crisis, such as a possible capital levy, an increase in note circulation and a note issue for commercial purposes. After a reaction which resulted in the establishment of new low levels for the year, most of these issues made irregular recovery.

The week's new financing aggregated approximately $100,000,000, an increase of $57,000,000 over the preceding week. For the month of March offerings exceeded $500,000,000, bringing the total for the first quarter of the year to about $1,270,000,000.

WESTERLY

The April session of Westerly town council is to be held this (Monday) morning at 9.30 o'clock in the council chamber. Among matters awaiting council action is the appointment of a patrolman to the Westerly police force, for which place there have been a number of applications. The petition of Archie A. Sheldon, 50 Clark street, for appointment as police patrolman was read at the February council meeting. At the March meeting was read the application of Fred Ferraro recently discharged from U. S. navy. Both of these petitions were voted referred to the police committee, Farquhar Smith, G. B. Utter and L. J. Rossi. It has also been said that Milo M. Champlin, LeRoy H. Norman and Sergt. Merrill, of Battery E have at one time or another been receptive candidates.

Sewerage matter will come before the councilmen for action when the bids

AUCTIONS AND AUCTIONEERS
The auction season is now at hand, and our business has been for the past eighteen years selling public sales through the eastern United States. Your Sale, Mr. Farmer, Administrator or Executor, no doubt represents the hard earned savings of a life time. Whether large or small, you can not afford to experiment with an inexperienced public sale crier, neither do the beneficiaries in an estate wish you to do so when it comes to the point of turning property, either real or personal into cash.

Pans From Horseshoes.

One of Great Britain's industries is rapidly passing, due to the inroads made by the automobile. It is that of making house utensils mostly frying pans, from old horseshoes. An old scrap dealer had made a fortune by collecting old horse shoes in London and exporting them to Manchuria where they were turned to pans, at lower cost than if the raw material had been imported.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The southern disturbance has continued to move east-southeastward to northern Florida. This disturbance has moved in almost a straight line from the northern California coast to Florida during the past six days. It has been attended by rains within the last 24 hours in the South Atlantic and East Gulf states and a tornado occurred four miles north of Miami early Sunday afternoon. Several people were killed and serious property loss was reported.

Another disturbance is centered east of Newfoundland. High pressure prevails over the eastern half of the country, except the South Atlantic states.

The temperature was lower Sunday in the Atlantic states.

Fair weather is indicated for Monday and Tuesday almost generally over the states east of the Mississippi river. The temperature will rise almost generally in the Washington forecast district on Tuesday.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate to fresh north and northeast and weather fair Monday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh northeast and weather; fair Monday.

JOHN WOODS' HOUSE AND SHED BURNED TO THE GROUND

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Taftville, April 5.—John Woods' house and shed, situated on the cross road from Bushy's Crossing, only a few hundred yards from P. J. Melady's home, were burned to the ground Sunday afternoon. Mr. Melady discovered the fire, calling to father Mr. Woods, and to help Mr. Woods, after the shed was burning. Mr. and Mrs. Melady got to the house found no one at home, as family had gone to visit Mr. and Mrs. Griswold, of the town farm in Lisbon.

Mr. Melady telephoned for assistance and worked like a Trojan to save the house. Several of the Jewett firemen went up with Foreman Wakeley. The Plainfield chemical was out fighting a wood fire, but several men came down from there.

Part of the furniture and a large barn was saved. No cause could be given for the fire, which started apparently in the shed, repaired and newly painted only two months ago. The house was insured for $1800, which only partially covers the loss.

OLD INJURIES CAUSE BLACK HALL MAN'S DEATH

William Dorr, 48, of Black Hall, died at his home Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Death is attributed to internal injuries sustained about three years ago when he was struck by a falling tree. His health had been very poor since he met with the misfortune.

Mr. Dorr is survived by his wife, his father, Mrs. John Dorr, of Black Hall; four brothers, Joseph, Frederick and Charles Dorr of Black Hall, and John Dorr, Jr., of Toledo, O.; and a sister, Mrs. Nelson Briggs of New London.

It's an easy matter to master the grief of another.

PROPOSED NEW MOTER VEHICLE LAWS HAVE SECTION TO REACH SPEEDERS

One of the most effective changes which will be incorporated in the general motor vehicle act, which has been set for a hearing before the legislative committee on roads, bridges and rivers on Tuesday, April 7, at 1.30 p. m., is a provision which will require every owner of a public service motor vehicle to insure its passengers. The present law requires jitney owners to take out such insurance while the new clause will extend the requirement to every form of motor vehicle carrying passengers for hire, such as taxicabs and liveries.

The department Sunday outlined the important changes which are included in the bill by amendment and it is hoped that everyone interested in any provisions of the act will appear at the hearing which will be public.

Under a provision in the bill every license holder will be required to notify the department of change of address. Previously this clause applied only to operators of public service motor vehicles, but in the event of passage of a bill requiring insurance of vehicles and passengers, it will be necessary to keep in close touch with every driver.

While the reckless driving section of the present laws will remain the same, a subdivision has been added providing a penalty for "speeding." The speeding clause is to provide courts opportunity to put a charge against persons guilty of operating at too high a rate of speed, but who otherwise have done no damage. Any person, under the provision, may be charged either with reckless driving or speeding but not both. Important in this connection is a new clause which will compel operators to show licenses whenever requested by an officer. The present law requires they be shown only in particular circumstances.

So-called stickers on wind-shields and rear windows, against which there has been much opposition from both automobile clubs and individuals, will be prohibited by the bill in all cases where there is danger of interfering with vision.

Designed to prevent the registering of stolen cars and to provide as far as possible that equipment is in reasonable order, a clause authorizing the examination of motor vehicles for numbers, equipment and identification has been included. Such work will be assigned to the state police and may require an extra appropriation.

Another important provision will give the commissioner authority to require a report from an owner or registrant in addition and separately from that of the operator, on any accident. Authority to seize a registration certificate, operator's license and all evidence of a license is also given the commissioner. He will have power to refuse to issue registration until thirty days have elapsed from conviction, nolliment, or suspension of judgment in any case of violation of the motor vehicle laws.

The bill will include some changes in definitions. The term "motor vehicles" will be confined to rubber tired vehicles, the same for trailers, and the word operator will include any person who "steers or directs the course of a motor vehicle when towed by another vehicle."

A rather far reaching change is to make a certified copy of any document or record attested by a named official of the department evidence in any court, thereby saving hours of time for employes of the department.

Every motor vehicle, except electric platform trucks and tractors, will be required to be equipped with lighting devises sufficient to comply with the laws at all times. This, it is expected, will mean that many of the older types of commercial vehicles will need decided changes in lighting equipment.

There is a provision giving the commissioner right to revoke registration of commercial motor vehicles for overloading and also the right to operate such vehicle from another state. Jitneys will be required to supply exits on more than one side, and the will cover all public service vehicles of seating capacity of more than seven.

One of the most sweeping and broadly effective sections in the act is an addition making any person hiring or leasing a motor vehicle liable for damage to person or property caused by operation of a motor vehicle.

The so-called compulsory insurance measure or financial responsibility bill will be up for hearing on the same day and before the same committee as the general motor vehicle act. A bill which would fix a general flat rate fee for motor vehicle registrations has already been before the committee for hearings as have also gasoline tax measures.

Various commercial truck taxing or fee measures which have been the subject of many conferences have not yet been introduced. Difficulties have entered into any proper solution of an equitable or adequate method of imposing a proper tax for the wear and tear to highways wrought by trucks, but it is hoped that some plan may be reached in time for presentation to the present session of the general assembly.

TO HAVE $148,000 FOR N. E. CITIZENS' CAMP

Major General Brewster is just in receipt of word from Washington that he will be allotted $148,461 to be expended for the Citizens' Military Training camps in New England. This is approximately $11,000 increase over the amount allotted last year. Due to this increase 3,000 young men of New England will receive benefits, whereas only 2826 were benefited last year. $63,000 will be spent on the mess which all students who have attended a camp known for its excellency. $25,000 will be spent in transportation, from the young men's home to camp and return. The remaining $60,000 will be spent for various things in the camp to make it enjoyable, attractive and entertaining.

The young man who is lucky to get a chance to go to these camps gets a chance of real camp life, learns to shoot an army rifle, the finest ever made; marches in dress parade with the Stars and Stripes to a military band; eats honest-to-goodness "chow." The mid-day meal on the hike, athletic sports in the afternoon, rollicking gatherings around the campfire or in the Hostess house evenings will make the blood of a red-blooded boy tingle and dance. Already there are 1500 young men signed up for the 30 days at Camp Devens, Mass., Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, Fort McKinley, Maine, Fort Adams, R. I., and Fort Terry, near New London, Connecticut. As there are only a total of 3,000 places, they will have to be divided up so that young men from all parts of the country will have this opportunity.

TWO MEN HURT IN MOTORCYCLE ACCIDENT

Sam Maings and Stephen Gintas, both of Hartford, are patients at the W. W. Backus hospital, this city, suffering from injuries received when their motorcycle ran off the road and upset on the Norwich-New London highway, near the Raymond Hill road, about 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The motorcycle, which is said to have been owned and driven by Maings, was badly wrecked. Both men were thrown to the ground.

Maings received bad bruises about the head and Gintas received a badly sprained back. Neither was seriously hurt. Dr. John J. Donohue of Uncasville was called and in the meantime someone sent in a call for the ambulance from the Backus hospital. After the men's injuries were examined by Dr. Donohue they were placed in the ambulance and brought to the hospital. The hospital reported the men as resting comfortably. There was some improvements in their condition Sunday.

The state police barracks at Groton were notified of the accident and conducted an investigation. From what could be learned by the state police, the machine was headed towards this city and ran off the road for some unknown reason.

BABY FALLS INTO PAIL AND IS DROWNED

Annie, the fourteen months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Medbury, who live on the Mystic-Shewville in the town of Ledyard, lost her life about noon Friday in a peculiar accident. While Mrs. Medbury was busy in the house, the little child, just able to toddle around, wandered out into the yard where there was a candy pail two-thirds full of water. The child evidently climbed up onto the edge of the pail, fell in head first and was drowned when she was unable to get out.

Mrs. Medbury found the little girl standing on her head in the pail of water, but she had been in the water too long to respond to artificial respiration which was tried to restore her to life.

Dr. N. B. Lewis, medical examiner was called and gave a verdict of accidental drowning.

Y. M. C. A. MEN HOLD MEETING AT THE JAIL

Sunday at [illegible] p. m. representatives of the local Y. M. C. A. held a religious service at the local jail. E. A. Strattner was in charge. Hugh Kinder [illegible] and Edwin Hill gave the address, and chose for his text, Ye are not your own, ye are bought with a price," and he said in part: Away back before Eden days the creature was in perfect harmony with the Creator, but when our first parents were put into the garden, satan in the form of a serpent tempted them and they [illegible] We have the story of [illegible] ever since that day, men in [illegible] cities and in every age have been guilty of all kinds of evil acts which we can sum up in one small and awful sin.

The reason that man have found themselves in trouble is because they have sinned, and they have failed to realize that they are not their own, but that they belong to God; they have followed their own course which too often led them far out into the prodical country. We are not our own; these hands are not our own, they were given to us to use for the glory of God but alas we use them for unholy purposes. The man convicted in Hartford Saturday by a jury of twelve men for murder used his hands in grasping the pistol that slew another; he did as he pleased and evidently his doom is sealed. Some of you men have used your hands to grasp the damnable glass of liquor and so you are here today. These feet are not our own, they should be used in good and legitimate ways, but alas many have used them to go into the ways of sin that lead to hell. These eyes are not our own: too many have used their eyes to read thrash literature and so their minds have been poisoned with sin, and far too many have used their eyes to look upon things that develop lustful thoughts and also they have been led to do awful sin.

These tongues are not our own; it is very sad that so many men use the tongue to profane the name of diety; what a terrible thing it is to use profanity, and the habit is such a foolish habit; in other ways we use our tongues to our own hurt and we hurt others also. "We are not our own, we are bought with a price, and my what a price; no less than the shed blood of the great Christ. Is it possible that Jesus Christ has given His life in vain so far as you are concerned; men even though you are confined in this jail, you can have the light of Christ in your life if you will; let Him into your hearts today.

Fifteen of the men asked to be remembered in prayer.

FRIENDS WERE GENEROUS TO NORWICH RADIO FAN

"So now he is glad that he did not ask them to bring him a piece off a battleship." All this is in reference to a local radio enthusiast who asked a friend in the musical business if he would give him a piece of wood from an old organ that had been broken up for junk. After the request for wood had been made the man went home and evidently forgot all about it.

Sunday morning while dreaming the dreams of the peaceful the strains of heavenly music seemed to fill the room and awakened him and after rubbing his eyes to make sure he was awake he went in search of the mystic music, and, lo and behold, in the rear of his house, stood an old fashioned organ. The mystery of the music was explained when the children about it gave up their playing to make a hasty exit. Now the radio fan has plenty of wood with which to construct his radio set, but what he can do with the keys of the organ is a mystery even to him.

When a man is sure that his friends never say unkind things to him he is sure that all his friends are dead.

GIVES HEARING ON GARDNER LAKE BUS LINE

On Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the court of common council chamber, Public Utilities Commissioner Charles C. Elwell of Hartford, formerly of Norwich, heard two applications on a new proposed bus route from Norwich to Middletown, via Gardner Lake. The commissioner took the matter under advisement following a hearing which was attended by some 50 people coming from places along the route, who had signed the petition in favor of the bus lines, as well as many Norwich people who favored the petition.

The two petitioners were the Connecticut Motor Transportation company of New London and John Sullivan of Colchester, a driver of the Connecticut Motor Transportation company. Attorney Thomas Keily of Colchester represented Mr. Sullivan and Attorney C. Hadlai Hull of New London the Transportation company.

The only opposition to the plans came from Mr. Ryan of Middletown, who said he represented the Valley Bus line of that place which runs a vehicle from East Haddam to Middletown. Slight opposition came from the Connecticut Company and the New Haven railroad but this was settled by both petitioners offering to run express where the railroads went. It was stipulated that $1.75 would be a reasonable fare for both parties.

Frank Geer of New London, general manager of the Transportation company, said he had been over the route and found everyone in favor of the proposed bus line. If his company received the franchise, he said, they would run express from Norwich to Maplewood cemetery, and express from East Haddam to Middletown.

The other petitioner, Mr. Sullivan said he had the backing of two influential Norwich men and another man from Middletown. He said he had been driving for the Transportation company for 21 months.

Mayor Milo R. Waters spoke in favor of Mr. Sullivan and said there was need of a bus service on this road. He also stated that Mr. Sullivan had talked this matter over with him several months ago while the Transportation company had come to him only 10 days ago. If Mr. Sullivan received the franchise, he said, headquarters would be in Norwich and banking and taxes would be paid here. William Frisbie stated that he would give Mr. Sullivan any financial backing needed. G. R. Morgan of Salem, Alma Schultz and others told the commissioner that Mr. Sullivan had been a mail carrier in the Gardner Lake district for four years and had given good service.

John J. O'Rourke, speaking for the Norwich Chamber of Commerce thanked the commissioner for having the hearing in this section and told of the need of this bus line to those who [illegible] means of transportation to Gardner Lake. Dana Hon Yard and other places that are summer resorts. He explained the good service being given by the Connecticut Motor Transportation company but said that the chamber would not go on record as favoring either petitioner, provided transportation facilities would be as good with one petitioner as with the other.

After the meeting Commissioner Elwell said he thought that the New Haven entrance was not the proper place for a lunch wagon. Mayor Waters informed him that the city did not own his property and had nothing to do with the renting of the land as it belonged to the railroad and was rented by them.

EQUITABLE TAXATION TO BE SUBJECT DISCUSSED

Arrangements are completed for the membership meeting of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce in the Wauregan hotel this (Monday) evening. Over 100 reservations have been made at the hotel and the meeting no doubt will be highly interesting and instructive. These monthly meetings of the Chamber of Commerce are open to the general public and are held at 6:15 p. m., so that the meeting may be over in time for other evening engagements. The subject to be discussed at this meeting is that of Equitable Taxation. It is expected that a special town meeting held last May will make its report and offer recommendations to the citizens for a revaluation of the taxable property of the town for the purpose of establishing equalization of the tax rate. The last revaluation of Norwich was made in 1880 and Norwich is the only community in the state that is still assessing its property on the 1880 basis. So that the time has come, it is generally felt, when the people of Norwich should give their consideration to this most vital question effecting the community. The question is not whether we shall have a high or a low tax rate, or a low or a high grand list; rather it is a question of having every tax payer paying on a basis that is as equal to every tax payer as it is humanly possible to do so. In other words it is applying the same yardstick of valuations to every piece of taxable property throughout the town of Norwich.

The speakers of the evening will be F. C. Burroughs, assessor of New London; T. MacDonough Russell, president of the Russell Manufacturing company of Middletown, or in his absence, Richard Bunce, chairman of the tax committee of Middletown, where a revaluation is being made at the present time. W. W. Pollock, president of the Manufacturers Appraisal company will in all probability be present. Efforts are being made to have him come to the meeting if possible. The Manufacturers Appraisal company is the company that has appraised properties for assessment purposes in New London, and a number of other Connecticut cities as well as 50 odd cities throughout various sections of the United States. The Chamber of Commerce is desirous of having as many as possible attend this meeting so that a full and frank discussion of this problem can be held. It will be a splendid opportunity for asking questions and finding out just how other cities have met the problem now confronting Norwich.

An issue of 5,000 copies of the report of the tax analysis committee has been printed and will be placed throughout various parts of the town for free distribution so that the citizens of Norwich can fully understand the situation and become acquainted with the problem so that when the special town meeting is held and action taken on the report of the citizens committee, the voters will be in a position to vote with some intelligence on this question.

Serious Condition After Operation

Attorney Edwin W. Higgins was called to Boston Friday on account of the serious illness of his brother, John Higgins of West Somerville, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at a Boston hospital. Mr. Higgins' condition Sunday was considered favorable although he was still on the dangerous list.

CATH. EASTER OFFERING INCREASED $11,000 LAST YEAR

In all the Catholic churches of the diocese, Sunday, there was read the letter from Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan concerning the Easter offering. In the course of this circular letter Bishop Nilan says:

EPISCOPAL RESIDENCE
Hartford, Conn.
March 31, 1925.

Dear Father: The annual Easter collection for diocesan charities will be taken up in all the churches of the diocese Sunday, April 12th. Please find inclosed a report of the offerings received from each parish last year, together with a statement of the various expenditures. The amount received was $77,293.04, and the chief items of expense were as follows: Repairs and improvements on buildings for dependent children, $18,124.29; maintenance of dependent children, $19,286.54; deaf mutes, $2,000; aged, blind and infirm, $2,040; Diocesan Social Service, $5,000; Little Sisters of the Poor, $3,000; House of the Good Shepherd, $3,000; orphan asylum in New Britain, $3,000; payment on the building debt of St. John's school, $17,000.

The amount received last year was over eleven thousand dollars more than that of the previous year, for which we are very grateful. As a result of this generous response of our people a great deal has been accomplished, very much of which cannot be explained in a printed report.

In the gospel parable we read of a man, poor and afflicted, seated at the entrance of a mansion, the owner of which passed in and out, giving no thought to the wretched condition of his fellow creature. The beggar is mentioned by name and receives the commendation of the Lord, whilst the other is referred to as a "certain rich man," merely one of a class who see no misery and are touched by no distress. His conduct is condemned, his life pronounced a failure. The parable illustrates the Providence of God Who allows men to share His bounty unequally, but sets the time of readjustment: "Remember that thou didst receive good things in thy life and Lazarus evil things; now he is comforted and thou are tormented."

If we plead the cause of the less fortunate it is because we have specific needs in mind, we are anxious for the prosperity of our various agencies of relief, the greater efficiency of our works of mercy. Our purpose is not to embarrass those of similar means who so good will makes the smallest offering generous; but to remind those more favored by fortune that the Lord allows them to set the standard or measure by which their gift shall be repaid in that day when palms will replace sin and iniquities will be blotted out with works of mercy to the poor."

The parlors were crowded at the 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon service at the local Y. M. C. A. The occasion was the showing by stereopticon of the Life of Christ. Hymns were sung from the screne and Hugh Kinder sang Nearer, My God to Thee, while beautiful slides were shown on the canvas. The pictures portrayed the life of Christ from His birth clear through to the crucifixion, the resurrection and the ascension; several of the views were beautifully colored, and all of them brought a good lesson to the audience.

During the showning of this pictures Secretary Hill gave a talk appropriate to the illustrations and he suggested some lessons that we should learn from the great life of Christ. He urged all present to link themselves fully with the wonderful Master and thereby make this Lenten season a memorable one in their lives. The service was an impressive one and was greatly enjoyed by all. Emmett J. Fritz operated the lantern and Lewis R. Church acted as usher.

PRES. PEARSON GRATEFUL TO NEW ENGLAND INDUSTRIES

Acknowledgment of the service rendered to the New Haven railroad by New England industries in their support of the company's recent financing bond issue is made by President Pearson to the leaders of the industrial groups in Connecticut, Massachusetts, and Rhode Island. The Manufacturers' association of Connecticut, made public Sunday a letter received from President Pearson by E. Kent Hubbard, president of the Association, together with Mr. Hubbard's reply on behalf of the manufacturers of this state. Mr. Pearson also wrote President Anderson, of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, and Henry D. Sharpe, chairman of the Rhode Island Manufacturers' committee, letters identical with that addressed to Mr. Hubbard.

He states therein that the value of industry's cooperation to the New Haven cannot be overestimated, and declares that one of the results was to put an end to the fears for the New Haven's welfare which were current in New England last year.

FORTY HOURS' DEVOTION OPENS PALM SUNDAY

The annual devotion of the Forty Hours, commemorating the period during which the body of the Saviour remained in the tomb, began Sunday after the 10.40 High Mass in St. Patrick's church, the Mass being sung by Rev. Father Reagan, M. S. of LaSalette Seminary, Hartford. The sanctuary decorations were tall palms with ferns and vines, as a background for lilies, carnations and roses. At the offertory, Organist Frank L. Farrell played the melody of The Palms, Faure, as only he can play it. The music of the Mass was splendidly sung by a chorus choir, the solo portions being sustained most effectively by Mrs. Frank L. Farrell, Miss Lorette Bellefleur, Roderick F. Sullivan, Frank C. Aubrey and Frank R. Murphy.

Particularly melodious was the ancient hymn, "Pange Lingua" sung, oh my tongue, of the glorious body telling." For the solemn procession of the Devotion, Rev. John J. Reilly accompanied Father Reagan, who bore the Sacred Host. The master of ceremonies was the acting pastor, Rev. Myles P. Galvin. The canopy was borne by Alexander A. Kilroy, Thaddeus Leahy Andrew W. Deneff and Michael J. Murphy. The lines of altar boys bearing lighted tapers and the girls so daintily frocked in white, the older ones bearing each a lily stalk, the tiny girls carring baskets of flowers from which they continued to strew blossoms in the path of the Sacred Host, once again evidenced the incomparable training received from their instructors, the Sisters of Mercy of the parish school.

Many visiting priests speaking many languages, are assisting the local corates in hearing confessions, for Easter Holy Communions for today (Monday) and Tuesday, when the Masses will be at 5:30 and 8 each morning, with Holy Communion given at 7 even though there may be no Mass at that hour.

The Palms

Here are the palms again!
With gladness of the former years recalled,
I loose from moistened burlap that protects their fronds
Like some coarse wrapping of smooth ivory or jade,
The slender flexile blades of buff and green.
Long tendrils, strong as fine spun threads of hemp,
Curl from the pleated edges in wide arabesques.
Then as I draw the close held leaves apart,
The fresh faint odor of the inner folds, yet damp,
Brings back with that strange power of scent, Palm Sundays gone.
And even that bright day of lowly Triumph itself
When, trampled under ass's hooves, the branches shed
The same faint incense, greeting One who rode to die.
The cries of joy float back from that far welcoming,
And children's greetings make Him smile across the throng.
So as we deck our chapel with these fronds
We feel the tyrannay of time's long lapse released
Like stubborn ice in springtide, by one glance of love,
And wonder less that for a day in crowded street
Of modern city garments of the multitude
Are marked with little crosses of the Tragic palm,
And men wear unashamed the insignia of faith
In One who rides to conquest over sin and death
And guides to healing wells beyond our stony ways.

ELIOT WHITE.

Song for April

The winds of March have hushed to rest,
All quiet lie the fields;
Returning life is manifest,
And woods put on their shields.

Old night, a juggler, drops his dark,
Soft cover on the hills,
With every star a shining spark,
Like grist from heavenly mills.

Spring loosens all conventions shrined
Beneath my gypsy blood:
I'd barter one to find
The first urbutus bud.

The grime of cities fades and goes
Before the pagan lamp
That burns in each unopened rose,
Cut deep with spring's fresh stamp.

And April comes with cap and bells,
Half laughter and half tears,
Or dons a priest's dark robe and tells
Her beads of passing years.

CONFLICT IN THE CABINET OVER FRENCH FINANCES

M. De Monzie, New Minister of Finance, Intends to Ask Chamber of Deputies to Deputies to Authorize the Issue of 4,000,000,000 Francs More Paper Money—Potical Observers Predict That Cabinet Crisis Cannot be Avoided More Than a Week Longer.

Paris, April 6—(By the A. P.)—A French cabinet crisis cannot be avoided [illegible] a week longer, political [illegible] predict tonight, because of the conflict raging within the Herriot [illegible] over methods for a general [illegible] of French finances.

[illegible] official information is that the [illegible] minister of finance, M. De Monzie, [illegible] the approval of the government, [illegible] to ask the chamber of deputies to authorize the issue of four billion francs more paper money. Besides the issue of increasing circulation, the [illegible] are declared to be divided as to whether the government should decide upon a straight capital levy or a forced loan.

While the cabinet today tried to settle the clash between M. De Monzie and Premier Herriot on the formula by which it is proposed to ask the French people to hand over ten per cent of their fortunes to the state, parliamentary prophets were busy picking out [illegible] ministers to succeed the present [illegible] M. De Monzie's courageous [illegible] locking horns with Premier [illegible] at the outset of his career as [illegible] minister has made him a candidate for the premiership [illegible] Senator Henry De [illegible] senator De Kerguezec [illegible] strong sure of portfolio in combination.

[illegible] lobbies, however, [illegible] reports that the Herriot government will force a dissolution of the chamber while it is still in power, and that the aspirants for ministerial honors, will have to wait for the results of a new election. The Herriot coalition, according to most of these predictions, sees the dissolution coming and prefers that the elections be presided over by the present government, if the balloting must be done this year.

The idea of dissolution of the chamber is not popular in France because the only time it ever was resorted to under the third republic was when President MacMahon attempted to keep the monarchist government in power after a popular election had sent a republican majority to parliament. Rather than give in to the chamber, which refused to have anything to do with the royalist government, President MacMahon acting with the senate, dissolved the lower house and issued a decree for a new election.

The experiment proved disastrous to the president, whose resignation followed soon after the new elections. Consequently no one since has been tempted to resort to the extremity of dissolution. Prospects of the senate and the chamber agreeing on the vital quests now before the parliament are regarded as very small though, and dissolution is the only remedy for the deadlock that has been proposed thus far.

WILLIMANTIC

"Beware of 'ticks,'" warned Miss Mary Kelleher, in addressing the mass meeting of the striking operatives of the American Thread Company, Monday morning. "If some glib-tongued salesman approaches you on the street or in your home and tries to tell you of the necessity of earning money even at reduced wages, look out for him and if he is too insistent show him the way out," she continued.

The strikers are still one hundred per cent strong for their cause. Alexander Marks of Boston, a national organizer of the Federation of Labor was the principal speaker Monday. He reassured the strikers that the Polish members of their body were sticking fast. He guaranteed that they were heart and soul with the strike and there would be no backward step on their part.

One local Polish man said that back 42 years ago he entered the employ of the local mills. At the end of the week he drew $2.80. During nearly this half a century he has worked faithfully with an idea of getting ahead Today he is still as he was 42 years ago—without a penny aside for a rainy day. He has paid his bills through life and that is about all he could do.

Mr. Marks cheered the strikers on to continued effort and cited two cases where strikes of long duration were settled the past week, because the strikers remained united. Miss Amy L. Hooker presided at the meeting and announced that Thomas F. McMahon of Providence, president of the International United Textile Workers of America would be the speaker at the mass meeting this (Tuesday) morning.

The list of fires and other depredations caused during the mild weather months by camping tourists is headed in North Windham by the burning over of some two acres of land, along the highway from that village to Willimantic, Sunday afternoon. A party of campers stopped at the Old Gypsy Camping Grounds and set up a little camp-fire stove to cook a meal. Dry pine needles were ignited and the party abandoned stove, cutlery and a quantity of food stuff on the spot and escaped from the section. Constable Wilbur G. Stevens, of North Windham, who is also Fire Warden for that district, was called, and with a band of half a dozen volunteers succeeded in checking the blaze, after several hours of fighting. For a time the buildings of the Constant Brothers gasoline station along the highway and the George Larrow place were threatened. There is a stiff fine attached to violations of the law in this respect.

Evening at Home—James P. Mustard, William H. Kingsley, Mrs. L. C. Storrs, Mrs. Loretta Oatley, Mrs. Mollie Parent, Nelson A. Daniels, Junior Aid—B. Robinson and Miss Alice Peterson. Athletics—John O'Rourke, Henry M. Congdon, Harry W. Standish, Frank M. Lincoln, Edward Morrison, William Champlin, Charles Beck, James S. Donahue, Jr., and Charles W. Hill. Finance—James B. Fullerton, James P. Bath, H. N. Bullard, Albert J. Piche, Aime J. Martineau, John R. Pickett and Louis A. Kingsbury.

The case of Dick Zagaro, charged with failure to keep up payments of ten dollars a week for groceries for his family was closed Monday morning when Zagaro and the grocer in question conferred with Prosecuting Attorney Harvey and Zagaro signified his willingness to give the grocer the necessary amount every week.

Closed doors or no closed doors, the evidence handed over by three young women, residents of South Windham, to the ante-room of the police court-room was given in such loud talk that it could be heard without difficulty throughout the corridors. Two of the women in question are sisters and they were accused by their former chum of calling her vile names. The sisters retorted that the language used by the complainant was equally undesirable and when the parties began to trade accusations the ante-room door was hurriedly closed by a court official but this accomplished little. The young women were admonished for the use of unprintable English and at the close of the hearing the trio had agreed to refrain from further remarks.

The observance of 'Co-ed Weeken" at Connecticut Agricultural College opened Friday evening with the Co-ed Formal at Hawley Armory with about one hundred couples in attendance. The decorations were orange and yellow, palms, and flowers. Miss Cora Lavallee was chairman of the committee of arrangements, assisted by Miss Madeline Wheeler and Miss Margaret Hutton. Miss Sprague, Miss Lundberg, Miss Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson, of the college faculty chuperoned the dance.

Saturday evening, the third annual concert was given by the Girls' Glee Club of the college, under the direction of Mrs. M. J. Farrell. The club comprises a chorus of thirty. The decorations were in green and gold. The guests were seated by four ushers gowned in pale green costumes, trimmed with gold notes. The program included "Echo Song" by the Glee Club; "Sparkling Sunlight," arranged by Henry Houseley, Glee Club; a group of piano solos, "Indian Larch" (McDowell) and "Papillon" (Grieg) played by Miss Celia Cohen; "Marquita," arranged by Daniel Dore, by the club; a group of solos by Mrs. R. C. Remington, contralto, of Willimantic, "The Jasmine Door," (Scott) and "I Love You Truly," Carrie Jacobs-Bond, by the club. Two numbers: "The Call of Home" (The Londonderry Air) and "The Young Old Lady," by a sextette from the chorus, Misses Bray, Swan, Cohen, Scholander, Mills, and Gold and a reading: "Ethan's Housekeeping" by Miss Marie Bronson; "When Twilight Weaves" sung to the music of Beethoven's Minuet by the Club accompanied the minuet, danced in costume by a couple of the young ladies, and a popular number "Peter Pan" and the school song "Connecticut" closed the program. The concert was followed by dancing, for which the Peerless Orchestra played.

The college is to close for the spring vacation Wednesday, and the spring term will open April 15.

The members of the Windham Girls' Club have been invited to attend the lecture on "Wild Life in India" by Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton as the guests of the Woman's Club, under whose auspices Mrs. Seton is to appear.

Miss Mildred Francis, of the faculty of Bates College, Lewiston, Maine was the guest Monday of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Branch.

Rehearsal for "The Loan of a Lover," one of the circut plays to be given by the Hebron Players, was held Monday evening at the home of the president, Miss Susan Pendleton. The cast is to include Mrs. Strong, Miss Gilbert, Mr. Tennant, Mr. Smith, Mr. Demeske, and Mr. Macklin.

Miss Natalie Burnham has been selected to represent Windham High school in the oratorical contest in Putnam, April 17, with Putnam and Plainfield High schools as competitors. Russell Beckwith is alternate. The district contests will culminate in a national contest for the country-wide championship. The contests are being held to further interest in the national constitution and are limited to high schols. The contest is a newspaper contribution to the civic life of the community and the orations must be original and delivered within ten minutes. The national prizes aggregate five thousand dollars.

Charles F. Kenfield and Miss Rose A. Bowen were married at the home of the groom Saturday night by Rev. A. Stanley Muirhead. They were attended by Mrs. Ethel E. Todd, daughter of the groom and Alexander Todd of Conantville. Relatives were present from Putnam, Plainville, Mansfield and Willimantic. The bride wore powder blue crepe de chine and carried white roses. The matron of honor was attired in blue brocaded silk and carried carnations.

The funeral of Mrs. Hanna Mack was held Monday morning with a solemn requiem mass at St. Joseph's church sung by Rev. Charles M. Kelly. Rev. Paul Bartlewski was deacon and Rev. Henry Quinn, sub-deacon. Mrs. E. R. Portelance was organist and Miss L. Monica McKeon soloist. The bearers were Mert Gallivan, Thomas Grady, John O'Rourke and William Lennon. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

The bearers at the funeral of Walter Taylor held Sunday afternoon with burial in Scotland were: Joseph Smith, Frank Smith, Joseph Smith, Jr., and Walter Linderman. Avery and Van Zandt were in charge.

Mrs. Rachael Richardson, 76, widow of William T. Richardson, died at her home in Pleasant Valley Sunday. She was born in New York City, October 19, 1848, a daughter of Richard and Lydia Upton Edmonds. Surviving her is a sister, Mrs. Martha Wright.

NORTH WINDHAM MEN KILLED WHEN DYNAMITE EXPLODES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 6—Frank Dittrich, 38, and Willard I. Standish, 67, two well known residents of North Windham were killed, the latter instantly, Monday morning about 9:30 by the premature explosion of a pound shell of dynamite, on the Dittrich farm on Beaver Hill, near North Windham, village. Standish, who has handled explosives practically all his life in excavation work, was hired by Dittrich to assist in clearing a patch of land some seventy feet from the home. Strawberries were to be planted there. The men were preparing to blast a rock some five feet in diameter and weighing in the neighborhood of three tons when the accident occurred. Two half-pound sticks of dynamite were placed beside the rock. Clarence C. Palmer, a neighbor came into the yard of the Dittrich home carrying a saw which he intended to sharpen in the barn. Dittrich saw him approach and warned him back. Standish was bending over the shell, apparently lighting the fuse with a match. Dittrich was standing about four feet away looking on. Palmer took his position behind a tree. There was a sharp explosion and for a moment he could not make out just what had happened, but as the rocks and dirt settled he realized that Standish had been struck full in the body. He was lying face down, with his head and chest against a stone wall some thirty-five feet away from the blast. Dittrich had been struck in the face and he lay twisting and groaning on the ground near where he had stood. His face was a horrible mass of torn flesh. The top of his head had been ripped open, both eyes were blown out and one arm was shattered. He was in a semi-conscious state and Palmer rushed to the nearest telephone. He notified Dr. F. M. Smith of this city who arrived within a short time. The ambulance was called and Dittrich was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where he died shortly before noon, after receiving the last sacraments of the Roman Catholic church administered by Rev. Charles M. Kelly.

Standish's body was mutilated into a mangled heap of broken bones and shattered flesh. One thumb and part of one hand and pieces of his clothing lay in the path along which his body had been hurled.

Constable Wilbur G. Stevens of North Windham was first to arrive, while Palmer was securing help. He attended to the injured man until the arrival of the physician and watched over the body of Standish until the arrival of Coroner Arthur G. Bill of Danielson who was summoned in the illness of Dr. Louis I. Mason, medical examiner for this district.

Some fifteen pounds of dynamite shells stood within five feet of the explosion in a small handbag but by a miracle were not set off by the concussion. The shells were placed in charge of Constable Stevens for disposal.

The calamity caused grief throughout the little village where both men were highly respected. Dittrich has been living in this country about fifteen years. He came here from Hungary and [illegible] purchased the 1 George Champlain place on Beaver Hill. He was of the progressive type and by continued effort had improved on the farm until it became known as one of the most desirable in that section. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Catherine Dittrich, two children, Elsie, 14, and Frank 12, a sister and two brothers.

Standish, also a resident of Beaver Hill was born in Pittsfield, Mass., a son of Horace D., and Louise Latham Standish. He leaves his wife, a son, Raymond A., of North Windham, a daughter, Mrs. Clara Murphy of Southboro, Mass., and two grandchildren.

Dittrich was not only a farmer by occupation but for some eight years he was engineer at the Ray Harris mills, in North Windham.

Now is the season to serve PRUNES!

And this is the way to buy GOOD PRUNES

The Springtime diet calls for plenty of fruit—especially for breakfast. On the proper balance of that meal depends much of your efficiency throughout the day.

Nearly all breakfast foods, such as eggs, cereals, meats, etc., are highly concentrated—rich in nutriment, but lacking in the bulk and body needed to keep them moving through the alimentary canal.

That's why it is so important to start breakfast right. Begin with Prunes—the fruit that takes first choice with so many eminent doctors and dieticians.

As a breakfast fruit, Prunes are in a class by themselves. They have all the natural body and tender fruit tissue—plus the mild, delicate flavor that enables you to eat them in generous enough quantity to provide the proper breakfast balance.

And Get the Best Prunes!

Serve Prunes often now—and be sure you get "Sunsweet," California's finest Prunes—not only because they are so good to eat—not merely because they are so really good and healthful for you—but also, because they are one of the most economical fruits you can put on your table.

Ask your grocer for Sunsweet Prunes—sweet, plump, thin-skinned fruit, from the famous orchards of California—grown, selected and packed by the growers themselves. Protect yourself! Buy Sunsweet Prunes, always clean and fresh, in the convenient, new 2 lb. carton—or in bulk, from the regular 25-pound box. You will be delighted with their uniform high quality.

Prunes for Constipation

Prunes eaten regularly for breakfast exercise a natural and mild laxative effect in the alimentary canal that has given great relief to many sufferers from constipation. As a corrective agent in the diet and general system regulator they are unsurpassed by any other fruit.

If you have a tendency toward constipation, eat a generous dish of properly-cooked Sunsweet Prunes every morning, for several weeks. You'll be surprised at the difference it makes and how much better you will feel.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

Frank D. Willard, 85, one of Danielson's oldest and most respected residents, died early Monday morning at his home on Cottage street. Announcement of Mr. Willard's death was unexpected, though he had been in failing health for a number of years and critically ill for several months.

Mr. Willard, a native of New Hampshire, was born September 12, 1839. He came to Danielson as a comparatively young man and for a great many years was in the employ of the Quinebaug company in its roller covering department. He made an excellent record of constant and efficient service. Since retiring from active work Mr. Willard has continued to make his home here. Mr. Willard is survived by his wife, who was Miss Sarah Gilbert of this town. He was a veteran member of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M., in which he was raised in 1873, and a member of S. A. Bailey lodge, N. E. O. P.

The funeral of Mrs. Rose Delima Maynard, wife of Philip S. Maynard, was held from their home on High street Monday morning, with funeral services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock, an especially large funeral congregation being in attendance. Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., was celebrant of the solemn mass of requiem and the deacon and sub-deacon were Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., and Rev. James McCarthy, M. S. respectively. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery, Rev. Fr. Richards reading the committal service. The bearers were Albert Choquette, Henry Lague, Aldei Lamothe, Theodore Gladue, Absolem Maynard, Frank Bedard. The floral pieces were beautiful. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements. Members of the Ste. Anne society attended the funeral services in a body.

Among those from out of town who came for the funeral were Mrs. Rosanne Lague of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Choquette of Greenmanville, Mr. and Mrs. Hilton Nelson of New Haven, Louis Lague of Oakland Beach, R. I., Mrs. Stanislaus Gingras of Springfield, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gladue of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Maynard and family, Joseph Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Morin, Mrs. Fred Gallipeau, Mrs. Paul L'Heureux and Miss Lea Maynard, all of Pawtucket, Mr. and Mrs. Fanning of Moosup, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Tougas and family of Woonsocket, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roy, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Beaulieu and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Normandin, all of Woonsocket, and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Mignault of Putnam.

Mrs. Adeline E. Hyde, 75, widow of Charles A. Hyde, died at her home on Winter street Monday morning. Mrs. Hyde had been ill for a number of months and had been unable to leave her room since January 10, though sitting up at times.

Mrs. Hyde was born in Brooklyn in 1850, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eben Griffiths. She had spent her entire life here and had many friends. Mrs. Hyde was a member of the West-field Congregational church and of the Danielson chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star. She leaves a son Henry J. Hyde, of Danielson, two brothers William H. of Norwood, Mass., and Clarence of New York, and two sisters, Miss Hortense Griffiths of Danielson and Mrs. Mary Jordan of Portland, Maine. Mr. Hyde died eleven years ago.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill was called to North Windham, Monday morning, through the fact that two men were killed while blasting, as told in the Willimantic news this morning.

Proponents of the plan to buy a tractor for road work in the town of Killingly appear inclined to feel that the proposal was defeated in Saturday's town meeting over there by lots of farmers who have horses to earn them money by working on the highways.

A local trout fisherman reports hav-ing found 18 fishermen at one favorite pool when he went out at what he thought was a real early hour Sunday morning. This explains why so few fine strings of fish are being brought in—not enough of the beauties to go around.

An alarm from Box 32 called out the fire department Monday afternoon for a grass fire in the rear of the home occupied by Mrs. Harry Cook on Reynolds street. The fire was threatening property in that vicinity, but it was extinguished before it caused any great amount of damage.

Davis park has come into use as a baseball field for youthful exponents of the game. Use of the park for this purpose has in the past caused protests to be made to borough officials by citizens desirous of preserving the laws.

People who find it necessary to travel the highway from Elmville to East Killingly are getting a trip comparable to a ride on the bump-the-bumps that one encounters at certain shore resorts. The road is barred with hary dry ruts in some sections and gouged out areas in others. It is about the toughest stretch of important highway in the town of Killingly, and East Killingly people are a bit disturbed about it.

Members of Killingly grange had an enjoyable evening Monday at their quarters here in observing Foolishness Night, the program based on the time honored custom of April fool jokes. There were also musical numbers and other features to make an especially good program.

The four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Babcock died Monday at their home in Dayville.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Hicks, Mrs. Kate Taft and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Holck of Norwich were guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Nellie Brown of Furnace street.

Misses Margaret McBride and Miss Ada Buckley have returned here after spending the winter at Belleair, Fla.

County Investigator W. E. Jackson of Willimantic was a visitor in Danielson on Monday.

Forest fires have given owners of woodland concern the past two days. On Sunday a fire was raged in the [illegible] Rocks region and there were other fires to the east and southwest of Danielson.

Judge W. Fenner Woodward at a session of the town court, Monday morning, imposed a sentence of 6 days in jail upon Gregory Swirka of the Killingly Center section. Mr. Swirka was charged with damaging personal property belonging to Byron Lewis of East Killingly.

James Caffery, a patient at Backus hospital in Norwich for several weeks, is reported as in favorable condition, having greatly improved under treatment at the institution.

Notices relative to fishing licenses have been posted by fish and game officials along brooks and at ponds throughout the town of Killingly. More licenses mean more fish, the notices announce.

During Holy week daily services are being held at St. Alban's church.

Harry C. Simmons of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson Monday.

WALTER E. FRISSELL DIES AT WORCESTER MONDAY

Special to The Bulletin.

Danielson, April 6—Walter Erskine Frissell, former member of the local lecture from this town, and also a former selectman of Killingly, died at St. Vincent's hospital, Worcester, Monday morning. He had been a patient at the institution since last Wednesday and had subsequently undergone a surgical operation. The body was removed to Mr. Frissell's home in Attawaugan during the afternoon in charge of Undertaker Louis E. Kennedy.

Mr. Frissell was born in Danielson December 9, 1862, a son of Edwin and Mary J. (Randall) Frissell. The elder Mr. Frissell was in the employ of the Quinebaug mills. Mr. Frissell, having completed his education, took a clerkship in a store at Harmony, R. I., remaining there for a few months. He became interested in going west to seek his fortune and went to Chicago, where he remained for about a year and a half. He was only 17 years at the time he went to Chicago. Upon his return to this section he went to Lisbon, this state, and took a position, later living at Valesville and still later at Windsor, filling clerkships, in all these places. In 1883 he came to Attawaugan as clerk in their general store and retained that position until 1887, when he was made manager, a position he continued to hold up to the time of his death. For years past he also has had the management of the Bolloufille store of the Attawaugan company. His splendid service was fully appreciated by the corporation in whose employ he remained for more than 41 years.

April 25, 1887, at Norwich, Mr. Frissell was united in marriage with Miss Lillian J. Appley, a native of Canterbury. Three children were born of the union—Gladys, Ruth and Edith. The first two died in infancy and the third, who became the wife of Alfonso J. Lecrenier, died October 31, 1918. Mr. Frissell is survived by his wife and a grand-daughter, Miss Elizabeth Lecrenier.

For five years Mr. Frissell served Killingly as a selectman and during the 1921 session was a member of the legislature from this town. He had been postmaster at Attawaugan for years. Mr. Frissell was a member of Moriah lodge, A. F. and A. M

A large reunion of relatives and friends gathered to celebrate Mrs. Henry Barber's 60th birthday April 4.

There was an address composed by Miss Marie Campaigne of Danielson and read by Mrs. Geo. Gendron and also they presented her a silver purse and a birthday cake. Later during the evening music was enjoyed by all as furnished by I. Dumet.

L. M. Carpenter and Gresvenor Ely, each contributed ten dollars, not one dollar, to the Gartska-Osga fund as was incorrectly printed in Monday's paper.

Mrs. John Blake is visiting relatives in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Carpenter are registered at the New Willard hotel, Washington, D. C., for a few days, where Mr. Carpenter is attending the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

The Jewett City news letter was lost again Monday night, sent this time by trolley. It would seem as if airplane service will need to be established in these parts!

PUTNAM

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Davis, in Pomfret, their daughter, Miss Olive E. Davis was united in marriage with Arthur L. Clapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Clapp, also of Pomfret. The ceremony was performed at noon by Rev. Mr. Wain and was witnessed only by the near relatives of the bride and groom. The former was attended by her sister, Miss Della Davis and her brother, Gardiner Davis, was best man.

The bride's gown was of beige satin trimmed with beads and ostrich feathers. She carried a bouquet of Orphelia roses. The maid of honor wore a dress of Lanvin green crepe-back satin and carried pink sweet peas. Following the ceremony breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Clapp left on a trip to New York.

Both the bride and groom are natives of Pomfret and both attended the Putnam high school. They will be at home at Bristol, Conn., early in the autumn where Mr. Clapp is employed with the New Departure Manufacturing Company.

Frank O. Davis, father of the bride, is one of the prominent and substantial citizens of Pomfret. He has represented the town as a member of the general assembly, was formerly a member of the state park commission, [illegible] served as county commissioner during part of Governor Baldwin's [illegible] office.

In city court Monday, Abe Saperstone of Dorchester, Mass., was charged with reckless driving. He is a salesman for a Dorchester firm and makes periodical trips to Putnam. Friday noon at the corner of Main and Bridge streets his car collided with the car owned and driven by Mayor Victor Chapdelaine. Neither was hurt, but the machines were considerably damaged. Mrs. Law was sitting in her husband's car in front of the office of Dr. J. J. Russell. She saw the car that the defendant was driving and in her judgment it was travelling very rapidly. James Tetreault saw a car similar to Saperstone's, and which is believed to have been this car, and he thought it was moving at a high rate of speed. Mrs. Thomas Jones witnessed the accident from the window of her home. She testified that she did not think either man was driving very fast and that she did not think the defendant was at fault. The court sufficiently accepted her judgment [illegible] and dismissed the case.

John H., the two months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Danielson, of Pomfret, died Friday and was buried Sunday. Funeral services were at the house Sunday conducted by Rev. George A. Barker.

Putnam people, especially those who own property at Crescent Beach and Niantic were interested in the account of the fire that destroyed the Francolet hotel there. The hotel was owned by George Letendre of Norwich whose wife was Miss Fannie Thurber of Putnam. The loss was partly covered b insurance.

The following has been issued to the town mothers: Below are ten questions. If you were taking a mental test, could you answer them?

1. Should a growing child from two to six years of age eat whenever he "feels hungry?" Yes or no.
2. Give two reasons for your answer.
3. Should he have a mid-morning and mid-afternoon lunch? Yes or no.
4. Give one good reason.
5. Should he eat all kinds of vegetables? Yes or no.
6. Give one reason why.
7. Why should a child sleep alone.
8. How many hours should a growing child sleep and why?
9. Give five reasons why children "catch colds."
10. Give five reasons for a child being under weight.

If you will bring these questions to the well child conference at the High school auditorium at Putnam on Tuesday, April 7, you can talk them over with the doctor and nurse. An exchange of ideas on any subject is always helpful.

Miss Nellie M. Egan and her niece, Miss Eleanor Egan of Wauregan were in Boston last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlton W. Durfee have returned to their home on Laurel street after a visit of several weeks with relatives in Flushing, L. I., and Bridgeport, Conn.

After the Byrne Company store closed Thursday, the employes remained to hold their annual party. Supper was served in the basement and Miss Katherine Byrne was the guest of honor. The supper was in charge of Mrs. W. W. Whitney and the menu was as follows:

Crab Salad
Rolls Potato Chips
Crackers and Cheese
Assorted Cake and Coffee
Candy Nuts

At each place was a place card, with lines particularly suited to the one assigned there which were not only interesting to each but to their friends as well and read as follows:

Katherine—With renewed pledges of loyalty from her employes, and sincere wishes for health and prosperity. Mary—"Mary the Fitter" will give you one. As a fitter cannot be done. Tom—Not "Tom, Tom, the Piper's Son" but the nifty lad on the Cot-tons. Rachel—Rachel the model in oak or gown. Where can you find her like in town. Beatrice—Half a day, half a day, half a day onward, comes little Beatrice the second.

Edna—The "Cash Girl" ding, ding, ding. Isn't she the dearest little thing. Cyril—Man of "letters." Trimmer as well. Been with Byrne's quite a spell. Belle—Under duds are hard to sell. That's why some people ring the Belle. Elizabeth—Not every "floor walker" has the skill. "To rest" or "stop" on the "beat" at will. Celia—Celia takes more stock in Lylse or silk than all her kin. Juliet—Romeo says that Juliet "looks so cute in a hair net." Eva—Watch Eva "Chase" the notions. Oh, what a commotion. Etta—To our pal who knows a good spread and what should go with the covers. Beatrice—Corsets known to one and all. "Nemos" are the goods next fall. Sister Annie—David and Jonathan, Damon and Pythais, Beatrice and Annie—Friends.

After the supper they all attended the Bradley theater to see the big feature picture, Abraham Lincoln.

STONINGTON

Prospects for a new charter for the new fire district just above the Borough seem favorable. The project was favored at the hearing by the Selectment and the Representatives from the Town of Stonington. There is now [illegible] $400,000 worth of property according to the Town Tax Book within the proposed district without the protection and with the water mains now in use all through the district, it is an easy matter to install hydrants and maintain a small chemical truck capable of carrying 1,000 feet of hose, a fire could be handled without trouble. Stonington will go on daylight saving time as usual Sunday, April 26th. Each succeeding year there is less talk about the merits of daylight saving and it is now generally accepted as being a great benefit to all. On account of the Standard Time law, the Community House clock will probably be stopped and there is talk of a Borough meeting to stop the Town Clock, owing to the clock being an hour behind time in this section.

Many have visited the Steamer fire house to look at the Stutz pumper which won a test before the fire commissioners at Ansonia last Wednesday. Ansonia officials arranged a pumping contest between the makers of fire apparatus, as they are in the market for a triple combination machine.

New—your very own Soap

"Make us a toilet soap as delicious for personal use as French soap"
— women wrote us

"DO, do make us an exquisite soap to use all the time—one as heavenly, as delicious, as French soap," they begged us.

"We are sure you can do it—you made our magic, indispensable Lux. Please!"

So we have made Lux Toilet Form!

A true "savon de toilette"—firm, satiny, delicately fragrant! Made it by the very method beauty-wise France uses for her finest toilet soaps. Lux Toilet Form is so fine-textured, so silken smooth. It wears and wears like the imported soaps you have loved.

Satiny, caressing lather the moment you touch it to water! Lux Toilet Form leaves your skin with that delicious, indescribably exquisite feeling you loved after imported soaps—that same luxurious, fragrant feeling you used to recklessly pay those absurd imported-soap prices for!

In its charming lavender and white wrapper you will find Lux Toilet Form at your druggist's, department store or grocer's. Ask for Lux Toilet Form today. 10c. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

AN OPERATION RECOMMENDED

Avoided by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Los Angeles, Cal.—"I cannot give too much praise to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me. My mother gave it to me when I was a girl 14 years old, and since then I have taken it when I feel run down or tired. I took it for three months before my two babies were born for I suffered with my back and had spells as if my heart was affected, and it helped me a lot. The doctors told me at one time that I would have to have an operation. I thought I would try it, as I call it, first. In two months after using one who saw me after that remarked that I looked so well. I only have to take medicine occasionally, not but I always keep a couple of bottles by me. I recommend it to women who speak to me about their health. I have also used your Sanative Wash and like it very much." — Mrs. E. GOULD, 4000 East Side Boulevard, Los Angeles, Cal.

Many letters have been received from women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound after operations have been advised.

PIMPLES ON FACE AND BODY

Could Not Sleep From Irritation. Cuticura Heals.

"A few months ago I noticed that my face and body were breaking out with small pimples which grew larger each day. At night they were most bothersome, causing me to scratch, and I could not sleep on account of the irritation.

"I used different remedies but none proved successful. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in a week's time I noticed that the pimples were drying up. I continued the treatment and now I am completely healed." NEEDLESS SPRING FIRES.

We have once more reached the season of the year when there is need for exercising the greatest amount of care in the prevention of fires in grass, brush and woodland. There may well be a desire to clear away some of the debris, to burn over areas which are covered with dried weeds and grass, to get rid of heaps of brush, and it is possible to do it without danger under the right conditions, but that doesn't mean that a fire can be started without some regard for what is involved and the possibilities that may develop.

Grass and brush fires have no combination about getting out of control. With plenty of dry material to feed them and a good wind to fan it much territory can be covered in a short period of time by a fire which may be most innocently started.

There are various agencies which are responsible for the kindling of fires, but too often they are due to carelessness or not intentionally with any thought of the possibilities of their getting beyond bounds. Too often is the case that serious damage to standing timber or to dwellings and outbuildings is the careless handling of firebrands at points where the tinderlike material furnishes the best kind of food for the flames.

In certain areas grass and forest fires are characteristic of every spring and fall. What is happening in this direction is only what has happened before, and yet there has been plenty of experience to enough individuals to serve as a lasting warning to others. The idea that better care will be exercised than was used by others doubtless encourages many to take chances rather than do exercise good judgment in burning over grass land and to many results. Others try the same thing without establishing the necessary safeguards and the experiment is sorry one. Others start fires unintentionally, but through carelessness, and the losses that follow and the expense that is caused in various ways make a huge addition to the needless waste that occurs each year.

CHANGING AUTO LAWS.

A legislative hearing of much importance today is that scheduled before the committee on roads, rivers and bridges regarding revision and amendments of the motor vehicle law, the bill which will require insurance for all passengers in public service vehicles, and a measure calling for revision and amendment of the general motor vehicle act.

It is inevitable in a period of two years, with the rapid growth that the automobile business has experienced, that there should be many reasons for making changes in the law. Not only must there be taken into consideration the conditions which have developed in the past two years but there must be some anticipation of what will be required with the continued expansion during the next two years.

It is important that there should be a thorough consideration of the proposed changes. If for any reason the plan of changing the laws are advisable, if it goes too far or if it does not go far enough it should be disclosed while the changes are being perfected.

With so many more people being transported as passengers in public service vehicles, and highly conditions becoming more and more congested, it seems to be only fair to such travelers that they should have the protection that would come from insurance provided by the transporting company. It is no more than is assured them in the case of other transportation concerns, even though insurance does not have to be imposed upon them in order to satisfy such claims as may develop.

Experience has demonstrated the need for furnishing increased protection to all highway users. With the proposed laws drawn with that idea in mind this is the time for disclosing any weakness or defect, any inadequacy or any overstepings of bounds. The hearing is therefore an important one. Condecticut understands that the laws must keep pace with the motor vehicle situation and the laws which are about to be enacted will govern for the next two years.

JAPANESE CONFERENCE VIEWS.

While there are those in this country who seem to delight in doing all they can to embarrass the government, it has been made clear that the condition is not peculiar to the United States by the recent disclosure in Japan.

Japan is one of the countries which would be expected to participate in a conference for the further limitation of armament if one is called. Japan was a signer of the existing naval agreement and it has had good reason to appreciate the benefits which have developed as the result of that treaty. For that reason it was to be anticipated that Japan would be favorably disposed to another conference from which additional advantages would accrue.

The Japanese government is favorably disposed to the proposed conference. It would like to see it held and would participate therein, and for that reason it comes in the nature of a surprise that the very opposite attitude has been taken by certain Japanese newspapers. In the opposition that is displayed, there crops out evidence of deliberate misrepresentation or a lack of information. This is to be noted in connection with such a claim as that which says both America and Britain has given Japan cause to "suspect their sincerity in regard to peace in the Pacific," and another which makes the assertion that the Washington conference made the United States "virtually the premier naval power of the world."

It will be noted that these views are not shared in by the Japanese government. It knows better, and the latter must in particular make those in this country laugh who have been insisting that we have been neglecting our first line of defense and failing to keep our navy up to the 5-5-3 ratio.

It is a gratifying fact that it is the government rather than certain Japanese newspapers which are taking the correct view of the situation, but it is unfortunate that such efforts are underway to poison the minds of the Japanese people.

STOPPING WILD ANIMAL ACTS.

What must be regarded as the lead, and a most important one, is that taken by Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey's circus in abandoning the acts with wild animals which have thrilled many a circusgoer.

Persistent and organized effort has been directed against animal acts of all kinds on the ground of preventing cruelty to animals. This cruelty doesn't necessarily appear at the time of the exhibition, although means of forcing the animals and protecting the actors are at hand, but prevails during the training period. The action of the biggest of the circuses is not given on that score, however, but in response to the effect which such stunts have upon many who go to circuses or who would go but for the fact that they are unwilling to witness such exhibitions.

Whatever the cause for the change it will be hailed with delight by those who have been working so long in the interest of the animals. Because one circus has undertaken this reform does not imply that all the others will follow, and it is not to be inferred that all the thrills are furnished by the animal acts. But what is done by the leader quite often serves as a guide for the others. Quite the same as the addition of such acts has caused others in the past to immediately search for as good if not better, the abandonment of them now indicates that others will curtail in a similar manner. Unquestionably the big show regards the acts as of no great importance, and if they can sacrifice them without injury to business they will be only too eager to do so.

SELLING THE SHIPS.

The sale of the five government vessels now being operated by the Pacific Mail company to the Dollar line by a majority of the shipping board doesn't apparently dispose of the matter. What the injunction that has been obtained by the former company will result in remains for interesting developments.

The steamship company which is now operating them under the government's ownership insists that it made a higher bid. Part of the board considers that the lower bid was the better bid while the minority doesn't believe that the vessels, which are some of the best the government owns, should be sold for any such price as either company offered.

This is only one of the developments which indicate the difficulties in the shipping board and the desirability of terminating its duties and vesting them with the fleet corporation, which has effected big savings and which is able to do business with greater economy and increased efficiency.

Whenever the question of selling the government ships comes up it is pointed out what they cost and what the replacement value is, but in no instance do the bids ever come anywhere near the latter figure. There is a desire for the government to get out of the shipping business, while there is also a desire that it should get a fair price for its ships and not throw them away. Some difficulty has been experiencing in giving certain ships away while nothing is more evident that the trouble in getting what ought to be obtained. It displays the impossibility of satisfying everybody.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Washington, April 6—"When as in silks my Julia goes" does she display any interest in the development of the American silk industry? On the authority of the U. S. tariff commission—

"The American silk-weaving industry is the largest in the world. Its output at least equals that of all European countries combined, and probably more than doubles that of Japan. Several factors have contributed to this growth—the continuance of high-tariff duties since the Civil War, the application of power machinery to broad-silk manufacture, the development of sericulture in Japan resulting in an expanded supply of raw silks of good grade, and the rise of a mass demand for staple broad silks of all grades and types."

The development of the American silk industry in the decade 1914-1923 was phenomenal. A recent census bulletin shows that the number of factories grew from 902 to 1598; wage earners increased from 108,000 to 125,000; wage payments from $47,000,000 to $127,000,000, or 170 per cent; the cost of materials from $144,000,000 to $479,000,000; and the value of products from $254,000,000 to $761,000,000. One item which stands out in the industry is the increased cost of raw silk. In 1914 we imported 23,800,000 pounds valued at a little over $77,000,000, or an average pound value of $3.24. In 1923 we imported 49,482,000 pounds valued at nearly $392,000,000, or an average of almost $8.00 a pound. Per capita wages, including part and full time, skilled and unskilled operators, increased from $433 a year to $1,015, or 135 per cent. These figures do not include knit fabrics, statistics for which are not at hand, but the value of which totaled $41,000,000 in 1914, and probably close to $100,000,000 in 1923.

Imports of silk manufactures during 1923 reached $44,600,000 in value, the bulk of them coming from Japan. The "mass demand" for silks is a good indication of the high living standards enjoyed by the people of America.

The wide distribution of investment stocks and bonds in corporations among the general public in this country, which has frequently been remarked upon with great satisfaction, seems to have its counterpart in Great Britain. There, however, the investments are not so much in shares as in postal savings bank accounts. According to an official statement, such deposits at the end of 1924 amounted to about $1,400,000,000; which stupendous sum belonged not to a rich half-million, but to no fewer than 12,300,000 persons of the working and middle classes. Other institutions showed similar investments and savings, bringing the grand total up to $1,810,000,000, owned by 14,500,000 small investors. A nation of only 45,000,000 which contains 14,500,000 investing capitalists evidently stands upon a prudent and conservative basis. It is in such fashion that wealth is to be distributed among the people, and not by the arbitrary methods of the Communist.

The death of John Jacob Rogers, of Lowell, Mass., leaves a vacancy in Congressional ranks and Republican councils which the country and the party can ill afford. Born in 1881, elected to Congress in 1913, Rogers displayed the attributes of statesmanship before he was 32. Personally he was a lovable character. Intellectually he illuminated the lower chamber, where rules, procedure, and numbers make it difficult to shine. One of Rogers' closest friends was Walton Moore, democrat from the eighth Virginia district, who, in Rogers' estimation was the ablest man on the minority side. It is recalled that when the committee on foreign affairs, of which Rogers and Moore were members, was about to report out the Rogers bill for the reorganization of the foreign service, Moore was unavoidably absent, and Rogers requested postponement of action until Moore could be present as he felt Moore's advice and influence were vitally necessary in the formulation of the report.

Rogers fought for years to put through his foreign service bill, succeeding a year ago. He at least had the satisfaction of seeing that flower open its petals and it was the blossom nearest to his heart's desire. No epitaph could be graved upon his stone than this: "His great service to the Nation was the reform of the nation's foreign service."

It looks as if Peru were hell-bent to make trouble. A chief executive lacking the self-control of Calvin Coolidge would have exploded into righteous wrath ere this. The Peruvian view that "a proper reading of the treaty (of Ancon, 1884) required that the plebiscite be held ten years after the date of the signing of the treaty or not at all" seems illusory inasmuch as no such view had been expressed in over 40 years. Following the war with Chile the Peruvians were economically and politically demoralized for more than a decade. Graft, debt, dictatorship, revolt—everything conspired to ruin the country and when the time for the plebiscite rolled around nothing could be done by Peru, and nothing was done. Now, if the plebiscite was to have been held ten years after the treaty signing, or not at all, why was it that repeatedly after 1894 Peru approached Chile for the purpose of holding it? Her action then belies her views now. It is up to Peru to be a good sport, settle the controversy once and for all, and get down to business. That is what Chile has been doing and she is more prosperous than Peru without half Peru's resources.

The announcement that British South Africa intends to abolish the preferential tariff rates now in force in favor of British goods comes as a rude shock to British business men, and quite a surprise to tariff observers in the U. S. A. It records the first break in the plan for imperial tariff preferences throughout the British dominions, and should the example prove contagious the policy will be ditched. British South Africa "intends to adopt a straight-away policy of seeking closer trade relations with other countries by entering into reciprocal agreements on a 'most favored treatment' basis."

Our own trade with that territory last year was imports $7,700,000, exports $36,000,000. The Republicans are chary of reciprocal agreements, although we have one with Cuba. For example, they would not sacrifice California and Florida oranges to the expanding orange production of South Africa in order to secure better tariff rates on eastern machinery. From the protectionist viewpoint South Africa acts rashly.

Owing to the fact that numerous foreign countries were sending vast quantities of butter and other dairy products to this country and selling them at a price tended to severely injure, if not ruin, the dairy interests of the country, President Coolidge recently directed that the United States tariff commission make an inquiry into the matter, so that, if it were found necessary, he could, under the flexible rate of the tariff, adjust the duty on foreign dairy products. According to statutes an open meeting must be held by the tariff commission before the case is finally submitted to the President with the recommendation of the commission. This open hearing will be held at the office of the tariff commission in Washington at 10 a. m., April 21st.

Word has been received in Washington that vigorous protests have been made by Danish producers against any increase in the rate on butter, some of the objectors, it is said, even going so far as to threaten the United States with tariff or other reprisals.

Whether it likes it or not, congress will be obliged to pass judgment on the Muscle Shoals program at the next session. Furthermore, the desire to dodge this issue, which is admittedly prevalent in certain quarters, will be made harder by reason of the fact that to the new congress the president will transmit a report of the special commission which is already appointed to investigate this subject in all its phases. To that commission he has named former Representative John C. McKenzie of Illinois, former Senator Nathaniel B. Dial of South Carolina, Professor Harry A. Curtis, Yale university, William McClellan, New York city, and Russell F. Bower of the Farm Bureau federation.

Muscle Shoals, to the farmers of the nation, means an opportunity for agricultural development. The president's attitude is that this is a particular side of the subject which deserves careful study, and support in the event of the farmers' conjectures proving to be justified. For that reason he will accompany the report of the Muscle Shoals commission with a strong sustaining message calling for action and decision.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Ouimet's Reply.

Mr. Editor: Mr. Poreda thinks I was not justified in criticising his letter. Can I, a Catholic, whose early training was obtained in parochial schools and knowing the true state of affairs, be blamed for objecting to this pernicious clap-trap about parochial schools being a detriment to American ideals? It seems almost futile to argue the point with Mr. Poreda for as a matter of fact he is sadly ignorant of the principles of Catholic schools and is scared by the ancient bugaboo of the pope capturing the white house. He also seems to fear insoluble segregations in American society and he very evidently would like to deprive people of different nationalities of conserving their individuality. As a nation we started by declaring "all men are created equal." If Mr. Poreda and other one hundred percenters got control it would be changed to read: "All men are created equal except foreigners and Catholics."

I read a news item in the Hartford Courant last Sunday containing a speech by Prof. Carlton J. H. Hayes of Columbia university. He says: "History text books in use in public schools give an exaggerated idea of the virtues of our own countrymen and an equally exaggerated idea of the evils and cowardice of citizens of other countries. Every year there is graduated from our public schools literally an army of youths who are hopelessly bigoted in their sense of nationalism."

Proclaiming his patriotism from the housetops and being the central broadcasting station of truth, is not this one grand opportunity for Mr. Poreda to prove his patriotism in a practical way by getting busy at reform?

ARTHUR OUIMET.

Fine Exhibition of Honesty.

Mr. Editor: I hope you will print this letter in recognition of a very fine exhibition of honesty by one of our citizens.

In our rush of business last Saturday, our cashier gave to Mrs. Frank Stanley of Jewett City, Conn., $10 extra in making change. We found the shortage when the cash was counted but without knowing how it occurred. To our surprise Mrs. Frank Stanley came to our store this morning and handed us $10 with the explanation that she received $10 "over" in her change.

We are indeed gratified by the very fine character of the people of our city and vicinity. We have found this honesty and sincerity of our citizens showing itself in many ways, making it a great pleasure and an obligation to be of service to them.

Sincerely yours,
THE SELF SERVICE SHOE STORE,
Charles Jacobson,
Manager.

TRUE CHARITY

It usually needs the January 1 bills to clear away the smoke and disclose what has taken place in the last wild weeks before Christmas. But today, in the Brookens household, where increasingly true for ten years, there is no smoke to clear away—and Mrs. Brookens claims the glory. Which perhaps is fair enough, considering that no one ever tried to share the post-Christmas obloquy with her in other seasons.

It was early in December, 1924, that her inspiration came. Brookens had brought the large check-book and the monthly bills to the bare dining-room table and settled himself for an evening of close figuring. The light is better there and besides he needed plenty of space for the bills. The children were in bed and Mrs. Bookens, close by, was blithely darning stockings for her centipedes.

Mrs. Brookens always endeavors to be blithe while the bills are being looked over. They are not exclusively her fault—so why assume it? Besides, blitheness is needed.

While Brookens sat glooming over the big butter-milk-and-egg bill which was in its second month now and really must be considered, Mrs. Brookens set her darning basket aside and abruptly left the room. He heard her in the hall calling up one of their numerous acquaintances. Talking about Christmas. Yes, that was next. And here was the doctor's bill for their recent siege of flu.

Who'd have thought the old pill-bottle made so many visits!

What was she saying?

"Oh, yes, we always have the children do something for the poor, anyway, but there is a family that really has a claim on us, and Mr. Brookens and I think it's our duty just to concentrate on them. Give them things they really need, you know. In fact, if we don't look out for them I don't know who will. What's that? . . . Yes amazing how the present-giving circle enlarges! Such fun to give—we don't know where to stop. . . . . How you do understand! . . . Well—isn't it odd that our thoughts should have been running in the same channel? Greetings, then—but no gifts!"

Brookens caught the good-by but as he looked expectantly at the door he heard her calling another number. He listened. The same conversation began and finished. Then a third time with another, and another, and another. He tried to fix his mind on the way the plumber's bill was gobbling the money that belonged to the coal bill, when—Great Scott! Here was insurance this month! How had he ever overlooked that? And listen: She had just called up a new number and began all over again. Each time she seemed to put a little more emphasis on the things they were going to do for that needy family.

At last she hung up definitely and came back to her darning. She looked important.

"I suppose you need me," she said, as she tried to keep the darning egg from slipping clear through the hole in the youngest centipede's knees. "But you should have heard them! It was pathetic the way they received it. I only asked them to meet me half way, but they came on the run and fell on my neck.

"Henry, dear, some of them almost wept for joy. I never did a better stroke of work in my life."

"Well, I guess you're right," he agreed genially, as he smoothed out the electric light bill and looked it square in the face. "Only"—he hated to be a wet blanket—"you know, my dear, we've promised more than we could spare to the charities already. Um-m, this family you told them we were going to do so much for—who is it anyhow?"

"Who?" Mrs. Brookens laid down her darning and gorgot she had been a school teacher. "Henry Brookens, you innocent! It's us!"—Exchange.

Are You Discouraged?

Wood Had to Forego Football

When Leonard Wood had to forego football to spend his time making his way through college, it was only one of his many self-denials.

Born in Winchester, N. H., he was four when his father returned from the Civil War, an invalid for life. Taken to Pocasset, Mass., at eight, he attended public school and Pierce Academy, at Middleboro, where he "just kept up with his classes." He wanted to join the navy, but saw little opportunity for advancement. He then bought an equipment to join an expedition to Alaska, but his father persuaded him to follow his profession of medicine.

Winning a scholarship, he entered Harvard Medical School at 20. He was fond of athletics and especially enjoyed football, but had to spend his spare time in doing odd jobs to eke out his income.

Graduating at 24, he became an interne in a hospital. Against the rules, he operated on a baby that was near death and saved its life, and was expelled.

Joining the army as assistant surgeon, at 26, he captured Geronimo, the Apache Indian chief, and for his achievement received the Congressional Medal of Honor. Sent to Washington as physician to the secretary of war, he met Theodore Roosevelt, and they became close friends.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he organized the Rough Riders and was made brigadier-general for bravery at Santiago and Las Guasimas. Later he was military governor of Cuba until it became a republic.

Called a "White House pet," he, as major-general, won over the jealous army men and the insurgent tribes in the Philippines. Made Chief of Staff of the United States Army at 40, he served three years and was reduced in rank by President Wilson. He started Plattsburg and when the United States entered the World war asked to be permitted to serve abroad, but was ordered to train troops at home.

In 1920 he was a prominent candidate for the nomination for president, but was defeated. Made head of the University of Pennsylvania, he was granted leave of absence to be governor-general of the Philippines. He has been honored by many countries and institutions and at 64 has a host of admirers.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William McClellan, selected by President Coolidge as a member of a commission to examine into and report upon the most practical method of utilizing Muscle Shoals, is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, who specialized in electrical engineering, and later taught in the university. Then he entered the employ of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Commission, later worked for some of the Westinghouse concerns, and then went into the business of making electrical supplies and perfecting new inventions in which he was interested. In 1911 he was retained as consulting engineer for the New York State public service commission, and in 1916 he was appointed dean of the Wharton school of finance and commerce of the University of Pennsylvania. Mr. McClellan is a past president of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and has had large experience in construction and operation of electrical equipment.

The Drumming Log

The folks who really see are few;
Most think they see, but never do.
—Old Mother Nature.

Peter Rabbit had said that the log on which Thunderer the Grouse drummed was hollow, and Jumper the Hare had grinned in a most provoking manner and told Peter that he didn't know what he was talking about, for if he hadn't looked to see he couldn't know that that log was hollow.

"Thunderer isn't using a hollow log now," declared Jumper as they listened to the long, rolling booms that

"Look at the ends and see if it is hollow," Jumper demanded sounded like distant thunder. "Is the log you have seen him drumming on over where the sound is coming from, Peter?"

Peter had to admit that it was. At least, that sound seemed to be coming from very near the place where he had watched Thunderer on a certain mossy old log more than once.

"There is only one log over there that Thunderer drums on, and that must be the one you have seen him on," declared Jumper the Hare. "And, Peter dear, it isn't hollow."

"I know better!" snapped Peter. "Of course it is hollow. You say he doesn't strike the log with his wings in order to make that noise. Then how does he make it?"

"That I can't explain exactly," replied Jumper.

"Of course you can't!" cried Peter, triumphantly. "I tell you what, Jumper, let's go right over there now, and if Thunderer is still there we'll watch him drum. That will settle the question."

Jumper grinned, for he had watched Thunderer drum many times and never had been able to decide just how he made that noise. But he agreed, and they headed for the place where Thunderer was drumming. When they came in sight of an old log they saw Thunderer the Grouse standing on it. He had just stopped drumming and appeared to be listening. Peter and Jumper stopped. They hoped to see Thunderer drum again. But to their great disappointment he spread his wings and whirred away.

"Anyway, we'll look at the log, Thunderer's drumming log," said Jumper, and led the way.

It was an old log. It was a very old log. It was such an old log that it was covered with moss. It must have been lying there for years and years.

"Look at the ends and see if it is hollow," Jumper commanded.

Peter looked. He couldn't well refuse. He looked, and he found that that log wasn't hollow. Anyway, there were no openings at the ends. Jumper made him look that log over from one end to the other. There wasn't even a tiny opening in it. Such a queer look as was on Peter's face! Jumper's eyes twinkled.

"Jump on that log, Peter," said he. Peter did so.

"Now thump it as hard as you can," Jumper commanded.

"What for?" asked Peter.

"To see if you can make a noise, on it," replied Jumper. "If Thunderer the Grouse can make all that noise by hitting it with his wings, you ought to be able to make a loud noise by thumping it with your feet."

Peter thumped. He thumped with all his might. He did make a noise but it wasn't a loud noise. You see the old log was covered with moss. And that noise wasn't anything at all like the noise made by Thunderer the Grouse.

"You see," said Jumper, "the log isn't hollow and the drumming isn't made by beating the log. Are you satisfied now?"

NEW BOOKS

The Sign of Evil. By Anthony Wayne. Cloth 12 mo. 306 ages. Published by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia. Price $2.

A malignant token linked with inconceivable evil puts a sinister touch to the crime of this extraordinary detective story. The chief defense at the trial is the testimony of an antiquarian, well versed in ancient horrors. Fantastic as his evidence seems to Scotland Yard, Dr. Hailey, surgeon, scientist and amateur detective, acts upon it and succeeds in running to cover a strange and awful manifestation of distorted passion. The story is tense, with impending dread. Few clues in detective fiction have been so fraught with terror as to gruesome white "berry" the doctor finds at the base of the tree where Sir William Armand met his terrible death. Few pursuits more exciting than his midnight chase of the ghostly car to its hideous destination. There is romance in the tale as well as crime, and the bleak beauty of the coast about Calthorpe Hall is a setting peculiarly fitting to take on the moods of the story. It presents, too, for the first time the character of Dr Eustace Hailey, the "biggest doctor in the profession." He is not only a fat doctor and a good one, but a great detective. He reads the meaning of inanimate things, a scar on a tree trunk, a stain on an autumn leaf. But he searches also into the minds of men and lays bare the motives that operate there.

The Skyrocket. By Adela Rogers St. Johns. Cloth, 12mo. 322 pages. Published by Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

This is a novel of the motion picture world, written by one who knows it but is not in it. As a newspaper woman of influence she was constantly sought for counsel and guidance when Hollywood was the storm center of unfavorable publicity, and she knows well of what she writes.

The Skyrocket depicts graphically the career of a screen star. It is a bubbling book, charged with the writer's abundant vitality, full of color and emotion. With humorous insight, a strong sense of drama, and without undue moralizing there is shown the effects of sudden wealth on the girl from the laundry, the boy from the village store—humble folks till now with no cultural background and no knowledge to guide them through the avenues of fame and power which success on the screen has opened to them.

Sharon falls in love with her own image because of the turn of fortune's wheel, and this self love nearly wrecks her chance for happiness with irresistible Mickey Reid against whom she also finds her manager as greatly opposed. Ambition, self love and extravagance nearly work her undoing. At last she arrives at the crossroads, and because her story is based on character her choice seems inevitable. It is a true chronicle of human frailty saved by what is innately noble.

Visitation Evangelism, Its Methods and Results. By A. Earl Kernahan, D. D. Cloth, 167 pages. Published by Fleming H. Revell company. Price $1.25.

Because the author has been engaged at different times in evangelistic work in this city there will be special interest in this volume concerning his work. It has an introduction by Bishop E. H. Hughes of the Methodist church and in the front of the book is a poem, "God's Commissioner" by Rev. Clarence M. Gallup of Providence, formerly of this city, and dedicated to the author.

This is a book of unusual values based, not only on theoretical premises, but on the more practical ground of personal experience. A manual of instruction, and an enhearetning record of successful operation which, as Bishop Hughes says in his introduction, "is a plan that does not contradict the method of mass evangelism."

In areas, however, where this conventional method would appear to have served its purpose, or where the scattered character of the populace does not admit of its prosecution, the man to man visitation plan as laid down in detail by Dr. Kernahan cannot fail to commend itself, and if used with faithfulness, to result in a real ingathering of souls.

A wise man prepares for the worst while hoping for the best.

OBITUARY.

John Coughlin.

The death of John Coughlin occurred Monday afternoon at his home at No. 27 Roath street following an illness of about five weeks, following a shock. He had been seriously ill for the past several days during which time he was tenderly cared for by loved ones.

Mr. Coughlin was born in Ireland 79 years ago but came to this country when a young man and for the past 20 years had made his home on Roath street. He was a member of St. Mary's Memorial church and of the Holy Name society of that parish. News of his death will be received with sorrow by his many friends in this city and the family will have the sympathy of their many friends in the hour of sorrow.

Surviving are his wife, Ellen Holland Coughlin, six daughters, the Misses Mary and Elizabeth Coughlin, Mrs. Johanna Kelley and Mrs. John Barry of Norwich, Mrs. Nellie Swikette of Bridgeport and Mrs. Nora Simmons of Gales ferry, and two sons, Daniel and John Coughlin of Norwich. Eleven grandchildren also survive.

John Gaines Cooley, Jr.

Following an illness of about three weeks the death of John Gaines Cooley, Jr., occurred Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home at 58 Washington street. Mr. Cooley had not been in good health for the past eight years but this last illness was of but short duration. Throughout his long period of ill health, Mr. Cooley was tenderly cared for by his sister, Miss Virginia Taylor Cooley, who is the last of the family to survive.

John Gaines Cooley, Jr., was born in Norwich on March 4, 1843, the son of John Gaines and Harriet Yeomans Cooley. He received his early education in schools of Norwich and afterwards went to New York, living in Brooklyn. For a number of years his father operated a printing business in New York, later taking a partner and doing business under the firm name of Cooley & Dauchy. Mr. Cooley worked with his father at that business for a number of years.

Later the family returned to Norwich when Mr. Cooley, Sr., purchased a farm in Franklin. On July 15, 1876, Mr. Cooley, Sr., published the first issue of Cooley's Weekly and for twelve years following this business was carried on by father and son. The business was finally sold on October 1, 1888, to Allan Cleworth and Frank H. Pullen, who began the publication of the Norwich Evening Record, but continued to publish Cooley's Weekly.

For many years Mr. Cooley was employed in the transportation office of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company, but about eight years ago his health began to fail him and he was forced to give up all active business.

Mr. Cooley was a veteran of the Civil War having served in many of the big campaigns. At the outbreak of the war he was a boy of 18 years and lived with his parents in Brooklyn. Determined to go into the fray he managed to enlist in the Brooklyn, Thirteenth Regiment, and served until he received his honorable discharge at the end of hostilities.

In 1865 he was united in marriage with Miss Julia Kingsbury of Franklin, Connecticut, whose death occurred in Norwich, October 4, 1901. Two children came of this union, John G. Cooley, 3d, and Kingsbury Cooley, both sons passing away when in early youth.

Mr. Cooley was a member of no society but was affiliated with the Broadway Congregational church, now the United Congregational church. News of his death will be received with profound sorrow by a host of friends in this city and elsewhere. A man of quiet tastes and pleasing disposition it was an easy matter for him to make and hold his friends and this stood him in good stead in his newspaper experience, making the name of Cooley a prominent one in Connecticut newspaper life in the '80s.

He is survived only by his sister with whom he made his home.

FUNERAL.

Joseph W. Gilbert

Funeral services for Joseph W. Gilbert were held at 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon from his late home, 23 Williams street, many relatives and friends attending. There were many beautiful floral tributes, testimonials from many friends. The service was conducted by Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park Congregational church, of which Mr. Gilbert had been a member for many years. The bearers were Judge Nelson J. Ayling, Nathan A. Gibbs, Charles B. Lee, Charles D. Noyes, John H. Powelson and F. Russell Smith.

The body was conveyed to Ellington, Conn., by automobile cortege, where burial was in the family plot in the Ellington cemetery. Included in the attendance were relatives and friends from Illinois, Stafford and other places.

Arrangements were by Charles A. Gager.

NOLLES IN CITY COURT ON TWO AUTO CASES

Presented in the city court Monday morning on a charge of violation of the motor vehicle laws, Ernest Greenhill, New London, had his case nolled. According to Greenhill's story he bought an automobile for $4 in New London and got a soldier friend who has a driver's license to drive the car to Norwich. They parked the car in a restricted part of West Main street. The soldier left the machine and Greenhill remained awaiting his return.

Someone told Greenhill that he would be arrested for parking the machine there. Not being familiar with the operation of the machine, Greenhill cranked it in gear and it ran into a machine owned by Calvin Main, Jr. He stated that he was willing to pay what damage was done to Mr. Main's machine.

George Bedard, taxi driver, had his case nolled. He was charged with violation of the city ordinance and breach of the peace. Bedard was ordered by a police officer to move his taxi which he had parked parallel to the curb in front of the United church, instead of parking it rear to the curb. He claims he started for his machine to obey the order, but that words followed between the officer and himself with the result that he was arrested.

Three men were fined for intoxication and one for breach of the peace.

Fleet of Autos to Arrive.

William F. Bailey, was notified Monday that a fleet of 1925 models of the Flint roadster cars will pass through Norwich today (Tuesday) about 11 o'clock. The cars which are on a tour of New England will come here from Worcester enroute for New London.

WILL HOLD SPECIAL TOWN MEETING TO VOTE ON TAX EQUALIZATION REPORT

Experiences in tax equalization were related to the April membership meeting of the chamber of commerce Monday evening, with supper at 6.15 at the Wauregan hotel by J. E. Barlow, formerly city manager of New London, Richard W. Bunce, secretary of the Middletown committee and president of the chamber of commerce, and Walter W. Pollock, president of the Manufacturers' Appraisal company of Philadelphia.

Following the supper hour, during which music was furnished by Swahn's orchestra, President Arthur E. Story of the Chamber of Commerce, placed the conduct of the meeting in the hands of James L. Case, chairman of the special committee of fifteen, which has been studying the subject and has made its report, which will be presented to a special town meeting on Tuesday evening, April 28.

Mr. Case spoke of the great interest that is shown in this subject that was indicated by the attendance of men and women at this meeting and said he believed the average citizen is willing to pay a just tax, but he doesn't want to pay an unequal tax as compared with his neighbor. It isn't the amount of the tax that is of special interest but the question of equalization. It is an effort to bring about such conditions that those having similar properties of similar values shall pay similar taxes. It is well known now that there is much property for which the owners are asking two, three or four times what it is in the tax list for.

He referred to the printed report of the committee, which he said contained both the majority and the minority conclusions which had been reached by the committee after very full consideration of the subject and said he hoped the people would study the situation carefully and be prepared to take action that would reach satisfactory results when it comes up in the special town meeting. Let everyone make this a personal responsibility, Mr. Case said in concluding, and let some action be taken that will improve conditions in Norwich.

Mr. Case introduced Mr. Barlow of New London, who said that he considered it was almost hopeless to expect to get a committee of citizens to tackle a problem of such a size as the revaluation of the city's grand list. In New London they had used the method of the Manufacturers' Appraisal Co., and he believed that the general sentiment of New London people was that they had received fair treatment in the way the values had been fixed. Mr. Barlow said he believed the best way to do it was by an biased out-of-town assistance which has only a professional interest in seeing tha tthe work is done right. No system, however, will be perfect said Mr. Barlow. The New London grand list increased by from 6 to 7 million and there was not a lawsuit from the entire revaluation. Property was in the New London grand list at about 64 per cent. of its value and this was raised about 18 per cent.

In comment along this line Mr. Case remarked that in the Norwich list property was in at figures that rann all the way from 33 or 40 per cent., to to 100 per cent. of its value.

Speaking on what had been done in Middletown Mr. Bunce said that conditions there were as bad as they could be for in the two years that they have been at work they have not had the sympathy or cooperation of the board of assessors. The town voted $20,000 to do the work and because of this opposition from the assessors the committee in charge felt that it was necessary to engage outside assistance. They started in October, 1923 and they are not nearly through. Conditions were horrible and it has been a monumental work. One of the first steps was an aerial map of the 43 square miles which the town covers. The work is now in its final phase and it will take six months more before it is finished. But when it is done, said Mr. Bunce, we know we will pay a fair and just proportional tax with our neighbors. You won't get all you want in this tax equalization now, but you will have a basis for evolving as near a perfect scheme for tax assessment as you can get. You've got to spend money but you will get something real in return and something that you will be proud of.

Letter From Middletown

Secretary John J. O'Rourke read the following letter from T. M. Russell of the Middletown committee:

Norwich, Chamber of Commerce
Norwich, Conn.
Gentlemen:

Middletown, Conn., April 4—I am extremely sorry that an unforeseen call out of town will prevent my being present at your meeting on Monday evening, but am very glad, indeed, that I was able to ararnge with Mr. Richard Bunce, chairman of the Middletown Chamber of Commerce and a very active member of the committee which has had our tax revision problem in hand, to substitute for me and feel sure that you will not suffer in any way by the change.

As you know from my former talks in Norwich, this whole subject is one which I hold of vital importance to any community, and I have gathered that your condition very closely approximates the one which we had to contend here in Middletown before we undertook our new valuation.

Our work has now progressed almost to the point of completion, and although we anticipate that it will be some years yet before all the final kinks are worked out, I, for one, feel absolutely satisfied that the system which we have installed, if properly handled, will bring us as near perfect results in personal value of property as it is possible to get in any matter which involves the many complications and difficulties inseparable from assessment work.

My own personal feeling in the whole matter is that it is practically impossible to arrive at so good a valuation of property by the use of local people as can be done by experts trained in this particular work and who have no affiliations in any way with any section, group or individual in the community. It seems to me that this should be just as evident as the necessity which is felt by all properly conducted institutions of having their books audited and their accounts gone over and checked by experts trained in that particular field, and in this matter of taxation this is such a highly specialized art that although men untrained in this particular work could undoubtedly devise a system which would be fairly satisfactory, it would seem the part of wisdom to employ the very best talent available which permits the bringing to bear on the problem of all the information and experience which they have gained through similar work in other places.

Personally, I am strongly in favor of the single assessor appointed by the mayor or other city authority for an indefinite tenure of office, as I feel that this position is one which should not properly be elective in that no man, no matter how high his moral character may be, can justly and honestly carry out the details of this office if he is compelled to keep one eye on the voter and his only assurance of continuance in office is the good will of the voting public.

As Commissioner Blodgett said at the hearing in Hartford before the cities and boroughs committee when our charter amendments were up for consideration,—"The present system of assessment has brought about nothing but the combined wrongs of 200 years of this same policy." He went on to state how these wrongs were accumulative and increased from year to year, and that without some definite policy and thoroughly satisfactory system, the evils now prevalent could not be eliminated and that among these evils was the continuance of the elective method for selecting assessors.

I wish you all success in your undertaking for a satisfactory revision of your methods and feel sure that all the towns in the state will gradually come to realize the absolute necessity of thoroughly business-like methods in this department of their government, and that although the relatively few towns which have already found and are undertaking revision of their assessment system have to bear the brunt of the burden and criticism, that in a few years to come, these same towns will be pointed out as the pioneers of a great movement which will ultimately embrace the whole country.

Once more expressing my regret that I could not be with you, I remain.

Yours very truly
T. M. RUSSELL.

Mr. Pollock Speaks

In introducing the next speaker, who was President Pollock of the Manufacturers Appraisal Co., Chairman Case said it had not been intended to have Mr. Pollock appear tonight but when a telegram was received from Mr. Pollock asking for the privileges of coming it was decided that it was too good an opportunity to be lost.

Mr. Pollock explained the Somers system of land valuation which is used by his company in which a unit front foot value for 100 feet of depth is established for the most valuable property in a selected section, public discussions are held, and proportionate values are set from the high unit value. There must be separate appraisals of land and buildings.

Mr. Pollock explained what was provided for in the contract if the services of the company should be used here. They would make unit value maps for the whole city, property maps for the parts that have not already been mapped, furnish the service of experts for appraisal of city and rural land, do the computing when the unit foot values have been determined by the assessors, furnish experts in methods of building valuation to assist the assessors, make the appraisal of all exempt property and machinery and equipment of manufacturing plants, make the card records, instruct the assessors so that they can continue the system. The work will be completed in 9 months and the fee will be $20,000.

Mr. Pollock mentioned the objections that has been raised to employing outside assistance and said that he felt that was a very proper sentiment, but the matter of valuation is a science which stands by itself and you can't expect the local assessors to do this without training. As to the $20,000 fee, at least 60 per cent. of this will be spent in Norwich, largely in the use of clerical help. We know, he said, that we can satisfy 85 percent of your people that the revaluation is fair, when it is completed.

Albert Boardman asked what had been the experience in Winsted where Mr. Pollock's company has just completed a contract.

Mr. Pollock answered that the list on houses had been increased 29.68 per cent., on barns 38.19 per cent., on lots 69.96 per cent., on stores 24.14 per cent., on mills 74.53 per cent., on lands 58 per cent. The town tax rate had been reduced from 19 1-2 to 14.7 mills, the city rate from 5 mills to 3.8 mills. There had been 175 complaints received.

Several others asked questions and C. Edward Carpenter said he felt there was need of having something done here. He told of buying a piece of property for which he was asked $10,000 but it was in the list for $1,200. He made the purchase and raised the list to $5,000. He thought we ought to back this movement.

J. C. Macpherson asked if, with the augmented grand list, it wouldn't be the attitude of the town meeting to vote everything in sight.

Mr. Bunce answered that that was squarely up to the citizens, and Secretary O'Rourke reminded the meeting that the whole matter was not a question of a high or low tax rate but of equalization. The important thing is to have all paying their taxes by the same yard stick.

Votes of thanks were passed to the three speakers and the meeting adjourned about 9.30 after singing a verse of the Star Spangled Banner.

ROSE CROIX CHAPTER WORKS LARGE CLASS

There was a large attendance Monday evening, at the assembly of Norwich Chapter of Rose Croix at the Masonic Temple, where a large class of candidates received the degrees of the chapter. Previous to the work of the evening which was in charge of M. W. M., C. Hadlai Hull of New London, a banquet was served in the banquet hall of the temple, attended by over 200 members.

During the meeting Charles L. Stewart, Commander in Chief of Connecticut Consistory, announced that the consistory would work a degree in this city on April 27th and that on May 1st, all candidates would go to Bridgeport, where the 32nd degree will be worked in full form by Lafayette Consistory. Arrangements are being made to convey the members to Bridgeport on that date and after the work which begins at 4 o'clock in the afternoon a banquet is to be served at 6:30 at the Stratford Hotel. It is expected that many members of Connecticut Consistory will make the trip to Bridgeport to see this degree worked on all the candidates of the state simultaneously.

NORWICH TRAVELERS COUNCIL WILL HAVE BIG DAY

Norwich council of the United Commercial Travelers is anticipating one of the biggest events when it entertains eight Southern New England councils and will have Supreme Councellor W. D. Mowry of Kansas City as a guest. The April number of the Travelers Monthly makes the following announcement:

Norwich has ever been noted for its hospitality, and April 11, when Norwich council plays the host to eight Southern New England councils, will prove no exception.

First, the ladies of our newly organized auxiliary, will receive our guests and stimulate them with their charms and nutriment. A full brass band will play inspiring jazz airs that will add still further to the welcome. Then a short street parade through the mercantile section of our new white-way; after which a side-splitting vaudeville act, will be staged, in Olympic hall, for the purpose of introducing our invincible eight-piece orchestra, which will take up the musical part of the program the balance of the evening. After the one-act comedy, will come a welcome to Norwich from the mayor of the city, Milo R. Waters, followed by the president of the Chamber of Commerce, Arthur L. Story. Mr. Story will present, in behalf of the Chamber, a beautiful silver loving cup to the council having the best attendance. Even King Solomon, in all his glory, could not have wished for more, and then comes the ceremonial, with Supreme Counselor Mowry and Grand Counselor Daniels and all the other grand officers.

W. D. Mowry of Kansas City, Kan., supreme counselor of the Order of United Commercial Travelers of America, has been making an official tour of Pacific coast cities and recently has addressed gatherings of commercial travelers in San Diego, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Portland and Tacoma. His itinerary also included Victoria and Vancouver, B. C. His chief mission on this tour is to enlist local councils in chambers of commerce and other organized activities which contribute to the expansion of the commercial interests of their respective cities.

"As representatives of the jobber and manufacturer," said Mr. Mowry, "our members are not only selling their merchandise, but their cities as well. Their optimism and dissemination of facts have much to do with stimulating and stabilizing business conditions, especially in their contact with merchants of the smaller cities.

"Everywhere I find the most encouraging and deep-seated conviction that the present improvement in business conditions is to be permanent and will gain in momentum," said Mr. Mowry. "The commercial traveler is a potential element in spreading this gospel of business confidence.

MISS FRANCES OLNEY DIES IN HOUSE WHERE SHE WAS BORN

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Putnam, April 6—Miss Frances Olney, 77, died Monday, at her home in Thompson. She was born and lived all her life in the house in which she died. She is the last member of the Olney family in Thompson, her brother, Charles Olney, having died in 1919. They were distantly related to Richard Olney, Secretary of State under President Cleveland when the difference occurrd with Great Britain over Venezuela which it was feared would lead to war.

Miss Olney was born October 27, 1847, her parents being Jeremiah and Elmira Jacobs Olney. Her father was School Fund Commissioner for the State of Connecticut for many years.

TO REBUILD ALEWIFE COVE HIGHWAY BRIDGE

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 6.—This city has in contemplation the rebuilding of the highway bridge over Alewife cove to Glenwood avenue. The city manager has obtained plans for two styles of bridges of two materials, steel and cement. The former can be had at an estimated cost of $7,500 and the latter at an expense of $15,000 to $17,000. The city manager was directed to secure plans for both structures and to report the expense of them to the council. Bids will be sought for the performance of the work.

SINGER TAKEN ILL AT SLATER ANNEX

Miss Fanny Washington, who was on the programme for the April meeting of the Norwich Music association Monday evening at the Slater hall annex, was taken suddenly ill when she had given about half the programme and was unable to continue.

PLAINFIELD DEFEATS TAFTVILLE IN LAST GAME OF BASKETBALL SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, April 6—At the Plainfield community house here tonight the local Army and Navy club avenaged the smarting wound that the rival club from Taftville inflicted on the Plainfield team some weeks ago. The Taftville team, hopejessly outclassed, were literally swamped in tonight's game by a score of 57 to 16. At no time did the boys from Taftville get started as the home team proved to be too fast company for the visitors. The local team was a 10 to 1 favorite but there was a lack of Taftville backers.

Fans shoute dthemselves hoarse, the crowd was wild and intense excitement prevailed, the crowd pleading with the locals for "More Baskets, More Baskets." Joe Belair was the stellar player of the Taftville team but was unable to hold Benson down. Hanky Noris, Bissells played basketball looping baskets at any time. The first half ended with the score 21 to 7 in the locals favor. The second half was a reptition of the first, a battle between stars and amateurs. Taftville came in a daez and the players realized it was useles to mke any attempt to get down the led. The final score was 57 to 16.

The Buddies played the Plainfield team in the preliminary game winning by a score of 18 to 17. The game was close and fast throughout.

CHAPMAN TECH OUTCLASSES THE OLD LYME TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, Apurll 6—With two teams playing all kinds of baseball, the Chapman Tech nine opened its season against Old Lyme Saturday afternoon at Morgan Park, easily winning from this nine and by the enormous score of 20 to 6. A medley of errors, together with several hits decided the issue for the Red and Black in the first inning. Neither team was impressive in this opening contest, the visitors especially lacking all the good qualities which go to make up a baseball team.

Chapman Tech so completely outplayed their much lesser experienced opponents, that the game turned into a farcial comedy after Tech had its turn at bat. It was merely a guess as to which would reach the higher total, the runs or the errors committed by the vistors.

BULKELEY TEAMS IN PRACTICE GAME YESTERDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 6—The recent improvements made upon the city grounds by the city authorities has been the signal for unusual activity by the local High school teams. Bulkeley beginning its third week of outdoor drills is fast assuming the proportions of her former invincible self, and it will be but a matter of time until the team improves upon the performance which was noted in the work out this afternoon. With the opening game two weeks distant, the opening lineup will be known shortly.

Theopening workout marking the third week of baseball at the Orange and Black camp has seen some changes in two posts. At the first base position, McCue who was formerly considered a fixture at this open position has faded out of the picture gradually, being supplanted by Jimmie Latham. The performance of McCue which ended in a fine work out Saturday, was not at all pleasing to the Bulkeley mentor and a stronger player was sought. Whether Latham will fill the bill is a matter of speculation, but he made a fairly good showing in the practice game this afternoon. It seems to be a toss up between Latham, Crawford a lanky individual, and the elongated Lonergan. The latter is a good hitter, but his dumbness is personified on the field.

Another change which was expected to be made for some time was at last affected today. Gene. Montali, a rather handy individual with the stick and a left hander at that was given left field to patrol today. His work both afield and at bat marks him as a regular performer. Montali is a converted twirler, having effected his debut in the game with Norwich Free Academy last year. He connected for a brace of doubles in as many times at the plate and has been retained on the squad as a pinch hitter. His services were never desired in this line, but his position which requires watchfulness and reliability will be watched closely. He will have to be a good substitute for the deposed Rice who formerly took care of this position.

This afternoon's workout included an infield practice with a six inning game then taking place between the Yannigans and the Regulars. Joe Parisi and Tillie Daniels opposed each other on the mound and went strong, each allowing the same number of hits. With one down in the sixth Montali singled but Latham grounded out. Joe Barry and Hutchison followed with safe drives and the game was won by the Regulars by a 2 to 0 score. Daniels was inclined to take things easy and this accounted for the hitting which the Yannigans enjoyed. Tomorrow this feud will be resumed.

SUB BASE BOXERS TO FIGHT ON HARTFORD CARD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 6—Two fighters from the Submarine Base, leaders in their respective classes and champions in the Atlantic coast division of the navy, will show their mitts to Connecticut boxers for the first time when they are expected to be on the same card with Rock Smith of Battle Creek and Bob Lowrie of Boston at Hartford. This bout will be the main affair, and Kid Lopez who is the feather weight champion will oppose the versatile Johnny Keefe of Hartford in a six round bout.

The other boxer around whom local interest is pinned is Matt Baldwin, who in the exhibition show recently staged by the Masonic and Elks Club orders had Georgie Day reeling all over the ring, is expected to be the other contestant on the same card with Kid Lopez. The red thatched head of Hugh Rorty, who is staging the card under the auspices of the Atlas A. C. of Hartford, is devising of a way to have the welter weight fighting gob, Matt Baldwin appear on the same card. As yet no opponent has been found for this boxer, but that does not interfere his training which is daily watched by a squad of visitors at the Base.

SODOM STARS TO PUT ON TEAM THIS SEASON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 6.—Announcement was made recently by Edward Guay of 22 Willowbrook street, that the Sodom Stars will be in the field, with a lineup that will uphold the honor of the Thread City to the limit To that end, the Sodom Stars, an organization which has a membership of 15 at the present time, has secured Edmund J. "Mon" Peloquin as coach. "Mon" it will be remembered first obtained fame when he pitched Mayor Danny Dunn's great 1923 team to the independent championship of the state. Years following Peloquin pitched on many league teams and for one season twirled for the Villa Nova College outfit. Mr. Guay, who is secretary and treasurer of the Sodom Stars, is arranging a schedule for the season. Challenges have been extended to Eagleville, Manchester, Colchester, Putnam, Yantic or teams in other places, averaging in age from 16 to 22 years. All entries must be in to Secretary Guay on or before May 15.

U. S. ARMY POLO TEAM IN ENGLAND FOR PLAY

London, April 6. (By the A. P.)—The United States army polo team disembarked from the steamer Minnetonka at Woolwich early this morning and immediately gift by rail for London. The team is to defend the international military championship trophy at Hurtingham, in June.

Captain Peter P. Rodes remained behind at Woolwich to superintend the disembarkation of the 35 ponies which the team brought across the Atlantic. Captain Rodes said that the ponies were brought over early so as to get them acclimated. The Minnetonka had a calm voyage but the ponies, after having been cooped up aboard ship so long, would require considerable exercise and training in order properly to fit them for the coming match, he explained.

The American calvarymen who are attending to the ponies, will be accommodated at the Buller barracks, Aldershot. The American officers will be the guests of the cavalry regiment stationed at Aldershot.

CHICAGO AND BUFFALO DIVIDE BOWLING HONORS

Buffalo, N. Y., April 6.—Chicago and Buffalo each won two championships in the 26th annual international tournament of the American Bowling Congress which came to a close this afternoon.

Weisser's Blue Ribbons of Buffalo carried off first prize in the five-man event with a score of 3023 pins. Clarence Long, a member of the championship five-man team, won the all-events title with a nine-game score of 1977 pins. Edward Schupp and Edward Marich won the doubles, and Alfred Green the singles, titles for Chicago. The high two-man score is 1316 pins and leading individual event mark 706.

Thomas Sharkey, South Bend, Ind., rolled into a tie for third place in the singles, scoring 702 pins, these marks with a 516 set in the doubles placing him fourth in all events with a nine-game total of 1894 maples.

T. Carey of Madison, Wis., was the other to place among the ten high of the individual event, a total of 685, putting him in seventh position. C. Klegg, of Alliance, Ohio, with a total of 1877, placed eighth in all events.

Tony Schwoegler and Herb Lange of Madison, were the pair to take a position among the ten high of the two-man event, netting a score of 1268, to finish in fifth place.

PRES. AND MRS. COOLIDGE GIVEN PASSES TO GAMES

Washington, April 6.—Preliminaries of the baseball season were disposed of at the White House today. President Coolidge received passes from both the American and National leagues and immediately arranged to attend the opening game of the season here.

Mrs. Coolidge, who followed the world series games here last fall, very enthusiastically with the president, also was given a pass by President Ban Johnson of the American league. It was encased in a leather purse bearing the initials of Mrs. Coolidge and inclosing also a specially bound schedule of all games.

Edward Eynon, secretary of the Washington club, presented the American league passes. The president's wag in a leather billfold, which also contained a schedule.

John Heydler, president of the National league, presented a season pass to Mr. Coolidge in the form of half a small gold baseball bearing the president's name engraved on the flat surface.

BEARCATS TO HAVE STRONG BALL CLUB THIS SEASON

The Taftville Bearcats have organized for the coming season with prospects for one of the most successful seasons in years. The team will be picked from the following candidates: Lefty Dugas and Lamoureux, pitchers; Dudeck, Franaski, Lemieux and Rochedale, infielders; S. Franaski, Phalen, Welch, outfielders. This array of baseball talent should shape up well into a fast team. The Bearcats would like to arrange a game with the Valiants for the 19th of this month. Arrangements can be made by writing to Stanley Franaski, of Taftville.

Rangers Beat All-Meriden Team.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Waterbury, April 6—The decisive victory of the New London Rangers over the All-Meriden combination at soccer scored last Sunday was of little significance in the game between the Rangers and the Waterbury elevens, the latter team winning by a 3 goals to 1 count on three goals by Jefferies, strong play by the latter in all formations were the deciding factors leading dramatically towards deciding the issue in favor of the Brass City players

LOCAL BOY GETS VERDICT IN NEW BEDFORD BOUT

Young Coulon of Taftville won the judges' decision over Gene Wells of Canada, Monday evening in a six round preliminary bout at the Elm Rink in New Bedford. Coulon fought the Canadian knockout champion toe to toe for six rounds and had the better of the slugging in every stanza. Wells is considered one of the toughest of preliminary boys having won a long string of victories by the knockout route but his reputation as a slugger made no impression on the local

TOMBARI BREAKS BONE IN ANKLE IN PRACTICE GAME AT THE ACADEMY

The Academy baseball team suffered a severe set-back Monday afternoon when Pheno Tombari broke a small bone in his ankle as he slid into third base in a practice game. Dr. David Sussler, who attended Tombari and reduced the fracture, said that it would be at least five weeks before Tombari could play his position again. Tombari was taken to the Backus hospital where Dr. Sussler attended him.

The loss of Tombari leaves a hole in the infield that will be hard to fill for he was one of the most promising infielders that has been at the Academy in many years. Tombari had developed into a wonderful little shortstop and was covering his acre of ground in a way that marked him as one of the best short fielders in high school circles. Last year he played second but at the beginning of the season Coach Brigham shifted him to short where he took to the position like a duck to the water. He had developed a batting eye and was becoming a real menace, with the stick so that he will be missed both on the defense and in the attack.

With Tombari out of the game there is a weak place in the infield and it will be a hard one to fill. There are several candidates for the position but none measures up to Tombari. There are several candidates for the position but none measures up to Tombari. Busch, who played at short last year, was called in from the outfield in yesterday's practice and worked well, although he has not the finish of Tombari. Carlin is another candidate for the position and has been playing at short on the second where he has shown up fairly well.

Yesterday's practice session was devoted to a battle between the first and second team with the second string boys having the edge on the varsity. Lloyd Jarvis pitched for the varsity while Johnny Greene was in the box for the Seconds.

Both Greene and Jarvis did not exert themselves striving more for control than anything else, and pitched only four innings each and were then relieved. Ray Woods took up the duties for the Seconds while Coach Brigham and Mullins worked for the varsity. Woods is developing well but lacks a few of the essentials that go to make up a star pitcher.

There is every indication that when the Academy season opens next Saturday against Bill McKnight's Alumni team, the public will see one of the best Academy teams in action that has represented the school in several years. Manager Gilman is negotiating with South High of Worcester to play here in place of the Deep River team that cancelled their game.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Atlantic Beach, Rhode Island Property Sold

On April 2, Charles E. Johnson and Harry Trefes of Westerly, Rhode Island, sold to H. P. Ballou and R. S. Holcombe of Bridgeport, Connecticut, their entire real estate holdings at Atlantic Beach, known as Atlantic Beach Casino, with several other buildings for amusement purposes, and a large tract of land, making one of the most important transfers consummated at the resort in some time. The new owners are extensively experienced in summer resort enterprises and are to develop this resort so as to make it one of the largest and best in New England. The price involved in the transaction was $150,000. The Norwich Land Title & Insurance Co. were the negotiating agents.

Palace Theatre

There is a perfect vaudeville bill at the Palace theatre for the first three days of this week which is just full of variety. Paul Specht's Carolina Club Orchestra which is heading the bill certainly presents a wonderful act of harmony. There special arrangements are of the best. This band had the honor of playing for the Prince of Wales aboard the S. S. Berengaria on his visit to this country a short time ago. It is said that the Prince danced two or three collars off while at one of the dances aboard the ship. Well it is no wonder, to be at the Palace and listen to the same music as the Prince danced his collars off to makes it very trying for you not to get up out of your seat and doing the same thing.

Second honors must be given to Mabel Naynon's birds. They are a satisfying sight to the Palace this week. They waltz, drive coaches fold their wings, roll down stairs, play dead while tossed and used to demonstrate different types of feathered hats, and most wonderful of all do sums suggested by the audience. This act rouses the audience repeatedly and holds it all the time.

Hayes and Keyes, fancy steppers, have a dancing act that measures up with the best of them, and their offering is speedy and up to the minute.

Harry Pearce is just full of personality and went over very big with his audience last night. He is a comedian of a different type.

Race and Edge were great favorites with the house last night, they are two-cross talking comedians. Their act is one roar from start to finish.

The feature picture "Why Get Married?" has everything to commend it to exacting American audiences and local fans will not only be delighted with the picture but will glory in the fine work of Mlle. Lafayette.

The French beauty, who long ago proved that she could act as well as look beautiful, had added fresh laurels to her film crown and as the American wife, who wrestles with the knotty problem of either leaving a handsome husband and sticking to a business career or quitting her commercial ambition to devote her attention to her home, she is ideal. In support of Mlle. Lafayette, appear Jack Perrin, who is the husband who loves his wife and gives a severe beating to the son of his wife's rich employer when he writes an anonymous letter blackening her good name; Bernard Randall as Rodney Strong, the young man who is the subject of Perrin's physical lesson; Helen Ferguson, Max Constant, Orpha Alba, William H. Turner and Edwin B. Tilton. The entire cast acquits itself with distinctive credit.

"Why Get Married?" has many thrills, is a clean, wholesome story that carries heart interest to every family in the land and it must be the source of genuine joy to the Palace management to have such pictures like this unusual production to come to the screen.

Broadway Theater

The Broadway theater programs show that quality counts and today's program is no exception to that rule.

Jurs and Sisters opened the program amid a beautiful setting with a musical offering de luxe, featuring violin, piano, cello making this offering one long to be remembered.

Ruth Goodwin followed in a song revue. The range of her voice allows her to go from the jazziest numbers to the most classical. It's a beautiful singing offering.

James Carlisle and Isabelle Lamal presented a comedy skit The Interview. It succeeded in keeping the audience roaring with laughter for sixteen minutes. Songs and eccentric dancing are introduced, while Miss Lamal introduces the latest in imported gowns.

Harry Harkins and Jack McClay, the two melodious chaps followed in a song, comedy and dance offering. It's a top notch offering.

The Romas Troupe in an Acrobatic Revue of 1915, closed an exceptionally fine program. They do not stick closely to acrobatics but do a variety act including songs, dance and comedy.

The photoplay is a Paramount picture, The Toy of the World, featuring Anna Q. Nilsson and James Kirkwood and a stellar cast.

Mischa Elman Reconquers Europe

It was not until 1921 that Mischa Elman, the celebrated violinist, had an opportunity to play in a number of the important cities of Europe since his tour there many years ago as a "wunderkind." During the period of the World War all musical activities in the combatant countries was stifled. Throughout that tragic period, Mr. Elman was a resident of this country and, though a Russian subject restrained from active service by the Czar's edict, devoted himself to entertaining the doughboys at their cantonments here.

With the coming of peace and the gradual approach to normalcy in Europe, Mr. Elman arranged for a series of concerts in the leading cities of Germany as well as in Paris and London. Coming to these musical centres after an absence of so many years Mr. Elman found himself repeating the amazing successes he had achieved as a youngster. The press everywhere acclaimed him as a master violinist without a peer.

Elman is coming here at the Palace theatre on Sunday afternoon, April 19, under the auspices of the Norwich Hebrew institute.

Breed Theater

Lady of the Night featuring Norma Shearer is the featured attraction at the Breed theatre today.

Lady of the Night is an original story from the pen of Adela Rogers St. Johns, Alice D. G. Miller wrote the scenario and Andre Barletier is credited for the photography.

Lady of the Night is the fourth picture that Monta Bell has made since he sprang to sudden fame with his first directorial effort, Broadway After Dark. His other pictures were The Snob and How to Educate a Wife.

Norma Shearer has already played the leading role in two of Monta Bell's pictures—Broadway After Dark and The Snob. But Lady of the Night is said to set a new high mark for the artistry of both actress and director. Metropolitan reviewers have acclaimed it as one of the outstanding pictures of the season because of its dramatic entertainment value.

The Pathe news, a cartoon and a roaring two part comedy make up the remainder of the bill.

POETRY

April

Oh, met ye April on your way—
nd was she grave or was she gay—or ye a primrose chaplet fair on her tangle, wind-tossed hair?

Had she on a kirtle green,
e sheerest robe was ever seen?
met ye April on your way,
h eyes like dove's breast meek and gay?

es, I met April on my way,
part morrow nad part yesterday—
And she went laughing, she was sad—
Wayward and pensive, grave and glad.

The fluttering fabric of her gown
Was emerald green, in shadow brown,
Soft gray as dove's breast were her eyes,
And bluest blue of summer skies!

Light fell her step upon the grass,
As though a fairy queen did pass;
Her hands were cold yet full of flowers,
Her loose hair wet with pattering showers;

Strung daisies for a girdle white
Were wound about her bosom slight—
Yes, I met April on my way,
And swift she stole my heart today!
—Edith C. M. Dart.

Twilight

Spirit of Twilight, through your folded wings
I catch a glimpse of your averted face.
And rapturous on a sudden, my soul sings ls you this common earth a holy place?

Spirit of Twilight, you are like a song
That sleeps and waits a singer—like a hymn
That God finds lovely and keeps near Him long,
Till it is choired by aureoled cherubim.

Ghost of Twilight in the golden gloom of dreamland dim I sought you, and I found
A woman sitting in a silent room
A bill of white flowers that moved and made no sound.

ese white flowers were the thoughts you bring to all,
And the room's name is Mystery where you sit,
Woman, whom we call Twilight, when night's pall
Veils all across our Earth to cover it.
—Olive Custance.

A new microphone will pick up the faintest sounds made by insects.

Ants can really swim, rowing with their legs as if they were a six-oared boat and steering to the right or left to avoid obstacles.

A skeleton has recently been unearthed of a small dinosaur which had a beak, and apparently gained its food by raiding the eggs of other and larger dinosaurs.

The hoactzin, a bird found along the Amazon river, does not use his wings merely as extra support but develops, during the juvenile state, claws on the feet on what will be wings.

Searchlights are being used in Germany and South Poland to save the pine trees from swams of caterpillars, the larvae of a species of moth. When the lights were set up at night in the woods, millions of the insects, attracted by the powerful rays, were cremated when they flew into the incandescent carbons of the arc lamps, which were not sheltered by globes.

A mammoth car ferry for use between Anchorage and Baton Rouge, La., was recently launched at Neville Island, Pa. The boat will be 340 feet in length will have an extreme beam width of 91 1-2 feet on a molded depth of fifty-six feet; and will carry on its deck a complete train of mogul engines and eleven Pullman cars or 25 standard freight cars. The cost will be $1,000,000, and the ferry will be the largest vessel of its type.

A bird sanctuary comprising 29 acres has been bequeathed to the Rhode Island Audubon society. It is in the south western part of the state, about three miles from Westerly. Trees, shrubs and berry bushes will be planted and the whole tract converted into an ideal refuge where students may enjoy exceptional opportunity for observation of wild bird life. The income from a trust fund of $15,000 will be used to maintain the sanctuary.

Skates for use in snow have been designed to add another thrill to the sport of winter sports, according to Popular Mechanics. Strongly constructed of straight-grained hickory, treated with oil, they are said to hold the weight of the heaviest adult, while being light enough not to tire children. The runners are of rustless steel and the top is covered with corrugated rubber to provide a non-slip surface The skates are attached to ordinary shoes with rawhide straps and may be used more months a year because their is no waiting for ice.

Plants that do not readily grow from cuttings may be made to do so by a simple trick discovered by L. E. Stewart at the Royal Botanic garden at Edinburg, Scotland. Growing plants from cuttings is a time-honored method with soft-stemmed plants, and with woody stems that are not too hard and slow growing, like grape and poplar. But certain trees of slow growth, like camphor, have always been difficult to get started. Mr. Stewart shaded branches of camphor trees and induced them to put forth "etiolated" twigs, that is, long, slim, sappy shoots like those produced by plants kept in the dark cellar. These soft, fast-growing shoots, strike root much more readily than do cuttings taken from the harder, more mature twigs of the naturally grown plant.

WESTERLY

The April meeting of the Westerly Town Council was held in the council chambers of the Westerly Town Hall at 9:30, Monday morning. The full membership of the council was in attendance, President Clifford F. Campbell, Councilmen Thomas H. Morrison, Louis J. Rossi, Charles S. Fowler, George B. Utter, John D. Nichols and Farquhar Smith; Council Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr.

Dr. Samuel C. Webster, Health Officer of Westerly appeared before the council in reference to a vote passed at the previous session of the council, which directed him to bring in a list of those houses not connected with the newly installed sewage mains where they were in place; he submitted two, saying that he did not know of any unless complaint was made to him, these being on Pierce street and at 111 High street, the latter having made arrangements to cross adjoining land to connect with sewer at the rear. The Health Officer said that he was willing to prepare a list, if instructions were given him how to obtain it.

Councilman Rossi stated that an open sewer drain ran across property at the rear of Canal street and emptied into the Pawcauck river. Town Solicitor Ferguson explained that the Town Council, acting as a Board of Health had the authority to abate nuisances. The health officer said where the sewers had been projected the cleaning of cesspools was not cared for properly as the uniform reply was "They were waiting for the sewers to come."

It was learned that there were some houses along proposed sewer lines which did not have city water and the result of the discussion, Town Clerk Whipple saying that he had waited a year and, a half for plumbers to make the necessary connection in the cellar of his house on Elm street, was that sewer connections should be completed along the sewer mains in a reasonable time.

To care for the nuisances the following ordinance, as proposed by Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr., was voted approved:

An ordinance in relation to the removal of nuisances and causes injurious to health.

It is ordained by the Town Council as follows:

Section. 1. Wherever a public sewer, maintained by the Town of Westerly, exists in any highway, street, avenue or other public way within the Fire Drainage District of the Town of Westerly, the owner or occupant of any building fronting or abounding upon the portion of such highway, street, avenue, way or right of way wherein such sewer is placed, shall, when ordered to do so by the Town Council, connect said building with said sewer so that the discharge from all sinks, bathtubs and water closets in or appurtenant to such building shall be carried into such public sewer. Where no such public sewer exists or where connections with such public sewer is impossible, no person shall neglect to establish and keep in sanitary condition, suitable cesspools, privy vaults and drains upon premises owned by him.

Sec. 2. No privy vault or cesspool shall be built upon premises situated upon a street where there is a public sewer.

Sec. 3. Every person who shall violate any of the provisions of any section of this ordinance, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding three hundred dollars or be imprisoned not exceeding six months, said fine to insure one-half thereof to the use of the complainant and one-half thereof to the use of the town.

Sec. 4. This ordinance shall take effect upon its passage.

It was also voted by the town council that the Westerly Board of Water Commissioners, which has the sewer installation in charge, furnish Health Officer Webster with a list of property owners along sewer main lines, their names street numbers and occupants, and that such recommendations as he directs as agent of the council be referred back to the council that they might instruct the town clerk to send out legal notice that connection to sewers may be completed.

Thomas McKenie, engineer for the installation of the sewers, informed the council that plumbers were unable to complete the sewer connections in a short length of time, as it was a physical impossibility. In most places, the engineer said, the water and sewer department had nothing to do with the matter, as it was up to the health authorities and that each case should be made a personal matter. Engineer McKenie said that 332 permits for sewer connections had been granted by the sewer department and of this number 258 had been issued up to Jan. 1, 1925.

Forest Fire Warden Sheffield Greene was appointed by the council and the following assistants named by him were voted approved: George E. Egger, C. Palmer Chapman, and Simon P. Nichols.

Charles J. Butler, Westerly Highway commissioner, came to the council to ask that a grade line for Mr. Healy, who was building a house on Vose street was a town highway, brought out the statement that Oscar Vose had "dedicated" the street for a highway to the town and it was decided that if a deed for the same could not be found it should be deeded again. One house already constructed on the street prior to May 5th had its sills considerably elevated. If it was found that Vose street was a town highway, the council was agreed that the Westerly Highway commission should furnish a grade level.

Charles J. Butler, said that he also appeared before the council relative to the report of the Westerly Highway Commission, that he was not satisfied with the last report furnished the financial town meeting and that he would like to have an investigation of the report made.

Chairman Campbell said that he understood the council had no jurisdiction over the affairs of the highway commission.

Mr. Butler replied that a petition was out for a financial town meeting to investigate the report and that it had been held up by him "to see if we could not get along without that row." He said that he wanted a committee appointed by the town council to investigate thereport. Councilman Fowler asked Mr. Butler if he had a vote of the Westerly Highway commission asking for investigation and Mr. Butler said he did not.

Continuing, Mr. Butler said he wanted the investigation to cover the years of 1923 and 1924 as he had been informed that some of the accounts of the highway department did not agreew ith the figures of the Westerly Town Treasurer by thousands of dollars.

Chairman Campbell said the request would be considered and left to the discression of the town council whether or not the investigation should be made. Later it was said that at the executive session of the council begun at ten minutes of 12 and lasting until 12:30 the matter was gone into when the sentiment reported was that in justice to the other two members of the highway commission, Charles F. Berry and Elihu H. Chesebro, reports of the highway commission dating back even beyond that time might be directed.

Town Solicitor Ferguson questioned the authority of the Westerly Town council to summons members of the Highway Commission to testify.

Councilman Utter asked that the representatives to the Rhode, Island legislature from Westerly be requested to secure the passage of legislation granting the town the right to spend the amount of $1,000 for advertising the town, as set up in the budget figures, also to secure the passage by the legislature of a bill granting the Westerly council authority to make ordinances relative to the regulation of hackneys, etc., commonly known as a jitney ordinance.

Engineer Thomas McKenzie of the Westerly Board of Water Commissioners which has the installation of sewers in charge, presented the recommendation of that board in awarding the contract for sewer pipe and sewer construction were accepted and approved. The Westerly Lumber company was awarded the contract for about 20,000 feet of six and eight-inch sewer pipe and fixing, their bid being $4779.15. The contract for sewer construction was awarded Samuel Nardone & Co., the bid being $38,-651.18.

The bids on sewer construction were: Antonio Sperra, Bradford, $52,-774.95; F. A. Gammino, Providence, $50,770.75; Samuel Nardone & Co., of Westerly, $38,651.18; Luis Petruzzi, Hartford, Conn., $71,339.26; Briggs Engineering and Construction company, Providence, $51,928.80.

The bids on the sewer pipe were: Westerly Lumber company, $4,779.15; R. A. Sherman Son's company $5,-284.80; J. L. Lenihan, $5,024.40, and Portland Stoneware company, $4,629.-38.

A check was received from Roger F. Dunham, amounting to $103.50 for sewerage to be cashed by the town of Westerly at such time when Wells street shall be accepted by the town within a period of one year. It is understood that the Westerly hospital has not deeded the right of way to the town, although it has been believed that they had done so. It is understood that the land will be deeded later, and that Wells street will then be accepted. Councilman G. E. Utter remarked that there is a chance of the hospital being opened in June and there will be no way to get patients into the institution.

The report of Dr. S. C. Webster, health officer, showed that there were eight cases of German measles, three of scarlet fever and one case of the mumps reported to him last month.

Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown reported 27 arrests during the month of March. There were 14 arrests for intoxication two for possession of liquor and three for driving while intoxicated.

The following sewer appertionments were granted: Harry W. Gavitt, Wells street, $206.08; New England Land company, John street, $153.90; James A. Quinlan, John street, $153.90; Horace E. Gavitt, Wells street, $103.-50.

Thirty milk licenses and four victualing licenses were granted.

Superintendent McKenzie said that the pipe is on the ground and everything is ready to extend the town water system down lower Beach street to Thompson's corner and up to East avenue, but the trolley tracks interfere with the work. Chairman Campbell stated that he would take up the matter with the proper persons immediately.

R. J. Rooney has made a claim for $25,000 damages against the town for injuries alleged to have been sustained by his wife, when she was struck by a boy riding a bicycle on the sidewalk on Granite street several months ago. The damages are claimed by reason of the town not enforcing an ordinance prohibiting the riding of bicycles on the sidewalk. Referred to the town solicitor.

The petition for the extension of certain streets on the land of Genevieve Canfield, known as the estate of Charles L. Pendleton, off John street, was referred to the highway commissioners.

The remainder of the morning session was occupied by the town council in making up a list of those eligible for jury duty and when the council went into executive session at 11.50 on motion of Councilman G. B. Utter, one-third of the list had been gone over.

The members of Westerly fire department were again recalled at about 7 o'clock Sunday evening to return to the location of the noon brush fire this side of Dunn's Corners when the flames again broke out there. They returned to the fire station on Union street before 10 p. m.

Monday morning soon after 9.30, fire alarm No. 33 was rung for a brush and grass fire near Vincent Carr hill on the Potter road and one truck of the Westerly department visited the scene and prevented further spread of the flames.

Mrs. Mary Ella Austin Thompson, 72, died at the home of her son, Arthur E. Thompson, 29 1-2 Newton avenue at 2.30 o'clock, Monday morning, following a long illness.

Mrs. Thompson was born in Killingly, Conn., the daughter of Stephen and Eleanor Buck Austin. Mrs. Thompson came to Westerly over ten years ago, previous to which time she resided in Charlestown and Shannock, R. I. For her first husband she married John Bentley in Westerly, having one daughter, now dead. William E. Thompson, who died in Westerly ten years ago, was her second husband, and to them were born Arthur E., Mrs. Etta Hough, who died in Danielson, Conn., five years ago, and Mrs. Josephine Nichols of White Rock, R. I. Mrs. Thompson is survived by a younger half-sister, Mrs. Nellie Rosinus, residing in Branford, Conn., and Mrs. Stephen E. Brown of Cedar street, Pawcatuck. She was a member of the Cross Mills church, in Charlestown, and of Ashaway W. C. T. U.

The April meeting of Westerly Chamber of Commerce was held at the Colonial club Monday evening. The meeting was called to order by President Lewis Stanton, Secretary Edwin D. Hawke read the minutes of the previous session and called upon the various standing committees for reports. C. E. Hale of the Western Union Telegraph company spoke to the chamber members on Time and More of It. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Buffum of the Weekapaug Inn, returned Monday night on the Colonial express from a winter's visit at Winter Park, Fla.

Misses Rachael E. and Emily L. Barber returned Monday night from a week end visit in Boston.

William Ahern of Pawcatuck was in Kingston Monday morning.

James Nelson of Waterbury was a visitor on the week end with friends in Pawcatuck and Westerly.

Miss Edythe Opie and Mrs. Edward Murphy were business visitors in Providence Monday afternoon.

D. W. Clarke of New Haven was a business caller here Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Barbour have returned to their Westerly homes from Cocoa, Fla., where they have passed the last two months.

A sample of the new mushroom traffic signal light has been received for trial in Westerly, it being understood that if favorable, two would be used on Elm street and two on School street, at highway intersections.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

The local building seems to be holding up and in fact there was a slight increase in the number of permits for the past week as compared to the same week a year ago. There were 13 permits granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton, eight more than for the same week a year ago. Included in the permits granted are four for two-family houses, the remainder of the permits being for alterations and additions and garages.

The work on local projects has been brought along at a good rate during the past week. The work of renovating the former Y. M. C. A. building is going on preparatory to plans by the new owners, N. S. Gilbert & Sons. At the Sellas block on Franklin square work is progressing rapidly. The corner store is practically completed and already the occupants are getting ready for their opening. The other stores on the ground floor are being finished, the cement flooring now being laid. The stairway to the second floor has not yet been put in although the steel work is ready to be set in place.

The building permits granted by Fire Marshal Stanton are as follows:

To Andy Laakso to erect a two-family house on Roosevelt avenue. The house is to be built for Anthony and Bronislawa Jeznach. It will be of frame construction with brick and concrete foundation and will be 24x36 feet. The interior will be finished in hard wood and plaster while the exterior will be finished in clapboards and shingles.

To Grodotzke & Zachal Co., to build a frame 4-car garage on Perkins avenue. The garage will be 20x40 feet and is to be built for Everett Dawley.

To E. R. Edwards to erect a frame garage on Talman street. The garage will be 10x20 feet.

To John C. Tracey to build a veranda on the present house at 188 Central avenue for Elizabeth March. The veranda will be of frame construction and finished to conform to the present building.

To F. A. Skinner to add a frame piazza to the present house owned by William E. Burns at 8 Treadway avenue. The veranda will be 5x20 feet.

To E. J. Duro to build an addition, 14x19 feet to the present house at 422 East Main street. The addition will be finished on the interior with spruce and plaster with clapboards on the exterior.

To Angelo Alferri to erect a frame garage at 48 Mt. Pleasant street for himself. The garage will be 10x12 feet.

To Grodotzke and Zachal Co., to erect a frame porch to the present house at 17 Winchester street for George Caswell. The porch will be 6x22 feet.

To William C. Young, who has the contract to erect a frame cottage for Frank Kulesza on the Peck street extension. The house will be 20x26 feet and two stories high. The exterior will be finished in red cedar shingles while the interior finish will be plaster with hardwood and floors. There will be six rooms and bath.

To Harold Bowers to erect a frame three-car garage at 26 Ward street for George Hathaway. The garage will be 26x28 feet and work has already been started on the structure.

To Homer Monty to erect a two-story frame house at the corner of Washington and Yantic streets for Benjamin Kreiger. The foundation will be of cement with fir frame and North Carolina pine sheathing. The second story will be shingled on the outside and the first story will be finished in clapboards. The inside will be finished in hard finish plaster and cypress trim. The house will be 24x 28 feet.

To Andy Laakso of Plainfield to erect a two-family house on Mohegan Park road for Stanislaw Kreseicki. The house will be of frame construction and will be 29x32 feet.

To Adolphus Demute to build a piazza on his house at 621 North Main street. The piazza will be of frame construction 6x35 feet.

The total valuation of the new buildings is approximately $25,000 as placed by the owners

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

In Norwich during the past week there were 13 sales of real estate as compared to 36 sales for the same week in 1924. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $103,500 and $179,100.

There were 9 sales of real estate in New London during the past week, two more than during the same week a year ago. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were $58,350 and $17,580.

State Building Permits

In the principal towns of Connecticut where building permits are issued an increase in the number is shown, but a falling off in the amount of money spent for new buildings. As reported in The Record for the week the number of permits granted was 419 against 321 for the same week last year and 255 for the same week in 1923. The cost of the buildings for which the permits were granted last week was $1,504,129, compared with $1,646,424 in 1924, and $960,512 in 1923.

New London

The excavating is being completed for a garage on Church street for Sidney Bulman, 8 Shapley street. The contract for the building has been awarded. The building will be of brick and steel, fireproof construction, 75x105 feet. It will be arranged for a showroom, stock room, workroom and storage rooms.

Plans have been completed and are now being figured for a store and loft building at 113 Bank street, for the P. H. Fitzgerald estate. The architects are receiving the bids for the proposed construction. The building will be 23x60 feet, five stories high, of brick construction, with a terra cotta front. There will be plate glass fronts for all five floors, an elevator, tile and marble vestibules, oil burning steam heating system and other improvements. The first floor will be arranged for one store with lifts on the upper floors.

The plans have been figured for the demolishing of the Goddard Building on State street, which was purchased by the S. S. Kresge Co., of Detroit. The plans for the proposed new building on the site have been completed and are ready to be figured. They call for a two-story store building, of brick and steel construction.

A New London architect has completed plans for a residence at 778 Ocean avenue for Cecil W. Brown. The architect is now receiving bids for the house, which will be of brick construction, 30x30 feet, with a wing, 7x10 feet. It will be of colonial design, with a slate roof, hardwood floors, tile vestibule and bath, hot water heat and fireplace. The arrangement calls for seven rooms. A brick garage will be erected in the rear.

A local architect has completed plans for a garage on East street for Lorenzo Montali. The building will be 50x50 feet, one story high, of hollow tile, frame and stucco construction. There will be a modern heating system and other improvements.

Bids will be received at the office of the city manager until April 9, at 12 o'clock, noon, for the Charles B. Jennings school on Mercer street. Separate contracts will be awarded for the heating, plumbing and electric wiring.

Frederic W. Mercer has bought the four-story stone building occupied by the Eaton & Wilson Co. on Bank street. The building is about 76x75 feet, built of granite. Mr. Mercer is said to have plans for future alterations to the building. No immediate changes will be made.

Building Permits

Markow & Hendel, store front, corner Bentley avenue and Stewart street $800.

P. J. Clifford, alterations to store, corner Bentley avenue and Stewart street $2,500.

Annie G. Gurney, frame garage, Montauk avenue $400.

John T. Hooper, hollow tile garage, Squire street $400.

Luke Martin, frame garage, Montauk avenue $200.

Margaret S. McCarthy, store front, Bank street, $1,000.

Number of permits issued for the week, 10; estimated cost ofbuildings, $11,900.

Niantic

Ground has been broken for the proposed new fire engine house on Grand street to be erected by Fred Rohemeling for the Niantic fire department. The contract for the mason work has been awarded to Clarence Faulkner.

Willimantic

A building committee is to obtain bids for the construction of a dining hall costing $5,000 at Camp Woodstock, the Y. M. C. A. camp of Hartford, Windham and Tolland Counties. The committee consists of Charles W. Holman, South Manchester; Alexander R. Buck, Hartford; Freeman F. Patten, Stafford Springs, and Ernest W. Robinson, Rockville.

COOLIDGE ADDRESSED COTTON WORKERS

cotton growing, marketing and research by a number of government bureau chiefs. In addition, it received the reports of officers, and accepted an oak gavel made from timber used in America's first cotton mill, the Slater property at Pawtucket, R. I. Afterwards, the delegates were guests at the White House of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who accepted an invitation to attend the banquet tonight.

Morgan Butler, son of the Massachusetts senator and president of the association, told the convention today that investigation had developed that "fine gods manufacturers have a just complaint as to the present tariff." Members informally explained this as referring to English competition, particularly in broadcloth, which affected Southern Massachusetts mills.

South America, particularly Columbia, Ecuador, Brazil and Venezuela, and various new markets in the American colonies, as well as Australia and the Malay Peninsula, were described by Dr. Julius Klein, director of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce of the commerce department, as offering an encouraging field for export development.

President's Address

The text of President Coolidge's address follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen:

If one were casting about for an industry whose story would most nearly summarize human progress in the the art, industry, science, and commerce that has gone to make up civilization, I am not sure that he could do better than investigate the industry which is here represented. It would begin with our first forefathers pleating together their first rude garments, and it would keep step unfailingly with development from the day of fig leaves to the latest creation of the loom. Man may have originated in the tropical areas, but it was the invention of clothes that made it possible for him to live in those more rigorous climates that have proved most encouraging to his progress. Thomas Carlyle, in his "Sartor Resartus," a book altogether too little known and read in these days, projected a profound philosophy of human relationships from a study of the clothing of mankind. So I am sure it will be pardonable if I set forth in this presence some observations about the place held in our industrial and economic structure by the industry which furnishes the modern materials wherewith the most of mankind are clothed.

History of Clothes

A new Carlyle who should be seeking facts concerning the history of clothes would learn that among the treasures of the ancient and medieval indies were the beautiful and delicate fabrics handwrought from the fibers of cotton. For many generations these were the most prized products of the weaver's craft. The desire for them, more as articles of luxury and adornment than for everyday use, was one of the incentives which led bold navigators into those high adventures that added new continents to the world. Today, thanks to that instinct for industrial short cuts which has made part of western world a wilderness of machinery, most of the finer textiles are produced in the western countries, while India imports most of its enormous requirements of cotton fabrics. That one detail may be taken as epitomizing the story of several generations of economic revolution on a world scale. The path of progress has followed the development of the cotton industry.

Within the cycle of this world-wide revolution smaller and more intense revolutions have been constantly in progress. There are sound and accepted historians who date the beginning of the modern phase of the industrial epoch from the invention of power-driven machinery for textile making. How rapid have been some of these changes within your industry is suggested by an experience of my own a few evenings ago. In the course of some researches preliminary to these remarks of a certain trade term, no doubt thoroughly familiar to all of you, than I was able to command. The word was "rayon." But when I pulled down the alleged "unabridged" dictionary on my desk I finally found it in a technical handbook from which I confirmed my earlier impression that it meant something that you gentlemen would fully understand. It means, in short, artificial silk, in the making of which cotton is extensively used. The story of rayon strikingly illustrates the rapid changes which constantly affect the textile industries. Production of artificial silk on a commercial scale was not attempted until after the beginning of the present century. It was not established in this country until 910. Yet, in the last 15 years, the industry has grown so rapidly that now the world production is around hundred million pounds annually, of which more than one third is made in the United States alone.

Enormous Market.

Our production is just about twice that of any other country. Yet even at this, there are still some imports. At the same time, the United States is the largest manufacturer of silk and the largest consumer of raw silk. The enormous consuming capacity of the American market is indicated by the fact that our imports of raw silk increased from 33,000,000 pounds to over 80,000,000 pounds from 1918 to 1923. That is, in the very years in which the artificial silk industry was accomplishing its huge expansion, the real silk industry was still able to grow at an astonishing rate. And yet, despite the rise of artificial silk, and notwithstanding this increase in real silk, we find that this country produced in 1923 more cotton fabrics than in any earlier year, and 23 per cent. more than in the year 1921. If the textile industry is as good a business barometer as is generally believed, this record indicates that the American community has a consuming capacity, the ability to buy and to enjoy the things it wants, far beyond any other people in the world. The American home market is the most wonderful commercial development in all human experience.

The American genius for mass production, coupled with our great and varied natural resources and considered in relation to the unparalleled requirements of our home market, constitutes the assurance of a continuing industrial advancement the end of which we can neither estimate nor forsee.

Before the World war it was impossible to get such a vision of these possibilities as we now possess. Nowhere are there such opportunities for production on a huge scale, with its attendant economies, as here. Whether his business be to make automobiles by the hundreds or fabrics by the million yards, each day the manufacturer who has first claim upon this foremost market place of the world is bound to start with a vast advantage over all competitors. In consideration of that advantage he is under obligation to give his customers the benefit of his lower costs of production, of the savings which he can achieve by reason of producing on a scale unparalleled anywhere else. From our national beginnings it has been an almost uniform policy to conserve to the American producer the right of first opportunity in the home market.

The towering stature of our industrial structure as we see it today is the best, is indeed the complete vindication of this policy. The fact that our buying and consuming capacity is so great proves that, despite some inequities, we have on the whole maintained fairer distribution of the proceeds of industry than has been possible in less favored communities. We are reaching a very fair approximation of democracy in industry.

Quality of Craftsmanship.

The pride of quality and craftsmanship has always been maintained to a notable degree throughout most of the textile industry. It necessarily denotes the payment of as liberal wages as the business can justify, and thereby the establishment of a great community of skilled and intelligent workers. Such a community is always the greatest single resource of an industrial society. Industrial prosperity depends almost entirely on men and women of skill. Both as a public policy looking to broad social results, and as a business programme with the view to industrial stability and the creation of high repute for products, the wisdom of this attitude is certain of vindication in its results. Establishment of the best working conditions, a proper limitation of hours of labor, the prohibition of improper demands upon the strength and health of women and children—all these are parts of a truly intelligent business and social programme which has never failed of final justification.

There has been at some times and in some quarters a disposition to criticize the American policy of conserving first opportunity in our home market for our own producers. We can hardly expect that such a programme would be popular with those who find themselves placed at a disadvantage in the greatest market of the world, which is the American market. But those who would charge us with selfishness in thus giving first thought to home interests would do well to consider whether their own policies in this regard are more liberal than ours. We have established here the practice of absolute free trade throughout a great continental area of 48 states besides other possessions. It is the most widely extended application of that policy that will be found anywhere. Within this domain we have an extent and variety of natural resources far beyond those of any other country. Yet from our national beginnings we have sought no advantage by reason of this primacy in natural resources. Whoever wanted them was free to come here and buy our raw materials at exactly the same prices as our own people. Such staples as copper, cotton, and petroleum might have been made the basis on which to build great national monopolies. Yet they have been as freely available to the industries of other countries as to our own. Under our constitution our export trade is free of duty.

Our Liberality.

At times, when I have heard criticism of our industrial policies, I have been tempted to wonder how many other peoples, endowed with the same natural wealth, the same possibilities of maintaining something like monopoly, would have been as generous with the rest of mankind as the Americans have been. Not a few among us have even been inclined to fear lest our liberality in this regard might at length leave us at a disadvantage in comparison with countries more willing to exploit their opportunities for monopoly, or less liberal with their natural resources. Our production and manufactures fo cotton afford a ready illustration. Normally this country produces about two-thirds of the cotton crop of the world, and of our production, we export commonly from 55 to 60 per cent. Our market is absolutely free to the buyers of the world. They may come here for our raw cotton, take it home, turn it into fabrics, and, if they are clever enough, which they often are, sell it back to us. Not only do they have this privilege, but to an impressive extent they have availed of it. We import nearly half as many yards of cotton cloth annually as we export.

Increase of Imports.

Moreover, our imports, particularly of fine goods, have increased rapidly in recent years. From 1909 to 1914, imports averaged only 54,000,000 yards annually, while in 1923 they reached 219,000,000 yards. If called upon to defend our American industrial policy against critics, either domestic or foreign, we may well contrast this absolute freedom in our distribution of raw materials with discriminatory systems practiced by some other countries. If anybody desires information about export taxes, export bounties, valorization projects, discriminatory taxation, and the like, and how these increase the cost of articles which we have to import, he may well study the policies which various countries apply to such staples as coffee, nitrates, potash, rubber, tin, pulp wood, cocoa, sisal, quinine, and more than a few others. Each country has that right. We do not dispute it. But while our policy of tariff protection is in line with the well-nigh universal rule of the world, our policy of absolute freedom in the export of raw materials or primary products is one of notable and exceptional liberality.

I do not refer to these matters with any intent of criticising the countries whose methods differ from our own. We freely concede their right to determine their economic procedures with a view to what they believe their own best interests. But it is only fair that we should keep in mind all the justifications for policies of our own which have sometimes been unfairly criticised.

This is the broad outlook, the wide foundation, on which appears to rest an expanding and prosperous industry. It will of course meet with local and temporary conditions which, for the time being, may make it better or worse.

Change in Styles.

The experience of the textile industry has repeatedly illustrated the fact that apparently whimsical changes of fashion or taste are liable to produce the most complicating effects upon industries. Probably you have all heard the story of the textile manufacturer who, observing at a continental race track that the most fashionable women wore the shortest skirts, promptly cabled home to his manager to prepare for a shrinkage in demand for their products. A thoroughly matter-of-fact young man, who is an expert in one of the government departments dealing with textiles, tells me that 20 years ago it took nearly 10 yards of gingham to make a woman a dress whereas she now manages to be thoroughly in fashion on 3½ yards. From the same authority I learn that in 1914 approximately 86 yards of these fabrics were required per capita in this country, while five years later, in 1919, only 54 yards were demanded. He attributed this impressive reduction chiefly to the changed styles in women's garments. From what I have already said, I judge that this condition is due in part to the fact that less cotton and more silk began to adorn womankind.

I once heard a manufacturer say that if the ladies could be inducted to standardize and stabilize their fashions as the men have done, half the worries and uncertainties of the textile industries would be eliminated at once. Doubtless such a result would be a boon to you who are engaged in the industry; but I scarcely need say that I see no method of bringing it about. The uncertainty and change of fashion may be difficult for you, but it no doubt relieves monotony and adds to the spice of life.

Uncertainties of Supply.

To these uncertainties of market there have been added uncertainties of raw cotton supply. This has been one result of the boll weevil. It is now more than 30 years since the weevil crossed our borders from Mexico. Within that period the pest has ranged over nearly our entire cotton-producing area. Its ravages have been responsible for a great reduction in the yield of cotton per acre and a general rise in the price. Many proposals have been put forward for exterminating the weevil, among which it seems probable that the most effective would be to starve it out of existence by absolutely discontinuing the growth of cotton, year by year, in successive zones. But there are great practical difficulties. The programme would require the co-operation of the states throughout the Cotton Belt, and of the cotton raisers in them.

A suggestion was made to a convention of the cotton growing interests three or four years ago that the foundation for such co-operation might be laid if the cotton states would enter into a treaty among themselves pledging co-operation in executing it. There are several examples of such interstate treaties for the accomplishment of ends which could not be attained by the states acting separately. I believe the suggestion has much of practical value, and that, if the cotton states would act upon it, they would find the national government prepared to give all possible assistance and encouragement to the programme.

Cotton Growing Industry.

The importance of our cotton-growing industry will not easily be overestimated. While the value of the cotton crop is now placed below that of hay and of corn among the agricultural staples, it is by far the greatest single item in our export trade. Last year we sold abroad more than $950,000,000 worth of raw cotton. The assurance of a favorable trade balance lies in our export of cotton.

On the manufacturing side, the cotton industry is rated sixth among our manufacturers. It employs about a half million wage earners, and turns out products valued around $2,000,000,000 annually. Of the 159,000,000 cotton spindles in the world, 56,000,000 are in Great Britain, while the United States, with 38,000,000, occupies second place. Owing, however, to the difference between the British and American fabrics, our spindles consumer about twice as much raw cotton as do those of Great Britain.

Although there has been something of depression, in certain branches of the industry, a broad view suggests no serious occasion of concern about its outlook. Our imports of cotton fabrics have increased largely in recent years, but our exports have also grown extensively. In 1924 we sold abroad nearly 500,000,000 yards of these goods, or nearly 20 per cent. more than in the pre-war years. Considering the widespread demoralization of world markets since the war, such a showing can not reasonably be regarded as discouraging. Probably there is no industry in which conditions affecting international trade and finance are more constantly and definitely reflected than in this one. There was a measure of overproduction in cotton goods in 1923, from which the industry has not entirely recovered yet. The excessive output of that year left a considerable surplus to be consumed thereafter. But with the gradual improvement of conditions throughout the world, as the war recedes further from us, we are entitled to view with increasing assurance the outlook for business in all directions, including of course, the great textile industry.

Attitude of Government.

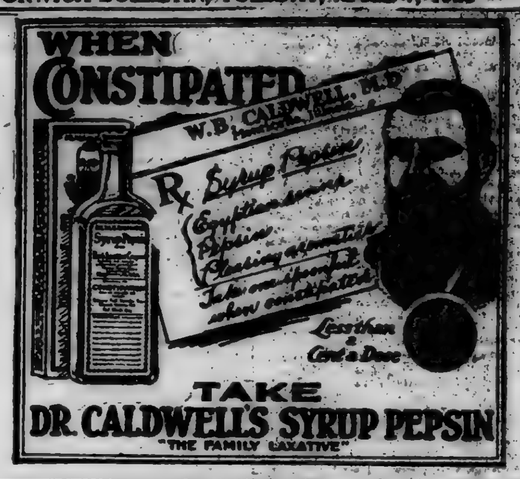
It is scarcely necessary to state the attitude which I desire to see the national government assume toward all business in general and the textile industry in particular. It is that of sympathy and co-operation for every lawful effort to promote our commercial prosperity and our economic well-being. Modern industry with its great combinations and great aggregations of both capital and employes, has necessarily brought many new problems for solution in our effort to work new rules of conduct. Many of these have already become well established and are believed to have been productive of good. But there still exists a considerable area, sometimes designated as a twilight zone, in which the proper standard of action is as yet undetermined.

The government necessarily looks to the management of industry as mainly responsible for the conduct of industry. There ought to be a most candid understanding between the government and all industrial effort. Due to the keenness of competition and the urgent desire for success, it is necessary to maintain the most constant watchfulness on the part of the government to insure the enforcement of the law. But on the other part of the management there should likewise be the same vigilance to insure the observance of the law. We shall never reach an ideal condition in our industrial life until the laws are voluntarily observed by our citizens without the constant and wasteful interposition of government and court action. You men who are responsible for an industry ought to make unlawful and improper practices in that industry thoroughly unfashionable. It may seem expensive to change improper practices, but they will have to be changed in the end, and the sooner it is done the less expensive it will be.

Industry has come thoroughly to recognize its responsibilities. It regards the welfare of the wage earners with the utmost solicitude. It has come to be recognized almost universally that only upon justice to the wage earners of the nation can there be reared any lasting prosperity. America is unwilling to nourish any system under which the rewards of human effort are not equitably distributed among all those engaged in any industry.

The great agencies of the government are constantly at your disposal to assist and encourage you in your production and defend you in your rights. The department of commerce, with its various research bureaus, domestic and foreign agencies, is forever diligent in stimulating your production, advising more efficient methods covering new and enlarged markets, and coordinating industrial activity. The federal trade board has been devised for the purpose of safeguarding your rights, protecting you from unfair trade practices, and admonishing and correcting you if you are wrong. The department of labor is constantly engaged in preventing and adjusting disputes between employer and employe, to promote justice and avoid the great waste of interrupted operation and production. But I refrain from further specific mention of the many activities of the government in behalf of the industrial life of the nation.

I confess that I desire to see our country prosperous. I am aware there can be no prosperity in which the textile industry does not have a generous share. I do not believe there can be any permanent prosperity which does not rest on the everlasting foundation of justice. In the effort of the government to promote justice, no industry should have anything to fear. In the effort of the government to provide constructive economy in public expenditure, all industry should concur. In the effort of the government to encourage harmony in all our domestic relations, every industry should co-operate. In the effort of the government to secure a firmer faith of the people of the earth in each other, which will establish an indwelling peace in the heart of mankind, all industry should rejoice.



NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The locofocos carried the state of Connecticut in the election 75 years ago having substantial majorities in both houses. At the same time the Courier carried several columns on the sensational murder trial of Prof. Webster, in which it was announced that he had been found guilty of murder by jury and sentenced to be "hanged by the neck until dead."

News of the week as taken from the columns of the Courier of 1850 is in part as follows.

Tuesday, April 2, 1850—Early returns in the state election seems to point to a decisive victory for the locofoco party and it is likely that their majority in the senate will be about two to one. The house is evidently locofoco by a substantial majority. Gains reported up to Monday evening showed a gain of 16 representatives for the whigs and 17 for the locofocos.

After a long trial which attracted the attention of all people of the country Prof. Webster was found guilty of the murder of Dr. Parkman, the decision by the jury being announced in Boston Saturday. The verdict seemed to meet with the approval of everyone in the court room when the foreman of the jury pronounced the fatal word, "Guilty." The sentence of the court was given on Monday, the penalty for murder being hanging.

The Willimantic and New Boston railroad is to be 27 miles long and form one of the almost continuous line from Hartford to Boston. A charter has been obtained, requiring $200,000 to be raised before the organization of the company. A meeting was held at Woodstock when the required amount of money was raised.

Thursday, April 4, 1850—Continued reports from all parts of the state only serve to add to the locofoco majorities in many cities and towns and the senate is theirs by a majority of at least two to one. There is some danger however that the house may be whig but many people hope this will not be so. In Norwich Ashbel Woodward was defeated for senator by a vote of 749 to 711, Edmund Perkins being the victorious candidate.

G. A. Kimberly, manager of Apollo hall has announced the opening for Friday night when the Campbell minstrels will appear. The concert begins at 7:30 o'clock.

S. Prentice is opening a new store at 112 Main street to carry staple and fancy dry goods, advertising the one price system of doing business.

Saturday, April 6, 1850—The final standing in the state election is-legislature, 101 whigs, 113 locos, 8 free soil. Senate, 6 whigs, 14 locos, one district doubtful. Full vote of towns give Foster (whig) 28,160; Seymour (loco) 28,600, Boyd (free soil) 2,850. Whole vote about 59,600.

Richmond, Va., had a snowfall of 10 inches last week and at the present date (April 6, 1850), Norwich was experiencing a severe snowstorm which seemed likely to last for some time.

Eleven camels have arrived at Baltimore and are to be sent to the prairies of the west as an experiment.

The whig candidate for representative won in Ledyard Monday by a vote of 136 to 135, two votes it was claimed being blank. At a meeting in Ledyard Monday the ballots were marked with the whig candidate's name and the whigs started home. Afterwards the locos forced a vote and elected their candidate. A fight for the office will be made at the state legislature.

MYSTIC

At the Baptist church Sunday morning Governor Trumbull's Fast Day proclamation was read and notice given that a union service would be held in the Methodist church Friday beginning at 12 o'clock and lasting until three.

Sunday forenoon the Clift woods west of Pequot avenue, were on fire and the houses in the West side were in danger. The hook and ladder company was called and many were engaged in fighting it until late in the afternoon. The fire burned over many acres in that section. Now that men are fishing in the streams, they should be extremely careful while smoking.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood of Norwich visited Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Lathrop Sunday. Mrs. Wood is Mr. Lathrop's sister.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Griswold and the former's mother motored to Middletown Sunday to visit relatives.

The barn on the Burnet place, Clift street, got a-fire, Sunday evening but the flames were put out before much damage was done.

The Parent-Teachers' association meeting is to be held April 17, instead of this week owing to the school vacation.

Mrs. J. V. Storey and daughter Violet have opened their residence on Library street for the season.

Mrs. Mary S. Brown is able to be out after two weeks' illness with a cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pollard and Mrs. J. W. Pollard called on Charles Fairbanks, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Silas B. Wheeler of Pequotsepos Valley is ill.

Miss Anna Willcox of Quinebog is ill at her home.

Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Brown, Mac Kenzie and son, Robert William Mac Kenzie, Harry B. Mac Kenzie of Mystic and Misses Isabella A. Mac Kenzie and Pamela Gray Mac Kenzie of Westerly spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eno M. Gray and family, in Ledyard.

Holy Week is to be observed by the Methodist Episcopal church with the following special services: Wednesday evening prayer service at 7:30; Thursday evening, united Communion service at Old Mystic; Good Friday, continuous devotional service from twelve till three. The Good Friday service will include brief addresses on the last words of the Savior by the pastor Rev. J. G. Sellis and several neighboring ministers. This is the only service of its kind in the community. Worshippers of other churches have been cordially invited.

The Methodist W. H. M. S. is to meet this (Tuesday) afternoon with Mrs. Henry Johnson. The Ladies' Aid society is to meet in the chapel Thursday afternoon. Choir rehearsals will be held Tuesday and Friday evenings.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Henry B. Noyes.

Jesse W. Hall of Quinebog is shut in by illness.

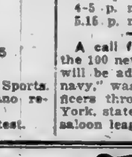
Whiten Cloudy Teeth

Under that film on your teeth (run your tongue across your teeth and you can feel it) are the clean, gleaming teeth you envy. Combat it this way—see what pretty teeth you have.

In the United States today, it is estimated that over half a million people a day are cleaning their teeth in a new way. These are people who used to have dull and dingy teeth. That is why you see gleaming teeth wherever you turn.

Now leading dentists tell how to clear up dingy teeth. A method that supplants old type dentifrices—combats, without harsh grit, the stubborn film that covers teeth and makes them ugly.



Run your tongue across your teeth. You will feel that film. Under it are the prettier, whiter teeth you envy in others. This offers you free a 10-day tube of the way authorities advise combating it. Simply mail the coupon.

The great enemy of tooth Film is the great enemy of tooth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea.

You can't have prettier, whiter teeth; you can't have healthier teeth unless you combat that film.

Obtain Pepsodent now. Don't expect the same results from old type dentifrices. Start beautifying your teeth today. Mail the coupon.

SALE OF COTTAGES AND LAND AT OCEAN BEACH, NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 6, 1925—Henry and Lena Schupack, of New Britain, today sold at Ocean Beach a tract of land, together with cottages, to Samuel Schneider, also of New Britain. The price paid was $18,000. The property is located at that section of the beach where the boundary line of the city and that of the town of Waterford adjoin.

Charles R. Stevens today sold a large tract of land on Hillside avenue to Frederick W. Marcer. The price involved is $20,000.

The hearing of Patrolman Patrick Sheehan, recently suspended for seven weeks by City Manager William A. Holt, following the officer being found intoxicated on duty, will take place in the council chamber, municipal building tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock, according to an announcement made to that effect today by the city manager.

Aubrey Newcomb, chief commissary at the coast guard station, was in the police court this morning for alleged breach of the peace consisting of abuse of Mrs. Mary Sylva, wife of a supernumerary policeman. Mrs. Sylva charged Newcomb with using the vilest sort of language toward her, when she passed him on State street, on the way to the store, at the corner of Bank. She told the court the epithets Newcomb applied to her, and that she slapped him squarely in the face and then walloped him with a vanity case she carried. She didn't spare him in the least in her testimony. But her evidence stood alone, while Mr. Newcomb had the corroborating testimony of two sailors from the coast guard to deny that Newcomb offended the woman as alleged. They said the vile talk attributed to Newcomb might have been used, as that sort of talk was common among the coast guard men, but they denied that Newcomb spoke as he was represented to have spoken to Mrs. Sylva. Niles and Holmes were the companions of Newcomb and they stood in a group when the Sylva woman passed. They said she turned and struck Newcomb and that he accepted the blows without any resistance whatever. It developed during the hearing that Mrs. [illegible] had separated from her husband [illegible] a time, a year ago and that then she was the companion of Newcomb at theatres several times. They finally broke friendship. Evidently, they had very much broken, for the testimony showed that Mrs. Sylva testified that she was employed at the Palmer Brothers' mill, and that there complaint was made to the superintendent that had assaulted Newcomb from a window of the plant. Mrs. Sylva represented the superintendent as saying [illegible] Newcomb and de- [illegible] Mrs. Sylva failed to court this [illegible] appeared with [illegible] lawyer to a [illegible] some after it [illegible] The young man tes- [illegible] another and was [illegible] He went to [illegible] ked for the [illegible] policemen him and [illegible] they were closed [illegible] and roared as they left the [illegible] in the custody of an officer. But the young fellows could not or [illegible] say what their bought for [illegible] confessed not to know [illegible] whether it [illegible] the release of alcohol permitted by the Volstead act. Mrs. [illegible] same former) declared that she never saw the young man who testified to the purchase of the liquor. She said that officers came to her home and that she invited them to make a thorough search of the house. This they did and could not find any liquor. They did find the odor of alcohol on a glass pitcher in the house, but that was all they detected. Judge Prince declared that the state had failed to make out its case.

A couple of first-time drunks were in court today as was a youth charged with stealing bundles of papers sent here from out of town. They were not penalized. The boy is to pay for the papers he stole and the drunks were admonished not to appear again.

Guido Veilli discovered much to his astonishment this morning that he could not safely operate an automobile when his brain was in a whirl from the use of intoxicating liquor. He is a fisherman and is acquainted with water to a degree that he should not mix his affairs with whiskey. He was in port yesterday and while here it is presumed that he tackled whiskey or rather hooch, for he had a small bottle of the latter when arrested. Guido had driven to the public wharf Sunday afternoon and in getting there attracted the attention of police officers. He was allowed to go by as he was headed from Bank street to the railway station and would have to come back over the same route. On the wharf he manipulated his car so that it bumped into the machine Morris Thompson was operating and caused some damage. Thompson walked up to Police Sergeant Hick and told him that Guido was drunk. The policeman sought and found Veilli, but the latter could not show a registration card nor an operator's license, though today he discovered that he had both. Veilli represented in the police court that the bottle of liquor in the car was found there when he purchased the machine and that it had been left a year ago by a former owner who used the stuff when hunting and fishing. That sort of story was not satisfying to the court because the police officers had testified that Veilli was very much under the influence of liquor. He was fined $100 and his license was taken from him. His home is in East Hampton, Conn.

The funeral of Antano Sternelle, 13, son of Mrs. Annis Sternelle, 30 Shaw street, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church where a mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimmons. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Frederick Fournier, was held at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Miss Lucy Darby, of Baker avenue, Groton; William John Marks, Tenth street; Robert Sullivan, Grand street; Nelson Ord, U. S. N. Radwing; Mrs Morris Barber, Deane street, Groton; Mrs. Herbert Cody and infant daughter, Deane street, Groton; Agostino Grillo, Riverview avenue; Mrs. Augus Larsen, Westerly; Miss Luella Bosse, Uncasville; George Thayer, Howard street; Edward Olin, 19 Tenth street; Miss Annie Rathbun, Pearl street, and Miss Mary Murphy, Westerly, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

An automobile owned and operated by Stanley R. Prescott, R. F. D. No. 2, Waterford, and a machine owned and driven by Steve C. Giordani, 10 Montauk avenue, were wrecked early this evening when the two automobiles collided on Ocean avenue, corner of Willetts avenue. Although both cars were battered to such an extent that they had to be towed to garages, neither Prescott or Giordani sustained injuries.

Patrick Kennedy, an inmate at the Hillside home, the city's place for shelter for the homeless, was taken into custody late this afternoon by Patrolmen George Laboue and Carl Selesnitsky, charged with intoxication, upon complaint of Thomas E. Donohue, superintendent of the home. Kennedy will be in court Tuesday morning.

An automobile bearing Connecticut registration, A-8973, which is listed in New Haven county, in passing through Golden street this afternoon, collided with a motionless commercial car owned by Nichols and Rogers, the latter car being damaged. The colliding car had two sailors as passengers and the driver of the machine evaded responsibility by not stopping to determine the extent of the damage occasioned.

An automobile, owned and operated by Dorothy Archer, 29 Broad street Groton, collided with an unidentified machine tonight on Main street, near State street. Neither automobile was damaged of consequence.

Mrs. Hugo Momm, 563 Ocean avenue reported to the police this afternoon that apparently an attempt had been made to steal one of the Momm automobiles from the garage Saturday night. Mrs. Momm stated that the garage was locked Saturday night but Sunday morning it was discovered that the lock had been smashed and that one of the machines had been pushed partially from the garage, indicating that crooks had been scared away before they had succeeded in stealing the car.

Mrs. Philomena J. Nelson, wife of Manuel J. Nelson, 30 Central avenue, died Sunday at Home Memorial hospital. Other than her husband, Mrs. Nelson leaves no relatives.

Attorney John C. Geary today sold a tract of land on Crystal avenue, to M. Emma Lincoln.

Mrs. Mary Blackburn Lee, widow of Joseph W. Lee, a former resident of New London, died late Saturday at Methuen, Mass., where she is visiting relatives. Mrs. Lee was of advanced years and is survived by two sons, Joseph and Harry Lee and by two daughters, Miss Mary Lee, a registered nurse and Mrs. Alfred G. Highmore, all of New London.

Jacob Fisher, 70, former well known New London merchant, died this morning at Lawrence hospital, where he had been under treatment but a short time for kidney trouble. Mr. Fisher is survived by three sons, Abraham and Louis Fisher, of this city, and Charles Fisher, Springfield, Mass. Mr. Fisher resided at the Crocker house and about three months ago he experienced failing health and consulted medical advice in Boston, where it was revealed that the kidney was affected. He returned to New London and when his condition did not respond to treatment he was transferred to the hospital. Mr. Fisher was for nearly two score years a clothing merchant and maintained several stores in the city's business center, retiring from active business about six years ago.

The funeral of Miss Fanny A. Den-ison was held this afternoon at the church house of the Second Congregational church at 2.30 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Roy Chandler, 41, son of Rev. Aden-iram J. Chandler, of Lindeh street, died Sunday following a lingering illness. Mr. Chandler, besides his father, is survived by a brother, Merle Chandler, this city.

Mrs. Susan M. Stoddard, 90, widow of James B. Stoddard, for many years a resident of New London, died this forenoon at her residence in Waterford, death ending a lingering illness of infirmities attending her advanced years. Mrs. Stoddard was born in New London and a few years ago moved to Waterford. She is survived by a son, Edgar C. Stoddard, night clerk at the Hotel Mohican.

Gov. Trumbull and his staff have accepted an invitation to attend the annual ball of Prince Soleman post of the American Legion in the New London armory next week. The council tonight appointed a committee consisting of Councilors Fox and City Manager Holt to assist [illegible] of Councilors Whiton, and Kinne for the city officials taking part in the reception to the governor and his official family. Councilor Fox announced that he understood that a committee of 100 was to have charge of the affair and that the governor and his party would be entertained at a dinner from 7 to 8:30 on the evening of the ball.

THE GREENS MAY BUILD BUT MAY NOT USE GASOLINE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 6—The city council this evening thrashed out the matter of the application of Simon and Eertha Green, proprietors of the Krystal Cleaning and Dyeing establishment for a license to erect a business building on land in the rear of 20 Williams street, and erect a garage that shall have stalls for hire. The council after a long discussion granted the applicants the permission to build, but denied the application for a business building that shall be for the use of gasoline in the cleaning.

The city's director of law, F. McGuire advised the council that it had no option in the granting of the request for permission to erect buildings when the applicant had complied with the state laws and with the provisions of the building code. The council, cannot within the law act arbitrarily. He pointed out that the establishment of a business that required the use of gasoline in conducting it raised a new point of consideration and if that business increased the fire hazard, the city could refuse to grant it.

He held that the council should base its judgment upon facts alone and not let its action be arbitrary when, the tenement house laws and the provisions of city ordinances had been complied with.

Counsel for both the petitioners and the protestants were in the council chamber, but, by agreement, decided not to make any statement. Then came the motion of Councilor Streeter that the petition for the gasoline business be denied and the petition for the other structures should be granted. Councilor Whiton held that there was a problem greater than that presented by the opposition of the neighbors. It was that of the public, which feels that the charter of the city gives New London the legal right to do in the matter of granting permission for buildings as other cities may do.

The situation is so complicated he believed it would be wise for the council to await the action of the legislature on the zoning law. Public demands the protection of the public interests in residential districts, and he held that it was clear that the ultimate rights of the petitioners would not be exhausted by any action the council might take in this matter.

Decisions by the court were based on facts, but, he said, the laws are constantly changing, and in the face of public feeling the public appeals to the council for its only protection. The plans for the Green structure call for a cesspool and for the taking care of gasoline used in the business, also for a high power steam boiler. He said it would be better for Mr. Green if he sought another location for his business, and believed the property of Mr. Green would be enhanced in value by so doing.

The vote, when taken was without objection to refusing to grant the application for the gasoline use in the business.

RIALTO THEATRE INTERIOR COMPLETELY BURNED OUT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 6.—The Rialto theatre, a three-story brick structure, on Bank street, owned by the Armstrong & Perry estate and leased by Frank Frauer, was gutted early this morning. A fierce blaze completely demolished the interior of the structure, the entire equipment and furnishings of the playhouse, one devoted exclusively to motion pictures, being reduced to ashes.

The fire was discovered at 2.30 o'clock and was burning fiercely at the time, the flames having made great headway and leaping through the roof when discovered by a patrolman. An alarm was rung in from Box 32, in front of the quarters of the Allen Hook and Ladder company and 10 minutes after the department reached the burning structure the flames were so intense and gave such indication of reaching other structures that a general alarm was sounded. A dozen or more streams of water were emptied into the flames, but it was not until two and one-half hours after the blaze was discovered that the flames were conquered.

During the early stages of combating the fire the police had four valuable horses of the Humphrey-Cornell company to be taken from a barn in the rear of the theatre The fire, it is believed, originated in the boiler-room, for the flames appeared to have originated near the heating plant and then have ascended to the rear partitions and to the roof.

NOANK

RECOVERY IN MARKET

New York, April 6—Stock prices resumed their upward movement today under the leadership of the motor and oil shares. The recovery was given impetus by the substantial advance in grain prices. The temporary stiffening of money and the political crisis which has developed over the French cabinet's financial policy apparently were disregarded. Trading was in moderate volume, the day's sales aggregating about one and one-quarter million shares.

Buoyancy of the high-priced industrials was one of the day's features. Nash Motors soared 20 1-2 points to a record top at 340 and then eased to 338. Net gains of 4 3-4 to nearly 10 points were recorded by Associated Dry Goods, S. S. Kresge, Laclede Gas, Mack Truck, United Fruit, United States Cast Iron Pipe and United States Realty.

With the first public offering of Dodge Brothers securities expected on Wednesday, speculative interests in the motors continued at high ebb. Maxwell Motors A and B were heavily bought, touching new high levels at 37 3-4 and 63 3-8 respectively. Trading in these issues was stimulated by reports that the A stock would soon be placed on an $8 annual dividend basis. Other strong spots in the automotive group were Fisher Body, Packard and Willys Overland common and Hupp, all of which closed a point or more higher.

Accumulation of the oil shares followed reports of steadily increasing gasoline consumption. General Asphalt jumped 2 1-4 points; Atlantic Refining 3, and net gains of 1 point or more were recorded by California Petroleum common and preferred, Pan-American Fuel, Houston, Independent Oil and Gas, Louisiana, Maracaibo, Mid-Continent, Pacific, Pan-American Petroleum, Simms, Skelly, Sinclair Consolidated, Standard Oil of California, Texas and Pacific Coal and Oil and Transcontinental.

Specialties and industrials showed substantial gains on the Day. American Can added 1 3-4 to 166 1-4 after touching 164; Baldwin moved up 3 1-8 to 115 1-8; Studebaker showed a net gain of 1-2 at 44 7-8 and United States Steel common closed 1-4 higher at 125 1-2.

Delaware and Hudson continued to reflect speculative approval over the proposed segregation of its coal prop erties, soaring more than nine points to a new high for the year at 135 and dropping back to 131. Jersey Central showed a sensational gain of 25 points on sales. Good buying also appeared in the other anthracite issues, Lackawanna showing a gain of 3 points at 133; Lehigh Valley moving up 2 3-8 to 73 1-2 and the Reading issues improving fractionally. Other strong spots in the rail list included Atchison, Canadian Pacific, Chesapeake and Atlantic Coast Line, Seaboard and Frisco common and Texas Pacific.

Money renewed at 3 3-4 per cent, after touching 4 and then receding to 3 1-2 per cent. Call loans closed unchanged at $3,000,000 in order to increase their reserves. Saturday's bank house statement showed a decrease of over $23,000,000 in loans during the week. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchange rates moved within narrow and irregular limits. Sterling ruled slightly higher at $4.75 5-16, while French francs declined to around 5.15 cents. The Belgian krone established a new low at 5 cents but later forfeited Tuesday's gain.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND NEVER SUSPECT IT

APPLICANTS FOR INSURANCE OFTEN REJECTED

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview of the subject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing mention this paper.

BOND MARKET

New York, April 6—Moderate improvement took place in the bond market today although the pace of trading was slow. Several railroad and industrial issues responded to special developments affecting individual companies but otherwise interest was at a low ebb and prices were held within narorw limits.

Stiffening of coal money rates was attributed to temporary measures adopted by the banks to strengthen their reserves. The higher rates were desreg

STANDARD BREAD LOAF IS AGAIN UNDER DEBATE

The question of compelling bakers to adopt a standard loaf of bread, which has been before the general assemble during the past few sessions, has again been argued at a hearing of the judiciary committee. It was indicated that a proposed bill, requiring a standard loaf of one pound, or multiples thereof, will not be considered favorably by the committee.
Sealer of Weights and Measures Thomas F. Eagan of the state police department and E. A. Crilly of Hartford, representing the National Health and Food Guardians association, spoke in favor of the bill, while it was opposed by O. F. Baker of New Britain, representing state bakers.
The proponents of the bill argued that there should be a standard loaf, of a certain weight so the public wouldn't be "sypped." Members of the committee indicated that they did not see any need for a standard weight, inasmuch as there was apparently a standard price. It was shown by the bakers, and also by members of the committee, that it was at present the tendency to vary the poundage of bread instead of the price, when the market cost of raw material fluctuated. The committee could not see any advantage in changing this condition, so that the poundage should remain stationary and the price fluctuate.
As pointed out by Mr. Parker it was really more advantageous to have the price stationary as the average buyer would naturally become more disturbed at a changing price, rather than a changing loaf. Mr. Parker pointed out that when the bakers adjust the loaf to meet changing prices of raw material, they do not change the size, but only the weight. "It's only when the size changes that the public kicks," he freely admitted.
Mr. Eagan and Mr. Crilly, however, could not see the point of changing the poundage of the loaf to comply with the fluctuations of the market of raw materials. They implied that the public was being defrauded when they paid the same price for a smaller loaf, because buyers assumed that they were geting the same poundage.

REV. A. H. ABBOTT SPEAKER AT NEW YORK SEMINARY

Rev. Alexander Hewes Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church of Norwich, preached Sunday in the Union Theological Seminary, New York. He said that Christianity was a religion of the living present and not of the dead past.
"Christ saw the living souls of men," he said. "Again and again he affirmed his belief in the indomitable life and spirit that it contained in human beings. Christianity at its best expresses astonishment at our lack of faith in them.
"No wonder our faith is not strong when we deal from our own dark, gloomy outlook with the treacherous, sordid, ragged things of life. Christianity asks us why we remain with the deadening things of life.
"'Why seek ye the living among the dead?' In the Twenty-third Psalm the Psalmist says: 'Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death.' If he had stayed there in the valley, we will be perplexed and atheistic. But he goes through, on out into the life of the living spirit.
"I am thankful that there is no mausoleum of Christ, no stone on which is inscribed, 'Here lies the body of Jesus of Nazareth.' Many people would bring wreaths and flowers to put on His tomb, but too many would remain there and form the habit of living with their memories.
"It is a good thing to go into the past to see the records of the achievements of men, but to remain there is something that is rebuked by Christianity. Christianity has given up a new valuation for the things of life. It teaches us to judge them by our spiritual experiences.
"Robes, dust, the fields, the sky, clouds all these are molds into which pour the powers of the living God to work fruition. We should seek not the molds but the powers going into these molds. The real Christian has faith in the attitude of optimism with life."

ICE HOUSE AND SHED IN FISHTOWN BURNED

Damage estimated at about $4,000 was done Saturday afternoon when an icehouse and shed in Fishtown, between Noank and Mystic, were partially destroyed by fire. Although the cause of the fire has not yet been definitely established, it is believed that a grass fire in the vicinity of the buildings spread to the wooden structures and started the fire in the buildings. The icehouse and shed were owned by Elmer Doyle of West Mystic, and the stored ice was owned by Joseph and Frank Bergman of Noank. The ice supply was not covered by insurance and represents almost a total loss. It is understood that the buildings are partly covered by insurance.
The fire was discovered by a workman in a nearby field. An alarm was sent in to the Mystic and Noank fire departments, both of which responded. The shed was almost entirely consumed when the fire-fighting apparatus arrived and one side and the roof of the main house were burning rapidly. The firemen concentrated their efforts on preventing the blaze from spreading to other buildings.
The shed contained about 300 tons of ice, while nearly 1,200 tons were stored in the larger building. Very little of the ice is reclaimable, it is said.

Dr. Charles Erdman, of the Princeton Theological seminary has been removed by the faculty of the institution as student adviser and succeeded by the Rev. Robert Dick Wilson.

TAFTVILLE

Mr and Mrs. Emile Dubeau and Miss Rose Dubeau of Plainfield spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lambert of North B. street.

Stanley Zkiobish of Norwich avenue has accepted a position with a mill in Norwich.

Because of Holy Week, there will be no conclave of the K. O. K. A., at the Taftville Congregational church this week. The candidates for the third degree with their esquires and some of the officers of the castle met Monday evening at the church for instruction.

Special music for Palm Sunday was rendered at the masses at the Sacred Heart church Sunday. The blessing of the palms took place at the high mass after which they were distributed to the congregation.

At the Taftville Congregational church there was a special Palm Sunday service with the pastor, Rev. Edwin G. Crowdis officiating. The church was decorated with palms, and Thomas Grimshaw, baritone, sang The Palms (Faure) accompanied on the organ by Miss Nellie Howie. In the evening the Young Peoples' society of Christian Endeavor met in the vestry of the church with Mrs. Edwin G. Crowdis, as leader.

Special services will be held at the Taftville Congregational church on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings during Holy Week.

KINGSHIP OF JESUS WAS SPEAKER'S TOPIC

At the noon meeting of the Richmond Radiator company, Monday, the subject presented by the speaker, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, was the Kingship of Jesus, the meeting being held as usual under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A.

In the presentation of the theme the speaker made use of a topographical map, as the incidents of Palm Sunday are closely related to Jerusalem and its environment.

Starting with the close of the Perean ministry the speaker followed the journey of our Lord as He left the Jordan valley some time on Friday preceding Palm Sunday. The incident of His contact with Zacchaeus was related; the separation of the multitude into two groups, one pressing on to Jerusalem to spend the Sabbath in rest; the other group camping on the elevated plateau northeast of Olives, while Jesus spent the Sabbath with his friends at Bethany.

Then beginning with Sunday morning all of the recorded incidents connected with his triumphal entry into Jerusalem were minutely related; the sending of two of his disciples to Bethphage for the colt which he was to ride as a king to his coronation; the wild acclamation of the people as they strewed his pathway with branches of olive and walnut; their waving of palm branches and the shouting of "Hosanna."

The speaker closed by emphasizing three things in regard to the Kingship: How does one become a king? What are the symbols of royal power? What is essential to make the Kingship a success?

PUBLIC WORKS COMMITTEE REPORTS TWO NEW SEWERS COMPLETED

At the April meeting of the court of common council in the council chamber Monday evening the public works department reported that the new sewers in Roosevelt avenue and in North Cliff street have been completed. The cost of the new sewer in Roosevelt avenue is given in the report as $4,856.81 and the cost of the North Cliff street sewer is given as $337.59. Accompanying the reports are the names of those property holders who are especially benefited by the new sewers and liable to assessment toward the cost of the construction of the sewers. The council named May 4th at 7.30 p. m. as the date and time of hearings on the proposed assessments for these two sewers.

Preceding the council meeting there was a hearing on the Maple street sewer assessments. This was called at 7.30 o'clock and after various interested persons had been heard the hearing was adjourned until the council meeting in May.

The council meeting was called to order at 8.30 o'clock by His Honor Mayor Milo R. Waters, with all the members present. The minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading, according to the usual procedure. The city clerk read the [illegible] of publication on the new or[illegible] relating to the salary of the [illegible] city treasurer and city clerk [illegible] amendments to the traffic [illegible] and 44, and Section 38. The [illegible] accepted. Mayor Waters [illegible] to the fact that the [illegible] ordinance has no effect on the [illegible] of the city treasurer and city [illegible] the mayor's salary being the [illegible] one changed. Petitions were re[illegible] and disposed of as follows:

For and Against Orchard St. Sewer.

From James Dennis and about 40 others asking that the council include in the estimates for the coming year an appropriation for a sewer on Orchard street. Referred to the finance committee.

From Mrs. Elsie M. Boyer and others, four of the six property holders on Orchard street who would be included in the assessment for the sewer asked for in the above petition, petitioning that the improvement asked for by James Dennis and others be not made. Reasons given were that the expense would be prohibitive and sewer is not needed. During the discussion on the two petitions it was brought out that the length of the proposed sewer would be about 225 feet. There was some confusion as to the number of property holders for and against the sewer petition. It was also brought out in the discussion that Dr. F. J. Brophy, health officer, was in favor of the construction of the sewer from a sanitary standpoint. The petition was referred to the finance committee.

Prospect Street Petition.

From Martin Rozycki and 32 others asking that the estimates for the coming year include an appropriation for the macadamizing of Prospect street from Central avenue to Sixth street. Referred to the finance committee.

Klingon Petition Withdrawn.

From M. Klingon for a permit to erect a single story fireproof garage on his land abutting on Broadway. Alderman Crooks moved that the petition be referred to the fire commissioners. Cost of the new garage would be about $30,000. Petition was referred to the fire commissioners. (Following the adjournment of the council meeting Mr. Klingon notified the fire commissioners that he would withdraw the petition.)

From Dennis Madden asking that Golden street be accepted as a public highway. Referred to the public works committee.

From Thomas M. English, et al., asking that the estimates for the coming year include an appropriation for a tar bound road on Slater avenue. Referred to the finance committee.

From Park Congregational society asking that the arc light on the pole in front of the residence of J. Ralph Howe be changed to the pole in front of the driveway of Mrs. F. S. Camp. Referred to the police commissioners with power.

From Margaret M. Rohan et al., asking the establishment of a grade on the westerly side of North Cliff street. Referred to the public works committee.

From G. R. Smith, et al., for a grade on the westerly side of Cedar street from Broad street to Greene avenue. Referred to the public works committee.

For Street Lights.

From Charles Pearson, et al., for a street light to be installed near No. 610 North Main street. Referred to the police commissioners with power.

Petition asking that bug lamps on Smith avenue between the Eighth street bridge and the New London County Home and bug lamps on Roosevelt avenue between the bridge and Mowry avenue be changed to arc lamps. Referred to the police commissioners with power.

Petition to accept the land leading from Church street to the old school [illegible] on School street as a public [illegible] the public [illegible]

Monthly Reports Accepted.

[illegible] the city [illegible] ...ember, the monthly report of the fire marshal, [illegible] monthly cash statement of the water department were received and accepted. Notice of the assessments fixed for the Carpenter street sewer, Routh street sewer and the Burton avenue sewer were received and accepted.

Roosevelt Avenue Sewer Cost.

The public works committee reported that the new sewer in Roosevelt avenue has been completed at a cost of $4,856.81 and the committee reported that the following named persons are especially benefitted by the layout and construction of the sewer:

Northwesterly side of Roosevelt avenue: The Norwich Water Power Company, Faddey Arico, Myra Baldwin, Jozef Dantlowitz, Mikolaj Zieziulewicz and Pauline Zieziulewicz, Antone Pezyla, Anthony Jeznach and Stanislaw Jeznach, Arthur McGeown and Dorothea McGeoun, Joseph Wisnewski.

Southeasterly side of Roosevelt avenue: The Peck-McWilliams Co., Valenty Cimuchowski and Marrianna Cimuchowski, Eva Ulikowski, Rufus D. Harris, Antoni Wlodarczik, Arseny Woroniuk and Helen Woroniuk, Martha Teresa McGervey, Toney Kononcjik and Julia Lukiewicz, Andrew Covalenko and Mary Covalenko, Lizzie E. McNally, Suzanna Politowitez, Edmond Cote and Bertha Cote and Paul F. Colande.

Mayor Waters, Henry Gebrath, Alfred G. Lillibridge and Nicholas J. Spellman were appointed a committee to hear the above persons and all others in interest in reference to a proposed assessment for benefits from the layout and construction of the sewer and the hearing was set for May 4th at 7.30 p. m.

The public works committee also reported that the new sewer in North Cliff street has been completed and that the cost of the sewer was $337.59. The committee reported that the following named persons are especially benefitted by the new sewer:

Easterly side of North Cliff street: Paul Banaswicz and Eva Banaswicz, Mary E. Toomey and Patrick J. Toomey, Ella J. Toomey and Margaret A. Toomey, Antoni Waydaloviski and Pawlina Waydaloviski.

Westerly side of North Cliff street: Katherine T. Murphy.

The same committee was appointed to hear the above named persons regarding proposed assessments and the date of the hearing was fixed as May 4th at 7.30 p. m.

Petitions Granted.

The police committee reported that they had considered, and granted the following petitions:

Petition of Park Congregational society asking the removal of street light from in front of the residence of J. Ralph Howe to location near driveway of Mrs. F. S. Camp.

Petition of St. Joseph's Polish church, through the rector, for a light in front of the church.

Petition of Charles Pearson, et al., for an arc light on North Main street near the Connecticut Co. car barn. The reports were accepted by the council.

Invitation From Elks.

The council received and accepted an invitation from Norwich Lodge, No. 430, B. P. O. E., to attend the celebration of the burning of the Elks' mortgage, Wednesday evening, April 15th. The members of the council, who will attend in a body, were requested to meet at the mayor's office in the court house at 6 o'clock that evening. The exercises start at 7 o'clock.

A lease from the N. Y., N. H. & Hartford Railroad and the Central Railroad to the city of the small plot of ground on Falls avenue where the city's voting booth stands, was accepted by the council. The rental is $10 a year and the lease may be terminated by either party upon 30 days written notice.

Claims Presented.

Claims were received and referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel as follows:

From Freida Blinderman, $75, claim for injuries received in a fall on an icy sidewalk last winter.

From W. R. Dean of the United Metal Manufacturing Company, claim for $13 for one broken spring, one ruined tire and labor replacing the broken spring on his automobile. Mr. Dean claims the spring was broken when he was driving through Main street March 31.

Anthony Krupinski presented a bill to the city for $150. Krupinski claims that in October, 1920, he purchased from Walter F. Lang a quantity of lumber which the city afterwards claimed and for which he paid the city. Mr. Lang, he claims, is now asking payment for the lumber. He seeks recovery of the $150 he paid the city for the lumber.

The council adopted a resolution authorizing the refunding of $5.35 to John R. Boyer, taxes paid by him, as he is a soldier exempt.

In Favor of Zoning.

The council went on record [illegible] favoring the granting by the legislature of power to make zoning regulations for the city.

On motion of Alderman P. F. Sweeney the council adopted the ordinance presented at the March meeting of the council, amending the present traffic rules.

Bills were approved, as follows:

Water department, $6,296.93; Trading Cove Brook pumping station, $10,499.83; department of cemeteries, $607.15; fire department, $6,803.54; gas and electric department, $70,093.23; finance department, $34,702.26; park department, $469.46; police department, $5,557.91; street lighting, $5,250.35; public works department, regular, $11,029.10; permanent street improvement, $467.48.

The council adjourned at 9.05 o'clock.

PARADE-PARKING ORDERS FOR TONIGHT'S WELCOME

The following telegram was received by Rev. M. F. Galvin from Chairman T. C. Murphy Monday morning.

Mgr. May has arrived. He is with us at the Belmont. He is looking fine. Will wire you tomorrow when we are leaving New York.

The parade committee, Michael J. Kelly, chairman and Marshal E. J. APPEALING TO HEBREWS FOR FUNDS FOR UNIVERSITY

A general fund for the Hebrew university for the purpose of maintaining, extending and endowing the institution, has been established by the national executive committee of the Zionist Organization of America and steps for the raising of the first million dollars of this fund are already under way. This is the university on Mount Scopus, the opening of which was celebrated at the big Zionist meeting here last week.

A statement issued by the Zionist Organization of America declares that this fund established itself almost spontaneously. In numerous Jewish communities all over the country an eagerness to contribute to the university expressed itself in the establishment of local funds for the purpose, the enthusiasm being so intense that it sought naturally for such a form of expression. Recognizing this fact and recognizing also the fact that the university will require very large funds in order that its full promise may be realized, the national executive committee voted the immediate establishment of the fund, and issued a public appeal to the Jews of America for generous contributions.

SUIT TO SETTLE TITLE ON WEST MAIN STREET

Isaac Fishken of this city, owner of a piece of real estate on West Main street, has brought suit against William T. Mahoney of Norwich and others for a judgment to determine the title and settle the adverse claim which the defendants make to the property. The plaintiff is in possession of the premises, having taken title through a warranty deed from Patrick W. Mahoney, Sept. 25, 1923 and a further deed from him as trustee, March 6, 1925. There is a mortgage on it of $4,000 to the said Patrick Mahoney.

Defendants named in the suit are William T., Ellen, James J., James O., and George W. Mahoney, Sarah M. O'Neil, Dora M. Story, Katherine M. Gleason, Margaret Coughlin, and George E. Stanton, all of Norwich; James Mahoney of Preston; John Mahoney of Boston; Thomas Swanton of Malden, Mass.; Ellen and Jeremiah Mahoney, both of Rathravene, Ballydehole, county of Cork, Ireland; Ellen Goggins of Gloun in the parish of Skull, county of Cork, Ireland, and the heirs of Ellen Swanton, late of Rathravene, deceased.

PAYS FINE FOR KEEPING A VICIOUS DOG

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 6.—In the town court at Waterford this evening with Justice Goss presiding, Louis Ginsberg, [illegible]or at Quaker Hill, was fined $7 [illegible] costs attached for maintaining a vicious dog. The dog had bitten quite severely John McPartland, G. [illegible] Bliven was the grand jurors. Ginsberg was represented by Perry J. Hollander, [illegible] New London. The hearing was [illegible] men's hall which was thronged to listen to the testimony and to learn of the action of the justice in deciding the matter.

FEAST OF PASSOVER BEGINS WEDNESDAY EVENING

An elaborate home ceremony, known as the Seder, will usher in the Jewish Passover Wednesday evening at sunset. The festival is one of a cycle of three which are designated in the Bible as "Pilgrim Festivals," on which all males were in ancient times duty bound to make a pilgrimage to the Holy City. According to the Bible, Passover is to be kept for seven days, but orthodox Jews in the lands of the diaspora observe it for eight days. The Jews of Palestine, however, strictly follow the ordinance of the bible.

In ancient times Passover had an agricultural significance, marking the very beginning of the harvest season. Since post-exelic days, however, Passover has largely lost its agricultural meaning, and it has come to be primarily the great Festival of Freedom, commemorating that great event in Israel's history when it cast off the chains of Egyptian slavery and became a free and independent people. Passover then may well be spoken of as Israel's birthday.

NEW LONDON TO NAME BUILDING LINES

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 6.—The city council this evening decided to go ahead and establish building lines on the west side of Bank street. The action came on a report from the city manager, and had reference to that section of Bank street between State street and Tilley streets, about which there has been discussion since 1924. The council instructed the city manager to prepare maps, etc. The line is to be established but the council did not decide that it would go ahead and condemn land by authority of its right to eminent domain. It is believed that if the condemnation of land is sought and gone at the cost will be of staggering amount to the city. After the vote to prepare the plans the matter was referred to the committee on public safety for report to the council.

Rains in the Arequipa district of Peru recently stopped trains from running and seriously damaged crops.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS MADELINE LA ROCHELLE

Members of Division No. 54, A. O. H., gave a miscellaneous shower at their hall on Main street, Monday evening, for Miss Madeline LaRochelle, over 40 being in attendance. The hall was tastefull decorated for the occasion. The surprise of the evening came when a prettily decorated basket was placed on one of the tables and Miss La Rochelle was requested to search into its contents. Upon doing so she found many articles which would prove of use to her, for which she voiced her appreciation to members of the auxiliary.

During the evening games were played nad refreshments were served. The committee in charge of the shower comprised Miss Catherine Coughlin, chairman; Mrs. William LaRochelle, Mrs. Robert Sullivan, Miss Catherine Conefrey, Miss Anna Connell, Mrs. Patrick McGill, Miss Eva Hyde, Mrs. Frederick Brooks and Mrs. Mary McCaffery.

WANT LOWER RATES FOR WHARF PRIVILEGES

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 6.—Thirty-six fishermen and owners of fishing boats that come to the public landing petitioned for a lowering of the rates charged by the city for wharf privileges. It was claimed that the fishermen are practically those who bring fish here for shipment to New York and to the Boston market and that in trade they did not enter into competition with the local fishermen. It was also held that the fishermen buy all their supplies here and that they also buy material which they take to the islands nearby and dispose of them to others, the trade amounting to a considerable sum to merchants each year. The petition was referred to the committee on public welfare for investigation and report.

TO TAKE UP THE QUESTION OF TERRITORIAL WATERS

Will be One of Four Projects to be Considered by the Geneva Commission—One Proposal Would Permit the Pursuit of a Vessel Commenced Within Territorial Waters and to Bring the Vessel Back Before Its Courts—The Proposal Leaves the Off-Shore Extent of "Territorial Sea" to be Determined.

Washington, April 7—Decision of the Geneva commission of international experts to take up the question of territorial waters as one of four projects for international law codification to be considered at its present session, attaches new importance to the similar plan worked out by the American International Law Institute for the consideration of American Law Codification conference in Rio Janeiro. Draft conventions on "national domain," and "jurisdiction" framed by the institute embody, recent thought by experts in all American republics on the questions now before the Geneva gathering.

The proposals leave the off-shore extent of "territorial sea" to be inserted but they would establish a definite rule that the outer boundary of such sea within which the possessing nation could exercise absolute sovereignty would follow "the sinuosities of the coast" except as to bays of stipulated width at the mouth and with islands or coasts under the same sovereignty in such cases a straight line across the mouth of the bay is provided for. As to "international bays" where the coast is owned by two nations, the "equidistance" rule would prevail.

Special proposals come on the "jurisdiction" convention. It would confer a general right to continue, within the zone contigious to territorial seas, the pursuit of a vessel commenced within territorial waters," and to bring the vessel before its "territorial sovereign's courts."

A supplemental provision is that "the American republics may extend their jurisdiction beyond the territorial sea, parallel with such sea, for an additional distance of—marine miles, for reasons of safety and in order to assure observance of sanitary and customs regulations."

Another provision would make crimes committed aboard merchant craft subject to the law of the flag of the ship even when committed within the territorial sea of another nation, unless "they disturb the order and public tranquility of the region where they have been committed," when the the territorial sovereignty would have jurisdiction.

A separate provision would grant to maritime nations the right of occupation of the high sea contiguous to their territorial sea for the "more or less permanent establishment" of non-military aircraft bases, radio and cable stations, lighthouses, scientific exploration bases and refuge stations for shipwrecked persons. In no case could such bases be fortified or used "even indirectly" for military or naval purposes.

WITNESSED SHOOTING OF MISS BEATRICE DONNELLY

Greenwich, April 7—A witness to the shooting of Miss Beatrice Donnelly of New York City, who was killed [illegible] here Sunday, and for [illegible] James O'Mahoney, also of [illegible] being held, charged with [illegible] been found. It was announced by the police today. He is [illegible] Burcham, night watchman of the Indian Harbor Yacht club. Mr. [illegible] told the police yesterday that [illegible] heard the shot fired, but it was [illegible] today that it was discovered [illegible] that he was a witness of the actual [illegible].

Burcham told the police he saw [illegible] and O'Mahoney walking [illegible] Little Bruce park Sunday. [illegible] had hold of the girl's arm, [illegible]. Then he saw the couple [illegible] and a struggle ensued, Burcham's story of the police continues, [illegible] said he thought one of the [illegible] a small child so did not pay [illegible] attention to the couple, thinking [illegible] only fooling.

[illegible] police announced today that [illegible] learned that O'Mahoney and [illegible] had quarreled at a dance last [illegible] and it was reported that the [illegible] had been renewed while Miss [illegible]y and O'Mahoney were on [illegible] way to Greenwich Sunday. [illegible]Mahoney still remains silent as [illegible] motive for the shooting. He has [illegible] shown signs of nervousness, the [illegible]y say. He has opposed efforts of [illegible] father and sister, it is said, to engage counsel for him and has told [illegible]ssistant Attorney Henry E. White [illegible] he is ready for his punishment. [illegible] this attitude, it was reported [illegible] Alton W. Teale had been [illegible]gaged to defend him. It is said by [illegible]ther and sister that insanity will [illegible] the plea when O'Mahoney is given [illegible]ening.

ALL EMPLOYES FIGHTING FIRES IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

[illegible], N. H., April 7—A forest fire [illegible]atened to wipe out the sum[illegible] here today was apparently [illegible] under control this evening [illegible] industries had been sus[illegible] night. Starting from a [illegible] fire which soon got beyond [illegible] control, the flames raced [illegible] thousands of timber and [illegible] property.

[illegible] department, with villagers [illegible] hand in readiness to check the [illegible]. The mills were appealed to and [illegible] Farrars and company, Inc., the [illegible]land Knitting company, the Con[illegible]tal Paper and Bag company and [illegible] employed more than 400 men to [illegible] the flames.

[illegible] bucket brigades at [illegible] the several points where cot[illegible] were threatened the buildings [illegible] razed. After fifty acres, most of [illegible] marketable timble, had burned, [illegible] finally stopped the spread.

RUSSIA IS TO DOUBLE ITS ELECTRIC POWER

Washington, April 7—Soviet Russia has completed the first step of its [illegible] designed ultimately to [illegible] its present supply of electric [illegible] the Russian information bu[illegible] announced today, quoting advices [illegible] Moscow that existing power [illegible] has been restored to full cap[illegible] of about 1,000,000 kilowatts.

[illegible] regional power stations are [illegible] established, it was added, with [illegible] already made for expendi[illegible] totalling $750,000,000 by October 1. [illegible] of the stations will be in the Len[illegible]rad region, two around Moscow, one [illegible] Nizhni-novgorod, one in the Don [illegible] district and another in the Urals. [illegible] for the power system "are based on estimated annual consumption of 50 kilowatt hours per capita, and contemplate a total cost of $7,[illegible],000,000.

100-GALLON STILL WAS SEIZED IN NEW HAVEN

New Haven, April 7.—A 100-gallon [illegible] fuel operation, 70 gallons of [illegible] product and a 50-gallon bar[illegible] of denatured alcohol were seized [illegible] afternoon by prohibition agents [illegible] when they raided the barn of Aniello [illegible] at 24 Wheeler street. The [illegible] said they had been watching [illegible] for several days.

[illegible] was working at the still [illegible] prohibition agents entered. [illegible] was placed under [illegible] with violation of the [illegible]. Esposito was arraigned [illegible] U. S. Commissioner Bernard [illegible] this afternoon. He waived [illegible] examination and is being held for the [illegible] and jury under bonds of $1,000. The [illegible] still plant was dismantled by the [illegible].

TO APPRAISE EFFECT OF RECREATIONAL ACTIVITIES

Chicago, April 7—The first attempt to appraise the effect of recreational activities upon character and conduct is being made by a committee of the playground and recreation association in Chicago, according to members of the committee here attending the annual meeting of the women's division of the National Amateur Athletic Association. Letters received by the committee from prominent educators, recreation workers and psychologists stress the novelty and difficulty of the experiment. But some hold that it will be worth while especially in directing more attention to the relations of recreational activities to "the character-building qualities which we shout so much about."

Copies of the letters which are responses to a questionnaire by the chairman, S. C. Wallace, of New York, were made public by Dr. William Burdick, chairman of the Maryland Playground Athletic League, Baltimore.

Noted psychologists and philosophers wrote that touch intelligence is measured, no measuring scale has yet been found for character, and some said the task was too much for them.

Prof. E. S. Titchener, of Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., said, "I know nothing of the matters about which you ask an opinion." Prof. R. B. Perry of Harvard, was quoted by Ernest Herman of Newton, Mass., as declaring himself, "not competent" to help. But Miss Mabel Cumminas of the physical training department of Wellesley, said, "I am tremendously interested in the projects."

PLAN IRRIGATION AND RECLAMATION

Washington, April 7—A national reclamation programme which he will advocate at the next session of congress was made public today by Senator McNary of Oregon, chairman of the irrigation and reclamation committee.

Senator McNary's plan embraces all forms of reclamation. It includes the drainage of swamp lands in the south, the placing of water on the arid regions of the inter mountain and Pacific Coast states, removal of stumps from cutover lands in the Great Lakes region, the flooding of lands in the Mississippi Valley states to provide subsoil irrigation, restoration of soil in the New England states, flood control on the Colorado and other rivers, and construction of dams which will develop hydro-electric power.

The senator announced he would propose establishment by congress of a revolving fund of from $350,000,000 to $500,000,000 to capitalize reclamation projects approved by the secretary of the interior, and incorporated under the laws of the state or states in which they might be situated.

REARRESTED IN NEW YORK AS FUGITICE FROM BOSTON

New York, April 7—Just after he had furnished bail of $2,500 and walked out of the federal building, where he had been arraigned on a charge of violation of the liquor laws, Mark L. Gilbert, a se acaptain, was rearrested as a fugitive from justice wanted in Boston.

A Boston indictment dated July 16, 1921, charged that he stole leather valued at about $25,000 from the Ayer Tanning company of that city. Arraigned on this indictment in Tombs court, he furnished bail of $2,500 and was released.

CHARGED WITH MISUSE OF A POLICE BADGE

Bridgeport, April 7—Richard C. Atchley, of 523 John street, is held by police pending investigation of his alleged impersonation of a New York City police sergeant, and misuse of a police badge, which he used to cash a check, according to a complaint made to the detective bureau by Tony Szipot, of Hancock avenue.

Atchley's claim to be a former policeman is being investigated, as well as his past record. He will have a hearing in the city court tomorrow morning.

REP. WIN THE OFF YEAR ELECTION IN HARTFORD

Hartford, April 7—In its first election under the fifteen ward division established at the present session of the legislature, Hartford today elected republican aldermen from twelve of the fifteen wards. Two republicans and one democrat were elected assessors. The new board of aldermen will be republican, 23 to 7.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

Appointed Bishop of Raleigh

Rome, April 7—The Pope today appointed Monsignor William J. Hafey, now chancellor of the archbishopric of Baltimore as bishop at Raleigh North Carolina.

Sale of Manuscript

London, April 7—The illustrated Cardigan Chaucer, a [illegible]ript of volume of the Canterbury Tales, was offered for auction today, but was bought back by its owner's representatives for 2,700 pounds. This is the manuscript which was stolen and sold to an American college library for 4,000 pounds but returned to England subsequently through negotiations.

SEEKING FIRST WIFE OF GERALD CHAPMAN

Lancaster, Pa., April 7.—Interest in the case of Gerald Chapman, facing death in Connecticut for the slaying of a policeman, shifted to Lancaster county today when two detectives visited Mrs. Charles Trier, of this city, on the assumption that she was the first wife of the mail looter and robber.

They contended that Chapman had recently disclosed enough of his past history to warrant a search for "a wife and three children in Lancaster county."

Mrs. Trier admitted that she had wedded a man by the name of "Chapman" in Philadelphia when she was but 17 years of age, had lived with him despite his unfaithfulness, but finally divorced him about 11 years ago. The last knowledge of her husband's whereabouts dates from a time shortly after the court proceedings when he was bound from San Francisco for the far east.

After visiting Mrs. Trier, the detectives called on the Chapman children, one of whom is married and working in Lancaster.

They told the woman, after photographing her, that they would return within a few days and intimated that strong efforts were being made to save the convicted murderer.

DEMOCRATS WILL ACCEPT TARIFF AS THE ISSUE

Washington, April 7—The democratic party is ready to accept the tariff as the paramount issue of the 1926 congressional campaign if the republicans desire to force such a fight, Representative Oldfield of Arkansas, said in a statement. He was replying to the speech delivered yesterday by President Coolidge before the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Mr. Oldfield, who is chairman of the Democratic Congressional Committee, declared he understood the president's remarks to mean that he "wants to go to the country on the Fordney-McCumber tariff law," and if so, he added, "the democrats accept this challenge gladly."

Should this question be made he chief issue of he 1926 campaign, Mr. Oldfield predicted that the democrats would obtain control of the next house, declaring that "we have won every election since the civil War when the tariff was the paramount issue."

Mr. Oldfield reviewed the history of tariff fights between the two parties and said it the republicans propose to raise the rates "even further," than those on the present law, "the outcome is certainly in our favor."

SCIENTISTS PLAN VAST OIL RESEARCH PROGRAM

Baltimore, April 7—A vast program of oil research has been framed by a commission of eleven leading scientists, and its operation only awaits the sanction of the financial leaders of this industry, Dr. Charles H. Herty, of New York, President of the Synthetic Organic Chemical Manufacturers Association, declared in an address today before the division of industrial and engineering chemistry of the American Chemical Society in session here.

Entrance of the research chemists into this field will greatly enhance the national wealth asserted Dr. Herty, describing amazing advances in synthetic organic chemical manufacture in the United States.

In appropriate financial provision, now under consideration, will inaugurate a new epoch in American oil, in the belief of Dr. Herty.

Mass production will profoundly influence the future of the synthetic organic chemical industry, said Dr. Herty, further on in his address. He warned that a monster dye monopoly is forming in Germany, with government aid, to capture the export markets of the world.

WATERBURY MAN IS CHARGED WITH HOMICIDE

Schenectady, N. Y., April 7—Thurlow H. Rogers, of Waterbury, Conn., was placed under arrest in the hospital here today charged with homicide in the death of his two week's old child. In an alleged confession to police, Rogers is said to have admitted he chloroformed the child, placed the body in a suitcase and checked it at the parcel room of a New Haven, Conn., railroad station.

Chief of Police William H. Funston, to whom the confession was made, said Rogers admitted he was not telling the truth when he said earlier today he had left the child with a cousin in New Britain, Conn., but had killed the infant because it was sickly and also because he did not wish it to be brought up under a religion other than his own.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGTON

Secretary Jardine heard arguments in defense of the proposed merger of the Wilson and Armour packing interests.

The local labor crisis was intensified by an ultimatum for the employers of striking painters and paperhangers.

Improved business conditions were reflected in reports of increased receipts by fifty leading post offices for March.

The district supreme court postponed until April 20 the return of the order to show cause in the Pacific mail injunction case.

A personal plea that her husband be permitted to speak on political questions was made at the state department by Countess Marolyi.

3,000,000 FEET OF STANDING TIMBER DESTROYED BY FIRE

Deerfield, N. H., April 7—Three million feet of standing timber, two houses, three barns, and a garage have been consumed in a forest fire which is now sweeping toward Canada unchecked.

The fire had its origin somewhere around Candia Island, gradually increasing its scope until at eight o'clock tonight it was burning over a three mile front. More than 1,500 acres of timberlands have been burned over, but no lives have been reported lost.

Political Crisis In French Parliament

All Parties Agree That Something Radical Must be Done to Put Finances on a Sound Bases.

Paris, April 7—(By the A. P.)—The political crisis brought on by the measures proposed by the French government to relieve the embarrassment of its treasury is now before parliament, and debate will begin tomorrow, with about even chances that Premier Herriot's cabinet will succumb at the end of it.

The consensus of opinion in the lobby of the chamber of dputies this evening, after the introduction of bills for a forced loan and for an increase of 4,000,000,000 francs in paper money, was that the latter measure would pass because the limit of issue fixed by law already has been exceeded, but that favorable action by the chamber on the proposal for a forced loan was doubtful.

The chamber was reported rather nonplussed by the announcement that the increase in the issue of bank notes was to "regularize an existing situation." This was the first public disclosure of the fact that the authorized limit of forty-one billion francs in paper money had been exceeded, although rumors to that effect have been current on the bourse for several weeks. The French parliament, however, was placed in the face of an accomplished fact. The money is in circulation to an amount of about two billion more than authorized by law, and the situation must be made regular.

Both the senate and the chamber are expected to pass the bill authorizing a four billion increase, but with sharp criticism of the government for resorting to such an expedient without consulting parliament. Senator Berenger, head of the finance committee of the senate, this afternoon declared that the proposed issue in excess of the legal limit was not for commercial purcrease of paper circulation was excluvely.

There was considerable comment in the lobbies of the upper house upon this revelation in view of the fact that less than a week ago Premier Herriot and M. Clementel, then minister of finance, both said the contemplated increase of pape rcirculation was exclusively for the use of commerce.

The crucial test between the opposition and the government will come on the forced loan which, despite the sugar coating given it by the skillful new minister of finance, De Monzie, is regarded by all who thus far have had an opportunity to pronounce judgment upon it as a eventful seizure of one-tenth of the wealth of France. The only return to the possessors of capital will be three per cent. interest.

All parties agree that something radical must be done to put French finances on a sound basis. But a forced loan, even in the attenuated form given it by M. De Monzie, encounters the united opposition of the moderate and conservative parties with the radical left group, led by M. Loucheur. Pure radicals also oppose it because it is understood to have been inspired by Socialists, and because it involves eventual inquisitory measures.

DE MONZIE WINS VICTORY IN FINANCE COMMITTEE

Paris, April 7 (By the A. P.)—The minister of finances, M. De Monzie, won a victory tonight in the meeting of the finance committee of the chamber of deputies, which by a vote of 18 to 14 rejected the proposal to separate the two parts of the finance bills increasing the circulation and taxing capital.

The sitting was a lengthy one, for the committee declined to be hurried in its study of a financial measure of such gravity, and decided to continue its discussion tomorrow afternoon. As a consequence it is extremely doubtful if the chamber will debate the question before Thursday.

The discussion before the committee was unusually animated. Although the proposal to separate came from a member of the minority it was supported by several members of the majority, and M. De Monzie had a stiff fight being subjected to a searching cross-examination both on the situation of the treasury and the forced loan, lasting six hours.

During this time he answered some eighty different questions, and it is understood that his replies, notably concerning the treasury situation, which it is generally admitted dominates the whole question, made a strong impression.

The finance bill, which is sponsored by the government provides for a temporary increase of paper circulation by the Bank of France of 4,000,000 francs, or a maximum total of 45,000,000 francs.

The second section provides authorization for the minister of finance to accept subscriptions giving the right to government perpetual stock at an interest rate of 3 per cent, this subscription being mandatory, except in special cases, to the extent of one-tenth of the individual capital.

ARRESTED IN CONNECTION WITH $20,000 BURGLARY

Bridgeport, April 7—William Simpson, 45, formerly of White Plains, N. Y., was arrested here tonight by detectives who had been notified by New Haven police that he was wanted in connection with a $20,000 burglary committed there April 3, last. Simpson's description was the only clue in possession of the Bridgeport officers.

Simpson, who is also known as William Wright, alias "Ginger," is wanted in New York, it was learned tonight. Details of the theft charges against him in New Haven were not forthcoming. So far as is known none of the loot has been recovered as yet.

NEW FLOOD MENACE IN NORTHERN MAINE

Van Buren, Me., April 7—A new flood menace appeared in northern Maine today with the breaking up of the ice in the St. John river. Although the water at this point is below freshet pitch, the ice moving down from the long strench below St. Francis has piled up an immense jam about two miles below the International Bridge at Edmundston.

This barricade, ten feet high, in spots has backed up the water until several houses in Edmundston have been abandoned because the first floors were flooded. Cloudy skies tonight threaten more serious danger.

Ponzi To Fight Order For His Deportation

His Attorneys Have Appealed to Labor Department For Cancellation of Warrant.

Washington, April 7—Attorneys for Charles Ponzi, Boston "financial wizard" appealed to the labor department for cancellation of the warrant under which he is to be deported.

The warant, issued last November, charges Ponzi with being in this country illegally on the ground that he had been convicted of forgery previously in Canada. His case was heard by immigration inspectors at Boston last month and their finding was sent to Washington for confirmation by the secretary's board of immigration review.

Ponzi's attorneys, appearing before the board of review, contended that he had been in this country for more than five years since conviction in Canada, and therefore, under the law, may not be deported.

BURTON SLATED FOR ARMS TRAFFIC CONFAB

Washington, April 7—Representative Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, is slated for appointment by President Coolidge as a member of the American delegation to the international arms traffic conference which will open in Geneva May 4 under auspices of the league of nations. He will be associated with Hugh Gibson, American minister to Switzerland and possibly another [illegible].

Mr. Burton's selection for the delegation became known through his participation in conferences at state department at which detailed instructions for the delegation are being worked out with the assistance of technical advisers of the navy, war and commerce departments.

The Ohio representative was the president's guest at dinner tonight in company with Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover, and the task ahead of him in Geneva is understood to have been under discussion.

The appointment of Mr. Gibson has been a foregone conclusion, since he represented the United States in the preliminary discussions at Geneva, which led up to the decision of the Washington government to participate in the conference for the specific purposes of drafting a convention for the control of [illegible] traffic in arms. Mr. Gibson [illegible] assistant [illegible] at the Geneva conference.

$50,000 FIRE IS DESCRIBED AS "CHAPMAN'S REVENGE"

Steubenville, Ohio, April 7.—A fire described as "Gerald Chapman's revenge" destroyed the Station Motor company's garage today with a loss of $50,000. Earlier estimates placed the loss at $100,000.

The fire is referred to as "Gerald Chapman's revenge," J. H. Sanders, part owner of the garage, and Miss Katherine Bourns, secretary, who told police that they had received warnings of reprisals from Chapman's friends when they testified against him in Hartford last week, where he was charged with the murder of a policeman.

Fire officials and insurance inspectors declared the fire was incendiary.

Snyder and Miss Bourns identified Chapman as the man who stole a sedan here a year ago. The automobile is reported to have figured in the robbery the night Patrolman James Skelly was slain. Chapman was convicted of the crime.

KILLED BY CLUBBING IN BACK OF HEAD

CORCORAN GALLERY WILL ACCEPT CLARK COLLECTION

New York, April 7—It was learned today from Washington that the Corcoran Gallery of Art of that city will accept the William Andrews Clark art collection if the Metropolitan Museum of Art does not.

While the conditions attached to the bequest make it doubtful that the Metropolitan can accept it, a way out of the dilemma was suggested by George Gray Barnard, sculptor and friend of Mr. Clark. He proposed that Mrs. Clark, who has been among the Fifth Avenue mansion, deed the structure to the city on her death as a separate museum for the Clark collections.

Whether or not the Metropolitan will accept the bequest will be considered by the trustees of the museum at their monthly meeting April 20.

BOY MESSENGER HELD FOR GRAND LARCENY

New York, April 7.—Arrested in his home tonight with $30,000 worth of stocks and bonds, belonging to the brokerage firm of Post & Flagg, according to police, Lester Simon, 19, a Wall street messenger, was locked up in police headquarters, charged with grand larceny.

The prisoner was one of 10 boys employed at noon today by the brokerage firm. He was sent to the Bank of Manhattan and the New York Trust Company, to pick up a number of stocks and bonds, company officials told the police, but failed to return with them.

SEVEN ERSONS KILLEPD IN EXPLOSION IN RIO JANEIRO

Rio Janeiro, April 7—Seven persons are reported to have been killed and 30 injured in an explosion of a lighter lying in dock in the harbor today. The lighter was discharging fireworks for the celebration of the forthcoming feast of St. John.

A large part of a tile roof of an adjacent warehouse fell in from the concussions.

DENOUNCED HER ATTORNEYS AND HURLED GLASS OF WATER

Court Ordered Recess as Dorothy Ellingson, Charged With Matricide, Became Violent—Proceedings Were to Determine the Sanity of the Accused—Also Smashed a Bottle of Smelling Salts on a Table—Shuoted "You Can't Talk About Me Like That."

San Francisco, April 7—Dorothy Ellingson, 17-year-old matricide on trial for her sanity before a jury in superior court here, interrupted the proceedings this afternoon by hurling a glass of water at her attorneys and denouncing them bitterly.

"You can't talk about me like that," cried the girl, smashing a bottle of smelling salts on the table by way of emphasis. "Wait until I take the stand and tell about it."

She then wept and Judge Louderback ordered a brief recess.

The outburst came during the cross examination of Edward W. Twitchell, a prosecution alienist, who testified that he considered the girl sane. Sylvester J. McAtee of defense counsel, wanted to know whether the alienist considered normal, a girl who could kill her mother on pretext of a quarrel. Dr. Twitchell said he did not hold it evidence of insanity. The attorney then repeated incidents of the girl's arrest and her interest, when she was brought to police headquarters in newspaper accounts of the tragedy and in "a bum picture" an artist had drawn of her.

A question about her behavior at headquarters was interrupted when the girl seized the glass of water and threw it, spattering water on the attorneys.

The court, a few minutes later, cleared nearly half the spectators' benches when there was laughter. The trial hardly had settled down again to orderly procedure when Dr. Joseph Catton, a physician alienist, who had declared the girl sane, hurled the lie at Sylvester J. McAtee of defense counsel.

"Did you not say to the defendant," McAtee had asked, "that if she would plead guilty of murder, you would recommend that she not be sent to a prison, but that she be committed to some other state institution?"

"That's a lie, manufactured out of whole cloth by you or some one else," the witness retorted.

The court ordered this answer stricken from the record, and a plain denial was inserted.

STILLMAN CASE NOW UP TO COURT OF APPEALS

Albany, N. Y., April 7—With the court of appeals now rests the decision as to the parentage of baby Guy Stillman.

Counsel for James A. Stillman, New York banker; for Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, who divorced him, and for the child concluded before the court today their arguments in the appeal brought by the banker from the decision of Referee Daniel J. Gleason in the divorce action.

Referee Gleason had ruled Baby Guy was the legitimate son of James A. and Anne U. Stillman and had ruled out as evidence alleged confessions of Mrs. Stillman that the child was the son of a half breed Indian guide, Frederick K. Beauvais.

"The question before this court is whether if the child of an Indian is to be foisted upon the other characters of this family as a blood relative," former Governor Nathan L. Miller, counsel for James A. Stillman, told the court in concluding his arguments. Governor Miller protested that Mrs. Stillman's alleged confession to a Dr. Russell, Buffalo osteopath, and a letter to her husband admitting impotency with Beauvais should have been admitted as evidence on direct both as to force in the divorce action, and the [illegible] decision, second department [illegible] appeal, error when they ruled out this testimony.

CONN. TROLLEYMEN IN WAGE CONFERENCE

New Haven, April 7.—The advisability of asking the Connecticut company for an increase in wages 40 to 75 cents an hour and a standard working day of eight hours, was considered at a meeting of the state conference board of the employment bureau here today. The board in conference today is putting the wishes expressed by the various local unions of trolleymen into the form of a contract. Later the board will confer with President John K. Punderford of the company, who for many years has successfully dealt with the men over the wage, hours and working condition questions.

The conferees [illegible] will continue [illegible] tomorrow. Frank [illegible] of Meriden, the man of the state board, [illegible].

DEFENDS PURCHASE BY ARMOUR & COMPANY

Washington, April 7.—The validity of the purchase by Armour and company of the business of Morris and company, meat packers, was defended today before Secretary Jardine, who is hearing final arguments in the controversy to determine whether the transaction violated the packers and stockyards act.

A. S. Austrian, special counsel for Armour and company, declared that government counsel had produced "not a single fact" to shew that either concern had attempted to create a monopoly or control prices under the meaning of the act.

Mr. Austrian, followed W. L. Fisher, special government attorney, who again stressed the contention set forth by the government yesterday that the case should be settled by the courts.

Pointing out that during the hearings in Denver, Omaha, Chicago and Kansas City, 322 witnesses had testified, Mr. Austrian asserted that not one of them had said the acquisition of Morris and company by Armour and company had "restrained commerce or stifled industry either in the whole United States or in any communities."

These witnesses, he said, included 68 large and small packer, 105 producers, 75 commission men, 30 wholesale meat dealers and others directly interested in the business.

The purchase, he declared, was "an industrial and economic necessity for both companies due to the disastrous conditions then prevailing in the meat packing industry resulting from post-war deflation."

PLANNED TO SMUGGLE NARCOTICS INTO JAIL

New Haven, April 7.—A plan to smuggle narcotics into the New Haven county jail was discovered Monday afternoon, it was disclosed, tonight. Edward Collins, alias Frank Burke, alias Whitey Potrode, of no certain address, was arrested this afternoon and is being held in connection with the alleged plot. He is technically charged with idleness and his bonds have been placed at $2,000.

Collins, according to Jailer Frank Baldwin, appeared at the county jail yesterday afternoon and got into conversation with James Moran, a trusty, who was raking the lawn in front of the institution. It is claimed that Collins handed Moran a small package which he asked Moran to give to Michael Schwartz, who is at present serving a term at the jail.

Moran is said to have turned this package over to John Campbell who has charge of a tobacco and candy stand at the jail, and asked him to give it to Schwartz. Campbell, however, turned the package over to a guard who in turn gave it to Jailer Baldwin. The package was found to contain narcotics.

It is the opinion of Jailer Baldwin that Moran did not know what was in the package when he was asked to give it to Schwartz. Schwartz is serving a 30-day sentence and was fined $100 in the Waterbury district court.

TWO MEN DROWNED OFF WEST PALM BEACH, FLA.

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 7.—Fred S. Hunt, 70, said to be a wealthy chemist of Water street, New York, and Jesse M. McCarley, 30, of Stuart, Fla., were drowned near Stuart this afternoon when rough seas broke about McCarley's 28-foot cabin cruiser. He and Hunt were returning from a fishing trip in the cruiser.

The drowning occurred on the bar of the Stuart inlet following a series of gigantic breakers. Whether the waves washed both men overboard or if one lost his life in attempting to save the other, is not known.

The body of Hunt washed ashore five miles south of Stuart and was taken to Miami tonight. He is said to have a step-son in Paris.

Tonight scores of bonfires and hundreds of men were on the beach at Stuart, watching for McCarley's body. McCarley is survived by a wife and two children.

GASOLINE WORK CAR COLLIDED WITH FREIGHT

Framingham, Mass., April 7—Charles Bina, 45, was killed and two other members of a section crew were injured this evening when the gasoline railroad work car on which they were riding was in collision with a freight train on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad near here.

The men, who were returning from their work in Framingham to their homes in the Fayville section of Southboro, had no warning as the freight swept around a curve. Bina's companions escaped serious hurt.

DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

This is a tabloid of what Danielson news is intended to be this morning, but the railway mail service between this El Dorado and Norwich flunked again, Tuesday evening. Possibly the world will not suffer any, through loss of some items that should have appeared in this column this morning, but there is this worry—suppose the boat train carrying the news letters out of this territory gets lost some evening on its way to New London! That would be another thing. One might be pardoned for considering that this might happen and one can imagine the conductor or engineer awakening some farmer in an isolated section out back of Voluntown and asking for directions to Norwich and way stations. That would be an item compensating a newspaper man, who thought his work for the day done, for staying up and doing another day's work if necessary and it would be good fun, too. As things are breaking these days, it is not unlikely that it will happen!

A former Danielson man, John Henault, in a heavy loser in the cracker house at New London. For years Mr. Henault had been the proprietor of the barber shop in the ho- After last Saturday's business a of men from a barber's equip- company began work at mid- and worked all day Sunday en- ing the shop. The work continued during Monday and the shop was to have been reopened as one of the very best equipped in the Tuesday morning. Ten new ex- chairs and much other up to date and valuable equipment had been installed in the shop and is now the wreckage of the hotel. Mr. Henault appeared Tuesday to be much affected by the loss he had sustained. His mother, George J. Henault, of Riverview, said that he had talked with him over the telephone did not ascertain what his net loss will be. Mr. Henault, who learned his trade here has been a barber at New London for twenty seven years. He has been a frequent visitor here with many friend. He was to have been married during the coming week and it is possible that the fire may cause to postpone his arrangements.

Five Danielson young men, Frank John Higgins, A. J. Higgins, Quinn and Joseph Norton, who a visit to the state prison at Wethersfield Monday were disappointed not being allowed to see Ger- Chapman, who is under sentence be hanged June 25th. The local party were shown every courtesy in lower tour of inspection through the prison, but their request to see Chapman was politely denied. They were shown the new execution chamber where the super-bandit is expected to die and noted that a nice new rope was being stretched by having a heavy weight hung upon it, presumably that it may be in good condition to accomplish stretch the neck of Mr. Chapman.

Employes of the United States Fin- ishing Company at Sterling were called out Tuesday to help combat a fire at the Potvin house, not distant from the mill. The efforts of the mill's employes were effective in holding the fire in check and undoubtedly served to reduce the amount of damage that would have resulted.

Several minor cases were consider- ed at Tuesday morning's session of Killingly Town court, among them the number of cases of delinquents who have failed to pay overdue personal taxes. In another case a local man charged with assaulting another man the last week was fined $5 and costs, a total of $14.09.

Solicitors for a fund to build the newly authorized St. Alban's parish house are selling shingles as one means of raising the required amount of money. The solicitors are being well received and it is anticipated that a considerable amount of the required sum will be realized from this source.

Polls for the annual borough elec- tion Monday next will open at 4 o'clock at the town hall building. As there is no contest in sight it is not regarded as likely that the election will be very exciting. The annual business meeting of the borough is to follow the closing of the polls.

In observance of Good Friday this bank will be closed all day. The Danielson Trust Company.—adv.

Mr. and Mrs. Silvio Maynard, of Washington, D. C., came here to attend the funeral of Mr. Maynard's mother, Mrs. Philip S. Maynard.

Mrs. E. B. Wilbur had members of the Ladies' Reading circle at her home for a meeting Monday afternoon.

PUTNAM

At a meeting of the town school committee Monday evening teachers were elected for the next school year. Ralph C. Jenkins, the superintendent, retained his position, as he was elected a year ago for a two year term. E. L. Robinson was re-elected principal of the high school, at a salary of $3,300, an increase of $200. Miss Anna Ash of Pomfret, daughter of the late John Ash, was elected music teacher, a position that has been vacant for the past year. Owens J. White, principal of Israel Putnam school, and Miss Dorothy Baker, a teacher of the eighth grade, sent in their resignations to take effect at the end of the school year. Miss Sara King was elected an additional teacher in English in the High school and a teacher was added to the staff of the Israel Putnam school The appropriation for teachers amounted to $49,400. By reason of the three new teachers the present pay roll is increased about $4,500.

The committee voted to increase the annual charge for tuition for out of town pupils from $100 to $110. There are about 100 pupils of this class, which means an additional income of about $1000.

Mrs. White, who has been at the head of the Israel Putnam school for a year and a half, expects to teach in another city. Miss Baker will return to Boston to finish her course of study at Boston university. Mr. White is second lieutenant of Headquarters Company of the 34th Division, National Guard.

The Putnam Checker club has re- ceived a challenge from a Bridgeport club for a match tournament. No action has as yet been taken on the invitation. The distance between the two places, 125 miles, will probably make it impossible, or at least difficult, to arrange a meeting. The local club meets Friday evenings at the Putnam Auto station, School street.

Captain J. J. McGarry of Putnam Headquarters Company deplores the lack of interest in the American Legion post. Captain McGarry has generously offered to loan use of the rooms of the Armory on Liberty street to the local post and says that it may be used by the members as a meeting place and if they desire as a club room. Captain McGarry also states that he will do anything he can to create interest in the organization.

With the closing of schools Friday afternoon the public school children begin their spring vacation of ten days. Classes will be resumed Monday morning, April 18th.

Young men wishing to attend the Citizens' Military camp may receive application blanks and advice and information by applying to Captain John J. McGarry, corner of Grove and South Main streets. Captain McGarry has received blanks with the request that he secure young men for the summer training at the expense of the government.

A very pretty shower was given by Mrs. Lawrence Ryan and Miss Anna Furlong recently at their homes in Pomfret, for Miss Olive Davis who was united in marriage Saturday with Arthur L. Clapp, both residents of Pomfret. The decorations were yellow and blue and the place cards and favors were suggestive of Easter. The friends of Miss Davis who joined in the surprise included Misses Anna and Gladys Ash, Mrs. Eleanor A. Bennett, Mrs. Raymond Medbury, Mrs. Arthur Gallup, Miss Dorothy Horton, Mrs. William Murdock, Mrs. J. Frederick Ash, Mrs. Norman Ash, Miss Mary Furlong, Mrs. Leonard Watson, Mrs. William T. White, Miss Marie Wilbur, Miss Margaret Toohill and Miss Della Davis.

Just My Age

My aids to youth, which made the difference, are at your command

By Edna Wallace Hopper

The lady whose photograph I print with mine is about my age. But I had the advantage of scientific aids.

From early girlhood I have searched the world to get them. I spent in all nine years in France. Those helps made me a famous beauty. Now, at this lady's age, I retain my contours, my complexion. My hair is as fine and colorful as 40 years ago. I look like a girl, and live and play a girlish part today.

Now I offer those same helps to all who wish to use them. Toilet counters everywhere supply them. And any girl or woman who asks me will receive a trial free. They form, I believe, the greatest beauty aids in existence.

My Youth Cream

Is a remarkable creation, combining many factors. It contains products of both lemon and strawberry. Also the best helps science gave me to foster and protect the skin.

It comes in two types—cold cream and vanishing. I use it as a night cream, also daytime as a powder base. Never is my skin without it. My velvet complexion shows what that cream can do. The cost is 60c per jar. Also in 35c tubes.

My Facial Youth

Is a liquid cleanser I owe to France. Great beauty experts the world over now advise this formula, but their price is too high for most women.

It contains no animal, no vegetable fat. The skin cannot absorb it. So it cleans to the depths, then departs. My Facial Youth will bring you new conceptions of what a clean skin means. The cost is 75c.

White Youth Clay

A new-type clay, white, refined and dainty. Vastly different from the crude and muddy clays so many have employed.

It purges the skin of all that clogs and mars it. Removes the causes of blackheads and blemishes. Brings a rosy afterglow which amazes and delights. Combats lines and wrinkles; reduces enlarged pores.

No girl or woman can afford to omit it. It multiplies beauty. White Youth Clay costs 50c and $1.

My Hair Youth

The cause of my luxuriant hair, thick and silky, finer far than 40 years ago, I have never had falling hair, dandruff or a touch of gray.

A concentrated product combining many ingredients. I apply it with an eyedropper directly to the scalp to tone and stimulate. No man or woman will omit it when they see what Hair Youth does. The cost is 50c and $1 with eyedropper.

My Face Powders

WILLINGTON

About 60 men gathered at the town hall Wednesday evening at the April meeting of the Men's Civic club. The entertainment, which was in charge of Hans Hansen was furnished by Daniel Haigh, of Stafford Springs, and was a piano performance of much ability. Bells and stringed instruments were imitated wonderfully. Mr. Haigh and his orchestra broadcasted over the radio at Storrs college recently. The refreshments furnished by the Glass Factory members consisted of hot dogs, rolls, sugar buns and coffee. At the next meeting South Willington members will be in charge of the supper. Mr Pierpont chairman, and Charles Wochonurka will furnish the entertainment. A committee, E. E. Sundt, Hans Hansen and W. C. Ruby was appointed to get up an entertainment for the town. A collection was taken and given Mr. Haigh, who presented it to the club. The date of the meeting has been changed from the first Wednesday to the second Wednesday in each month.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Heinmeier have returned from their wedding trip to Washington, D. C.

Ralph Joslin is working at the garage of Charles Cobb at Stafford Springs.

The public schools closed Friday for the Easter vacation.

Miss Catherine Ricketts, returned Friday from Newport News, Virginia, where she spent several weeks with her sister, Mrs. De Witt Crave.

Miss Helen Rollinson is entertaining a friend from New York.

Misses Magdalene Campbell, Mary Melvin, Ida Richardson and Pearl Talbot left Friday night for their homes in Maine, where they will spend the vacation.

The Bligh brothers are marketing about seventy cases, 2,100 dozen eggs in Hartford every week. This is the product of most of the large poultry plants in Willington, and is sold to stores and restaurants located in Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Meyer have arrived from New York at their summer home. Mrs. Meyer expects to remain.

The time of the church services at the Hill church changed last Sunday. For the next six months Sunday school will commence at 2 p. m. and church service at 3.

Donald Reed of New Haven, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Reed. He is one of the eighteen students who were graduated from Storrs college Saturday. He formerly lived in Willington with his grandparents.

The passing on of Charles Hobby has taken a man formerly prominent in town affairs. He was interested in music, being a piano dealer and piano tuner many years. He was school committee for the Daleville district for a long period. The family were active members of the Congregational church before the federation. He leaves his wife and ten children. He was highly respected, and was devoted to his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lyon, of Plainville, are visiting relatives in town.

Special services are to be held at the church Wednesday and Friday evenings of this week and all church social activities are to be omitted.

HEBRON

Miss Esther Lord is spending the Easter vacation with her aunt, Mrs. Amel Johnson and Mr. Johnson in Hartford.

Loren Lord, who has been very ill with grip is more comfortable.

Mr. and Mrs. John Spafford and daughter, Helen, spent the week end at the farm.

Miss Alice Whitney, teacher of Amston school, is spending the Easter vacation in Boston.

Miss Clarissa Lord, student at the New London college, is spending the Easter recess at the home of her parents Representative and Mrs. Everett G. Lord.

Mrs. Edward Raymond was a recent guest of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dean, in Baltic.

Representative Roger Porter and family visited Giant's Neck Sunday afternoon.

The Board of Directors of the Hebron Fair association met at the home of C. Daniel Way, Saturday evening.

Members of the W. O. U. met in Amston Hall Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cox of Boston are visiting Mrs. Cox's parents, Rev. and Mrs. T. D. Martin at the rectory.

A. E. Lyman of Columbia was in town Saturday.

WILLIMANTIC

A mock trial was successfully carried out in connection with the April meeting of the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening. Dr. R. Bullard Jones was the accused in the action and after the court had heard the evidence a jury of twelve brought in a verdict of guilty. Edwin J. Donnelly presided over the hearing as judge. Roderick A. Jodoin was the complainant in the case and his evidence and that of the several "girls" who were among the principal witnesses resulted in the verdict.

At the business meeting Eden Cood was elected treasurer, to replace G. Raymond Young, resigned. The question of increasing the annual dues of $10 was tabled. Action in regard to the disposition of the present strike at the American Thread Company plant was also taken when Frank P. Fenton introduced a resolution to the effect that it is the sentiment of the Chamber that the differences between the employes and the company be submitted to the state board of mediation and arbitration, or some other board of arbitration and that a copy of the resolution be sent to each of the parties officially representing the company and the employes, with a suggestion that their differences be submitted to the board for settlement.

"India, the mysterious, the beauti- ful, the sordid and the unfathomable" was the subject of Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton's charming talk given Tuesday evening at the High School auditorium, under the auspices of Willimantic Woman's club. The hall was well filled and the audience very appreciative. The lecture was divided into two parts and accompanied by steropticon pictures, many of which were adapted from the lecturer's own snapshots. Mrs. Seton opened her talk with a description of the vivid atmosphere in the larger cities of India and the splendor and formality of the viceroy's court. She also described several hunts in the jungle, two after a tiger and one after a road elephant and spoke interestingly of seeing and meeting Ghandi, who, she said, "is the man who has inspired more men and more ideals than any man of modern times."

Mrs. George Mathieu of Bristol who was operated upon for serious internal trouble recently by Dr. A. J. Girouard has left St. Joseph's hospital and is recovering at the home of her mother, Mrs. Louis Lavigne, of Carey Hill.

At the meeting of Windham Parent- Teachers' association, in the auditorium of the Windham Center school, it was decided to hold a party and dance for the children some time soon. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Mrs. Thomas F. Lloyd and Mrs. Hansel Kammritz spent Tuesday in Hartford.

Mrs. Xavier Marion, of Taftville left St. Joseph's hospital Monday after an operation performed by Dr. A. J. Girouard and is recovering at the home of Mrs. Aldege Beaulieu, of Windham road.

Miss Margaret M. Murphy, of Norwich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Murphy, is making a good recovery following an operation for appendicitis, performed last week at St. Joseph's hospital by her cousin, Dr. Owen O'Neill.

NORTH LYME

Miss Gladys Stratton Home Demonstration Agent and Miss McDonald, nurse from Storrs Extension Service met a group of women at Mrs. N. S. Strong's last Wednesday. Miss McDonald's lecture on news and self control was very interesting.

SEC'Y HOOVER ADDRESSED COTTON MANUFACTURERS

Washington, April 7.—Approving of legitimate trade associations and maintenance by them of sound statistical service, together with uniformity in contract practice was reiterated by Secretary Hoover today in a brief address at the commerce department to delegates attending the semi-annual meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Nine of Mr. Hoover's assistants, in three minute talks, also outlined their specific work to the cotton men, after the delegates had completed a tour of the Bureau of Standards laboratories and other agencies of the department.

Population growth and assured transportation have had their effect on commerce, Mr. Hoover told the manufacturers, adding that the latter had a tendency to reduce individual orders by assuring retailers of speedy delivery. Although this "thrusts upon the manufacturers the burden of the country's stock," the secretary saw no remedy for the situation and the industry will "have to accommodate itself to it as long as we have an effective transportation machine."

Knowledge of raw material and stocks on hand make for stability of industry, Mr. Hoover observed, in advocating a sound statistical service. He declared he saw no way of obtaining representation in industry without trade associations and that the number of these engaged in fixing prices and production against public interest are "in an extremely small minority."

A knowledge of current prices open to the public, he said, is insurance against fraud and misrepresentation, although information disseminated within a group for the control of price movement is against public interest.

Alfred P. Dennis, the new member of the tariff commission, who also addressed the delegates briefly, likened the commerce department to "the greatest transforming station in the world," into which a fund of information poured from all parts of the world to be expended for the benefit of business in this country.

The meeting will end tomorrow with visits to Mount Vernon, the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington, and Fort Meyer, Va., where a cavalry drill has been arranged for the delegates.

HUNDREDS WISH TO ACCOMPANY ROOSEVELTS

New York, April 7.—Hundreds of applications have been received by Colonel Theodore Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, from persons wishing to accompany them in the James Simpson-Field museum game hunting expedition into Turkestan. They sail Saturday.

Col. Roosevelt said today that the adventure-hunting applicants ranged from preachers with missionary intentions, college graduates, hunters, and trappers to feminine typists. One wrote from France. Many came in person from out of town. One young Sioux Indian saved enough to travel overland from Tacoma, Wash. He is understood to be a cook now in a restaurant.

Col. Roosevelt also received many pieces of advice together with an assortment of such gifts as special oil for guns, radio equipment and books like no radio goes along, he said.

He announced as a tentative itinerary, subject to change: the Leviathan to England where the party will spend a few days, completing arrangements and visiting the British museum for geographic materials; thence to Marselles; by S. S. & O.P line direct to Bombay; and rail to Rawl Pindi in India.

The expedition will proceed by motor transport to Srinagar, where it will make the "jump off" Packing in by Yak and pony, the hunters will enter through the Leh and Karakoram passes, turn due west to the Pamirs and then strike north toward Yarkhand. He said their subsequent course was problematical.

"EMIR OF KURDESTAN" IS MAN WITHOUT COUNTRY

New York, April 7.—"The Emir of Kurdestan," like Philip Nolan, in Edward Everett Hale's story, was placed in the role of a man without a country today.

The transformation was accomplished by a special immigration board of inquiry at Ellis Island which decided that the self-styled "Emir," whose name is Prince Mohammed Said Zerdecheno, must be deported to England on the earliest eastbound steamer of the White S[illegible] Ellis Island officials [illegible] 14. The British authorities refused to grant him entrance.

The "Emir" says he isn't loath to leave, declaring he wants to get back to Kurdestan to lead his armies, now in the field. He said he came here last July to "interest American capital in the oil and minerals of my Turkish province," and was deported because the United States would not recognize a provincial diplomatic passport.

Immigration officials asserted that the "royal" visitor has a police record in the United States, France and England.

Mohammed Said has the right to appeal his case to the Secretary of Labor in Washington.

HOMING PIGEON CARRIED MESSAGE OF LAUNCHING

Washington, April 7.—A message from Secretary Wilbur announcing the launching of the U. S. S. Saratoga was brought to President Coolidge late today by a carrier pigeon from Camden.

The pigeon "homed" to the naval air station here, and the message, timed 1:30 p. m., was relayed from there to the White House, where it arrived shortly before four o'clock. The message read:

"The U. S. S. Saratoga aircraft carrier, has been christened and launched at the New York Shipbuilding company's yard at Camden, N. J., contemporaneously with the release of this message by carrier pigeon."

Suffered for 15 years with constipation—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings relief in 3 weeks

Tried everything. Even operation. Only Kellogg's helped him.

Constipation paves the way to many harrowing diseases. But Mr. Williams' letter carries a message of cheer:

I have been using your ALL-BRAN for the past three weeks and it has done more for me than anything I have tried in the past fifteen years. . . . I was troubled with hemorrhoids for years. About 18 months ago I was operated on with very little relief. I tried everything under the sun. Then my wife suggested Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, and I say truthfully that it is the only thing that ever gave me relief.

Yours truly,
L. T. WILLIAMS,
1808 Broadway, Indianapolis, Ind.

Cleanse your system of constipation's devastating poisons with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a bulk food that passes through the system, sweeping the intestine clean, stimulating normal, healthy action.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in Battle Creek, Michigan. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

THE INVALID INDICTMENTS.

... supreme court of the ... Columbia has decided that ... there against Messrs ... and the Doheny's are ... does necessarily mean ... at their prosecution ... are taking advan... technicalities. ... to the attention of ... court the fact that there was an ... assistant attorney general in the grand jury room when the indict... were being drawn, which being against the law makes the indict... illegal. But that does not stand ... the way of seeking an indictment for the same offense which will mean the introduction of the same information, which will eliminate the presence of the assistant attorney general and which will be valid.

The indictment is one of the preliminaries. It is important that it should be without flaws and it is the intent of the court that it shall be. The decision means that there will be delay in getting down to the trial, and it may indicate what may be expected throughout the effort of the government to obtain conviction for the alleged criminal conspiracy in connection with the leasing of the naval oil reserves at Teapot Dome and Elks' Hills.

It is unfortunate that more speed cannot be displayed in the bringing of the charges to trial, and yet there is no reason to believe that there ought to be any sacrifice of their rights on the part of the defendants. They are doing no more than might be expected, even though there is no reason to believe that the presence of the assistant attorney general in the grand jury room influenced the jury to bring in the indictments that it did.

The necessity of going over much of the ground a second time should serve as a warning for the careful observance of all the legal technicalities leading up to and during the trial of the defendants in the oil conspiracy or any other cases.

PROTECTING HOSPITAL PATIENTS.

What must be looked upon as a commendable, as well as a much needed, move for the provision of better fire protection is that which has been taken by the mayor of Boston in serving notice upon private hospitals that it is necessary for them to begin actual work on the installation of automatic sprinklers and fire alarms within the next week or action will be taken looking to the restraining of them from further operation.

This is the outcome of a fire in such an institution where the lives of the patients were unduly subjected to danger when a Christmas tree caught fire and the building was wrecked. It follows a thorough investigation by the building commissioner which shows that there are 63 private hospitals which have not complied with the rules and regulations prescribed by the health commissioner and building commissioner six years ago.

With the patients of these institutions subjected to unwarranted dangers and with rules and regulations governing such institutions being ignored the situation is indeed a deplorable one. The impression is gained that there has been laxity in the work of enforcement as well as in compliance. Seemingly only those who are made to obey the requirements actually do so. If it is possible to dodge them, and it appears to be, that is the plan followed.

Boston was reminded in a most unpleasant manner of the situation surrounding its private hospitals. It is therefore time that positive and effective measures were taken to correct them. The mayor's insistence is justified, but emphasis is also placed on the fact that the rules and regulations which are not enforced through inspection by some authority amount to nothing. Has there also been laxity in enforcement?

LESS SPEED, LESS DEATHS.

There is much to justify the statement of the Automobile Legal association when it says that cutting speed will save lives. It is fully convinced of such a fact but it declares that if there were more points of the compass from which it could receive points it is confident that they would only confirm the established fact that the speed of automobiles is the chief cause of accidents.

Such is not a haphazard opinion. This organization has much to do with the automobilist who is in trouble. It makes a study of the cases and like others it has had no trouble in reaching the conclusion that if cars were under proper control there would be fewer collisions, fewer instances where they are struck by railroad locomotives and fewer times when it was impossible to keep the cars on the highways or from trying to climb telephone poles.

Speeding, reckless driving and driving by these who are not fit to hold the wheel mean the inability to meet unexpected conditions. They likewise deprive others of their rights in the highway and have brought about the recognition of the fact that one of the greatest dangers to be guarded against these days is the other fellow who is driving too fast. Individuals have control over their cars and themselves but unfortunately they are not able to tell what the reckless driver is going to do. The sacrifice of unjustified speed in the interest of less deaths is certainly none too much to ask of the speedsters.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Plans must be well under way if there's to be the proper participation in the Easter parade.

The man on the corner says: What a surprise if everyone was what others seem to think they are.

One of our parking troubles is due to the fact that too many want to use the streets for a garage.

When crooks tell tales about each other, it is hard for some people to understand that truth is possible.

Perhaps the ones most displeased over the talk about or laws for jailing drunken auto drivers are the bootleggers.

The Chapman verdict offers no encouragement to crime and gives no invitation to criminals to come into Connecticut.

The more some South Americans talk the better we understand that our efforts are not fully appreciated or understood.

Making parents responsible for keeping children out of the street would probably be considered most unjust by many who neglect such a duty.

The motor vehicle commissioner reports that there should be two more branch offices in the state. There ought to be one in each city if for no longer than a month before the registration and licensing dates.

Lord Birkenhead wants the size of the house of lords reduced, believing that the members who do not attend should not have the privilege. Perhaps there are those who feel that if suffrage is worth having it ought to be exercised.

SARAH THE INTENSE

"Nope!" negatived the retiring young man when the question came up of visiting Miss Sarah Cheeze. "I wish you well and all that sort of thing, but you can't drag me over there!"

"She's the most popular girl I know!" declared the amazed roommate. "You're crazy!"

"I'm shy," explained the retiring young man, who stood six feet and blushed if made the center of attention. "I am not assertive and have no desire to be the whole thing anywhere. What I object to about this Miss Sarah Cheeze is her custom of making the person she is talking to feel that she has no interest in his life whatever aside from him.

"When you sit beside her she turns her limpid eyes upon you and though you remain from 8 to 11 o'clock never once do they falter in their gaze.

"Right into the pupils of your own eyes run the dotted lines. You are impaled like a bug on a pin. If you are a venturesome individual the sensation may be enjoyable, but after gazing back for a time I begin to fidget. First I look to the right, then to the left, then at the ceiling and elsewhere, each time coming back irresistibly to find her eyes still turned upon me. Each time the shock is like having ice water poured over me. I never did pine for cold showers.

"I know how the girl got that way. Every few minutes I read in some magazine how all the stage beauties and other folks who want to make a hit train themselves to look straight into the opposite person's eyes and never falter on the job, and Sarah has taken the words to heart. 'Make the other person feel assured of your deep interest,' read these pernicious articles, 'if you would be popular.'

"And what girl doesn't want to be popular?

"Girls like Sarah Cheeze lean tenderly toward one, and I have had them keep their faces within a foot of mine all the time we sat at a dinner table, interfering marvelously with the transportation of food to my mouth. The bravest man hates to chew within 12 inches of a pair of glorious eyes artistically made up centered feverishly on his every mouthful!

"There is a widespread idea, due to copybooks of bygone days, I think that unless you look at the person to whom you are talking he has grounds for thinking you are a thief and a robber, but I claim there ought to be intervals such as follow every round at a prize fight for the conversationalists to catch their breath and equilibrium, so to say, during which they may swing their optics round the circle of the room and observe that nobody has abstracted the parlor lamp and that somebody surely has opened that box of candy so carefully concealed beneath the new magazines.

"With a girl like Sarah Cheeze a man has not chance to admire her profile or not the length of her lashes. Any one so sure of herself as Sarah is bound to strike terror in the soul of any timid young man, and, anyhow, there's no sense in her picking on me the way she does! Whenever we meet she lassos me out of the crowd, and the first thing I know here we are in some secluded corner with Sarah gazing into my eyes—"

"Great Scott!" cried his roommate. "Why didn't you mention this fact before? About 57 young men would die happy to be in your shoes! If Sarah acts that way of her own accord it means nothing less than that she is hopelessly smitten, and you are such a dumb-bell you can't see it! To say nothing of her being a dumb-bell to notice you at all—"

"Here!" cried the retiring but handsome young man with a sudden change of front, "don't you speak that way about Sarah! She is an exceedingly lovely girl and shows rare discrimination and — honestly, do you really think she likes me?

"I guess I'll go along with you, after all. I'm getting kind of used to her eye work!"—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Beginning life as the son of a country physician in a little town in the Berkshire Hills of New England and rising to be the most eminent exponent of medicine in American is the record of Dr. William Henry Welch, who reaches his seventy-fifth birthday anniversary today. For more than forty years Dr. Welch has been connected with Johns Hopkins University and Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. His work in original research during that time has been closely woven with the progress of pathology all over the world. The honors and degrees that have been showered upon him are enough to weigh him down. He is the author of many articles dealing with medicine and especially with bacteriological features of surgical operations. Perhaps high over his other accomplishments will stand the fact that it was he who suggested the appointment of a government commission which discovered down in Panama the cause of yellow fever and by so doing conferred a last boon upon mankind.

DODGE BROTHERS
SPECIAL
TOURING CAR

The first cars bearing Dodge Brothers name were Touring Cars.

They were good and sturdy cars, so good and so sturdy that no radical change in basic design has been found necessary during these ten intervening years.

This fact has had far-reaching results. It has enabled Dodge Brothers to dedicate those ten years to the constant betterment of the original product.

More recently this endless process of improvement has manifested itself in various and impressive ways—in a new degree of riding comfort, a new smoothness of operation, a new and appealing beauty of line, and in those special details of appointment which distinguish the Special Touring Car.

Drumming Without a Drum

When once you set yourself to learn
Surprises wait at every turn.
—Peter Rabbit.

"All my life I have believed that Thunderer the Grouse drums by beating a hollow log with his wings," muttered Peter Rabbit to himself as he sat in the dear Old Briar Patch thinking over what he had seen in the Green Forest the day before. "I was told that when I was a fellow, and until yesterday I never once doubted it. But that log Thunderer was drumming on yesterday isn't hollow, and because it isn't hollow and is covered with moss Thunderer might pound it with his wings until they were broken without making a noise worth mentioning. Cousin Jumper the Hare says Thunderer doesn't always do his drumming on a log, so of course a log doesn't have anything to do with the noise. I supposed that Thunderer always uses a log, but if Jumper says he doesn't I suppose he doesn't."

Just then Peter's long ears picked up a faint, long, low rumble like distant thunder. It came from the Green Forest. It was the drumming of Thunderer. Peter looked around cautiously to make sure that little Mrs. Peter wasn't about. Then he started for the Green Forest, lipperty-lipperty-lip. His white powderpuff of a tail bobbed up, down, up, down, as he scampered as fast as those long legs could take him.

When he reached the Green Forest he sat up and waited with his long ears wide open. He was listening. Presently he heard that long thunder roll and once more started on. At last he was so near the drummer that he moved very slowly and carefully. He wanted to see without being seen. He was fearful that should Thunderer suspect that he was being watched he would become shy and refuse to drum.

Peter was looking for a log. He expected to find Thunderer on a log. But when at last he saw Thunderer the latter was standing on a big rock and there was no log in sight.

"His drumming log must be behind that rock and he has jumped up there for a look around," thought Peter. "When he goes back to that log to drum I'll peep around that rock and watch him."

Peter's thought was interrupted by the boom, boom of the beginning of that thunder roll that had brought him over there, and it was so loud that at first he was startled. He wondered if without realizing it he had turned his head and Thunderer had gone back to his drumming log. But he hadn't. There was Thunderer the Grouse with his neck stretched high, his handsome black ruff spread out and his wings—well, his wings were moving so fast that Peter couldn't really see them. Thunderer was drumming, and he was doing it right there on the rock before Peter's eyes. What was more, that druming was just as loud and just as clear as ever Peter had heard it from an old log.

When the long roll ended Thunderer appeared to listen for a few minutes. Then he spread his stout wings and whirred away over the treetops, leaving Peter to scratch first one long ear with a long hind foot and then the other long ear with the other long hind foot. Peter's ideas were more upset than ever. He found out that Thunderer didn't have to have a hollow log on which to drum, and now that he didn't have to have a log at all. "He drums just as well on a rock as on a log," muttered Peter.

All that day he spent watching Thunderer whenever he was to be found by his drumming. And so it was that once Peter found him drumming on neither log nor rock, but on the ground, and his drumming was just as good as ever Peter heard it.

"He is a drummer without a drum," thought Peter, as he watched, trying to see just how Thunderer managed to make all that noise.

Are You Discouraged?

Astor, Successful, Betrayed by Agents

John Jacob Astor's father, the butcher of Waldorf, Germany, was poor and shiftless, and at sixteen the boy had to follow his brothers' example and strike out for himself.

With a small bundle of clothes and German coins worth about $2 he went down the Rhine on a raft and was given $10 for his work on the way.

Working for his brother, a maker of musical instruments in London, he acquired a suit of clothes and $75 in four years. Then he started for America, by steerage and landed at Baltimore at 21 with $25 and seven German flutes which he planned to sell.

With the aid of another brother, who was a butcher in New York, he obtained work in a fur store. Inquisitive, he soon learned the business. Borrowing a small sum, he opened a store in Water street at 38. He bought furs from the Indians, prepared them for the market and sold them, all without help.

His business grew and he shipped furs to London. He then was married and with his bride lived over the store. He bought a ship and sent loads of furs to England and brought back musical instruments, which he sold at a good profit. After being in business fifteen years he was worth a half a million dollars, and he moved his store to 283 Broadway.

Following the Jay treaty fixing the northern boundary of the United States, he planned a chain of trading posts across the country, organized the American Fur Company and founded Astoria, in the Oregon country as the port for his ships for his Oriental trade. Then came the war of 1812, some of his agents betrayed his plan to a British concern who got possession of Astoria and his business for a trifle, and his crowning schemes collapsed. After peace was proclaimed he tried again, but the government refused to become interested.

Later he made the American Fur Company succeed. Investing his savings in New York real estate, he built on it, and made it pay by rents, and became the owner of a great part of New York.

At his death he left the foundation of one of the greatest estates in America.

Stories That Recall Others

Why the Dog Was Killed.

Having the general facts presented to him mthe justice asked "Why did you shoot the dog? The owner has proved that the animal was of a quiet nature and never disturbed anyone."

"Well, he was," admitted the accused. "I've never heard him howl at all, but he always looked as if he was just about to do so. He would come out in the yard a dozen times at night, squat down, look at the moon, draw his breath, open his mouth and fix himself for a howl from here to Jericho, then change his mind, crawl under the porch and go to sleep. No I never heard him howl, but the suspense was killing me."

Right Idea, Wrong Coat.

Jim was walking down the street the other morning when he was stopped by a fellow without a coat. "Say boss," he said, "when you get done with that blue overcoat that I saw you wearing the other day, I'd like to buy it."

"Blue overcoat," answered Jim, "why I have no blue overcoat. I have this gray one, and that is all."

"Well, now," said the man, "that is certainly too bad. There is some man in this town with a blue overcoat and I sure want to buy it when he gets through with it. I'd sure like to know who that man is."

David's City Found

Ruins that are believed to have been the walls and buildings of the City of David have been discovered after extensive excavations in Palestine under the direction of J. Garrow Duncan, says Popular Mechanics. The original Jebusite wall of the fort, which was standing when David took it in the year 1,000 B. C., has been traced, it is claimed, and the gleaming white limestone surface of a magnificent tower has been exposed to the light of day and is now visible from all parts of the city. The discovery apparently settles disputes as to the location of the city, and seems to prove that the site has been continuously occupied for more than 5,0 years, as some of the pottery unearthed at Ophel, nearby, is said to be long to the cave-dwelling period of 3500 B. C. and [illegible]. The Palestine government has set the wall apart as a national monument, and the tower is being restored.

POETRY

April Rain

The April rain, the April rain,
Comes slanting down in fitful showers,
Then from the furrow shoots the grain,
And banks are edged with nestling flowers;
And in gray shaw and woodland bowers
The cuckoo through the April rain
Calls once again

The April sun, the April sun,
Glints through the rain in fitful splendor,
And in gray shaw and woodland dun
The little leaves spring forth and lend
Their infant hands, yet weak and slender,
For warmth towards the April sun,
One after one.

And between shower and shine hath birth
The rainbow's evanescent glory;
Heaven's light that breaks on mist of earth!
Final symbol of our human story,
It flowers through showers where looming hoary,
The rain-clouds flash with April mirth.
Like Life on earth
—Mathilde Blind.

Hymn to the Night

I heard the trailing garments of the Night
Sweep through her marble halls!
I saw her sable skirts all fringed with light
From the celestial walls!

I felt her presence, by its spell of might,
Stoop o'er me from above;
The calm, majestic presence of the Night,
As of the one I love.

I heard the sounds of sorrow and delight,
The manifold, soft chimes,
That fill the haunted chambers of the Night,
Like some old poet's rhymes.

From the cool cisterns of the midnight air
My spirit drank repose;
The fountain of perpetual peace flows there—
From those deep cisterns flows.

O holy Night! from thee I learn to bear
What man has borne before!
Thou layest thy finger on the lips of Care,
And they complain no more.

Peace! Peace! Orestes-like I breathe this prayer!
Descend with broad-winged flight,
The welcome, the thrice-prayed for, the most fair,
The best-beloved Night!
—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

The private wealth of Australia advanced about 3% per cent during the six years preceding June 30, 1921, according to figures compiled by the Commonwealth statistician. The per capita wealth has also shown considerable advances during late years. An estimate made at the beginning of the nineteenth century placed the total wealth at £1,000,000, or about £75 a head. In 1850 it reached £1,072,000,000, an increase of £35 for each person—while the latest estimate, made as of June 30, 1921, places the total at £2,166,000,000, or a per capita wealth of a little less than £466. Some of this increase, of course, is due to the advance in price levels, but the larger part may be attributed to actual increases in assets.

PROBATE BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Hartford, April 7.—An act passed in the house today concerns all the probate districts in the state. It rescinds the amount of fees that may be charged against small estates, the bill follows:

The probate fees shall not exceed the sum of ten dollars for all proceedings in the settlement of the estate of any deceased person, the gross amount of which estate, wherever situated, when finally determined, shall not exceed the sum of one thousand dollars.

Section 2. The provisions of section 2265 of the general statutes inconsistent herewith are repealed.

The bill does not change the present law on estates wholy within the state. It is to take care of estates outside on which conciliary proceedings have brought, where a very small portion of it is within Connecticut. In such proceedings the entire outside inventory and proceedings have to be recorded here, many times the expense for exceeding the fees received, so the new statutes that the estate where situated shall be considered when computing the fees.

Norwich Bond Issue.

Rt. Rev. Monsignor Michael H. May, pastor of St. Patrick's church, who was elevated to the dignity of a domestic prelate by Pope Pius XI at Rome, was given a welcome home by his parishioners that began as he landed Monday morning from the steamer in New York, continued as he reached New London by train Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock and concluded with a most impressive public demonstration of love and affection here Tuesday evening.

When Monsignor May landed from the steamer Conte Verde at New York Monday morning at 10 o'clock, he and his traveling companion, Monsignor John W. Norris of New Brunswick, N. J., were met by the Norwich committee of five, headed by Ex-Mayor T. C. Murphy as chairman. With them was

MONSIGNOR M. H. MAY.

Mgr. May's brother, Rev. Frank May of Mt. Carmel, near New Haven. The committee acted as his entertaining host in New York and as his escort upon the train Tuesday to New London. At Bridgeport they were joined by Rev. John J. Walsh, a former Greeneville young man, who accompanied them to this city, Father Frank May also continuing with the party.

In order to meet Mgr. May at New London a fleet of eleven automobiles left the K. of C. home on Broadway at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, carrying the reception committee of 35 members, James J. Finnegan, chairman and James P. Sheridan in charge of the car arrangements. Those who furnished their cars were Alexander Jordan, D. T. Shea, I. Henry Shannon, M. H. Hourigan, J. Lincoln Crawford, Chester H. Wright, Joseph P. Cummings, Jeremiah Fitzgerald, C. H. Chamberlain, John Pillar and James P. Sheridan.

The first three cars in the line proceeded to the depot while the others remained at the Mohican hotel to await the arrival of Monsignor May's party. At the depot a special detail of police was on hand and an honor guard from Father Deshon Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, was present. As Monsignor May alighted from the train and passed through the depot to the waiting automobiles, scores of men and women pressed forward to shake his hand and welcome him home, New London being the city of his birth.

In the hotel lobby also there was an eager crowd waiting to greet him, but he was escorted as quickly as possible to a private room before he joined the reception committee for a luncheon that was served in the English room. Mgr. May wore the robe of his office designated for ordinary purposes, a black cassock edged with papal purple, and said grace before the luncheon was served.

At the conclusion of the luncheon Chairman Finnegan announced to Mgr. May that the committee was delegated to get him to Norwich with as little delay as possible and the start was made about 7:15, making fast time to this city, where the big parade was waiting in formation at Washington square, under direction of Michael J. Kelley, chairman of the parade committee.

The machine containing Mgr. May was flanked by an escort of Rev. Daniel Mullen Assembly, Fourth Degree, in full dress uniform and the parade moved in the following formation with close to 1,000 in line, on foot and in automobiles:

Squad of Police
Marshal
Rev. Myles P. Galvin and Aides
American Flag and Color Guard
Men's Division
Houston's East Side Drum Corps
Fourth Degree Assembly, K. of C
Monsignor M. H. May and Escort
Aides
Band
American Flag and Color Guard
Women's Division, (1st Section)
Boy Scout Drum Corps
Women's Division. (2d Section)
Automobile Division

Crowds View Parade.

The parade moved over the assigned line of march to St. Patrick's church, with the sidewalks lined deep with the crowds which had assembled to welcome home the honored priest. Special traffic regulations were well carried out by the police and the streets over which the parade moved were free from vehicles which might have interfered in any way. As the head of the parade reached the church, the bell tolled its welcome home to Mgr. May.

Services at Church.

Seating arrangements at the church were handled excellently, a section having been reserved for those receiving special invitation cards. Among those seated in this section were Judge Allyn L. Brown and Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court, Mayor Milo R. Waters and members of the common council, Selectmen W. S. Murray and Charles H. Bushnell, Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook, Tax Collector Harold T. Robinson, Judge H. H. Pettis, James L. Case, president of the gas and electric commissioners, James C. Macpherson and Robert McNeely of the school board, Rev. S. H. Howe, J. Harlow Graham, C. H. Ricketts, J. Eldred Brown, Chief George Linton, Captain E. W. Wilbur of the Salvation Army and others.

Not a seat in the church was vacant and many were standing at the rear as the services began about 8.45 o'clock. An honor guard of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus from the Norwich and New London assemblies stood with open ranks and swords at present at the head of the main aisle as Monsignor May was escorted in by the attending priests at whose head marched the chief usher, John R. Tarrant and Thaddeus Leahy with John A. Cunningham carrying the American flag.

Monsignor May, in his robe of papal purple, walked with Rev. Andrew A. Hartie of New Haven, and the attending priests were Rev. Myles P. Galvin, John J. Reilly of St. Patrick's parish, U. O. Bellerose of Taftville, J. J. McCabe of Jewett City, Henry Coleman of New Haven, John J. Walsh of Bridgeport, John J. Walsh of Bridgeport, Alfred Driscoll of Brodgeport, C. W. Brennan of Norwich Town, James O'Meara of Montville and S. A. Icieck of St. Joseph's church.

The musical part of the programme was given by the full choir under direction of Frank L. Farrell, organist, singing the numbers in fine harmony. This part of the programme was as follows:

Coronation March ..... Meyerbeer
(Organ)
Te Deum Laudamous ....Lambillette
(Grand Chorus)
O Salutaris ..... N. Bohm
Frank R. Murdy
Tantum Erso ..... Weigand
(Choir)
Divine Praises
(Choir)
Laudate Dominum
(Choir)

Pontifical Blessing.

Benediction of the blessed sacrament kas given by Father Hartie and the service concluded with the congregational hymn, Holy God We Bless Thy Name, and the pontifical blessing given by Monsignor May.

Exercises In Church Hall.

A reception and exercises in the church hall followed the services in the church and the hall was crowded to the doors by the audience that was present. The stage was attractively decorated in white and yellow with American flags and shields at the sides.

The programme opened with musical numbers as follows under the direction of Professor Farrell, who was the accompanist:

America—
Whole Assembly
Welcome Hymn ..... Weiner
By the entire Choir
Thank God for a Garden .... Del Rigo
Roderick F. Sullivan
Twilight Hour ..... Pena
Mrs. George Roberts
Love's Sorrow ..... Shelly
Miss Loretta Bellefleur
On the Road to Mandalay ... Speaks
Frank Murdy
The Spring Has Come ..... White
Mrs. Frank Farrell

When this part of the programme had been concluded, Ex-Mayor J. J. Desmond took the platform and addressed Mgr. May who was seated at the front.

Addressing him as friend and well beloved pastor, Mr. Desmond said that this assemblage had gathered to greet him on his return and to give some evidence of recognition of the gratitude that was felt for the honor that had been bestowed upon Father May and through him upon the parish. Occasions have been rare when the parishioners have had the opportunity to give expression of their regard and esteem for the pastor who has done so much for the parish and they hail this first opportunity to give such expression. The dignity that has been bestowed upon the pastor is one well merited by 40 years of devoted services in the ministry for the Master by one whose labors have been fruitful and who has followed worthily in the footsteps of the Prince of peace. We are more than pleased, said Mr. Desmond, to note that our joy is shared by others, not of our parish or our faith, but who agree that the love of the heavenly father is a universal love. We know that our pastor is an influence to lead us in the right direction and we can depend upon his guidance for the future. We pray for many years of usefulness for Mgr. May in this parish that he may lead us to realize our obligations as Christians and citizens.

In concluding, Mr. Desmond presented to Mgr. May the purse which had been raised by the voluntary contributions of the parishioners, which it was understood amounted to $1,600.

On behalf of St. Andrew's parish in Colchester, John F. Purcell presented a purse of $100 from that parish where Mgr. May had been a priest about 14 or 15 years.

Mgr. May Speaks.

Monsignor May responded with deep feeling as he received the gifts which were handed to him by Father Galvin.

There are times, he said, and this is one of them when feelings swell up in the heart too deep for expression. He went on to speak of his trip to Rome for which he left here about three months ago, and he declared that this reception tonight overwhelmed him. Friends of Norwich, of the whole city, of other denominations, he said, I thank you for your presence. It will be an inspiration for the future.

By the kindness and goodness of my bishop I am what I am tonight. My honors are only a reflected glory that shines on the whole community. It is not I, but the parish, a parish that not only preaches but practices charity. I find a spirit of tolerance in Norwich. Long may it last and may we live what we preach as Jesus taught us to do.

Mgr. May went on to speak of his audience with His Holiness, Pope Pius XI., and told how he and his traveling companion, Mgr. Norris, were received although there were 800 waiting. The pope addressed them in Latin, Mgr. Norris answered in Italian and Father May in French. What was their surprise to hear the pope address them then in English.

Mgr. May described how he presented to the pope the many requests for blessings which he had been commissioned to carry, all of which were granted. Finally, the pope gave Father May his blessing to carry back to the parish, but in response to Father May's questions told him the blessing was not alone for the parish but to all the people of Norwich, Catholic and non-Catholic. You cannot refuse a good man's blessing, said Mgr. May.

I am proud to be a member of the Pope's household, continued Mgr. May. I am human, but it is not for personal reasons alone, but for the honor and prestige it brings to the church and the community. For the future I ask your prayers that I may make the Master's life my example, that I may never sully the honor of the church, of Norwich or of my country, and never offend the Master or hurt the feelings of any man, showing a living, by faith by deeds and not by words. For this I can have the strength if you will pray for me.

The exercises closed with a selection, Smiles, by the choir, following which the big audience crowded forward to shake hands and congratulate Mgr. May.

The success of the plan for the home coming welcome was due to the painstaking efforts of Rev. Myles P. Galvin and the wholehearted co-operation which he received from all the committees.

I give and bequeath all my books to the Ellington Public Library of Ellington, Conn.

I direct that all of the above legacies be paid in full without any deductions for inheritance or succession taxes, such taxes to be paid out of the residue of my estate.

All the rest and residue of my estate I give, devise and bequeath to my cousin, Hannibal Alden to him and his heirs forever.

N. F. A. BOYS' GLEE CLUB GIVES ANNUAL CONCERT

Slater Hall was filled to capacity Tuesday evening to hear the annual concert of the Boy's Glee Club of the Norwich Free Academy, assisted by Henry Brynan, violinist. The numbers were given in a most pleasing manner and were greeted with heavy applause by a delighted audience. All ensemble numbers were rendered in exceptionally pleasing style and the interpretation of the numbers was in fine voice.

Features of the program were the violin solos by Henry Brynan, a piano solo by Robert B. Otis, accompanist for the club and the quartet numbers by Harold Disco, Joseph Dion, Raymond Woods and Daniel Young. These numbers were extremely well received by the audience and encores were demanded before the program could be continued.

The entire program was one of merit, the song numbers well chosen, and cleverly rendered by the members of the club, numbering 24 voices.

The members of the 1925 club are as follows:

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Henry F. Appleton

Mrs Elmira F. Appleton, 87 years old, widow of Henry F. Appleton, died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. C. Parent, in Chicopee Falls, Sunday morning. She was born in Ellsworth, Me., Feb 13, 1838, the daughter of Abija and Jane Higgins Garland. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. A. C. Parent; and Mrs. George D. Kingsley of Hatfield; a son, Henry Appleton of New London, Conn; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Orrin W. Ray.

Mrs. Nancy Emma Ray, widow of Orrin W. Ray, died at Ella Tree farm in Salem, the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Standish, Thursday afternoon, April 2, 1925, at 4.30 o'clock. She had been in failing health for about a year. The funeral services were held from the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Standish, on Saturday afternoon, April 4, at 2 o'clock and were attended by relatives and friends from Salem, Colchester, Norwich, East Lyme, Montville, Bozrah, Southington and Taftville. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Harlow Graham of Norwich, after which the body was laid to rest in Linwood cemetery, Colchester, with the committal service by Rev. Mr. Graham. The bearers were Clyde A. Ray, Frederick E. Taylor, Edgar J. Standish and Leolin Whiting. Funeral Director C. A. Gager of Norwich had charge of the arrangements.

Nancy Emma Tinker was born in East Lyme, Sept. 2, 1845, the daughter of William and Nancy Burch Tinker. She was a direct descendant of John Champlin Burch, one of the early settlers of Groton; also of John Tinker, an early settler of New London. In 1870 she married Orrin W. Ray of Salem. A part of their married life was spent in Montville and East Lyme, but for about thirty years they owned and successfully managed Elm Tree farm in Salem. Mr. Ray died seven years ago.

Mrs. Ray is survived by her daughter, Mrs. E. J. Standish and her son Charles S. Ray, formerly of Salem, but now of Southington, also by three grandsons, Floyd L. Fletcher, Allen Ray Fletcher of Salem and Clyde Avery Ray of Southington. There are also two granddaughters, Mrs Katherine Ray Taylor of Taftville and Miss Sydney Avis Standish of Salem, and 11 great grandchildren—Dorothy, Ray, Edward and Lois Fletcher, Lola, Leslie and Irene Fletcher, Ralph, Ruth and Dorothy Taylor and Florence M. Ray.

VINEZ AND MASON BATTLE FIFTEEN ROUNDS TO DRAW

Paris, April 7.—Lucien Vinez, lightweight champion of Europe, and Harry Mason of England, fought 15 fast and furious rounds tonight and were so evenly matched that the judges called it a draw.

Vinez, who is essentially a long distance fighter was slow to get going and was shaded during the early part of the fight. He was coming along fast after the tenth round and punished the Englishman severely in the fourteenth. Mason enumerated, however and finished strong.

Mason displayed the best form of any of the European lightweights seen in action in Paris for several years. Both men were in deadly earnest, as the winner of the bout was promised a trip to the United States for the championship elimination trials.

The men will probably be matched again over a 20-round route.

Paul Fritsch, who once held the European lightweight title, knocked out Mike Honeyman, of England, in the seventh round of a ten-round bout. The former Olympic champion dropped the Englishman with a left swing to the jaw after Honeyman had taken a count of nine from a similar blow.

WESTERLY JUNIOR HIGH TEAM WINS FIRST GAME

(Special to The Bulletin)

Westerly, April 7.—Baseball season for the Westerly Junior High school baseball aggregation began on Monday afternoon when they defeated the freshman baseball nine of the Westerly High school by the score of 11 to 0. Preliminary training under Coach Herman F. Driggs, principal of the high school has been going on for the past two weeks but it was only on last Friday that the "spiffy" baseball suits were distributed to the most likely looking players and the practice game of Monday followed. So successful has been their coaching that not a player on the Freshman nine arrived at third base. Interest in Junior High baseball has been growing each year until their scheduled games have come to receive a very general patronage from baseball fandom.

Material is not lacking this year for the junior players make almost a double nine and it is a result of such development of players by Coach Driggs that the Westerly High school nine in the past few years have had as high grade players to start with. Fifteen men for the Westerly Junior High school baseball squad are looking ... pitchers, Fred Dotolo, Captain ... Fusaro and Tony Leonetti; initial ... Joseph Leonetti and Jack ... Clancy; second basers, Fred Dotolo and ... Fusaro, two peppy boys and ... alternate as pitchers; shortstops, ... Gentile; third base ... Flora; left fielders, Joseph Bruno and Sam Patton; center field, Tony Leonetti who is also a pitcher and right ... Robert Bonner and ... Schedule for the ... first match game of the season to be played with the West Broad street ... team on ... played in Westerly. Manager Edwin Thompson of the Junior High is busy ... dates to play the following ... Nathan Hale grammar school of New London, Conn.; the Broadway grammar school of Mystic, Conn.; the freshman and second teams of the Stonington High school, Stonington ... the freshman and second teams of the Westerly High school, and after seeking in vain for the past two ... it is said that a game will be ... scheduled this year with the freshman nine of the Chapman Technical High school of New London.

Although the West Broad street grammar school teams have been defeated by the Junior Westerly High baseball players for the past four years, this year's game with them, the first match game of the season for next Tuesday is expected to be a closer contest as the West Siders have most of last year's players on the diamond this year.

HAUSER BREAKS KNEE IN EXHIBITION GAME

Philadelphia, April 7.—The Phillies landed on four Athletic pitchers for 14 hits in today's game between the National and American league clubs for the city championship, winning from the Mackmen, 11 to 5.

Joe Hauser first baseman of the Athletics, injured his right knee in the first inning and was carried from the field. Physicians at a hospital where Hauser was taken declined to discuss the extent of his injuries until a further examination has been made. Reports that his knee cap had been fractured could not be confirmed. It is feared he will be out of the game for a considerable length of time.

The series between the clubs now stands three to one in favor of the Phillies, two games having been played in the south. The score:

Phillies .. 1 1 1 0 1 0 2 3 1—11 14 0
Athletics .. 2 0 0 1 0 0 2 0 0— 5 9 2

HAUSER'S INJURY WILL KEEP HIM OUT OF GAME

Philadelphia, April 7—With the opening of the championship baseball campaign only a week away, the Philadelphia Americans today suffered a severe jolt when Joe Hauser, hard-hitting first baseman, was so badly hurt that it is feared he will be out of the game the entire season.

In fielding a throw from Galloway in the first inning of the city series with the Phillies, Hauser in some unexplained manner twisted his knee and fell to the ground writhing in pain.

He was taken to a hospital where physicians said they feared the knee-cap had been broken. An x-ray will be taken tomorrow.

Hauser is the second member of Connie Mack's squad to be seriously injured during the spring training period. Pitcher Heimach, a southpaw, dislocated his left shoulder while the team was in the south and it will be several weeks before he is able to play.

OFFERS $65,000 FOR MUNN-LEWIS BOUT

New Haven, Conn., April 7—S. A. DeWaltoff, head of an amusement company announced today that he had wired "Big Ed" Munn, wrestler, an offer of $65,000 and a percentage of the gate receipts to defend his title against Ed "Strangler" Lewis, in Hartford, Decoration Day, May 30.

Greeneville Rosedales Challenge

The Greeneville Rosedals, claimants of the junior baseball title, have organized for the coming season and will defend the title against all comers. The Rosedales had a very successful season last year and are out to clean up the junior teams again this season. The Rosedales lineup: Pennant p; Mace Goldblatt c; Sullivan 1b; Nevins 2b; Swanton 2b; Carroll 3b; Cimikoski ss; Prodell lf; McGowan or Kirk cf; Owsiak rf. Address all challenges to Mace Goldblatt, Greeneville.

JUNIORS WIN INTERCLASS AGGIE BASKETBALL TITLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

Storrs, April 7.—The class of 1926 of the Connecticut Agricultural college won the interclass basketball championship last night, when in a hard fought and thrilling game they defeated the sophomores 30-25. Last night's contest was an extra game that was required to settle the championship, for both teams were tied for top honors at the completion of the regular schedule, Donovan and Kramer came to blows in the second half, and were separated with difficulty only after the many members of both classes had rushed to the floor from the sidelines, some to join the scrap and others to pry the participants apart. Order was finally restored by Coaches ... and Gigger, after which the ... was set to completion.

... was the big gun in the forward ... tallying 9 times from the floor, and putting up a great defensive game. Quigley also put up a great game for the juniors, keeping Kramer, sophomore star to 3 lone ... By virtue of the victory last ... retain their championship habits, as this makes the third consecutive time that the class of 1926 have come out on top in the class hoop scramble at Storrs. BABE RUTH SUFFERS SEVERE ATTACK OF GRIP

Asheville, N. C., April 17—A "bad case of grip" and a nervous attack are likely to keep Babe Ruth out of the Yankee lineup when the baseball season opens next week.

The slugging star suffered a nervous collapse when he arrived today with his team mates from Knoxville, Tenn., and was taken to a hotel, where he was unconscious part of the afternoon.

Miller Huggins, the Yankee manager, announced tonight that Ruth would not be in condition to play again for ... days or more. He recalled that the ... suffered an attack of influenza some time ago and his present case of grip appears to be the not unusual "follow up" on that illness.

Ruth's nervous condition has not been satisfactory for several weeks. Huggins said he had not been physically able to participate in the recent exhibition games and had done so "simply on his nerve." With this point of vulnerability already apparent to them, the grip germs found an easy victim in the big player.

His condition tonight, however, was not regarded as critical and Huggins made tentative plans to send him to New York tomorrow ahead of the team, unless physicians advised against the trip. The Yankees and Brooklyn Dodgers, who played here ... with the former winning, 16 to ... leave tomorrow morning for another exhibition game at Greenville, S. ...

KAPLAN-MASCART NEGOTIATION ARE DROPPED BY FLOURNOY

New York, April 7—Negotiations for the featherweight title match between Louis (Kid) Kaplan, of Meriden, Conn. and Edward Mascart, of France, which had been tentatively arranged for Madison Square Garden on May 5, as the final attraction for the historic arena, have been discontinued, Frank Flournoy, matchmaker at the Garden, said today. Mascart's financial demands, which Flournoy said he considered exorbitant, caused the match to be dropped.

From a reliable source it was learned that the French featherweight demanded more money than Kaplan to meet the latter for the world's featherweight championship, neither "Sonny" Hornstein, representing Kaplan, nor Matchmaker Flournoy, agreed to these demands as a result Flournoy admitted today that he was looking for another match for that date.

"We will have a show at the Garden May 5. While we haven't entirely given up hope of bringing Mascart to ... negotiations have been discontinued and will not be reopened until Mascart relents from his present position," Flournoy said.

WALKER AND McTIGUE ARE REINSTATED BY NEW YORK BOXING COMMISSION

New York, April 7—The New York State Athletic commission today lifted the suspensions of two world's champions and another former champion and with little opposed of the Tunney-Gibbons match at the Polo Grounds, June 12. In addition, a sanction was granted to a match at the Polo Grounds, June 13, for the benefit of the Italian hospital fund.

Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, was reinstated in the good graces of the commission when he promised unconditionally to meet Dave Shade, Pacific Coast welterweight, in a title match. Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion, was restored to good standing upon the promise to meet any title contender ... selects within the next ... days.

Johnny Dundee, former featherweight and junior lightweight champion, was suspended indefinitely upon the recommendation of the French Boxing federation for his alleged failure to meet Fred Bretonnel in a contracted match in Paris, January 27, was reinstated following a hearing on his case.

Walker, who has been suspended many times by the New York board for his persistent refusal to meet Dave Shade in a title match, was last placed on the ineligible list May 27, 1924 for an indefinite period, the suspension automatically lifting whenever he agreed to meet Shade.

No date has been set for the match but the managers of the two principals were told to get a promoter to stage the contest. Leo P. Flynn, manager of Shade, told the commission that Shade could make the welterweight limit, despite reports to the contrary.

McTigue, who was suspended October 24, 1924, for his refusal to meet Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, informed the commission that an injured hand, suffered when he won the world's title from Battling Siki in Dublin, March 17, 1923, had entirely healed and that he would be in shape to fight again within the 60 day period.

Humbert J. Fugazy, Italian promoter, who is doing the matching for exhibition he intends to hold at the Polo Grounds, June 13, for the Italian hospital fund, announced that he is endeavoring to get Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, and Charlie Weinert of Newark, N. J., for the main attraction.

As a semi-final match, Fugazy intimated that he was trying to match Walker with Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion. But as Walker's reinstatement is contingent upon his meeting with Shade, Fugazy said he might stage the Shade-Walker contest. As one of the preliminaries he said he was negotiating with Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo light heavyweight to meet Battling Siki, former champion. Jimmy DeForest, matchmaker at the Polo Grounds A. C., obtained official sanction for the Tunney-Gibbons match and at the same time got the commission's consent for the Italian hospital benefit show. Fugazy discussed his pending matches with members of the commission, informally, but did not seek to sanction any one of the three, until contracts are finally signed.

NURMI THINKS RACE WITH RAY UNINTERESTING

Detroit, April 7—Paavo Nurmi does not care to run the mile against Joie Ray because such a race "would not be of interest to the public," his manager repeated requests for such a match race at the Michigan A. A. U. relay carnival here.

"Nurmi will race Ray two miles three miles, four miles, even one half mile," Quist said, "but a race between these two at the mile would not be interesting."

Ray said he is ready and anxious to meet the Finn over the mile at any time.

"The race might or might not be of public interest," was Ray's comment, "but I am sure it would make it extremely interesting for Nurmi."

Nurmi and Ray are joint holders of the world's indoor record for the one mile, their time being 4:12.

WHITTEMORE WINS MEDAL ROUND IN N-S AMATEUR

Pinehurst, N. C., April 7.—Playing steady golf for a sixty-eight, Parker W. Whittemore of Boston, today won the medal round of the North and South amateur tournament and went into the lead for the 36 holes with a score of 76-68—144.

T. B. Wooten, Atlantic City, N. J. who finished the first round in the lead, was unable to hold the pace today, is card totalling 74-78—152. Fred C. Knight of Philadelphia, present titleholder, improved his score seven strokes, shooting a 75, while F. C. Newton, Brookline, Mass., 1922 titleholder, registered 148 for the 36 holes.

EBBETS IS UNDER CARE OF HIS PHYSICIAN

New York, April 7.—Charles H. Ebbets, president of the Brooklyn baseball club of the National League, was placed under the care of a physician at the Waldorf Astoria hotel immediately upon his return from Florida today. Relatives said tonight that he had passed a comfortable day and that there was no indication of serious developments.

Mr. Ebbets has been ill in Clearwater, Fla., the greater part of the winter, but has managed to attend the necessary details in fitting his club for the championship race.

HUBBARD TIES WORLD'S MARK FOR 60-YARD DASH

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—De Hart Hubbard, negro athlete of the University of Michigan, tied the world's record of .05 1-5 seconds for the 50-yard dash and Ivan H. Riley made what local officials claim is a new record for the 60-yard high hurdles indoors in the opening events of the second night's meet of the Michigan A. A. U. here. Search of record books failed to produce a mark for the 60-yard high hurdles over four hurdles indoors on a dirt track, which Riley made tonight in .06 5-10 seconds.

University of Michigan athletes were second in both races.

Dugas Challenges Willimantic

Chip Dugas, of Taftville, hearing that there is a Kacey bowling team in Willimantic that is challenging all Kacey teams for a chicken supper, says that he has a K. of C. team that is ready to bowl the Willimantic team for said supper at anytime. Chip wishes that the manager of the Willimantic Kacey's would write to him regarding a game.

The Westerly Fire Department was called to New London shortly before 3 o'clock Tuesday morning to assist in fighting the fire in the Crocker House. Chief George E. Egger and about 20 Westerly firemen started the trip but a tire blowout just beyond Fort Hill delayed their arrival in New London. Once there the Westerly firemen who were the first to reach the city alternated with firemen from Norwich in standing by at the New London fire station until relieved by the New London firemen when the blaze was under control.

The alarm was sounded in Westerly at about 3 o'clock and within a short time Chief Egger and his men were off on the Ahren-Fox pumper. All went well, and fast time was being made until Fort Hill was reached, when one of the tires blew out. There was no spare tire on the truck, so Chief Egger was obliged to send into New London for one before the truck could continue. This mishap delayed the Westerly firemen and disappointed Chief Egger and his men in not being able to reciprocate for the assistance given by the New London firemen at the time of the Briven Opera House fire.

George Woodmansee, 47, only brother of La Clede Woodmansee of this town, died suddenly Sunday in New York. The funeral was held at 8 p. m. Tuesday at his residence, 24 Charles street, in that city. Burial is to be in Woodlawn cemetery, New York.

He was the son of William W. and Almedia Burdick Woodmansee of Hopkinton. He was a native of Rockville and spent his early life in that community. For the past twenty years or more he had resided in New York, where he was proprietor of a printing establishment. His wife and one brother, La Clede Woodmansee, are the only near relatives. La Clede Woodmansee left for New York Monday to assist in making arrangements for the funeral.

NOANK

Melville Lacroix, about 8, was playing with a boy companion who was younger than he. They were pulling a piece of iron. The Lacrox boy was pulled away from the smaller boy and it came back and struck him in the eye with such force that it broke the glasses he wore and a piece of glass stuck in his eye. It required a physician to extract the splinter. No serious results will be the outcome but the eye is very painful.

STONINGTON

About 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the corner of Main and Cutler streets, a Cadillac coupe owned by a Westerly man whose name was not given out, crashed into the car owned by Christopher J. Ledwith, a former Stonington police officer, and smashed the fenders. The Westerly man was driving towards Westerly on the state highway, when Ledwith's machine came out from the side road at Delageange's garage rather unexpectedly and the two cars clashed. It was not definitely established which driver was at fault. Mrs. N. P. Noyes, of Harborside, was a passenger on the back seat of the Ledwith car at the time. Mr. Ledwith was demonstrating the car for Mrs. Noyes' benefit. The machine was taken to a garage for repairs.

FIREMEN WERE KIND, BUT OBSTINACY KILLS CAT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Stonington, April 7—At 3 o'clock last evening the fire company of the borough went to the rescue of a cat which had been in a tree on upper Elm street for two days or more. The cat would not come down under any inducement and a ladder was put up to reach the animal. Just as a fireman nearly had the animal, however, it wriggled farther up into the branches. Two streams of water were played on it, when finally the force of the water knocked it out of the tree head first. Needless to state the animal was killed outright.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Ira C. Hoxie.

Lucebelle Ward, widow of Ira C. Hoxie, died Monday afternoon at Home Memorial hospital, New London, after an illness of a few weeks. Althoug Mrs. Hoxie had been in poor health for some time, she was able to go about and spent the winter in Mystic, as had been her custom for the last few years. She was expecting to return soon to Orleans, Mass., where she had resided with her brother, Dr. G. E. T. Ward, when she was taken seriously ill.

Mrs. Hoxie was the daughter of Winthrop and Lucy Spicer Ward, and was born in Stonington. She had resided in Mystic the greater part of her life and was always interested in all that pertained to the welfare of the village.

October 1896, Mrs. Hoxie became a member of Fanny Ledyard Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, and took a helpful and prominent part in its activities, being always a loyal and devoted member, who gave unstintingly of her time and means for whatever was for the welfare of the chapter. She served two terms as regent, from 1906 to 1908 and from 1912 to 1914, and was a gracious and dignified presiding officer under whose able leadership the society prospered and a large gain in membership was made. Mrs. Hoxie also represented the chapter several times at the national congress in Washington, as well as at various state conferences. She also was a member of the Round Table Club of this place.

Mrs. Hoxie was of pleasing personality, and possessed a keen sense of humor, which made her a most agreeable companion. She was a woman of high character, beloved by many friends, and will be greatly missed in the community where she has so long resided.

She is survived by her brother, Dr. G. E. T. Ward, of Orleans, Mass., with whom she had resided since the death of her husband several years ago.

HAVE COLOR IN CHEEKS

Be Better Looking—Take Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—you have a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color.

To have a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days you must get at the cause.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after effects.

They start the bile and overcome constipation. Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results. Millions of boxes are sold annually at 15c and 30c.

A million magic bubbles for a new-fashioned washday

Chipso's helpfulness spreads to dishwashing and all household cleaning.

FOUND!

—a precious new hour for next washday

WAS your last washday no different from those long, dreary, moiling washdays that had gone before?

You need Chipso.

Thousands of women found a new hour last washday because they used Chipso—actually saved an hour of washday drudgery with this wonderful new Chipso.

From the blue-and-orange package to fleecy suds—25 seconds! (No chipping. No melting of cake-soap. No powder or fumes to make you sneeze.) Much less hard rubbing (only ground-in dirt needs to be rubbed, with Chipso). Shorter rinsing (Chipso dissolves completely and rinses out promptly).

If you had to, you would probably be willing to pay more for Chipso than for ordinary laundry soap, for its time-saving abilities alone. Add its saving of labor (your back will know), its proven safety to colors and fabrics, and its kindness to hands. Yet with all these advantages—

A Chipso washing costs no more

Chipso's extra advantages over the soap you are now using, whatever its form, are actually FREE. Your own judging eye and hand will discover the remarkable value in these big blue-and-orange Chipso packages.

You don't have to change your washing method when you use Chipso. Boil or soak, or use the machine, as you prefer—the white magic of Chipso's mountainous suds will bring you the help that makes the Chipso washday shorter, easier, and pleasanter. Chipso and water are all you need.

Can you afford to be without Chipso another living day? Your grocer has it in two big sizes.

SUNDAY SPORTS LAW IS PASSED BY SENATE AFTER MUCH DISCUSSION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Hartford, April 7.

Rev. Arthur F. Lewis, chaplain of the house, is always keenly interested in the personal and material interests of the members of the house.

This has been shown in numerous instances which he has remembered in [illegible] members or some of their [illegible] have been afflicted.

Today he asked that comfort be given House Messenger Wesley Miller, who was injured several weeks ago and has been in a hospital since, for the son of Judge Storrs of Mansfield and for Representative Serre of Danbury whose brother died last week.

The committee on the judiciary put in a full afternoon upon resolutions [illegible] the appointment of minor [illegible] judges in all parts of the state. No serious contest developed on any of them. The hearing on the Williamantic judgeship was laid over for one week. They also gave hearing on several bills relating to cemeteries and [illegible] and hearing on reservoirs, the water of which is used for domestic purposes. The bills had more or less bearing on the trouble at Coventry over Alexander's lake, as well as reservoirs in Fairfield county.

House

The house was called to order at 11:34 by Speaker Darbie. Prayer was offered by the house chaplain, Rev. Arthur F. Lewis. The committee on bills and boroughs reported favorably [illegible] 528 and asked for suspension of the rules that it might be immediately passed. Miss Cheney objected as it had not been printed and that it was not in the files and that the members should have an opportunity to study its provisions. The bill was an act revising the charter of New Haven concerning expenditures for public parks. Mrs. Townsend, representative from New Haven, who had agreed to immediate passage, changed her mind and joined with Miss Cheney in a motion that the bill be tabled for printing and the calendar. It took a rising vote to determine the suspension of the rules, which was in the negative. The bill was tabled.

The labor committee reported adversely on bills No. 883 and 884, concerning unwarranted strikes and lockouts and protecting people in the right to work, and both measures were rejected.

Mrs. Hooker of Hartford presented the adverse report of the committee on education on house bill, No. 184, providing that the opening exercises in public schools shall begin with a prayer and the oath of allegiance to the flag. Mrs. Hooker said the committee believed in opening the schools with the Lord's prayer, but as children in attendance were of different faiths it would not be fair to them to enact this kind of legislation. The bill was rejected. Mr. Cooley of Stratford later moved reconsideration, but the motion did not prevail.

The house, on adverse report of the committee on judiciary, rejected house bill, No. 397, providing a penalty for the use of barbed wire; No. 107, concerning care of the old burying ground at Cromwell. On adverse report of the committee on public health and safety the house rejected bill No. 899, providing new regulations for inspection of imported neat cattle.

House bill No. 90, covering the same matter as No. 91, and bill No. 844, limiting the number of licenses of small loan companies were also rejected.

Committee reports, favorable, tabled for calendar, were: Banks, No. 93, concerning appraisal of real estate and regulating loans. Judiciary, an act concerning commitment of insane persons. Cities and boroughs, No. 167, providing firemen's pension fund in city of Willimantic; No. 344, concerning power of council in Torrington to make assessments; No. 352, providing for election of president of board of aldermen in Waterbury to mayoralty in case of vacancy in office of mayor; No. 749, authorizing borough of Branford to enact by-laws concerning parking of automobiles; No. 755, providing for terms of office in the city of Norwalk.

House bill, No. 179, concerning a board of education and the board of finance in New Haven was made the order of the day for 12:15 p. m. Wednesday on motion of Miss Cheney of Manchester.

From the Calendar

Bills passed from the calendar: No. 402, providing that manufacturers, spinners and workers on textile goods shall be entitled to a lien upon goods unpaid for during a period of three months.

Senate bills passed from the calendar: No. 187, providing that the Waterbury Foundation may acquire property to $1,000,000; No. 188, providing that the Fourth Member Mutual Benefit Building and Loan association may accumulate assets not exceeding $2,000,000; No. 261, providing for terms and election of members of board of education in the city of Meriden.

House bill, No. 364, providing for appointment of policemen by the mayor of Norwalk was passed under suspension of rules.

The house adjourned at 1:10 p. m. until Wednesday at 11:30 a. m.

The Senate

Chaplain Lewis, of the house offered prayer in the senate today.

The senate today, by a viva voce vote, passed the bill, already passed by the house, authorizing the playing of professional baseball and football on Sunday. It now goes to the governor, who is expected to sign it.

A number of amendments were rejected. The first amendment was that which was offered by Senator Alice P. Merritt with the view of having the operation of the bill determined by local option. The only senators who spoke against the principle of the bill were Senators Beckham of the Seventh, Meech of the Fifth, and Beckwith of the Twentieth.

The report of the committee on the judiciary was explained by Senator Shaw, the pro tem leader of the senate in the absence of Senator Cronin.

Senator Merritt, of Hartford, offered an amendment strengthening the local option feature of the bill by providing that the people should first grant permission for Sunday professional sports by a town meeting or election. The bill places this power in the hands of the selectmen or common council of cities. Mrs. Merritt said the amendment returned the power to the people where it belongs.

Senator Merritt said that local option was better than a state-wide statute. She, as a red-blooded American, liked baseball playing. The aim of her amendment was to put local option on the statute books so that the people's will would not be made null and void.

Senator Reddon, quoting the Bible, said that Christ had said that the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath.

The committee's report was accepted and the bill passed without a roll-call.

The committee on incorporations reported favorably on a substitute bill amending the charter of the Central Connecticut Power and Light Co. The bill authorizes the company to consolidate with the Essex Light and Power company, subject to the approval of the public utilities commission. The capital stock of the company shall be not less than $300,000 and may be increased to $2,500,000. The corporation is also authorized to issue bonds to 80 per cent. of the value of its property. The value of the property shall be determined by the president and treasurer of the company and by an engineer approved by the public utilities commission. The corporation is also authorized to lease on purchase the plant of other companies or to merge with them. The bill was tabled for calendar.

On the unfavorable report of the committee on the judiciary the senate rejected the bill providing a pension for Thomas Delaney, caretaker of the Putnam Memorial camp. Senator Shaw stated that Mr. Delaney had been pensioned under the general law.

Senate Calendar

Passed—Concerning the establishment of a police benefit fund for the police force of Norwalk; authorizing the city of Willimantic to pay $750 to George W. Hickey for his services as acting mayor; that the extension of the limits of the East Hartford Fire district must first be approved by a majority of the legal voters in the territory which is to be annexed; authorizing the city of Willimantic to appropriate $3,500 for its public library.

The bill relating to public restaurants was taken from the table on the motion of Senator Pierson and on his motion it was amended to allow members of the family of the owner of a restaurant to assist regardless of hours in carrying on its business, and as amended passed.

The senate adjourned to Wednesday at 11:15.

BURNED CROCKER HOUSE, NEW LONDON, IS TO BE BUILT AT ONCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 7.—

The Crocker house, State street hotel, owned by the estate of Bryan F. Mahan, and leased by the Knott Hotel corporation, New York, which was attacked by flames early this morning was completely destroyed, when the blaze was subdued at 6 o'clock this morning. This was after the combined efforts of the New London department and pumping apparatus from Norwich, Westerly and Groton, had poured hundreds of thousands of gallons of water upon the burning structure and after five hours of the hardest kind of work. The hotel will be rebuilt, for trustees of the Mahan estate announced today that the remaining walls and two floors of the brick structure will be razed without delay and a modern hotel erected upon the site.

P. Valentine Chappell, a member of the trustees, stated that the loss as a result of the fire is fully covered by $160,000 insurance and that a further protection against fire loss was made two years ago by the estate negotiating insurance which would insure the amount paid monthly by rentals from the five stores, in the event of fire destroying the structure, the rentals to be paid by the insurance companies during the period to lapse, from the time that the present structure was destroyed and the new one erected. Mr. Chappell stated that no delay would result in starting construction of the new hotel, which would be a handsome building and one of the best modern of New England hostelries.

It was discovered today that thieves operated in the rooms of the lodgers during the early excitement attending the arousing of the guests for three floors and Manager Bushnell reported the loss of jewelry. Manager Bushnell visited the police station during the day and identified several articles that the police had recovered. It was also known that a valuable diamond ring had been taken from his room.

Mrs. Adelle T. Rombold, 25 Wash- Hartford, reported that from her room.

Charles A. Howland, Ashmont, reported that his watch and from his room.

Mrs. Oldham, occupant of Room 11, informed the police that thieves had taken a white gold ring, chased with on either side of stone gold ring with pink lady's head on the stone; two pearls these beset in a purse on a chain. His and keepers were taken Baker

The disastrous fire at the Crocker house this morning brought to light that the city is in need of additional water pressure that will be available in case of conflagration. The fact has been apparent to the chief engineer, Charles Rose, and members of the city council, but the latter has persistently refused to supply the need because it was by so doubling its duty keep the tax rate where it was last year—at 26 mills.

At the council meeting a week ago a motion to purchase one new pumper was met with a amendment that two pumpers should be bought. That action was resisted and the matter was made up for the year providing for the engine of the pumper.

Efforts persisted in an effort to get a couple of pumpers and pointed out wherein they were an absolute necessity for just such fires as that at the Crocker. He was outvoted, however, and the provision for one pumper stays in the budget estimate. There is not a chance for an amendment that will provide the equipment so earnestly desired and so obviously necessary. The budget has been read twice and must still go to a third reading. Then the amendment can be made.

Chief Rose and his predecessor Chief Stanners, and Alderman Grogan made the hardest sort of effort to secure an aerial ladder for the fire department, and they also sought to have a water tower secured, but there was always an excuse, so the apparatus needed was never purchased. Last night the firemen were forced to go to the roof of the municipal building and to the roof of the federal building to get water into the upper portion of the four-story Crocker house building, where the fire was then located. This was a good that was effectual in some degree but it was not the sort of fire-fighting most effectual. The fire in the Chappell building at the time the Foran company was burned out, there taught the city the lesson that an aerial ladder was needed and that a water tower could be used to great advantage. There was an agitation for both these pieces of apparatus, but it died out when efforts to secure them were not effectual. The borough of Groton loaned us its fire apparatus last night and with those from Norwich and Westerly did splendid work. The force of the department held out well last night and little trouble was experienced from that source. It is understood that the new pumping apparatus the city will get will be stationed in the south portion of the city where there are many large wood structures and where the danger of fire is great because of that fact.

Mrs. Biagica Baldelli, 37, wife of Vincelao Baldelli, of Groton, died this morning at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, following a surgical operation which she underwent several days ago. She is survived by her husband and two children.

The funeral of James W. Lee was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at his residence, 73 Baker avenue, Groton, the services being conducted by Rev. George R. Athe, pastor of Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in Groton cemetery.

The funeral of Roy W. Chandler, son of Rev. Adoniram J. Chandler, of Linden street, was held this afternoon at 48 Shapley street at 2 o'clock, services being conducted by Rev. Joseph A. Elder, pastor of the Huntington Street Baptist church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Blackstone Lee, widow of Joseph W. Lee, formerly of New London, whose death occurred several days ago at the residence of a relative in Methuen, Mass., was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Alfred H. Highmore, 28 Blackhall street. The services were conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in the family plot in Jordan cemetery.

Funeral services for William Corcoran, former veteran crossing tender in the employe of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at the union station, were held this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church, and were attended by a large gathering of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Alexander Wollschlaeger. The bearers were nephews, Morgan, John, James and Edward Flaherty and Joseph Corcoran. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Mrs. Philomena J. Nelson, wife of Manuel J. Nelson, 20 Central avenue, was held this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church where Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley sang the high mass of requiem. The bearers were John Williamson, Manuel Costa, John Valentine and Manuel Bais. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Joseph Renzi of Nameaug avenue; Miss Julia Sawyer, Harbinger, N. J.; Henry McGarry, Lincoln avenue; William Ryan, Maple avenue; Thomas T. Wetmore, Saybrook, and Mrs. Lydia Brooks, Uncasville, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged today.

Patrick Kennedy was for many years a laborer in this city. Then he established a court record by reason of the fact that he was frequently prosecuted for intoxication. Finally he was committed to Hillside Home as a patient. His conduct there was such that he was promoted to be an orderly and was put on the payroll of the city, that he might be compensated for his labors. But the job became too much for, or the amount of compensation was too much for Kennedy and he returned to his former habits and appeared at the home in an intoxicated condition, according to the overseer, Thomas E. Donohue. Kennedy was rebuked for his conduct, but he professed penitence and made promises that in the future he would abstain from drink and would perform well the duties that came to him. Monday he was found in the same condition of inebriety and then was arrested, for the management of the home was of the opinion that Kennedy had brought liquor into the home for other inmates. There was no proof of this but the suspicion was ripe for conviction in the matter. Today he was sent to jail for thirty days after the overseer Donohue recited the facts in the case to the police court. Kennedy made denial and claimed the overseer had attacked him and had struck him in the face. In view of the good treatment Kennedy had received from the overseer, the story of attack was regarded an fiction and Kennedy went over the hill to the county jail.

The funeral of Jacob Fisher, former well known New London merchant was held at 7:30 o'clock this evening at Union lodge rooms, Union street and was attended by a large assemblage. Services were conducted by a rabbi from Hartford and by officers of Union lodge. Burial was in the Hebrew cemetery, Jordan.

Charles W. Peabody of Waterford, R. F. D. No. 2, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Frank Linehan charged with violation of the automobile ordinance in failing to heed a signal of the officer, who was on duty at the corner of Main and State streets. Peabody was ordered to appear in the police court Wednesday morning.

James West, a sailor attached to the CG-9, one of the fleet of United States Coast Guard boats stationed here and pursuing rum-runners, was arrested early this evening by Traffic Officer William Corcoran charged with breach of the peace. West was locked up, but later turned over to a provost guard and will be in the police court Wednesday morning. West was at the corner of State and Bank streets where Officer Corcoran was on duty, and, suddenly went to the street, where he stood bareheaded and in the path of traffic. He refused to return to the sidewalk when ordered to do so, with the result that he was taken into custody.

John Heffernan, who was committed to jail several weeks ago as a vagrant, was released this forenoon and following his usual custom when he is not in confinement, for he has no established residence, he is a lodger at the police station tonight.

William S. Papham, residing on Mountain avenue, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Braxton Hill and William J. Riordan, charged by his wife with breach of the peace. He was locked up pending the convening of the police court Wednesday morning as he was unable to secure a surety on his bond of $100.

HOME STREET FIRE-PLACE HID GIN AND WHISKEY

(Special to The Bulletin)

New London, April 7.—As a result of information being given to the police late this afternoon by Capt. Munter, in charge of the local section base of the United States Coast Guard, state pier, Nicholas Palladino, Home street, was taken into custody tonight, by Motorcycle Officer William Babcock and Patrolman Carl Selesnitsky, charged with violation of the prohibition law. He was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $700 for appearance in the police court Wednesday morning in Cruftix Trafaconda, relative of the accused.

Capt. Munter communicated with the police and declared that he had information he desired to impart. Officers Babcock and Selesnitsky went to the state pier, where Capt. Munter stated that he was possessed of information and of a positive nature that Palladino had sold liquor to one or more sailors. Officers Babcock and Selesnitsky accompanied by Chief Petty Officers Millar and Martin went to the home of Palladino where he was found in the act of making hooch, for the contents of a five gallon can of alcohol had been partially deposited in a basin on a kitchen table and water was being added to it prior to placing the coloring in the concoction.

Realizing that he had been detected with the evidence in possession of the officers, Palladino submitted to arrest and when he was ordered to reveal any other form of liquor that he might have in his possession, Palladino stated that he would because he believed that leniency might be extended him when arraigned in court. Then removing a board from an old-fashioned fireplace he produced 20 bottles of "Gordon Dry Gin" and 21 quarts of "Old Smuggler" Scotch whisky. This was seized, as was the alcohol.

It is believed that the liquor in possession of Palladino was obtained by him through agencies of the coast guard, officers at the section base declared that this same brand of liquor had been included among seizures that had been obtained off boats that had been apprehended in the sound. The coast guard officers are endeavoring to establish how Palladino obtained the liquor, providing that it was stolen from boats seized with cargoes from the rum supply fleet off Montauk Point.

HEARING IN SHEEHAN CASE ATTRACTS A BIG CROWD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, April 7—The hearing asked for by Patrolman Patrick Sheehan on charges that he had been drunk on duty several times—four to be specific—as made by Councilor Streeter in the city meeting a few weeks ago, was held this evening in the council chamber. The room was filled with spectators who were under the impression that there might be fireworks in the testimony presented. They were disappointed in that, for in the preponderance of testimony the charge fell flat—so flat that there was nothing to them whatever.

City Manager Holt presided, Director of Law McGuire appeared to represent the manager in questioning the witnesses after they had been administered the oath to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth as to a telephone message received at the police station from Robert B. Chappell on the night of the 17th of May last, said message being to the effect that there was a police officer hanging over the fence of St. James' church and that he was sick or drunk. Mr. Chappell's telephone message also said that the man was down on the sidewalk.

Mr. Chappell, the first witness interrogated, declared that he telephoned the message, but he did not know whether the person he referred to was a naval service man, a chief petty officer or a policeman. He believed the man was in a uniform and he concluded he was a police officer. Mr. Chappell did not know whether the man was black or white, nor could he say whether he was drunk or sick.

Mr. Chappell said there was an electric light nearby. He and others were entering the home of Valentine Chappell when the man was seen at the church fence. The party were on the steps of the entrance to Valentine Chappell's home when Chappell went in to telephone, but made no investigation whatever. The man was 75 feet away from him and the time was 10:30 in the evening. Soon the police auto drove up and Lieut. Caffney came to the Chappell door and was told the substance of the telephone message. Lieut. Gaffney told Mr. Chappell that he had found the officer and was walking Huntington street on Main street, on his beat also and that the officer was sober and all right.

Sergeant Hick, the desk sergeant on duty that night, testified that he was at the station preparing to go off duty when Officer Sheehan was brought in and stood at the table in the room with both hands on the table. Sergeant Hick who received the telephone message and reported it to Lieut. Caffney. He did not see Sheehan's face nor did he see him walk. Lieut. Gaffney had Officer Gus Ray get the auto ready and went right out to investigate, telling Hick to wait till he came back before making any record of the incident. Sheehan was 30 or 35 feet away from Hick and the latter knew nothing of his condition. Hick testified that if a man was all right he wouldn't have to lean on a table. Sergeant Hick said he did not think it his duty to determine what was the matter with Sheehan, if there was anything the matter with him when his superior officer was there and close to Sheehan.

Lieut. Gaffney told of getting the complaint from Sergeant Hick and of hurrying to investigate it. He took the auto with Policeman Ray as an operator of it and started out. On Bank street he picked up Sergeant Cavanaugh and took him along, too, telling him of the message.

The auto was driven to the Chappell house where Lieut. Gaffney told Mr. Chappell of his investigation and of his finding Sheehan on Main street. Then the officers—Gaffney, Cavanaugh and Ray, searched the park on Broad street, the Williams property at the head of State street and various yards nearby, to discover whether there was an intoxicated man to be found. They found no one and started over Sheehan's beat, finding him in conversation with a civilian on Main street, near the Murray Plumbing shop. The automobile was stopped and Sergeant Cavanaugh was sent back to talk with Sheehan and discover his condition. He reported to Lieut. Gaffney that Sheehan was all right. The lieutenant ordered Cavanaugh and Sheehan to report at once at the police station.

The auto went on and Cavanaugh and Sheehan walked down the short distance to the police station. There, Lieut. Gaffney told Sheehan of the charges made. Lieut. Gaffney offered to have Sheehan come to the Chappell house, or to have Mr. Chappell go to the police station and to be convinced that Sheehan was sober and all right, but as a citizen and a taxpayer he deemed it to be his duty to report the case, if the offender was a police officer.

Policeman Augustus Ray corroberated all that had been said by Lieut. Gaffney. He said that Sheehan was not intoxicated, did not show evidence of having been drinking and that Sergeant Cavanaugh told the lieutenant in his hearing that Sheehan was all right.

Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh declared that Sheehan was drunk. He told of the other circumstances connected with the search, as did the officers who preceded him as witnesses. He said that Sheehan staggered a little on the way to the police station. On cross-examination by Attorney Geary Sergeant Cavanaugh said Sheehan looked as if he was intoxicated. Sergeant Cavanaugh could not remember that at the probe into the efficiency of the police department he testified that he never knew of but one officer being drunk on duty, meaning an officer who was discharged from the force. He remembered that as having been testified to last fall but he could not remember as to whether he said Sheehan was intoxicated after the offense was alleged.

Policeman William Babcock, who relieved Hick as desk sergeant, declared as a witness that Sheehan was sober and Officer Jere J. Murphy testified to the same effect, adding that he talked with Sheehan some time at the corner of Meridian and Church streets, where Sheehan tried the door of a store to be sure that it was fastened.

Dewey Conners was the star witness of the hearing and injected some fun into the testimony. He said he walked with Sheehan an hour or more and that Sheehan was "as sober as I was and I was absolutely sober." He said Sheehan showed no signs of having been drinking and his clothing was clean, indicating that he had not been down on the sidewalk. Connors said the only thing he noticed was that Sheehan might kill somebody he was so mad.

Patrolman Sheehan desired to go on the witness stand and there contradicted any statement that he was drunk or that he had drank anything to intoxicate. He said he had been on the force six years. He was disturbed when he was told of the telephone message but he went right away to his lunch, as the time for that had arrived.

With that testimony Manager Holt declared the hearing closed.

CURB MARKET.

New York, April 7.—Irregularity developed in today's curb market after an early period of strength. The advance was checked by the announcement of a reduction in gasoline prices by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, although the oils offered good resistance to selling pressure, the net losses being limited to fractions.

American Light and Traction broke ten points to 186 following the announcement that the stock had been placed on a $7 annual dividend basis. Previously, the company had declared a quarterly dividend of $1 in cash and 1 per cent in capital stock. Commonwealth Power dropped 3 5-8 to 110 7-8 and Power Corporation of New York fell back to 1 1-2 to 42 1-2. Adirondack Power and Light touched a new high at 51 1-2 and then cancelled most of its gain. National Power and Light also attained a new peak at 246 but slipped back later to 243 where it was up 3 points on the day.

Selling pressure against the radios was renewed. De Forest, Freed Eisemann and Hazeltine closing a point or so lower. Rova showed independent strength, climbing 1 1-4 to 7 3-4.

Industrials moved within rather narrow limits, White Rock common and Voting Trust certificates standing out with gains of

Your Sale, Mr. Farmer, Administrator or Executor, no doubt represents the hard earned savings of a life time. FATALITY IN EXPLOSION AT FIREWORKS PLANT

Hanover, Mass., April 7—One man was killed, several persons were severely burned, and damage estimated at more than $50,000 was caused today when a spark from a new machine used for mixing powder ignited hundreds of pounds of black gunpowder at the plant of the National Fireworks company here. A score of small buildings used as mixing sheds were destroyed in the series of explosions which resulted and the four larger buildings of the plant were saved only after desperate efforts by the fire departments of nine towns and the city of Brockton.

The charred body of Maynard Goodwin of Hanover, an expert in explosives, was found late today near the site of a shed in which the first explosion occurred.

The body was identified by means of a knife and a watch. The shed itself had been demolished and the new machine, which was being tested today at the plant for the first time, was blown into fragments. Officials of the company in making known the cause of the explosion said that more than 2,000 pounds of black gunpowder had been in the little building at the time.

NORWICH TOWN

There was an attendance of more than 100 at the supper given under the auspices of the Home Missionary society of the First Congregational church, representatives from other churches being included in the gathering. In the chapel where the supper was held tables were arranged in a part of the Sunday school room also in the ladies parlor.

The tempting menu which was served at 6:30, consisted of baked beans, potato salad, cabbage salad, pickles, rolls and coffee. Mrs. Frank E. Sterry was in general charge, assisted by Mrs. Charles P. Learned, Mrs. Orrin F. Merry, Mrs. Earl E. Browning and Mrs. Michael Buckley, who represented the supper committee. Several others in the society served as waitresses. The proceeds amounted to nearly $40. Following the supper, the entertainment of tableaux given by the Young People's Christian Endeavor society on a recent date, was repeated. Several participants on the first occasion were unable to be present, and their places were filled by other young people. The entertainment committee comprised Miss Jessie E. Hyde, Miss Sadie J. Dawson and Mrs. Henry F. Frazier.

The Man Himself, was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. This was the third sermon in a series which the pastor is preaching during the Lenten season, on Our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ. The other themes were, The World to Which He Came and the Message Which He Brought. Next Sunday, Easter, the theme will be The Living Christ.

The text referred to Sunday was John 12:20-21. "And there were certain Greeks among them that came up to worship at the feast. The same came therefore to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him saying, Sir we would see Jesus."

At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening Rev. Nova L. Wood, pastor of Bozrah Congregational church, spoke on What the Church Expects of Me. The leader was Miss Marjory Merry.

A large number of parishioners from this church, attended the union meeting at the United Congregational church Sunday evening, to hear The Crucifixion.

Rev. Mr. Bailey has arranged for song and prayer services in the following homes for Wednesday evening of this week, at 7:30 o'clock. At the home of Miss Mary Bacheler, 22 East Town street, with Herbert L. Yerrington, leader; at the home of Orrin F. Scott, 15 Town street, with Clyde M. Beebe, leader; at the home of Frank E. Sterry, 146 Lee avenue, with Dwight W. Avery, leader; at the home of Harry L. Hyde Canterbury turnpike with Henry F. Frazier, leader; and at the home of Charles C. Browning of Plain Hill, with the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bailey as the leader.

An invitation has been extended to the people of the several neighborhood, to attend these services at the place most convenient for them.

There is to be a prayer service in the First Congregational chapel, Good Friday evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

THE WEATHER.

Conditions.

The southeastern disturbance is now central some distance southwest of Bermuda and is apparently moving east-northeastward. Another disturbance has advanced rapidly southeastward from the Hudson's bay region to the lower St. Lawrence valley and it is being closely followed by an area of high pressure that already has overspread Manitoba and Ontario.

The weather has remained fair in the Atlantic states. The temperature has risen almost generally over the United States except from the Lake Superior region westward to North Dakota, where it has fallen.

Indications are for generally fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the Washington forecast district. The temperature will not change materially except that cooler weather will overspread the North Atlantic states Wednesday night.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh, possibly strong west and northwest and weather fair Wednesday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh west and northwest and weather fair Wednesday.

Forecast.

For southern New England: Fair Wednesday and Thursday; cooler in north portion Wednesday; cooler Wednesday night.

TAFTVILLE

A Workers Conference, presided over by Superintendent Victor H. Davis was held Monday evening at the Taftville Congregational church. Among the business items disposed of was the decision to open the Church school at 9:30 a. m. each Sunday instead of at 9 a. m. until further notice. This goes into effect the first Sunday after Easter. The usual social hour and refreshments were omitted after the conference in observance of the Lenten season.

STARTS CAMPAIGN FOR BETTER SIDEWALKS ON WEST SIDE

A campaign for better sidewalks and cleaner premises on the West Side was started at the April meeting of the West End Community association Tuesday evening at the Elizabeth Street school house. From what transpired at the meeting it is expected that by the next meeting of the association, the first Tuesday in May, a definite programme will have been arranged by the sidewalks committee.

The meeting was called to order about 7.30 o'clock by President Paul A. Brown and the report of the secretary, Frank I. Royce, was accepted as read. It was reported that special police protection has been secured for the children at the Elizabeth Street school house while they are leaving and entering the building. It was also reported that a policeman in plain clothes is circulating around the West Side, especially at night. This is the result of the activities of the organization started at the March meeting. At the meeting last month the association appointed a committee to confer with the police committee of the court of common council regarding increased police protection for the West Side.

There was some discussion in regard to the erection of a flag pole at the Elizabeth Street school grounds and a resolution was drawn up and adopted calling the attention of Edward J. Graham, superintendent of schools, to the fact that the flag pole has not yet been erected at the school.

President Brown, reporting for the athletic ground committee, stated that the committee has secured what is known as the knoll, on the Lucas land on West Main street, opposite Maple street, as the site for the athletic field. Work will be started within the next few days on the grading, scraping and leveling of the lot for the baseball diamond and the tennis courts.

Announcement was made that a card party will be held next week to raise money for the athletic field fund and also that there will be a meeting of the association next week for the purpose of hearing a talk on the Equalization of Taxes by Secretary John J. O'Rourke of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce.

After the close of the business meeting the Girl Scouts of the Central Baptist church entertained the gathering with a two act play, Renting Jimmy. The cast was as follows:

Carol White, a pretty college girl, who has many troubles, Marion Royce; Madge Ray, Carol's cousin and a girl with ideas, Phyllis Brown; Georgiana Moore, pretty, rich and snobbish, Mildred Cass; Jimmy Lambert, a handsome suitor of Carol's, Maude Adams; Mildred Owen, Helen Hastings; Jeanne Day, Elizabeth Thumm; Leila Day, Laura Shields; Evelyn Scott, Helen Denison; Katherine Tracy, Mary Peckham; Helen Green, Susie Hargreaves; Grace Welch, Florence Bushnell.

After the play there was a very interesting talk on preventable diseases by Dr. Milard Knowlton, chief of the bureau of preventable diseases of the Connecticut State Department of Health. Dr. Knowlton devoted the first part of his talk to a general discussion of diseases and disease germs and then showed a number of stereopticon slides of germs, etc.

Dr. Knowlton, in his opening remarks, took occasion to congratulate the association on its progressive spirit. I congratulate you on having such a splendid building in which to hold your meetings, he said. Then launching into his talk he said the latest thing in public health lines is a medical examination every birthday. Quoting figures for 1920, Dr. Knowlton said that out of every 100 people, 50 years of age, 19 die every year from organic heart disease, 14½ die each year from apoplexy, 12½ die each from cancer, 1 to 10 die of Bright's disease and 1 in 10 died of pneumonia. Most of these diseases are what we call degenerate diseases, he said. There is something wrong with the heart, something wrong with the tissues, something wrong with the body.

If you can discover the presence of these diseases when they start you can forestall them and perhaps prolong your life for years, said the speaker. That is the reason we advocate a medical examination every birthday.

Dr. Knowlton spoke especially of communicable diseases. Years ago people had all kinds of peculiar ideas about diseases, he said. People used to wear charms of all sorts to keep off disease. Some known people that carried rabbits feet in their pockets to ward off disease. There are some diseases we know how to prevent, he said. Diphtheria is one of the diseases we know most about. We have learned that by vaccination we can prevent small pox. We can protect ourselves from small pox by vaccination.

The speaker then went on to speak of the symptoms, cause, and cure of diphtheria. It is dangerous, he said, to let diphtheria go without calling in medical attention and being treated by anti-toxin. He went on to tell how the diphtheria germs generate toxin, a poison, in the body and how the body generates anti-toxin to neutralize the poisonous toxin. By being inoculated with anti-toxin a person becomes immune from the diphtheria germ.

The remainder of Dr. Knowlton's talk was devoted to a series of stereopticon slides, showing pictures of the various disease germs, magnified in most cases, many thousands of times. The difference in shape, appearance and characteristics of various types of germs was shown in the screen. Activities of the state department of health in inspecting cultures taken from parents and suspected "carriers" were shown on the screen. The meeting came to a close about ten o'clock. Community singing and selections by the West Side Community club orchestra added to the attractiveness of the evening's programme.

LECTURE SHOWS PATRIOTIC PARTS PLAYED BY MASONS

The lodge room at the Masonic temple was taxed to capacity Tuesday [illegible] was taxed to capacity Tuesday evening to hear the illustrated lecture, Civilian Patriots of the American Revolution, given by Thomas McKenzie, P. G. M., of Westerly, R. I.

The story began with the institution of the first Masonic lodges in the colonies, tracing the history of Masonry down to the time of the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

With beautiful slides and authentic records, P. G. M. McKenzie told of the great work of Masonry in the colonies. Masonry, he said, in those days offered the only common meeting place for the leaders in the colonies. Under the direction of men high in the Masonic craft, plans were made, and the colonists guided though the many difficult problems prior to the firing of "the shot that was heard around the world." Masonic work did not stop there, but Masonry furnished the men who took command of the Continental forces, which after a long struggle, won independence for this country.

Among the many famous men in the American colonies who were leaders in the movement for freedom, and, who were great men in Masonry, P. G. M. McKenzie mentioned General Washington, Samuel Adams, Major Warren, the first great man in Masonry to lose his life at Bunker Hill, the spot where he fell now being marked by a smaller monument within the great Bunker Hill monument.

Other great Continental leaders of Masonry mentioned were Benjamin Franklin, General Israel Putnam, and Past Masters Lee and Price, whose work was recognized when they were asked to take leading parts.

Other interesting bits of American and Masonic history came when the famous ride of Paul Revere, P. M., was mentioned and the story of the Boston Tea Party reached. This famous plan was hatched in the Masonic lodge at Boston and answered the question, "will tea and salt water mix?"

The lecture proved most instructive and P. G. M. McKenzie received a vote of thanks for his work.

Following the meeting refreshments were served in the banquet hall.

NORWICH YOUNG MAN WEDS CLARK'S CORNER NURSE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Willimantic, April 7.—The marriage is announced by Mr. and Mrs. John Navin of Clark's Corner, of their daughter, Mary E., and Daniel M. Falvey, of Norwich. The bride is a graduate of Windham High school, '20, also of St. Joseph's Hospital Training School for Nurses, '22.

Mr. Falvey is a gunmaker, residing at 113 Williams street, Norwich.

The marriage took place in Norwich, February 24, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Myles P. Galvin, then acting pastor of St. Patrick's church.

ORGANIZED FOURTH DISTRICT FOR V. F. W. COUNTY POSTS

On Sunday, April 5th, a meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars posts of New London county, was held at the Hotel Mohican, New London.

Each post was represented by its commander, adjutant and quartermaster. The commander of the state department, Major William J. Shanahan of Waterbury, was chairman. The purposes of the meeting was to organize a Fourth district, to take care of the posts in New London county.

The officers elected for the new Fourth district were: Harry T. Powers, Pawcatuck, for deputy, and Elvin B. Byers, for secretary and treasurer.

Plans for the state encampment to be held in Bristol, in June, were formed. Remarks on relief work, and other remarks for the good of the order were made by the state officers.

GAVE BIRTHDAY SURPRISE FOR HAROLD HEAP

A number of young people gathered at the home of Harold Heap on Depot hill, Baltic Saturday evening and gave him a pleasant surprise in honor of his twenty-first birthday. During the evening several vocal and instrumental solos were rendered and dancing was enjoyed by everyone. Five tables of whist were played. Those to take the prizes in whist were Miss Mary Miller, first prize, and Miss Irene Chadwick consolation, also Harold Heap, first prize for men and Arthur Heap consolation. The house prize was won by Miss Emma Fromel.

A feature of the evening was a pretty birthday cake made by Wilfred Houghton, which lit up the room with twenty-one candles.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Joshua Heap hostess of the evening.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Heap, Mr. and Mrs. Grant Bush, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Miller, the Misses Bertha Fromel, Emma Fromel, Louise and Mary Miller, Freda Philipps, Irene Chadwick, Florence Barnes, Julia Rothwell, Dorothy Flynn, Esther Firth, Allyn Hendrick, Wilfred Houghton, Charles Massey and Otto Fromel.

COUNTY MEETING HEARS TALK ON MISSION WORK

About 50 people, representing 17 missionary auxiliaries of New London county attended the meeting of the united auxiliaries held Tuesday afternoon in the lecture room of the United Congregational church and heard a most instructive talk by Miss Lydia Hartig, New London county missionary, in charge of the Goshen-Lebanon church.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Allen Latham, county chairman and the devotional service was led by Miss Elizabeth Day of Colchester.

During her talk Miss Hartig, who has worked for 20 years under the Missionary society of Connecticut, spoke especially on the work being done among the foreigners who have taken possession of the farms in the old historic towns of Goshen and Lebanon. Miss Hartig has been working among these people and her work in the Sunday school and church has been most efficient. Miss Hartig explained the procedure followed in organizing and carrying out the work and her account was most interesting and enlightening to the members present.

Miss Hartig spoke of visiting the mission fields in the south and west and told of the good work being done along Americanization lines.

Previous to the meeting a special committee of six women leaders of the six New London county auxiliaries meeting their apportionment last year, held a committee meeting and plans were formulated for county work. These plans were accepted by the auxiliaries and Points of Excellence are to be distributed among the auxiliaries.

EM. BOYS BROTHERHOOD'S SECOND ANNUAL MEETING

The Employed Boys brotherhood of the local Y. M. C. A. held its second annual meeting at the association building Tuesday evening at 6.15 p. m. Previous to the meeting a picture of the entire group was taken by Mr. Udell of the Don Houghton Studio. Supper was served immediately after the picture was taken, with 32 members present. President Albert Leffingwell presided. Fred Handy acted as song leader and Edward Smith officiated at the piano.

Twenty-four meetings of the group have been held during the winter with a total attendance of 6.2 boys. Thirty-seven boys were enrolled in the membership. Walter N. Block has been the leader for the last two years. Twenty-three delegates went to the Employed Boys' conference at Hartford last February, and 34 were sent to the Yale-Brown game at New Haven last fall. The club has enjoyed a very successful year and plans are already being made for next year's work.

President Leffingwell introduced the speaker of the evening, James L. Case, who told the members some interesting facts about the tax list condition in Norwich at the present time.

The meeting was brought to a close by singing The Star Spangled Banner.

Hostess to 50-50 Club.

The 50-50 club held its weekly meeting at the home of Miss Anna Leirich of Rockwel street. After the business meeting dancing was enjoyed. Miss Alice Fitzgerald rendered several selections on the piano. Luncheon was served by the hostess.

EPISCOPAL YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET AT POMFRET SCHOOL

A Connecticut conference for young people to be held at Pomfret School, Pomfret, is expected to call many young men and women of the Episcopal parishes of this state and western Massachusetts together for an eight-day conference, beginning June 22 and continuing through June 30. More than 100 have already signified their intention to attend. Bishop Chauncey B. Brewster, Bishop E. C. Acheson and Rev. W. B. Olmstead, of the school, are honorary chairmen of the committee of executive officers.

Several well known men are expected to speak. The list already includes President Ogilby of Trinity college and Canon Pritchard.

Classes will be taught in courses such as personal religion, story telling, music, pageantry and Christian manhood and womanhood.

RHODE ISLAND REDS HAD THEIR BIG WEEK

Last week in the laying contest at Storrs was Rhode Island week. Thomas R. Payne's Giant Reds from Brooklyn, Conn., headed the list with a lay of 55 eggs. F. S. Chapin's pen of the same breed from Sampson's pen from Springfield, Mass., was third best with a total of 52. Carterlea Farm's pen of White Wyandottes from Troy, Me., were the only birds that succeeded in breaking in on the Reds during the twenty-second week of the contest. The Missouri pen came through with a record of 51 eggs. The output of all pens, the entire 1400 birds, was with thirteen eggs of the number laid during the preceding week. The total score for all pens was 4,712 or a yield of a little over forty-eight per cent. Merely holding steady, however, does not entirely satisfy the management of the contest which feels that the totals should still be moving upward.

Now that lights have been discontinued the next noticeable change for the birds will be getting them out of doors. In other years this has usually been accomplished towards the end of April and in no event later than the first of May. The out of doors life may not actually increase egg yields but seems to make for better health among the hens. Close confinement during the long winter months, plus rich rations and other legitimate means of urging the birds on to greater action seem to tend in some cases at least to undermine health, thus it has long been the practice at Storrs to get the hens out on the ground as soon as the grass has made a little start. Each coop of twenty birds has two yards each of which is about 1000 square feet in area. They use these yards alternately which means that the grass is always a little greener and the hens a little happier.

HINDENBURG NOMINATED FOR GERMAN PRESIDENCY

Chosen by the National Conservative Burgeois Bloc in Place of Dr. Karl Jarres—Nomination Came After Three Days of Stubborn Contest in the Ranks of the United Right—Hindenburg Will be Opposed by Ex-Chancellor Marx, Coalition Candidate, and Ernest Thaelmann, Communist Nominee.

Berlin, April 8—Field Marshal Paul Von Beckendorf und Von Hindenburg, whose fame during the World war was emblazoned over the battle front that reached from Riga to Bagdad and from the Alps to the Belgian coast, today was nominated for the German presidency by the national conservative burgeois bloc in place of Dr. Karl Jarres, who was the candidate of the united right parties in the preliminary election of March 29.

Field Marshal Von Hinderburg accepted the nomination and will oppose Ex-Chancellor Wilhelm Marx, candidate of the weimar coalition, and Earnest Thaelmann, the communist nominee, in the first decisive popular balloting for a German president, on April 26, when the highest individual poll will determine the victor.

Von Hindenburg's nomination and his immediate acceptance came after a stubborn three day fight in the ranks of the united right. There the opposition of Herr Stresemann's peoples party proved the sole obstacle to an earlier ratification of the field marshal's nomination. He steadily refused to become a substitute for Dr. Jarres, and was urged upon the bourgeois bloc leaders that the latter be retained. But opposition to Dr. Jarres since his failure to make a more impressive showing in the first election on March 29 reached proportions which virtually made him useless as a further medium of popular appeal to the German voters.

As a result of a three day siege laid at his door at Hanover by Admiral Von Trotha and other emissaries of the German nationalist party, the field marshal this morning informed leaders of the bourgeois bloc in Berlin he was prepared to accept the nomination, provided it carried the unequivocal endorsement of all parties and factions comprising the so-called united right. Complete concurrence was reached shortly after noon when the remaining supporters of Stresemann's peoples party hesitancy were overcome.

Field Marshal Von Hindenburg enters the race against Marx and Thaelmann officially supported by the German nationalist, the German peoples party and a group of minor unattachments, General Ludendorff's national freedom party and a group of minar unattachments. Combined they polled a total of 7,700,000 in the reichstag election of December 7, against 13,800,000 registered by the Weimar coalition, composed of the socialist, centre and democratic parties.

In the initial balloting for the German presidency on March 29, the bourgeois bloc and the Bavarian peoples party, which now are pledged to support the field marshal, polled 11,600,000 against 13,200,000 votes cast for Otto Braun, socialist, Marx, centrist, and Hellpach, democrat. The latter figures are no basis for comparing the relative strength of the groups which will contend during the forthcoming balloting. Political experts state that pre-election estimates should be computed on the basis of the total votes registered in the last election to the reichstag.

Von Hindenburg's campaign managers predict his election by a plurality over Dr. Marx of at least 500,000 basing the estimate upon their ability to mobilize a major portion of the so-called invisible reserves, or stay-at-home voters, of which it is believed there are about 13,000,000.

That Von Hindenburg is possessed of a strong popular appeal is freely conceded even in liberal quarters. To many he continues to be the national idol of Germany. He was popular with the soldiers at the front, and his post-war attitude toward the various regimes which succeeded the monarchy has been one of rigid objective and impartiality. His aloofness from party bickerings and his steadfast refusal to be drawn into politics are cited as qualities which fit him for the post of president.
